Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific information banks described in this entry. This information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files of the Department, which are described in the program records. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter, related departmental activity, the date on which the information was received by the Department and to whom it was addressed. The personal information contained in these subject files is retained for the same period of time as the related subject information and is disposed of according to the appropriate subject record schedules. The classes of personal information listed below describe particular program records which, because of their nature, are more likely to contain personal information.

International Security, Arms Control and CSCE Affairs Bureau

Personal information may be held by the bureau concerning individuals who have been involved in defence activities with NATO, NORAD, or other international defence or arms control organizations, or in conferences or visits. Personal information might include personal biographies, tours of defence colleges, military travel and training, and nominations of Canadians for positions in international defence organizations concerned with defence or arms control. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, conference/organization, visits, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

Legal Affairs Bureau

The Legal Affairs Bureau handles a number of important functions including multilateral legal issues, peace and security law, humanitarian law, economic law, trade agreements, treaties, international law, dispute settlement, individual legal cases, and implementation of environmental legislation and Access to Information and Privacy legislation. Personal information held by the Bureau may include enquiries from Canadian residents seeking advice about international and foreign legal systems or concerning authentication of documents, and claims by Canadian citizens for possible support by the Canadian government. Other personal information would relate to specific issues handled by the Bureau. Persons seeking access must specify the subject of the enquiry, as well as country and/or city, legal firm, contacts, incidents, dates and circumstances which may have led to the development of a record.

Office of Protocol

The Office of Protocol is responsible for the administration of protocol-related programs of the Department and for the development of policies and procedures which direct the administration of protocol programs. Personal information in this class would pertain to individuals who have participated in, or have been the subject of protocol-related activities within programs such as accreditation and ceremonies, privileges and immunities, government hospitality, protection of foreign representatives and foreign decorations, and awards and honours to Canadians. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, visits, conference, delegation, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

Department of Justice Canada

Chapter 49

General Information

Background

The Department of Justice was created by the Department of Justice Act, passed at the first session of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, and assented to on May 22, 1868. This Act outlined the responsibilities of the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General of Canada and, with a few exceptions, these responsibilities have remained substantially unchanged.

Responsibilities

The work of the Department consists of litigation, provision of legal advice and opinions to the federal government of Canada on a very wide range of matters, and the drafting of legislation, contracts and other legal documents. The Department is also concerned with the legal aspects of developing government policy, and prepares recommendations or reviews recommendations, for reform of the law. To carry out these responsibilities, the Department uses federal Statutes and Regulations. In addition, contributions are made to provide financial assistance to organizations conducting studies and legal research and to other law-related programs. A limited number of grants is made in connection with legal education, and cost-sharing agreements are entered into with provincial and territorial governments in connection with young offenders, compensation of victims of violent crimes, legal aid in criminal cases for adults and young offenders, native court worker programs, and access to legal information. The Department also undertakes research in support of policy initiatives and other departmental responsibilities. The role of the Federal Department of Justice does not include the provision of legal services or advice to members of the public.

Organization

Deputy Minister's Office

The Office provides essential support services to the Deputy Minister. It ensures appropriate communication and liaison on policy and operational issues between the Deputy Minister and the Minister's Office, the Department and other government departments and agencies.

◆ Ministerial Secretariat

The Ministerial Secretariat provides services on matters relating to the Minister's Cabinet and parliamentary responsibilities. Its responsibilities also include the ministerial correspondence system and liaison between the Minister and his/her staff and the Department.

Parliamentary Affairs is responsible for the coordination of the legislative process for Justice Bills; the coordination of responses to Parliamentary Committees' reports; Justice related items on Private Members' Business; Question Period; the preparation of responses to petitions and to questions raised in the House and in the Senate that require written responses; and lateshows. Parliamentary Affairs also has a coordination and advisory role with respect to appearances before Parliamentary Committees.

Cabinet Affairs is responsible for the coordination and provision of advice on Justice policy initiatives going forward to Cabinet; the coordination and/or preparation of appropriate briefing material for the Minister for Cabinet and Cabinet Committee meetings; and the receipt, circulation and return of Cabinet documents to the Privy Council Office.

In consultation with departmental officials, the Ministerial Correspondence Unit prepares replies to correspondence addressed to the Minister.

The Ministerial Liaison Unit acts as the primary link or interface between the Minister's Office and the Department for advice going forward to the Minister.

Canadian Firearms Centre

The Canadian Firearms Centre (CFC) is responsible for the overall administration of the firearms licensing and registration program. The legal basis of the program is found in the Firearms Act, in Part III of the Criminal Code, and accompanying regulations. The key components of the program and their respective locations are: the CFC in Ottawa, Ontario; the Canadian Firearms Registry of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) in Ottawa; the Central Processing Site (CPS) in Miramichi, New Brunswick; the Outsource Processing Site (OPS) in Ottawa; and the offices of the Chief Firearms Officers (CFO) in the provinces and territories. CFO offices are divided into three groups. The first include opt-in provinces (Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia,) that administer the Firearms Act and their respective CFO office. The RCMP administers the CFO offices of opt-out provinces (Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Yukon, Northwest and Nunavut Territories) from Edmonton, Alberta. Finally, the Department of Justice Canada administers the CFO Office for the province of Newfoundland.

Along with the RCMP, other federal departments involved in the administration and enforcement of the firearms legislation are the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency, the Department of the Solicitor General of Canada, and the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade.

The Canadian Firearms Centre provides overall administrative direction and funding to the program, designs and maintains the Canadian Firearm Registration System, a fully integrated automated information system that provides administrative and enforcement support to all partners involved in licensing, registration and the issuance of authorizations related to restricted firearms. The CFC develops and designs the mandatory firearms safety training courses, as well as training material for, among others, the police, the judiciary, prosecutors and justices of the peace. It also designs all application forms concerning firearms. In addition, the Centre conducts research and develops policy related to firearms. It develops regulations, negotiates agreements with the provinces and territories as well as international agreements.

The processing sites provide four main services: application processing (by mail, telephone or electronically), card production, call centre and records management. More specifically, the sites receive and data capture firearms licence applications, except for Quebec residents (whose applications are processed by the Quebec Processing Site maintained and operated by the CFO of Quebec), and registration applications received by mail from firearms owners nationwide for eligibility processing. Once approved by either the CFO of the jurisdiction or the Registrar as the case may be, the Central Processing Site (CPS) produces and mails licence cards and/or registration certificates to applicants. The CPS operates a 1-800 toll free line providing information about the legislation, regulations, policies and procedures. It also responds to enquiries about application status and firearms transfers (except for Quebec and British Columbia where these services are provided by Call Centres attached to the CFO offices in those regions). Individuals may also obtain forms and receive assistance to complete forms through the call centre. Finally, the CPS provides an archival service where applications are stored in accordance with the legislation.

The Canadian Firearms Centre maintains an Internet site where additional information may be obtained on the firearms program. The address is: <http://www.cfc-ccaf.gc.ca>.

Civil Law and Corporate Management Sector

The Civil Law and Corporate Management Sector includes the Office of the Associate Deputy Minister and has dual roles and responsibilities.

The Associate Deputy Minister serves as a key senior official in liaison activities with the Quebec Ministry of Justice, the Quebec Department of Public Security, the Quebec Bar, the Order of Notaries, the Canadian Bar Association (Quebec) and other organizations and individuals active in the Quebec Justice community.

The Sector is responsible for litigation involving the federal government in the province of Quebec and for providing legal services with respect to real property and commercial law in Quebec. The Sector is also responsible for promoting and protecting the bilingual and bijuridical nature of Canada's justice system, advising on the overall direction and management of all departmental interactions with the province of Quebec, for coordinating the participation of the Department in the 'Comité d'experts sur la coopération juridique et judiciaire pour la Francophonie', and for evaluating the impact of the new Civil Code of Quebec on federal practices.

The Sector also provides administrative support services related to finance, human resources, accommodation, security, telecommunications, and all other logistical elements common to government departments other than information management. The Sector is also responsible for legal and other contracts, management reviews, internal audits, family law assistance systems, the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings as well as corporate services, including the Office of the Corporate Counsel, the Continuing Legal Education Division and the Access to Information and Privacy Office.

◆ Access to Information and Privacy Office

The Office is responsible for administering the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act for the Department of Justice. It processes requests submitted under the legislation, handles complaints lodged with the Information and Privacy Commissioners and responds to informal enquiries. The Office also provides advice and guidance to Justice officials on matters which concern the legislation.

◆ Civil Code Section

The Civil Code Section is responsible for bringing the administration of the federal government into line with the new civil law of Quebec. The Section has a mandate to harmonize federal statutes that impact on the private law with the civil law of Quebec in order to ensure improved application of federal legislative policy in the province. In addition, the Section provides a civil law research and consultation service and is involved in policy development and training as well as in preparing and revising information manuals on the civil law of Quebec that may have an impact on federal activities in the province.

◆ Civil Litigation and Real Property (Quebec) Section

The Section is responsible for litigation involving the federal government in the province of Quebec (except in districts within the jurisdiction of the Montreal Court of Appeal) and for real property law matters in Quebec outside the area of Montreal.

The Commercial and Property Law (Quebec) Group of notaries has general responsibility for providing functional direction to all lawyers in commercial and property law matters regarding the federal government in the province of Quebec. The notaries provide policies, legal advice and prepare and conclude contracts, among others authentic acts.

◆ Comptroller Directorate

The Directorate consists of three divisions: Finance, Administration and Special Programs. The Directorate provides support services, including analysis, advice and related training to departmental officials, managers and employees in the areas of strategic resourcing, finance, administration, special programs, and security. The Directorate is involved in the following main activities: providing research management services (e.g. financial planning and strategic resourcing analysis and advice, operational planning, development of strategies, identification of required level of resources); developing, implementing and maintaining financial policies and systems and providing accounting services and administrative services; preparation and execution of an annual contribution audit plan and an annual report on the audit results; managing material and contracting services, as well as maintaining related systems and providing facilities management; managing special programs (e.g. the Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Unit, the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings, the Garnishment Registry and the Contraventions Project); providing physical, personnel, contract, communications and informatics security/protective advice, training and services (including business resumption planning), and implementing corporate protective programs in these areas.

◆ Continuing Legal Education Division

The Division develops and offers law courses, workshops and seminars for the purpose of delivering Continuing Legal Education to the legal staff of the Department. It also provides introductory seminars on the Canadian legal system for non-legal staff, an array of fifteen different law courses for client department personnel called Legal Awareness Program, and for the senior management staff of government, an intensive 8-day course on Law and Public Management provided through the Canadian Centre for Management Development.

◆ Francophonie and Visitors and Professional Interchange Program

The Office of the Coordinator of the Francophonie is responsible for the coordination within the Department of Justice of all matters relating to "institutional" Francophonie. The Office of the Coordinator for the Francophonie generally liaises with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade and makes the necessary representations on behalf of the Department of Justice to ensure its priorities are reflected at follow-up meetings of the Sommet de la Francophonie, at meetings of the Programming Committee of the Agence de la Francophonie and at Francophonie Ministers' Conferences. The Office is also responsible for the coordination of initiatives to promote bilingualism and bijuralism within the Department and between the Department and its partners. In addition, the Office coordinates the implementation of Part VII of the Official Languages Act designed to foster the development of official language minorities in Canada.

The Office is also responsible for coordinating the Visitors and Professional Interchange Program, which is designed to facilitate and promote exchanges of professional expertise between the Department of Justice and its partners. In particular, it gives employees the opportunity to work on external projects of substantial interest to the Department.

◆ Human Resources Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for managing, developing, implementing, and advising on a wide variety of human resources management programs and policies, including those in the areas of staffing, classification, staff relations, compensation, employment equity, human resources planning, training and development, and official languages.

Information Management Branch

The Information Management Branch consists of five divisions: Back Office, Front Office, Informatics Division, Library Services and the Planning, Administration and Records Services Division. The Information Management Branch is responsible for information management (the coordinated management of the department's information holdings, including records and library) and providing information technology (corporate networks, hardware, applications, systems and services) to the Department of Justice.

◆ Internal Audit

The mandate of the Internal Audit Section is to conduct an independent assessment of key programs, operations and systems, and to provide objective information on the adequacy of the management framework in place, in terms of the cost-effectiveness of program delivery activities and internal operations, the economical and efficient use of resources, the protection of these resources, the integrity and utility of information, and compliance with statutes and policies.

◆ Office of Conflict Management

The mandate of the Office of Conflict Management is to implement the departmental policy on harassment in the workplace. The Office is responsible for administering formal harassment complaints, for resolving informal conflicts through mediation and conciliation and for providing advice and training to managers and employees on appropriate workplace behaviour. In addition, the Office is responsible for reporting on the nature of the complaints and conflicts, and for presenting its recommendations to the Deputy Minister and senior management on conflict prevention and resolution.

◆ Quebec Regional Office

The Quebec Regional Office provides legal services to federal government departments and agencies working in Quebec, especially in civil litigation matters in the territory within the jurisdiction of the Quebec Court of Appeal sitting at Montreal, and in taxation and criminal cases throughout the province of Quebec with the exception of the National Capital Region. The Office consists of the Civil Litigation Section, the Criminal Prosecutions Section, the Tax Litigation Section, the Regional Corporate Services Section, the Information Management Section and the Human Resources Section.

Communications and Executive Services Branch

The Communications and Executive Services Branch is responsible for the planning, management and implementation of all aspects of the Department's communications, both internally and externally. It advises the Minister and the Department on communications issues. It also provides co-ordination and functional advice for the satellite communications offices of the Child Support Team, the National Crime Prevention Centre and the Canadian Firearms Centre.

◆ Corporate Communications and Creative Services Division

The Corporate Communications and Creative Services Division advises and assists sectors in planning and implementing their communications projects. The Division provides expert services and advice in such areas as electronic communications, publishing, writing, editing and design, and distribution of publications to target audiences. It is also responsible for the strategic planning of internal communications, the production of internal publications such as the newsletter Inter Pares, and focus-group testing for internal and external communications products.

◆ Director General's Office

The Director General's Office is responsible for the overall direction and administration of the Branch. It sets communications objectives for the Department through needs analyses and reviews of the government's and Department's agenda. It also plans corporate events and special projects.

◆ Public Affairs Division

The Public Affairs Division provides the Minister and the Department with strategic communications advice and services, and develops and implements strategic communications plans for the Department's legislative initiatives, major court cases and other departmental programs and policies. The Division is responsible for providing the Minister's Office with communications services, for liaison with the news media, for external communications such as news releases, speeches, exhibits, departmental advertising campaigns, and for liaising with other federal and provincial departments.

Constitutional Affairs Group

The Constitutional Affairs Group provides legal advice and other assistance to the Government of Canada with respect to Canadian unity and other constitutional issues.

Diversity and Gender Equality Office

The Diversity and Gender Equality Office assists all sectors of the Department of Justice in building a more equitable and accessible justice system which aims to provide substantive equality to all Canadians. The Office identifies, responds to, and analyzes the impact of policy proposals on groups who have frequently experienced disadvantage in their dealings with the justice system. The work of the Office includes providing diversity analysis for policy, programming and litigation activities of the Department; working with the Department's regional offices to flag equality issues in both litigation and policy; developing a community outreach capacity; co-chairing the Federal/Provincial/Territorial Working Group on Diversity, Equality and Justice, and putting in place mechanisms to ensure that items brought forward for decision by Deputy Ministers of Justice have been screened for diversity implications.

Legal Operations Sector

The Legal Operations Sector includes the Office of the Associate Deputy Minister, Legal Operations. The sector is responsible for the delivery of legal services to clients, including legal advisory and litigation services and, in collaboration with the Legislative Services Branch, legislative services. The Sector amalgamates a diverse range of areas in the Department of Justice legal practice, from public to criminal law, to litigation, business, finance and aboriginal law, to name a few.

The Sector serves government departments and agencies in the National Capital Region and all regions of Canada through its network of Regional Offices, except the Quebec Regional Office. It is organized along portfolio lines and client services grouped together under the following main areas: Civil Litigation Branch, Public Law and Central Agencies Portfolio, Federal Prosecution Service, Tax Law Services, Citizenship and Immigration Portfolio, Aboriginal Affairs Portfolio, Business and Regulatory Law Portfolio and the Regional Offices.

The Associate Deputy Minister, Legal Operations, is responsible for the coordination, planning and supervision of all Sector services provided to government clients.

♦ Aboriginal Affairs Portfolio

This portfolio is directed by the Assistant Deputy Attorney General (ADAG), Aboriginal Affairs. The Office of the ADAG, Aboriginal Affairs, carries out a wide range of responsibilities in relation to Aboriginal matters: it advises the government on broad issues that are not the responsibility of any one program department (e.g. Metis and non-status Indians); it develops positions on legal policy issues such as management of the Crown's fiduciary obligations; it coordinates native litigation on behalf of the Crown; it provides legal advice to the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development (DIAND); and it leads and manages the Government's Aboriginal Justice Initiative.

♦ Aboriginal Justice Directorate

The Aboriginal Justice Directorate administers the government's Aboriginal Justice Strategy, which has been developed to help implement justice programs in Aboriginal communities. The Strategy has two major objectives. The first is to respond to the aspirations of Aboriginal people to assume greater responsibility for the administration of justice in their community. The second is to help reduce the rates of crime and incarceration amongst Aboriginal people.

The Directorate works with provincial and territorial governments to implement community based justice programs responsive to the needs and aspirations of Aboriginal people. It also represents the federal government at self-government negotiations dealing with the administration of justice.

The Directorate also supports the Aboriginal Justice Learning Network, which assists Aboriginal communities, organizations and justice workers in the justice system by facilitating the sharing of expertise and knowledge.

♦ Legal Services Unit of Indian Affairs and Northern Development

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development (DIAND) Legal Services Unit is co-located in DIAND Headquarters in the National Capital Region, in the Federal Treaty Negotiation Office in Vancouver and in the Quebec Regional Office. The Legal Services Unit is divided into several sections: Comprehensive Claims and Northern Affairs/Self-Government and Strategic Direction; Indian Reserves and Corporate Services; Specific Claims; Federal Treaty Negotiation Office; and Litigation Services.

The Legal Services Unit provides specialized legal advice and support to DIAND in relation to DIAND initiatives, policies and programs and, along with Department of Justice litigators, in relation to litigation matters.

♦ Native Law Section

This Section provides specialized legal advice and litigation support to the Government of Canada on Aboriginal law issues including Aboriginal rights and title; treaty rights; the fiduciary relationship of the Crown with Aboriginal people; subsection 91(24) of the Constitution Act, 1867 and section 25 of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

The Section also coordinates Aboriginal law matters in the Department in order to ensure consistency of legal advice, early identification and consideration of emerging Aboriginal law issues and the presentation of a uniform view on Aboriginal law issues to other departments and agencies.

Another important aspect of the Section's work is its participation in a range of legal education activities and seminars including those conducted in conjunction with the Canadian Centre for Management Development, as well as case briefs on important decisions.

Business and Regulatory Law Portfolio

The Business and Regulatory Law Portfolio comprises the office of the Assistant Deputy Minister and thirty Legal Services Units providing on-site legal services to government clients whose mandates have in common a strong regulatory, public safety, or business law component. These units include: Agriculture and Agri-Food, Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency, Canada Economic Development for Quebec Regions, Canadian Environmental Assessment Agency, Canadian Food Inspection Agency, Canadian Heritage, Canadian International Development Agency, Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission, Canadian Security Intelligence Service, Canadian Space Agency, Communications Security Establishment, Correctional Service Canada, Environment Canada, Fisheries and Oceans, Foreign Affairs, Health, Human Resources Development, Industry Canada, National Defence, National Parole Board, National Research Council, National Resources, Public Works and Government Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Solicitor General of Canada, Transport Canada and Veterans Affairs.

The Portfolio also includes four specialized units: the Intellectual Property Secretariat, the Maritime Law Secretariat, the Multi Client Services Unit and the Property Law Section.

Citizenship and Immigration Portfolio

The Citizenship and Immigration Portfolio includes the Office of the Assistant Deputy Attorney General, the Legal Services Unit of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration, the War Crimes Section and the Immigration Litigation Sections of the Regional Offices.

♦ Citizenship and Immigration Legal Services Unit

The Legal Services Unit provides legal services and advice to the Department of Citizenship and Immigration in matters relating to the Immigration Act, the Citizenship Act, their associated regulations and other relevant legislation. The Unit provides further legal services and advice on operational matters and on policy, program and legislative development. In addition, the Unit, with other sections of the portfolio, coordinates the delivery of litigation services by the regional offices and the Civil Litigation Section, and helps ensure that uniform legal positions are taken across the country in matters pertaining to the Portfolio's mandate.

♦ Crimes against Humanity and War Crimes Section

The War Crimes Section is mandated to receive allegations and to investigate, assess and litigate cases against individuals suspected of involvement in war crimes, crimes against humanity and other reprehensible acts committed during time of conflict. In carrying out its mandate, the War Crimes Section works in close cooperation with Citizenship and Immigration Canada, the RCMP, and other government departments. Since 1995, all cases that have been brought forward for litigation have been based upon allegations that the subject concealed material information concerning his war time activities to gain entry to Canada and, in many cases, to obtain citizenship. Once the Crimes Against Humanity and War Crimes Act, which received Royal assent on June 30, 2000, is proclaimed in force, however, it is anticipated that the War Crimes Section will again undertake criminal prosecutions.

♦ Immigration Litigation Sections

All litigation for the Citizenship and Immigration Portfolio is performed by the Regional Offices, with the exception of Ottawa, where litigation is performed by the Civil Litigation Section. The lawyers specializing in Immigration Law represent the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration in all immigration and citizenship proceedings before Canadian courts (including citizenship revocation and deportation proceedings) and are responsible for the conduct of all litigation concerning the Department of Citizenship and Immigration. In addition, working in conjunction with the Legal Services Unit and the Crimes against Humanity and War Crimes Section, these sections develop litigation strategies in matters of general importance.

Civil Litigation Branch

The Branch includes the Office of the Assistant Deputy Attorney General, Civil Litigation, and the Civil Litigation Section. The Assistant Deputy Attorney General has functional responsibility for civil litigation involving the Government of Canada in the common law provinces and territories, and is the Head of the Civil Litigation Branch at Headquarters. The role of the Assistant Deputy Attorney General, Civil Litigation, in the overall management of the civil litigation function is essentially fourfold: (1) to coordinate the conduct of litigation and, where necessary, to coordinate legal, policy and client perspectives and ensure the resolution of disagreements; (2) to ensure consistency in the positions taken in litigation and that the quality of representation meets the highest professional standards; (3) to assist in the refining of legal issues and positions as they arise, whether in the regions or in Ottawa, so that they are properly framed for consideration by the Litigation Committee, the Associate Deputy Minister, Legal Operations, the Deputy Minister or the Attorney General; and (4) to provide guidance and direction in major, high profile litigation.

◆ Civil Litigation Section

This Section, along with its counterparts in the Regional Offices, is responsible for the conduct of all litigation by or against the federal government, except tax and criminal litigation. The practice applies to any matter that may be litigious or which requires legal advice, and covers many areas of law, including administrative, constitutional, debtor-creditor, employment, immigration, and native law, to name a few. Civil litigation services are provided to virtually every federal department and agency. Counsel appear before all levels of provincial and federal courts and before many federal administrative tribunals and international panels, such as North America Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) panels. Civil litigation counsel also advise on potentially litigious issues and are involved in finding policy and legislative solutions to problems that have come, or may come, before the courts.

Civil litigation services are provided by departmental litigation counsel and, in appropriate cases, by private sector lawyers appointed as agents of the Attorney General of Canada and working under the instruction of departmental litigation counsel.

Client-Driven Services and Portfolio Support Secretariat

This unit provides the administrative, financial and research support for the Client-Driven Services initiative. This is the primary vehicle of the Department of Justice for delivering high-quality and cost-effective service to client departments and agencies. The aim is to develop and implement, in partnership with clients, a management framework for allocating resources based on a joint planning and resource allocation process on a three-year cycle.

Dispute Resolution Services

The mandate of Dispute Resolution Services (DR Services) is to promote, encourage and implement DR mechanisms, other than litigation, in the federal government (for example, conciliation, mediation, arbitration, etc.). DR Services provides legal advice within the Department of Justice and to all other federal departments and agencies. DR Services is also involved in developing government policies and programs to support the increased and informed use of DR at the federal level. Training of Department of Justice employees is an intrinsic part of the section's mandate. In addition, to improve knowledge of this area, DR Services prepares general and technical information documents and increases the awareness of other departments and agencies, non-governmental organizations and the public about the advantages and disadvantages of DR mechanisms.

Federal Prosecution Service (FPS)

The Federal Prosecution Service is a national entity within the Department of Justice. It unites all staff counsel and prosecution agents engaged in the delivery of prosecution and related services at the federal level across Canada. Headed by the Assistant Deputy Attorney General (ADAG) (Criminal Law), the FPS consists of a central component (the Criminal Law Branch), a regional component (prosecutors working in the Department's twelve regional offices and sub-offices and the legal agents working under their supervision), and the prosecutors with the Competition and Consumer Law Division within the Departmental Legal Services Unit at Industry Canada. The FPS has been a member of the International Association of Prosecutors since its creation in 1995.

Criminal Law Branch

The Criminal Law Branch is the central component of the Federal Prosecution Service. It is composed of the Strategic Prosecution Policy Section, which coordinates the Department's participation in police-run Integrated Proceeds of Crime Units, and of the Criminal Law Section.

◆ Criminal Law Section

This Section consists of the Ottawa/Hull Prosecutions Group, the International Assistance Group, and a group of criminal law specialists, including the Supreme Court of Canada Criminal Appeals Coordinator, who coordinates all criminal cases before the Supreme Court of Canada in which the Queen in Right of Canada is a party or intervenor. The Section assists in the exercise of functional responsibility for criminal litigation in the Department, except for drug, proceeds of crime and national security matters (which fall within the mandate of the Strategic Prosecution Policy Section). This includes all tax and environmental prosecutions, as well as prosecutions under the Immigration Act, Fisheries Act and Competition Act.

The Section also advises on criminal law and federal enforcement policy and programs. It provides direction, assistance and support to the Department's northern offices and sub-offices in criminal law matters and coordinates the work of the Northern Flying Squad. The squad members (experienced prosecutors from regional offices and Headquarters) supplement the work of Crown counsel in the Territories.

The Ottawa/Hull Prosecution Group is responsible for all federal prosecutions in the National Capital Region and supervises prosecution agents in eastern and northern Ontario and western Quebec.

The International Assistance Group carries out the responsibilities of the Minister of Justice as the central authority for Canada in extradition and mutual legal assistance matters. It reviews and coordinates all requests for extradition or mutual assistance made to or by Canada in criminal matters, negotiates treaties, and assists in the development of extradition and mutual legal assistance policies and legislation.

♦ Strategic Prosecution Policy Section

This Section has the primary responsibility for providing strategic direction and assistance on drug, money laundering and proceeds of crime prosecutions, with particular emphasis on organized crime, as well as wiretap issues and prosecutions. It supports and coordinates, with line prosecutors in the regions, in the development of strategic approaches to these prosecutions and develops prosecution policies in these and related areas. It works in partnership with other interested government departments and agencies and coordinates the Department's participation in police-run Integrated Proceeds of Crime Units. It also provides operational advice in the development of criminal law policy and amendments. In addition, SPPS counsel are involved at all levels of the development, refinement and implementation of domestic drug legislation and in pursuing Canada's Drug Strategy. At the international level, the Section is the focal point for the Department's operational activities to combat transnational drug trafficking, money laundering and other forms of organized crime.

The SPPS includes the National Security Group, which is responsible for advising the Assistant Deputy Attorney General on legal matters arising under the Canadian Security Intelligence Act, the Official Secrets Act, the Security Offences Act and on national security and intelligence matters.

Also included within the Section is the Agent Affairs Unit, which is responsible for coordinating the Department's overall agent supervision program and for supporting the work of regional agent supervisors.

♦ Integrated Proceeds Of Crime Units

Integrated Proceeds of Crime (IPOC) Units are specialized and multidisciplinary task force units, each of which is staffed by a team of Federal Prosecution Service counsel, police investigators, customs investigators, forensic accountants and administrative support staff. Their primary focus is the investigation and prosecution of organized crime groups and their primary goal is to deprive organized criminals of the profits and property derived from their illegal activity. There are thirteen units operating across Canada.

In addition to providing on-site legal advisory services to the police and other members of the units on a variety of issues relating to the conduct of proceeds of crime and money laundering investigations, IPOC counsel oversee the drafting of applications for judicial wiretap authorizations, special search warrants and restraint orders, assist in the preparation of police briefs and disclosure materials, and attend at court as required to obtain judicial orders.

Public Law and Central Agencies Portfolio

The Public Law and Central Agencies Portfolio is composed of the Office of the Senior Assistant Deputy Minister, five public law sections and five Legal Services Units. The Legal Services Units provide on-site legal services to central agencies in their respective areas of activity. The public law component of the Portfolio provides specialized legal advisory services and litigation support in the areas of constitutional and administrative law, information and privacy law, international law and human rights law.

♦ Constitutional and Administrative Law Section

The principal function of this section is to provide legal advice and litigation support to the Government of Canada on all matters of constitutional, administrative law and Crown law, including the interpretation of statutes and regulations. The Section has developed particular expertise in issues related to Crown liability, Crown agencies, cost recovery under the Financial Administration Act, the machinery of government, commissions of inquiry, Parliamentary law and privileges, and the National Defence Act.

♦ Finance Legal Service Units

Two legal services units serve the Department of Finance: General Legal Services and the Tax Counsel Division.

General Legal Services provides a broad range of legal advice, notably in the areas of financial institutions, federal-provincial relations, trade law, crown corporation law, privatization and public debt transactions. It is also responsible for legal advice in connection with non-tax measures in the annual federal budget.

The Tax Counsel Division serves the Tax Policy Branch of the Department of Finance by drafting tax legislation and related regulations and by providing legal advice on tax matters. The Division also examines developments in provincial law and advises on tax implications. It monitors, and advises on the implications of court decisions in tax matters. It also assesses the need for legislative amendments, advises on parliamentary procedure for legislation and assists litigation counsel on cases involving tax legislation.

♦ Human Rights Law Section

The Human Rights Law Section provides legal advisory services and litigation support to the Government of Canada on matters relating to the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, the Canadian Human Rights Act and the Canadian Bill of Rights.

The Section also provides services in the area of international human rights law – advising and assisting in negotiating and developing Canada's position on international human rights instruments, negotiating provincial and territorial support for new human rights instruments, and developing and drafting Canada's position on complaints to the various United Nations and Organization of American States complaint bodies.

Included within the Section is the Official Languages Law Group which provides legal advice on language rights issues arising out of the Constitution Act 1867, the Charter, the Official Languages Act and the language rights provisions of the Criminal Code. The Group also supports litigators at all levels of courts and develops and coordinates the position of the Government in language rights cases.

◆ Information Law and Privacy Section

The Information Law and Privacy Section's primary role is to provide legal interpretation and advice and litigation support to the Government of Canada relating to the Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) Acts. The Section also provides legal advisory services on policy development in the area. It ensures that the positions of the Department of Justice concerning the interpretation of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act are established in a co-ordinated and coherent manner that complies with the intent and the letter of these two Acts.

The Section has a continuing legal education role in conducting annual seminars for Justice lawyers, providing legal updates to the ATIP community, training at the Canadian Centre for Management Development and as requested by other departments. The Section also participates in and supports a variety of special projects that relate to information law and privacy within the government.

◆ International Law and Activities Section

The International Law and Activities Section provides leadership and coordination in international law matters and ensures the consistency of the Department's legal advice on international law. It provides legal advice in all areas of international law, particularly on questions of treaty implementation and interpretation. It is responsible for international litigation and for the establishment of special litigation teams, legal education in the area of international law and advising the Department and Minister on the filing of briefs before foreign courts.

The Section also has responsibility for the International Visits function, which provides support to the Minister and Deputy Minister for their participation at international legal events, whether bilateral or multilateral.

◆ Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions Legal Services Unit

The Legal Services Unit provides legal advice to support the mandate of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions. The Office is the regulatory agency responsible for regulating and supervising all banks, insurance, trust or loan companies, cooperative credit associations and fraternal benefit societies that are subject to federal jurisdiction. It is also responsible for supervising federally regulated private pension plans.

◆ Public Service Commission Legal Services Unit

The Public Service Commission Legal Services Unit assists the Commission in performing its duties under the Public Service Employment Act. The Public Service Commission is responsible for staffing in the Public Service, appeals and investigations in Public Service employment matters and training and development in the Public Service.

◆ Trade Law Division

A joint Department of Justice and Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, the Trade Law Division (JLT) provides legal advice and services to the Government of Canada on the international and domestic implications of Canada's trade and investment obligations. In particular, the unit is responsible for advising on the rights and obligations arising out of the various trade agreements to which Canada is a party, such as the North America Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), the Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization (WTO) and the Canada-USA Softwood Lumber Agreement. The Trade Law Division also provides advice on the legal implications of these agreements for Canadian policy and programs. It represents the Government before dispute settlement panels established under the NAFTA, the WTO, the Softwood Lumber Agreement and other trade and investment agreements. It also assists in the negotiation, preparation, elaboration, drafting and implementation of new trade agreements.

◆ Treasury Board Legal Services Unit

Treasury Board Legal Services provides legal advice to the Treasury Board and its President with respect to their powers and duties. The Unit supports the Treasury Board Secretariat in its role as board of management of the Public Service of Canada by ensuring that the conduct of government affairs is in accordance with the law.

The Unit gives specialized legal advice to the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Government of Canada in connection with the Secretariat's central agency functions pertaining to the legislation for which the Treasury Board and the President of the Treasury Board are responsible. The Unit provides advice with respect to the enactment of and the amendment to legislation and regulations, as well as strategic advice concerning policy development and other initiatives. It conducts litigation before the Public Service Staff Relations Board and other administrative tribunals, the Federal Court – Trial Division, the Federal Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court of Canada in support of the Treasury Board's role as employer of the Public Service of Canada.

Regional Offices

Four Regional Offices report to the Associate Deputy Minister, Legal Operations: the Atlantic Regional Office, located in Halifax; the Ontario Regional Office, located in Toronto; the Prairie and Arctic Region, with regional offices in Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Yellowknife, Iqaluit and sub-offices in Calgary and Inuvik; and the British Columbia and Yukon Regional Office, with regional offices in Vancouver and Whitehorse.

The Regional Offices represent the client departments in civil and criminal matters, and provide a wide variety of legal services.

Tax Law Services

In addition to the Office of the Assistant Deputy Attorney General, the Tax Law Services Portfolio includes the Legal Services Unit at Canada Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA) and Tax Litigation Sections in the Regional Offices. The Portfolio has functional responsibility for litigation and advice nationally in respect of all fiscal matters including income tax, the GST, other tax legislation, and customs and border services.

◆ Legal Services Unit, Canada Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA)

The Legal Services Unit provides legal services and advice, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada, to CCRA officials in matters relating to the Income Tax Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Excise Act, the Customs Act and Customs Tariff, and related legislation. In addition, the Unit coordinates, with other components of the Tax Law Services Portfolio, the provision of an integrated service to CCRA in the areas of tax avoidance, collections, customs and border services, GST, international trade and human resources law.

◆ Tax Litigation Sections

These sections, located in Headquarters and the major regional offices, are responsible, on behalf of the Minister of National Revenue, for all civil appeals concerning tax and customs legislation as well as certain appeals under the Canada Pension Plan, the Employment Insurance Act and the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act. They are responsible for the conduct of litigation on behalf of the Agency in all areas and regions of the country as well as representing the Minister of National Revenue in the Provincial Civil Courts in priority disputes, bankruptcy matters or litigation relating to collections enforcement action. In conjunction with the Legal Services Unit, these Sections also provide advice at the pre-litigation stage.

Legislative Services Branch

The Legislative Services Branch is headed by the Chief Legislative Counsel and consists of six units. The Branch provides a range of services, including the provision of legal advice, the drafting, editing and publishing of government legislation and regulations and the examination of regulations, while ensuring quality and compliance with the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, the Canadian Bill of Rights, the Statutory Instruments Act and recognizing the bilingual nature of the Canadian legal system. Access to the laws of Canada is ensured through the updating and consolidation of federal statutes and regulations in accordance with the Statute Revision Act and publication in accordance with the Publication of Statutes Act.

The outputs of the Legislative Services Branch include drafting of bills and government motions to amend bills, drafting and examination of regulations, drafting legal opinions, publication of Part III of the Canada Gazette, the Table of Public Statutes and Responsible Ministers, the Table of Private Acts and the annual volumes of the Statutes of Canada, CD-ROM and Internet access to the consolidated statutes and regulations, certification of bills and regulations, and publication of consolidations of statutes and regulations.

◆ Informatics Services

The Informatics Services unit provides computer-related support services to the Legislative Services Branch. These services relate primarily to the highly customized systems for legislative drafting and publishing that are unique to the Branch and that are critical to the processing of legislation through its various phases, particularly the preparation of bills for introduction in Parliament and the electronic publication of consolidated legislation on CD-ROM and on the Internet.

◆ Jurilinguistic Services Unit

The Jurilinguistic Services Unit is composed of specialists in legal language whose primary role is to help drafters achieve the highest possible quality of language when drafting bills or regulations. Jurilinguists advise drafters on language issues, focusing in particular on style, terminology and phraseology so as to make certain that they are appropriate to legislative or regulatory drafting and the subjects dealt with. They revise in depth the English and French versions of bills and regulations prepared by the Legislative Services Branch from both a comparative and a jurilinguistic perspective. In so doing, they ensure that the two official-language versions of bills and regulations are parallel in meaning, and keep a watchful eye on the linguistic quality of each version.

◆ Legislation Section

The Legislation Section is responsible, by Cabinet authority, for the drafting of all Government bills. The drafters of the Section draft bills authorized by Cabinet or the Prime Minister. They also draft the motions to amend that the responsible Minister may propose during the consideration of the bill by Parliament. At the stage of policy development, drafters provide advice on both formal and substantive legal questions to the departmental officials responsible for preparing legislative proposals.

The Chief Legislative Counsel acts for the Minister of Justice in certifying the consistency of the government bills with the Canadian Bill of Rights and the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. The Section is responsible for reviewing each bill for such consistency.

The Tax Counsel Division of the Department of Finance includes a satellite unit of drafters of the Legislation Section located on the premises of that department. That unit works on tax bills and other legislative initiatives of that department.

♦ Legislative Editing and Publishing Services

The Legislative Editing and Publishing Services comprises the Legislative Editing Office and the Database Management Services (formerly the Statute Revision Commission).

The Legislative Editing Office provides French and English editing services and paralegal support to the drafters of both the Legislation Section and the Regulations Section. It drafts proclamations and commissions for review by legal officers of the Regulations Section. It reviews all government bills as they proceed through Parliament to ensure that each reprint of the bill accurately reflects amendments made to it by Parliamentary committees. It also maintains the only complete up-to-date indexed set of master copies of federal statutes and regulations, and has the additional responsibility of preparing and overseeing the printing of the "Assented to" Acts, the Table of Public Statutes, the Table of Acts and Responsible Ministers, the Table of Private Acts, Part III of the Canada Gazette and the annual volumes of the Statutes of Canada. The Office also produces the consolidations of the Constitution Acts 1867 to 1982. The Legislative Editing Office is the only government office responsible for all official publishing of Acts of Parliament following Royal Assent, as well as for related reference Tables.

The Database Management Services maintains, edits and consolidates the databases of federal statutes and regulations of Canada. These databases are continually updated and published three times per year: April 30th, August 31st and December 31st. The consolidated databases are used as working tools for drafting legislation and as a base for the preparation of Office Consolidations. These databases are also converted to CD-ROM and other electronic media, including the Internet, to allow for general access to the consolidated federal statutes and regulations by the Department of Justice and other federal departments and agencies as well as by the general public. The consolidated databases may be found on the Justice website at <http://canada.justice.gc.ca> under "Laws of Canada".

♦ National Program for the Integration of both Official Languages in the Administration of Justice (POLAJ)

The National Program for the Integration of Both Official Languages in the Administration of Justice is a joint program of Canadian Heritage and Justice Canada, in which the federal Translation Bureau is also involved. Its objective is to contribute to promoting and enhancing the administration of justice in both official languages so as to enable Canadians to exercise their rights in the two official languages. All organizations interested in the administration of justice in both of Canada's official languages are represented in the Steering Committee of POLAJ. The Department of Justice chairs the Steering Committee and the Management Committee of POLAJ and coordinates the Program.

♦ Regulations Section

The Regulations Section examines regulations on behalf of the Clerk of the Privy Council to advise as to whether certain legal and drafting criteria set out in the Statutory Instruments Act are met. It also provides the services of a lawyer to advise the Assistant Clerk of the Privy Council Office (Orders in Council) on legal and drafting matters concerning orders in council, proclamations and other statutory instruments. The Section works very closely with the Special Committee of Council in order to ensure that the processing of regulations is done in an orderly way and to establish, when necessary, government priorities. There are currently two satellite units – one each at the Departments of Transport and of Health.

Policy Sector

The Policy Sector plans, develops and implements government justice policies dealing with both substantive and procedural criminal law; family, international, administrative, information and privacy, and human rights law; judicial affairs, crime prevention, sentencing, and conviction review.

Special projects within the Sector include the Child Support Team, the Youth Justice Policy Group, the Policy Centre for Victim Issues and the National Crime Prevention Centre. In addition, the Sector provides policy, planning and coordination capability within the Department. This includes the management of the Department's substantive policy agenda and the management of key relationships with the Department's policy partners in the federal government, the provinces and territories, and non-governmental organizations.

The Sector is responsible for research and development, public legal education and information, and for coordinating the Department's consultation process. The Sector contributes to the development and maintenance of a fair and accessible justice system through the design, development and implementation of cost-shared (Criminal Legal Aid, Youth Justice, Native Courtworker) and grants and contribution programs. The Sector also provides a program evaluation capacity for the Department.

The mandates of the principal components of the Policy Sector are set out below.

♦ Child Support Team

The Child Support Team is responsible for implementing, monitoring and communicating legislative changes to Canada's child support system, including Federal Child Support Guidelines to establish fairer and more consistent child support payments, and additional enforcement procedures to help provincial and territorial enforcement agencies ensure that family support obligations are respected. The Team also manages the provision of financial assistance to the provinces and territories to support child-centred family law-related initiatives. The goal is to ensure that the family law system always addresses the needs and best interests of children in circumstances of separation and divorce, particularly with regard to child support and custody and access.

◆ Criminal Law Policy and Community Justice Branch

The Branch is responsible for planning, developing and implementing justice policies dealing with criminal justice, sentencing, youth justice and conviction review. It provides advice to the Minister and senior officials on emerging criminal justice issues. The Branch also consults with provincial and territorial officials responsible for criminal justice and with international and non-governmental organizations on criminal justice matters of mutual interest.

◆ Criminal Conviction Review Group

The Criminal Conviction Review Group assists the Minister of Justice in the assessment of section 690 Criminal Code applications. These applications originate from persons who have exhausted all avenues of appeal and who allege that they were wrongly convicted of indictable offences or sentenced to preventive detention under Part XXIV of the Criminal Code. The Group reviews allegations, investigates new information made available, or supervises the work of outside counsel retained for that purpose, and provides advice to the Minister of Justice in the discharge of the statutory duty. Section 690 of the Criminal Code confers a discretionary power on the Minister of Justice to provide a remedy in the form of a new trial or appeal hearing.

◆ Criminal Law Policy Section

The Section identifies and analyzes emerging criminal justice issues, and develops and implements government policies dealing with criminal procedure and the substantive criminal law. It monitors the development of the criminal law, advises the Minister and senior officials and proposes amendments to the Criminal Code, the Canada Evidence Act and other statutes whose basis is the criminal law power given to Parliament by the Constitution. The Section consults on an ongoing basis with provincial and territorial officials responsible for criminal justice, other federal departments, and non-governmental associations involved in criminal justice issues, and, as needed, with international organizations for the purposes of identifying emerging issues, sharing information and coordinating activities in areas of mutual interest.

The Section serves as a focal point in the provision of legal advice to other government departments in the area of substantive and procedural criminal law. The Section plays a role in litigation support for all cases involving significant criminal law issues. It plays a lead role in the treatment of international criminal law issues. The Section directs its efforts as policy advisor in a number of international fora focussing on international criminal law matters.

◆ Policy Centre for Victim Issues

The Policy Centre for Victim Issues is responsible for implementing the government's strategy for improving the situation of victims of crime in the criminal justice system and more specifically, the Government's response to the Fourteenth Report of the Standing Committee on Justice and Human Rights entitled "Victims Rights – A Voice Not a Veto", and the recently proclaimed amendments to the Criminal Code (SC 1999, c 25). The Policy Centre is mandated to co-ordinate all federal initiatives for victims of crime and to ensure that the perspective of the victim is considered in the development of policies, programs and legislation that impacts on victims. The Policy Centre is responsible for all criminal justice reforms that benefit or impact on victims of crime. In addition, the Policy Centre will oversee a program of research, ongoing consultation with victim advocates and service providers and with provincial and territorial officials and a range of initiatives to raise awareness among victims and Canadians in general about the criminal justice system and the victims role in the system.

◆ Sentencing Reform Team

The Sentencing Reform Team identifies and monitors issues related to the administration of Canada's laws on sentencing and oversees the development of policies and legislation to address them, in consultation with other departments and agencies, other governments, voluntary organizations and with criminal justice professionals. Responsible for major sentencing reform (Chapter 22 of the Statutes of Canada, 1995), the Sentencing Team is promoting the implementation of the legislation, monitoring its impact on justice administration and practices, and providing advice to the Minister and to Senior officials on policy revisions and legislative amendments. The Sentencing Reform Team is also responsible for policy development in the area of Restorative Justice and for helping develop innovative alternatives to incarceration for low risk offenders.

◆ Youth Justice Policy Group

The Youth Justice Policy Group is responsible for the on-going development and implementation of the government's Strategy for the Renewal of Youth Justice, which was launched on May 12, 1998. On October 14, 1999, the Minister of Justice re-introduced Bill C-3, the new Youth Criminal Justice Act, a key feature of the government's initiative for youth justice renewal. As the new Bill makes its way through the Parliamentary process, the Youth Justice Policy Group, in collaboration with the provinces, territories and other elements of the youth justice system, is focusing on implementation of the initiative. Among other things, this involves working with provincial and territorial jurisdictions on arrangements to allocate resources for implementation, building partnerships with traditional and new players in youth justice, supporting Aboriginal capacity in dealing with problems of youthful offending, supporting the development and distribution of public legal information and education materials, developing explanatory materials to support training programs and working with provinces and territories toward a national strategy for children under twelve.

Family, Children and Youth Section

The Family, Children and Youth Section is responsible for both substantive and integration/coordination of issues relating to families, children and youth, with the exception of young offenders. It provides a centre of expertise on children/family related matters.

The Section identifies and analyzes emerging legal and related issues relating to the family, children and youth, and develops policies and legislation to address them with respect to the criminal law, family law and related Charter issues. The Section monitors the development of the law, provides advice to the Minister and senior officials and proposes changes, where necessary, to the statutes for which the Minister is responsible in these areas. The Section also works with the provinces to develop coordinated responses on shared family law issues.

There are six key issues the Family, Children and Youth Section has been focusing on for some time: National Children's Agenda, Children as Victims, Custody and Access and amendments to the Divorce Act Project, Family Violence Initiative, Personal Relationships/Modernizing Benefits, and Aboriginal Family Law issues.

One of the primary roles of the Section is the integration of family and children issues with other priorities in the Department and government, for both policy and litigation purposes. Issues such as polygamy, parental child abduction, children under 12 and the legal system, definition of "family" for federal purposes of correction by parents, impact of new reproductive technologies on children, and age of consent to sexual activity demonstrate the breadth and extent of the work in the Section.

National Crime Prevention Centre

The National Crime Prevention Centre (NCPC) acts as the federal responsibility centre for crime prevention policy and programs. It supports the work undertaken under Phase II of the National Strategy on Community Safety and Crime Prevention nationally and internationally. This initiative aims to increase individual and community safety by equipping Canadians with the knowledge, skills and resources they need to support and enhance crime prevention in their communities. The National Strategy is overseen by a National Chair who also chairs a steering committee advising the Centre on emerging crime prevention issues.

Phase II focuses mainly on children and youth, women's personal security and Aboriginal peoples. Phase II emphasizes the community-based and community-driven nature of the initiative, accessible through the Community Mobilization Program, the Investment Fund, the Partnership Program and the Business Action Program. The Centre works with communities, provinces and territories, municipalities, other federal departments, crime prevention practitioners, non-governmental organizations and the business community to ensure effective cross fertilization and coordination of efforts. Various channels of information continue to be put in place by the Centre through its Promotion and Public Education Program, to facilitate access and exchange of crime prevention information by communities when developing their crime prevention models.

Policy Integration and Coordination Section

The Policy Integration and Coordination Section brings together, in a central group, the research, planning, coordination and review functions that support the Department's policy capacity and ensure horizontal integration and coherence across the department's policy-related activities.

◆ Evaluation Division

The Evaluation Division provides independent assessments of the Department's policies, programs, operations and services in order to determine the results of Departmental activities and to identify opportunities for using alternative or more cost-effective mechanisms to achieve Departmental and governmental objectives. Increasingly, the Division is also being called upon to provide advice and assistance to departmental managers on accountability issues and results reporting. In particular, the Division provides assistance and advice with the development and analysis on ongoing performance measures.

◆ Intergovernmental and External Relations Division

The Intergovernmental and External Relations Division manages key relationships with the Department's policy partners in the federal government, the Provinces and Territories, and national non-government organizations (NGOs). It also manages the Department's consultative function to ensure timely and inclusive public involvement in justice policy development. It also fosters consultation with other levels of government and NGOs.

◆ Priorities and Planning Division

The Priorities and Planning Division manages the Department's strategic planning process, develops tools and mechanisms to support immediate and longer-term policy objectives and supports horizontal policy integration by ensuring coordination of policy-making process across the Department, with central agencies and other federal departments. It provides secretariat support to a range of senior departmental and inter-departmental committees, and ensures effective and cooperative liaison between the federal Government and the new Law Commission of Canada.

◆ Research and Statistics Division

The Research and Statistics Division conducts social science research in support of all departmental policy development activities and departmental programs, including statistical advice, information and services and public opinion research. It also acts as the liaison between the Department and the National Justice Statistics Initiative, a federal/provincial/territorial committee of Deputy Ministers responsible for justice system issues in Canada. Socio-legal research is also conducted in support of special projects such as the Child Support Initiative and the Firearms Initiative.

Programs Branch

The Programs Branch contributes to the development and maintenance of a fair and accessible Canadian justice system through program/policy development and implementation of cost-shared agreements, discretionary grants and contributions funding.

◆ Access to Justice Services Agreements

These agreements consolidate funding for three programs: Legal Aid (adult criminal, young offender and civil), Native Courtworker and Public Legal Education and Information (PLEI) services, into a single comprehensive agreement, one for each of the Territories. These innovative agreements are designed to give the territorial governments the flexibility they need to meet the distinct challenges of delivering justice services in the North.

◆ Grants and Contributions Fund

The Programs Branch administers a grants and contributions program designed to promote and implement selected reforms in the justice system. Funds are available to individuals, Canadian or international non-profit organizations, provincial or territorial governments, regional or municipal governments, universities, bands and tribal councils for the development of short-term, non-recurrent initiatives. Workshops, conferences, symposiums, meetings, training sessions, and pilot, demonstration and research projects are all eligible for funding.

◆ Legal Aid Program

Through funding agreements with provincial and territorial governments, the Legal Aid Program ensures a minimum standard of legal aid services in criminal matters to the economically disadvantaged when necessary to ensure a fair trial. In general, all indictable offenses and those summary conviction offenses where there is a likelihood of imprisonment, including proceedings under the Young Offenders Act, are covered.

◆ Legal Studies for Aboriginal People Program

The Department of Justice awards a limited number of bursaries each year to assist Aboriginal people (Metis and non-status) who wish to enter the legal profession.

◆ Native Courtworker Program

This cost-shared program promotes access to justice by helping Aboriginal people involved in the criminal justice system obtain fair, just, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment. Objectives include meeting the counseling (other than legal) and referral needs of both adult and young Aboriginal persons accused of a criminal offence, and reducing communications barriers between Aboriginal people and those involved in the administration of the criminal justice system.

◆ Public Legal Education and Information (PLEI)

This program provides legal education and information to help citizens become legally literate and able to participate more fully in the justice system (generally aimed at those who are at a disadvantage in the justice system). A variety of tools are used and may include brochures, videos, workshop modules and learning aids. Areas where PLEI has provided accessible and pertinent information include: family violence, crime prevention, and child support guidelines.

◆ Youth Justice Cost-sharing Program

Section 70 of the Young Offenders Act allows the Minister of Justice, with the approval of the Governor in Council, to enter into agreements with the provinces and territories to share the costs of services that the jurisdictions provide to young persons under the Act. Such agreements have been in place since the proclamation of the Young Offenders Act in 1984, to financially assist the provinces and territories in their responsibility for the delivery of youth justice services. New five-year agreements are now being finalized, in the context of the Youth Justice Renewal Strategy, to better support and complement the proposed new legislation.

Public Law Policy Section

The Public Law Policy identifies and analyzes policy issues relating to public law. It advises the Minister and other sections of the Department and works with other federal departments, provincial governments, non-government organizations, international organizations and public stakeholders. The work of the Section includes legislative reform, providing policy input and advice to other departments, supporting and advising on relevant litigation matters and providing joint opinions with the Public Law and Central Agencies Portfolio.

◆ Domestic Public Law Section

The Domestic Public Law Section is responsible for the Canadian Human Rights Act and other human rights policy issues, including the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. It provides policy advice on a variety of issues ranging from HIV/AIDS human rights issues to the application of the Canadian Human Rights Act in the context of aboriginal self-government agreements.

The Section is also responsible for policy and legislative initiatives in relation to electronic commerce, and with the help of the Uniform Law Conference of Canada, coordination of legislative activities to accommodate the use of electronic technology and the recognition by governments and courts of electronic documents, information and signatures. Policy work is also undertaken in relation to the use of electronic technology applied in government operations.

In addition, the Section is responsible for policy development and reform in relation to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. The Section also plays an important role in attempting to ensure that the principles of the Acts are headed by federal departments that are engaged in policy development that affects access and privacy rights.

Finally, the Section is responsible for policy work in relation to administrative law and works actively on regulatory reform and other issues of governance.

♦ Judicial Affairs Unit

The Judicial Affairs Unit is responsible for providing advice on legal and policy issues affecting courts and judges, including judicial independence, the federal judicial appointments process, compensation and benefits, judicial conduct, education, the use of judges in non-judicial capacities, and court reform and court management initiatives. It should be noted that the federal judicial appointment process is the sole responsibility of the Judicial Affairs Advisor to the Minister of Justice, supported by a secretariat of the Commissioner for Federal Judicial Affairs. The Judicial Affairs Unit assists the Judicial Affairs Advisor by compiling publicly available information about potential candidates for appointment to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Unit has primary responsibility for the Judges Act and provides policy advice to the Minister on the Supreme Court Act, the Federal Court Act and the Tax Court of Canada Act. It also provides legal and policy expertise in support of litigation involving the judiciary. The Unit is the focal point for liaison with judicial organizations, including the Canadian Judicial Council and the National Judicial Institute, and with legal organizations, including the Canadian Bar Association and the Federation of Law Societies, on issues affecting the judiciary.

♦ Private International Law Team

The Private International Law Team deals with the development of private international law in four broad areas: international commercial law, judicial cooperation and enforcement of judgements, family law and child protection and protection of property. The Team participates in the activities of international organizations such as the Hague Conference on Private International Law, the United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL), the International Institute for the Unification of Private Law (UNIDROIT) and the Organization of American States (OAS). In addition, it works toward the implementation of private international law instruments in Canada, with the cooperation of the Uniform Law Conference of Canada.

As the matters dealt with in private international law most often fall within provincial jurisdiction, federal-provincial cooperation is essential to real progress in this area. The Team therefore works closely with representatives from the provincial governments and maintains an advisory group on private international law. Consultation is also carried out with the legal and business community, as well as other private groups.

Program Records

Linking Statement

The Department of Justice files are maintained based on the subject content of the record or case name and/or details of the case using a central file classification system. Each Regional Office, Legal Services Unit and Headquarters Section classifies records according to the subject matter or case name. Generally the records can be categorized into four main groups: Administrative, Legal Operational, Legal Policy and Program Development. As a rule information is retrieved by name, subject, statute or term. Requesters need only describe the record they wish to access. If the request pertains to a specific case, the location indicating where the case took place is also required.

Purpose: The information in this bank is used to process requests and to report on the activities of the Access to Information and Privacy Office. Retention and Disposal Standards: Material is retained for two years after the last action on file. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 001659 Bank Number: JUS PPU 090

Allan Memorial Institute Depatterned Persons Assistance Plan

Description: This bank contains information on individuals who have made application for an ex-gratia payment of $100,000 and who were former patients of Dr. Ewen Cameron at the Allan Memorial Institute and underwent a treatment termed 'depatterning'. The Plan was established by Order in Council (P.C. 1992-2302, 16 November 1992) and terminated on January 31, 1994. This bank contains application forms identifying the individual information, release forms authorizing the release of medical records, medical records to the extent required to substantiate the depatterning treatment and other administrative documentation. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have made applications for payment under the criteria set out in the Order-in-Council. Purpose: The information was used in the administrative and operation activities required to carry out the Government of Canada's responsibilities under the Order in Council. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for a period of 21 years. TBS Registration: 003497 Bank Number: JUS PPU 135

Canadian Firearms Program

Description: Personal information in this bank is collected under the statutory authority of the Firearms Act and related Regulations and is used by federal and provincial officials in the administration of this legislation. The bank contains: applications for the licensing of individuals, firearms businesses, museums, and public agencies; applications for the registration of firearms; and the applications and results of Safety Training Courses taken by individuals. Most of the personal information in the bank is contained in the application forms for the Possession Only Licence, Possession and Acquisition Licence, minors' licence, firearms business licence, and the application to register firearms. Personal information from these applications may include: name, address, telephone number, firearm(s) owned, as well as an indication (from boxes checked by the applicant) of the following: firearms registration refusals, revocations or prohibition orders, criminal offences, emotional and behavioural problems, incidents involving violent behaviour, marital status, citizenship, and financial difficulties. The bank may also contain the name, address and telephone number of the spouse/common-law partner, guarantors, references, and those in a prescribed relationship to a business. It may contain additional personal information by way of an indication of a police occurrence report or a mention that interviews and investigative reports were prepared in the course of issuing a licence or registration certificate under the Firearms Act. Details of interviews and reports are held by the provinces/territories. Finally, records are kept on transactions conducted through the 1-800 Call Centre.

To access information under the Privacy Act, individuals must provide, in addition to the requirements indicated on the Personal Information Request Form, their full name and date of birth. If required, they should also submit their firearms licence number (or firearms acquisition certificate number under the previous legislation), firearms registration certificate number, or other identifiers sufficient to permit accurate retrieval of information. To expedite the processing of their request, individuals wishing to access only specific information should identify the material desired. Responsibility for responding to requests is shared between various jurisdictions. To obtain information related to training, applications and communications with the Canadian Firearms Centre, requests should be submitted to the ATIP Office of Justice Canada. Requests related to the registration of firearms, the Firearms Interest Police (FIP) and Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) should be submitted to the ATIP Office of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Requests for information related to police occurrence reports, interviews and investigative reports prepared in the course of issuing a licence or registration certificate under the Firearms Act must be submitted to various levels of government, depending on the provinces and territories. For the opt-in provinces (Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia), requests must be made to the appropriate provincial Freedom of Information offices. For Prince Edward Island and the opt-out provinces (Newfoundland, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Northwest Territories, Nunavut and Yukon), requests must be made to Justice Canada. It should be noted, however, that information collected by municipal or provincial police forces is not under the control of Justice Canada.

Information in the bank may be maintained in hard copy, on microfilm or other long-term storage medium, and in automated form in the Canadian Firearms Registration System (CFRS) and the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC). Classes of Individuals: Individuals who have applied for licences, registrations and other privileges under the firearms legislation and have been granted licences, refused or had privileges revoked; or have been prohibited from possessing firearms, ammunition or other explosive substance. Purpose: The administration and enforcement of firearms control legislation and regulations in Canada and at Canadian borders. Consistent Uses: Certain information in this bank may be used by domestic and foreign accredited law enforcement agencies in the enforcement and administration of the law and in the detection, prevention or suppression of crime. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank is retained for a minimum of ten years. Some information may be retained permanently pursuant to paragraph 83(1)(a) of the Firearms Act and subsection 4(2) if the Firearms Records Regulations or subsection 114(1) of the Criminal Code of Canada. Where the record has been designated as having archival or historical value, the record shall be transferred to the control of the National Archives of Canada; and where the record has not been so designated, it shall be destroyed. TBS Registration: 004480 Bank Number: JUS PPU 199

Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings

Description: This bank contains information obtained from the Registration of Divorce Proceeding Forms received from the various divorce registries in respect of the petitioner and the respondent, and includes all relevant personal information. Class of Individuals: Persons who filed for divorce in a Canadian court either in their individual capacity or through the lawyers who represent them. Purpose: The information in this bank is maintained for the purpose of informing the District Registrar of the various court offices of the existence or otherwise of pending divorce applications, thus settling jurisdictional issues pursuant to section 3 of the Divorce Act, 1985. In addition, statistical information is provided to Statistics Canada for the purpose of compiling marriage and divorce statistics for publication. Lastly, address information of the individuals or their lawyers is collected for the purpose of facilitating the mandatory pension credit-splitting legislation for spouses who divorce, a program which is administered by Human Resources Development under section 55.1 of the Canada Pension Plan. Retention and Disposal Standards: Textual records are retained for five years after divorce registration and machine-readable records are maintained actively for the life of the Divorce Registry program or for the length of time the Divorce Registry is administered by the Department of Justice. TBS Registration: 002274 Bank Number: JUS PPU 005

Civil Proceedings and Legal Services

Description: This bank contains information relating to civil legal proceedings and legal services provided to all federal departments and most government agencies and institutions. The information is used to provide legal advice and representation in a practice which ranges across many areas of law, including administrative, constitutional, debtor-creditor, employment, family, immigration, native and tax law, to name a few. The bank contains information relevant to the legal advice and representation provided, such as solicitor-client correspondence and related records. In legal proceedings of a civil nature in which the Crown in right of Canada, a Crown agency or a Crown servant is a party, including proceedings before administrative boards and tribunals, it includes documents such as written pleadings, briefs, appeal books, transcripts and statements of evidence, writs, opinions and related correspondence. The greater part of the information contained in the bank is obtained from other federal institutions, as authorized by sub-section 8(2)(d) of the Privacy act. Considering the sources of personal information compiled, the social insurance number (SIN) is in some cases part of the information transmitted by institutions authorized to collect it, such as in some cases involving the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency. Class of Individuals: Canadians, persons present in Canada, and persons who have been involved in civil litigation involving the federal government. Purpose: The material in this bank is retained to enable the Department to carry out its duties as legal advisor to the federal government. Retention and Disposal Standards: Civil litigation files are retained for 21 years after cessation of the legal action; records pertaining to other legal matters are retained for 30 years; and material of precedent value is retained for 35 years after a legal opinion is rendered and the file is closed. Files will be microfilmed and the copy kept permanently at the Department of Justice. PAC Number: 88-002 TBS Registration: 002704 Bank Number: JUS PPU 010

Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance

Description: This bank contains information on individuals who are in default of family support orders or agreements. It contains identifying information, as well as applications submitted by provincial authorities for tracing such persons, for the garnishment of federal payments owed to them, and for the denial or suspension of federally issued licences including passports. It also contains records of federal payments to such individuals that were diverted in compliance with a garnishee summons. The application form includes a request for the social insurance number (SIN) of the person being traced or garnished or whose licence is to be denied or suspended. Since the form is part of the regulations, this is a use authorized by statute and regulations. The Act and regulations also provide for the search of designated federal data banks for matching and compiling data. The designated banks are from the Department of Human Resources Development [Canada Pension Plan Record of Earnings; Canada Pension Plan Retirement and Survivors' Benefits (individuals); International Social Security-Domestic and Foreign Benefits-Computer Master Benefit Data; Record of Employment (Third Copy); Benefit and Overpayment Master File; Social Insurance Number Registration (HRDC/PPU/140, 146, 175, 385, 180 and 390)]; and from the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency [Taxation Taxpayer Master File; Information Returns (INFODEC) Data Bank (RC/PPU-040 and 150)]. Class of Individuals: Individuals who are in default of family support orders or agreements, or who are in violation of custody or access rights. Purpose: The information in this bank is maintained to carry out the Government of Canada's responsibilities under the Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act. The information is used to obtain addresses for use by authorized organizations, to comply with legal garnishee summonses served on the Crown and to deny or suspend federal licences. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained at the Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Unit Office for a period of 30 calendar years. Related to PR# : JUS PPR 030 TBS Registration: 001870 Bank Number: JUS PPU 125

Garnishment Registry

Description: This bank contains information on civil servants and contractors who are subject to garnishment of wages and other remuneration under the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act. It contains identifying information, financial information on the nature and amount of debts owed, the employment status of the civil servant or contractor, court orders, garnishment summonses and administrative documentation. Class of Individuals: Civil servants and contractors who are subject to garnishment of wages and other remuneration's under the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act. Purpose: To fulfill the Department of Justice's responsibility to administer the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records are retained for 21 years. TBS Registration: 003914 Bank Number: JUS PPU 150

Grants and Contributions Fund

Description: This data bank contains information on projects submitted for financial assistance or funded under the terms and conditions of the Department of Justice Grants and Contributions Fund. The Department of Justice administers a discretionary fund designed to promote and implement selected reforms in the justice system. Funds are available to individuals, Canadian or international non-profit organizations, provincial or territorial governments, regional or municipal governments, universities, bands and tribal councils for the development of short-term, non-recurrent initiatives. The bank contains project specific information including name and address of funding applicant, project description, time frames, financial data, etc. Class of Individuals: Individuals and members of private and government organizations who have submitted requests for financial assistance. Purpose: The information is used to evaluate the merits of the proposals and to monitor the progress of funded projects. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records are retained for ten years after the project has been superseded, rejected or completed. TBS Registration: 003918 Bank Number: JUS PPU 165

Information Disclosed Pursuant to Paragraph 8(2)(m) of the Privacy Act

Description: This bank contains copies of personal information disclosed pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(m) of the Privacy Act, as well as internal memoranda and correspondence with the Privacy Commissioner. Class of Individuals: Individuals whose personal information have been disclosed because the public interest in disclosure clearly outweighed any invasion of privacy that could have resulted from the disclosure, or because the disclosure clearly benefited the individual to whom the information relates. Purpose: The bank is used to record disclosures of personal information under paragraph 8(2)(m) of the Privacy Act and to report on the number of these requests. Retention and Disposal Standards: Material is retained for two years after the last action on file. TBS Registration: 003910 Bank Number: JUS PPU 145

Mailing List

This class of personal information contains the names and addresses of individuals who are on mailing lists to receive publications and other publicly available materials relating to departmental activities. The lists are used by all sectors of the Department and are updated on a continuing basis. The correspondence and request cards from individuals used for amending addresses and to add or delete individual names on mailing lists are retained until the mailing lists have been amended.

Management Effectiveness Survey (Upward Feedback)

This class of information contains employees' attitudes regarding management effectiveness with regards to work supervision, communications, training and development. The results of questionnaires serve as a catalyst to improve management practices within work units. Information from the questionnaires without respondent identifier is retrievable by location (client department) except for units having five employees or less, in which case the information is available by groups of three units without respondent identifier.

Subject Files and Routine Correspondence

Some departmental programs and activities result in the accumulation of personal information which is not contained in the personal information banks described above. This personal information is stored within subject files described as part of department's Information Holdings where records are not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information consists of enquiries concerning particular justice matters, as well as requests for publications and reports. The information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. Retention of this form of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Chapter 50

General Information

Background

The Department of the Environment was established by the Government Reorganization Act, 1970-71-72, ch. 42 on June 10, 1971. The Department, also known as Environment Canada, has as its primary duties renewable resources management and the protection of Canada's air, water and land resources. The departmental organization has three principal services: Environmental Protection which concentrates on response strategies and behavioural changes to prevent pollution of air, land and water ecosystems; Environmental Conservation which focuses on sustainable development of environmental resources; and Atmospheric Environment which focuses on integrated monitoring, atmospheric sciences, and services to Canadians.

The information holdings of the department are largely integrated and are often the product of more than one region or service. For example, Environmental Protection Service will benefit from science done in Environmental Conservation Service and Atmospheric Environment Service.

Responsibilities

The primary objective of the Department of the Environment is to preserve and enhance the quality of the environment for the benefit of present and future generations of Canadians. Departmental programs are designed to promote the establishment or adoption of objectives and standards relating either to environmental quality or pollution control, to ensure the wise management and use of renewable resources and to provide Canadians with environmental information in the public interest. As well, the department ensures that new federal projects, programs and activities are assessed early in the planning process for potentially adverse effects on the environment.

Organization

Meteorological Service of Canada

The Meteorological Service of Canada (MSC) delivers, with the regions, the Atmospheric Environment Program (AEP). AEP's main activities include services related to monitoring and forecasting air quality, weather, climate and ice conditions, and to monitoring of water quantity and quality. AEP also carries out research in atmospheric sciences to improve our understanding of the atmosphere and to help Canadians understand how they affect the environment.

While the regions are responsible for observation and most service production and delivery, MSC is responsible for AEP's overall direction and standards, for specialized services like ice services, for support services – for example, super-computing, forecast guidance, and climatological and hydrological data archiving – and for most atmospheric research. MSC is also responsible for international affairs, including relations with the World Meteorological Organization, program plans, and performance measurement. It contributes, through its science and activities such as science assessment, to the development of the department's policies dealing with the atmospheric environment.

The Meteorological Service of Canada consists of five directorates that strive toward providing Canadians – as citizens, clients or decision-makers – with enough information to enable them to make wise decisions about their health, their safety and the environment.

♦ Atmospheric and Climate Science

Working closely with Canadian universities and international scientific organizations, this directorate researches the mechanisms that control atmospheric and climate processes. This information is used to forecast atmospheric changes and help Canadians adapt to them, and to prevent or mitigate atmospheric catastrophes.

The Air Quality Research Branch does research on important atmospheric constituents such as ozone and greenhouse gases, and on atmospheric pollutants, such as acid rain, smog and toxics, and particulate matter, including their transport, deposition and transformation.

The Climate Research Branch does research on three main areas: producing numerical models to see how climate variations or the production of greenhouse gases will affect our climate in the future; monitoring and analyzing climates, principally in Canada and the Arctic; and examining climate processes, such as land-surface atmospheric exchanges, which are crucial in our ability to understand and simulate its evolution.

The Meteorological Research Branch does research to help the weather and environmental services program improve the accuracy and timeliness of its analyses and forecasts. It focuses on data assimilation and remote sensing, numerical weather prediction and physical atmospheric processes. It does so in close collaboration with the Canadian Meteorological Centre.

The Adaptation and Impacts Research Group looks at the socio-economic impacts of climate change and atmospheric pollution and develops adaptation strategies for Canadians.

The Science Assessment and Integration Branch produces full science assessments and other science-based documents pertaining to the atmospheric sciences relevant to selected air issues such as stratospheric ozone depletion, acid rain, ground-level ozone and particulate matter, and climate change. As well, the Branch uses the implications of the science assessments to mediate the development of appropriate policies, guidelines and objectives with a wide range of stakeholders, including provincial, federal and national policy-makers, industry representatives and environmental organizations.

♦ Atmospheric Environment Prediction Directorate

This Directorate provides leadership for all prediction activities of the Atmospheric Environment Program and is responsible for numerical weather prediction, national informatics and telecommunications. It includes four branches: National Prediction Programs and three others that form the Canadian Meteorological Centre (CMC) — Informatics, Operations and Development. The National Prediction Programs Branch leads and coordinates prediction programs among regional and central components. It also develops common approaches and promotes collaboration in the areas of production and dissemination systems and programs.

The Canadian Meteorological Centre provides forecast guidance to national and regional prediction centres. The Centre is responsible for the national telecommunications and data management systems and for the national meteorological and environmental predictions. CMC also co-ordinates national and international support to environmental emergencies. The Centre gathers, archives, analyses and disseminates data related to climate, stratospheric ozone, ultraviolet radiation and air quality. The CMC plays a primary role in technology transfer to regions. Some of the clients for this specialized information include Transport Canada (Nav Canada),

National Defense, other government departments and agencies, several airlines, the media and many private companies. It is made up of three branches:

The Informatics Branch provides centralized computing and telecommunications services to meet the Atmospheric Environment Programs' objectives, support other departmental operations, and assist other approved users. It operates and maintains the supercomputer facility in Dorval and various telecommunications networks.

The Operations Branch is responsible for the operation of the weather, climate and air quality programs at the Canadian Meteorological Centre, and for the national and international Environmental Emergency Response service.

The Development Branch ensures that research findings are transferred into the operations of the Canadian Environmental Forecasting Systems, develops systems and products for the Canadian Environmental Forecasting Systems, and advises senior managers on forecasting techniques and related infrastructure.

♦ Atmospheric Monitoring and Water Survey

This directorate provides national leadership to ensure that monitoring systems and related information services are provided to all Canadians. The directorate's goal is to ensure that nationally coherent, cohesive and cost-effective monitoring systems and related information services meet national and international standards and fulfill present and future user requirements.

The directorate is comprised of four branches and three divisions reporting to the Director General.

The National Weather and Climate Networks Branch provides functional leadership and coordination for the national weather and climate networks, strategic engineering and test and evaluation support.

The National Radar Project is responsible for the project management, coordination and implementation of the National Doppler Radar Plan (NRP). By the summer of 1999, seven Doppler Radars were in operation. By the year 2003, 30 Doppler Radars are planned to be in operation.

The Water Survey Branch provides functional leadership and coordination for water survey networks and hydrology programs.

The National Archives and Data Management Branch is responsible for the national archives, the provision of national climate services and related data management activities. This branch provides functional leadership, advice and coordination to ensure effective data management, life cycle management support systems and data access.

The Data Standards and Quality Management Division establishes performance standards and operating procedures, and manages related documentation. In addition, the division is responsible for monitoring network performance in real-time and for central coordination of problem response actions.

The National Weather and Climate Operations Division contributes to the sustainable operation of Canada's atmospheric monitoring networks by providing engineering and technical support and procurement services.

♦ Policy and Corporate Affairs

This directorate provides an ongoing assessment of the health of the Weather and Environmental Prediction program. This broad focus is reflected in the directorate's activities. International Affairs and relations with the planning and policy functions of Environment Canada are at its core. It also handles strategic capital planning and the overall stewardship of national standards and performance assessment reporting.

Through the planning process, this directorate helps to implement the changes resulting from the Alternative Service Delivery initiative and is also responsible for the Weather and Environmental Prediction Table and overall strategic planning with the regions.

The Business Planning and Development Branch provides planning support for the Weather and Environmental Predictions (WEP) program, including measuring program results to ensure they meet performance targets. The group also provides a program evaluation service for all national and regional components of WEP, and is the corporate secretariat for the Atmospheric Environment Service and WEP.

The Policy and International Affairs Branch ensures the WEP program is represented at international fora such as the World Meteorological Organization (WMO) and acts as a liaison for policy initiatives inside and outside Environment Canada that relate to WEP. The branch also handles ministerial correspondence and provides support for the ADM's corporate role.

The Strategic Capital Planning Branch oversees the administration and management of major capital investments related to WEP.

Special Projects' Senior Climatologist David Phillips studies climate in Canada and promotes awareness and understanding of weather and climate in our country. Mr. Phillips is well-known as a media spokesperson on weather and climate and for his WMO climate activities. He is the author of the popular Canadian Weather Trivia Calendar and The Climates of Canada as well as other books on meteorology.

The Climate Change Action Fund (CCAF) was established by the federal government to help Canada meet its commitments under the Kyoto Protocol to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. The CCAF is intended to support early actions to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and to increase understanding of the impact, the cost and the benefits of the Protocol's implementation and the various implementation options open to Canada.

One component of the Fund addresses Science, Impacts and Adaptation and is co-managed by EC (MSC) and Natural Resources Canada. Climate processes research, climate modeling and monitoring, impact studies and adaptation research are all supported.

♦ Services, Clients and Partners

This directorate focuses on the needs of clients and partners and acts as a conduit for communications between clients, partners and the Atmospheric Environment Program (AEP). It also provides direct services to major clients through the Canadian Ice Service and the Interagency Service Branch.

The Meteorological Services Branch focuses on the relationship with public good clients and ensures their perspective is represented in policies.

The Interagency Services Branch manages the relationship with National Defence and NAV CANADA, and coordinates national delivery of services to them.

The Canadian Ice Service Branch delivers services to the Canadian Coast Guard concerning the movement of ice processes. It does so in close collaboration with the Canadian Meteorological Centre.

The Specialized Clients and Partners Branch maintains contact with all cost-recovery clients and helps to develop and implement a cost recovery framework.

The Revenue Management Branch advises on major contract renewals and sets up a cost accounting system.

The Performance Monitoring and Standards Branch systematically monitors performance to ensure MSC is meeting its targets for quality service.

Corporate Secretariat

Briefing, Cabinet & Parliamentary Affairs.

Corporate Services

Administration, Corporate Management & Review, Finance and Systems & Informatics.

♦ Administration

Information Management (Access to Information and Privacy, Information Holdings, Library, and Records and Mail); Materiel and Contracting; Accommodation and Security; Environmental Operations for Governments; and Planning and Coordination.

♦ Corporate Management and Review

Operational Planning and Program Integration, Corporate Accounting and Review, Audit and Evaluation.

♦ Finance

Financial Planning and Resource Analysis; Financial Policy, Systems and Accounting; Service Financial Advisors.

♦ Systems and Informatics

IT Business Strategies, Business Systems Support and IT Operations.

Environmental Conservation Service

The goal of the Environmental Conservation Service (ECS) is to ensure that future generations of Canadians inherit a natural environment as rich as the one we enjoy today. Working with many partners – individual Canadians, other federal departments, environmental and community groups, Aboriginal peoples, industry, other levels of government, and international organizations. ECS focusses on three main things: wildlife conservation; science for decision-making; and ecosystem conservation. ECS consists of three directorates: Canadian Wildlife Service, Ecosystems and Environmental Resources Directorate and Ecosystems Science Directorate.

♦ Canadian Wildlife Service

The Canadian Wildlife Service manages domestic and international wildlife and biodiversity matters that are the responsibility of the federal government, such as management of migratory birds, endangered species, and conserving nationally significant habitat.

♦ Ecosystems and Environmental Resources Directorate

The Ecosystems and Environmental Resources Directorate provides strategic planning, information tools to support ecosystem and nature conservation, and provides leadership on nature conservation priorities including the Arctic and freshwater.

♦ Ecosystems Science Directorate

The Ecosystem Science Directorate promotes environmentally responsible decision-making by providing knowledge of ecosystem functions and processes, evaluating ecosystem health, developing guidelines, standards and indicators of environmental quality and communicating this information to Canadians. ESD also provides secretariat services to the departmental Science and Technology Management Committees.

Environmental Protection Service

The focus of the EPS mandate is on the assessment and management of risk associated with domestic and international sources of pollution. The range of activity is broad: assessment of substances and practices that pose a risk to the environment, development and implementation of environmental protection measures including pollution prevention, regulations, permits and technology advancement; and ensuring compliance with federal pollution and wildlife laws. These activities lead to improvements in environmental quality which helps to support the health of Canadians and their economic security. A large part of the EPS mandate involves carrying out environmental protection obligations under the Canadian Environmental Protection Act and the pollution prevention provisions of the Fisheries Act. EPS consists of five directorates: Air Pollution Prevention Directorate, Environmental Technology Advancement Directorate, National Programs Directorate, Strategic Priorities Directorate and Toxics Pollution Prevention Directorate.

♦ Air Pollution Prevention Directorate

The Air Pollution Prevention Directorate manages and coordinates pollution prevention activities for global air issues (climate change and ozone depletion), transboundary air issues (smog, acid rain, particulates, and hazardous air pollutants), pollution data (NPRI, greenhouse gases and conventional pollutants), transportation systems and related industries, and oil, gas and energy industries.

♦ Environmental Technology Advancement Directorate

The Environmental Technology Advancement Directorate helps protect the environment through Canadian science, technology and know-how.

♦ National Programs Directorate

The National Programs Directorate provides policy direction and coordination on Environment Canada's responsibilities for: environmental assessment; enforcement of pollution and wildlife regulations; promoting federal government compliance with environmental regulations; and emergency operations, prevention and preparedness.

♦ Strategic Priorities Directorate

The Strategic Priorities Directorate provides policy advice on matters of strategic interest to EPS including those related to interjurisdictional issues, and direction to the longer term planning and program integrity of EPS and the Clean Environment Business line.

♦ Toxics Pollution Prevention Directorate

The Toxics Pollution Prevention Directorate determines the issues and risks associated with toxics, takes action on persistent bioaccumulative toxics, and on other toxics and substances of concern.

Human Resources Directorate

Classification and Staff Relations

Classification; Policies, Procedures and Guidelines.

♦ Human Resources Management and Development

Human Resource Planning, Staffing and Work Force Adjustment, Continuous Learning, Official Languages.

♦ Human Resources Operations (NCR)

Service to all NCR Clients, Management of the Executive Group.

Policy & Communications

Policy and Communications helps define, promote and support Ministerial and departmental priorities, policy directions and helps ensure that the department presents these priorities in a consistent, coherent and coordinated manner within the federal government as well as nationally and internationally. It does this through a combination of communications and consultations, by coordinating and guiding environmental policy within the department and across government, and by representing departmental interests at national and international levels. Policy and Communications also coordinates specific programs which support and encourage environmentally friendly actions, and which promote the department's and the private sector's environmental expertise in the global market. Policy and Communications consists of the Climate Change Bureau and four directorates: Communications and Public Outreach Programs and Services Directorate, Economic and Regulatory Affairs Directorate, International Relations Directorate and Strategic Directions and Policy Coordination Directorate.

♦ Climate Change Bureau

The Climate Change Bureau reports jointly to the ADMs of Policy and Communications and the Environmental Protection Service, and is responsible for the overall coordination and direction of Environment Canada's involvement in climate change. Working closely with other parts of the department with key responsibilities on climate science, environmental science, air and toxic issues, international negotiations and communications, the Bureau is the lead for developing EC's policy positions and input to the development of the National Implementation Strategy and in supporting the Minister in his role as co-lead on the climate change file and on his specific lead responsibilities on climate change environmental policy, public outreach and the international agenda. The Bureau is the key point of contact for EC with the Climate Change Secretariat, other government departments, provinces, business, industry, ENGOs, and with other stakeholders with respect to climate change and manages the department's contribution to the national climate change process such as Joint Energy and Environment Ministers, National Air Issues Steering Committee, National Air Issues Coordinating Committee on Climate Change, and the 16 Issue Tables. The DG of the Bureau was co-chair of the Public Outreach Issue Table and has the lead federal responsibility on the development of the national public outreach strategy. The Bureau also is responsible for the development and ongoing management of the public outreach component of the Climate Change Action Fund on behalf of the federal government.

♦ Communications and Public Outreach Programs and Services Directorate

The Communications and Public Outreach Programs and Services Directorate plays a critical role in ensuring that Environment Canada connects with Canadians. It provides strategic communications advice and operational support to the Minister and senior management, and helps Canadians take an active role in the conservation and protection of our environment at the community level, through public outreach programs. Key communications responsibilities include strategic advice, media relations, electronic media monitoring, public opinion research, Ministerial speeches, events planning and the development of communications products and activities. In addition, the Directorate provides information to Canadians through the departmental Web site, called the Green Lane (www.ec.gc.ca), as well as the Public Inquiry Centre (1-800-668-6767). It also facilitates citizen engagement through public outreach programs such as EcoAction 2000 and the Millennium Eco-Communities (MEC) initiative.

♦ Economic and Regulatory Affairs Directorate (ERA)

The Economic and Regulatory Affairs Directorate provides policy, economic analysis and regulatory advice and support for environmental issues, strategic policy development and implementation. ERA fosters policy innovation in the area of economy-environment integration (trade, budget, economic instruments); contributes to policy priorities (e.g., climate change, international agenda); promotes sound regulatory development (regulatory impact assessments, regulatory reform); develops and applies economic analytical tools in support of policy development (e.g., cost and benefit models, valuation).

♦ International Relations Directorate

The International Relations Directorate provides strategic coordination and policy advice to ensure coherence between domestic and international policy and programs and also among international activities of the department. It also supports Environment Canada's, and in some cases the government's, involvement with United Nations organizations (United Nations Environment Program, Commission on Sustainable Development); the environment and sustainable development work of the OECD, APEC, etc.; the North American Commission on Environmental Cooperation (CEC); the International Institute for Sustainable Development (IISD); and G-8. The Directorate also manages key bilateral relations with countries such as U.S., China, Russia, Mexico, Chile and the European Union. It is also responsible, with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, for the development of Canada's international climate change strategy, negotiating positions with respect to climate change and representing Canada at international negotiations.

♦ Strategic Directions and Policy Coordination Directorate

The Strategic Directions and Policy Coordination Directorate assists the Minister and the department in defining policy objectives and priorities and identifies opportunities to advance these interests within the federal government. It plays a strong role in federal, provincial and Aboriginal relations and in consultations with key stakeholders and organizations. It works to ensure coherence and consistency in departmental and federal policy, particularly in areas related to sustainable development.

Information Holdings

Program Records

Meteorological Service of Canada

MSC HQ – Projects

Description: Information on satellite activity reports; data collection platforms; SDL Staffing; SDL GOES; Meso-met Network; Wind Energy Field Studies investigations. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 370

Communications – Computing Services

Description: Information on communications and communications-programming. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 470

Marine Meteorology

Description: Information on TOVS. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 355

Meso-meteorology

Description: Information on the Meso-met Network. Topics: Operation; data. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 360

Oil and Gas Exploration and Development

Description: Information on oil spill trajectories, freezing spray, ice and sea state models. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 415

MSC Headquarters – Projects Research

Description: Information on computerized and man-machine mix system; module component development and design; research data set development; also implementation and joint projects with forecast operations. Topics: Systems design for automated weather forecasting procedures; creation of research data sets for weather forecasting research. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 400

Meteorological Research

Description: Major areas of activity include numerical modelling of the atmosphere for the purpose of developing new weather forecast techniques and improving existing ones (from short to extended range); data assimilation and satellite meteorology with a focus on the development of techniques for both quantitative application of operational satellite data to weather forecasting and making use of new satellite data; and atmospheric processes research studies of the interactions of airborne pollutants with clouds and precipitation, and the utilization of Doppler radar to recognize severe weather and its precursors.

Program Record Number: ENV MSC 460

Research – Air Quality

Description: Information on air quality, pollutant transport, dispersion, chemical transformations, and deposition, monitoring and the development of measurement techniques, modelling, and field and laboratory experimental studies. Topics: Acid rain, toxic chemicals, photochemical smog, stratospheric ozone, and greenhouse gases. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 315

Research – Climate

Description: Information on climate, circulation modelling (numerical modelling of the general circulation of the atmosphere, ocean, land surface, and cryosphere) with special interest on modelling ocean circulation, the middle atmosphere, and regional-scale systems; climate processes research conducted into the study of the energy and water cycle, surface processes, precipitation-runoff relationships, and climate-cryosphere interactions; and climate variability and change, and extreme and anomalous events. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 455

Research – Environmental Adaptation

Description: Information on research to improve understanding of socio-economic and ecosystem impacts of atmospheric change and to generate knowledge that will help to improve decision-making and facilitate adaptive response; integrated climate impact assessment at regional (Mackenzie Basin, Great Lakes) and national (Canada Country Study) scales is an important focus. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 325

Research Management and Policy

Description: Information on meteorological, environmental adaptation and other related environmental and technological research and development; research and related support activities of a general management nature – decisions and large-scale agreements; special problems of the Arctic; training for research and grants for research outside the federal government which support the objectives and policies for climate and atmospheric research in Canada; mechanisms for better transfer of technology to and from government research laboratories; contracting-out of federal research and development; relationship with the Canadian Space Program. Topics: Agreements; treaties; studies; committees; plans and programs; fellowships; training and development; grants; unsolicited proposals; contracting; technology transfer. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 310

◆ Atmospheric Environment Prediction Directorate

Communications – Facsimile

Description: Information on Satellite Data Laboratory Operations. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 330

Data Acquisition

Description: Information on land surface networks; upper air and aerological networks; Voluntary Observing Ship Program; remote sensing; environmental network. Topics: Station classification; site information; meteorological and aerological instruments; codes; data standards; data reduction; quality assurance; equipment supply; development and testing; lists of ships participating; satellite ground stations; APT, weather radar; signal processing; data transmissions; maintenance; plans and policies. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 440

Data Acquisition Networks

Description: Information on atmospheric environment operations, overall policy, operational performance, procedures and standards. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 480

Forecast Procedures

Description: Information on meteorological models, procedures and techniques in support of forecast production. Topics: Maps, charts and forms; satellite operations; plans and programs. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 430

Hemispheric Observations

Description: Observed data, hemispheric surface synoptic reports. Storage Medium: Coded forms. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 450

Meteorology Aviation

Description: Information on the Rockcliffe STOL Project. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 350

Telecommunications

Description: Operational, alpha-numeric and facsimile information distributed by dedicated or dial-up communication lines. Topics: Facsimile contracts; installations; procedures; traffic; teletype contracts – installations, procedures, traffic; computer aspects. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 425

Weather Forecast

Description: Digital information about global observational data sets (1992-present), digital gridpoint information about global analyses (1983-present) and forecasts (selected fields for last 5 years), and about regional analyses and forecasts (selected fields for last 5 years), of heights, temperature and moisture on mandatory pressure levels (currently 16 levels from 1000-10 hPa) as well as several surface based fields. The information is kept online in real time and then a subset is stored on digital tape. There are digital archives of weather maps and bulletins issued as well as historical records of verification statistics. There are microfilms of weather maps (1957-March, 1994) of hemispheric analyses of the surface, 850, 700, and 500 hPa levels.

Storage Medium: Microfilm, digital tapes. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 445

♦ Atmospheric Monitoring and Water Survey

Canadian National Climate Archive

Description: The National Climatological Archive (NCA) contains data sufficient to define the general climate of Canada. Data are retained in three forms – paper, microform and digital. This archive contains the majority of the long-term atmospheric data collected in Canada. The Digital portion of the archive contains data from about 6000 stations from all provinces and territories of Canada. About half are currently active stations. Data covers the period from 1840 to present. Topics: Climatological data; data elements include temperature and precipitation, plus a number of other meteorological parameters such as winds, humidity, solar radiation, snow depth and soil temperature. Elements include monthly means daily climate parameters, and hourly elements. The archive also contains upper air information, ozone measurements, and air quality data. Access: On-line interactive access to National Climate database; also computer print-outs, copies of original paper documents, microfiche, digital diskette and CD-ROM through DOE regional climate services offices and DOE MSC Headquarters – Climate Information Branch. Storage Medium: Computer database, microfiche, paper documents. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 550

Instruments

Description: Information on Aeromet Facility Instrumentation. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 345

Instruments and Instrument Systems

Description: Information on instruments; general, humidity, evaporation, precipitation, marine, physical phenomena, pressure, radiation, atmospheric sounding wind. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 485

Radar

Description: Information on the MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 375

Satellites

Description: Information on satellite programs. Topics: Cost recovery; staffing the SKL; ICS Submission; MSC Satellite Programs; SDL Operations; NOSS; SURSAT. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 380

Water Quality Management Data

Description: Information and interpretive reports on the quality of surface and ground waters based on analysis of samples; information on field surveys and analytical methods, and on quality control; water quality guidelines for protection of uses, and water quality objectives for specific surface waters. It does not include water quality objective work done under specific international or federal-provincial basin studies, nor research related to water quality management. Topics: Water pollution, water quality surveys, analytical methods, quality of surface waters, rain water and snow water quality, water quality guidelines, water quality monitoring programs. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and title in the national and regional ENVIRODAT databases. Storage Medium: On-line in the national and regional ENVIRODAT database. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 185

Water Quantity Management Data

Description: Information on data collection, hydrometric and water levels, and sediment, as well as the management and operation of data systems and interpretive reports. These data include data collection under specific international or federal-provincial water management or planning studies and data collection carried out as an integral part of other studies. Topics: Gauging stations, international gauging stations, gauging stations inventory, hydrometric investigations, hydrologic interpretive and analytical reports, sediment links to water quality, sediment surveys, remote sensing, watershed research, tidal gauge records, tidal surveys. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location, river and site location with interactive online access to the national databases HYDAT AND HYDEX. Storage Medium: Computer print-outs, microfiche, CD-ROM, online database. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 200

Contracts – Satellites

Description: Information on contracts for satellite systems; also contracts for satellite research and development – TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 335

Ice

Description: Information on regional ice models. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 410

Ice Information, Consultation and Advice

Description: Information on ice forecasting and services, ice research, climatology and Observing Program (reconnaissance). Program Record Number: ENV MSC 465

Ice Observing Programs – Reconnaissance

Description: Information on verification of satellite data. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 340

Meteorology Training

Description: Information on professional training, development, technical training in meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 475

Weather Service

Description: Information on RAINSAT. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 385

Weather Service – Air Transportation

Description: Information on MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 390

Weather Services

Description: Information on policies, standards, procedures and guidance concerning the provision of weather services. Topics: General weather services; public weather services; air, marine and road transportation; agriculture; forestry; climatology; preflight weather information service; radio and television broadcasting; scientific support units; weather service outlets. Program Record Number: ENV MSC 435

Environmental Conservation Service

♦ Canadian Wildlife Service

Aboriginal People

Description: Information and correspondence on native harvest surveys comprehensive land claims and self-government issues. Topics: Hunting and fishing rights, treaties, acts and regulations, Council of Yukon Indians, Inuit, Naskapi, Western Arctic Inuit – COPE, Nunavut, Gwich'in and Sahtu Dene/Metis, Labrador Inuit, Innu Nation of Labrador, Makivik Offshore, Nisga'a Treaty (B.C.). Access: Files are arranged by name of individual. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 115

Biodiversity

Description: Information on biodiversity conservation and the sustainable use of biological resources. Topics: Wide range of biodiversity related issues including Agenda 21, agriculture, biotechnology, business and economy, ecosystems, education, extinction, fisheries, forestry, wildlife and endangered species, genetic resources, parks and protected areas, population and consumption, and sustainable development. Also, includes national and international biodiversity strategies. Access: Files are arranged by subject and listed by author or subject. Available at the Biodiversity Convention Office (BCO). Program Record Number: ENV ECS 125

Canadian Biodiversity Strategy

Description: Supporting documentation for Canadian Biodiversity Strategy and the Convention on Biological Diversity. Topics: Reports on ten expert focus groups convened to provide input into the CBS; a compilation of recommendations relevant to biodiversity already being undertaken by governments; an inventory of current government policies, programs and legislation relevant to biodiversity; and preparatory documentation for the drafting of the convention on Biological Diversity. Access: Available at the Biodiversity Convention Office. Storage Medium: Inventory information is available on computer database. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 130

Ecological Applications Research

Description: Information on production of nationally consistent spatial data on the ecological characteristics and resource potentials of land, dissemination of scientific knowledge, methods and techniques used for surveying and classifying land, including wetlands, by ecological characteristics, for assessing resource potentials, impacts and hazards and for increasing knowledge of land and land/water process linkages of concern in environmental management; assessment of potential climate change of the vegetative and land base of Canada and consequent implications for resource management. Topics: General correspondence; public awareness; inter-regional projects; wetlands and acid rain sensitivity; climate change; Canada Committee on Ecological Areas. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 160

Federal Policy on Wetland Conservation

Description: Information on the roles and responsibilities of federal agencies, commitments of federal government and strategies to promote wetland conservation nationally and internationally; the development and assessment of federal projects affecting wetlands; analysis and advice to provincial and territorial jurisdictions with regard to wetland policy development; implementation of national and international wetland programs with partner agencies; interaction with North American Waterfowl Management Plan; provision of advice to the public, Parliament and Minister on the Policy and other initiatives affecting wetland conservation; development of selection criteria for Ramsar sites; publications and public and scientific events on wetland and habitat conservation. Topics: Biodiversity conservation, Ministerial enquiries; Ramsar Convention on Wetlands of International Importance; policy advice to federal agencies. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 500

Habitat Conservation

Description: Information on habitat strategies, plans and data banks; research on habitat impacts from exotic species and land use changes; resource strategies and methodologies to monitor habitat changes/impacts; provision of land management services and advice to federal departments and agencies responsible for administering federal lands located in the provinces or specially dedicated lands located in the territories. National co-ordination of Ramsar Convention and delivery of Federal Policy on Wetland Conservation. Topics: Habitat planning and management; resource management data; federal land data; public awareness; policy research and coordination; Canada Committee on Ecological Areas. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 165

Migratory Bird Surveys

Description: Information on the biometry of migratory birds. Topics: Migratory game birds hunting permits; waterfowl harvest; breeding bird surveys; data processing. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 105

National Wildlife Areas and Migratory Bird Sanctuaries

Description: Public information and correspondence at all levels, concerning policies and regulations that govern land use activities on these designated nationally significant wildlife habitat areas. Activities also include development of selection criteria for both terrestrial and marine areas, consultation and development of management plans, progress reporting and scientific research and data collection. Topics: Agreements; policy; regulations; rentals; leases. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 135

North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP)

Description: Information on the development, coordination and planning of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP). Topics: Joint ventures; implementation agreements (multilateral, internal); NAWMP committees; long-term and annual work plans; funding arrangements; communications and general correspondence. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 170

Ornithology

Description: Information on all aspects of migratory birds and their conservation. Topics: Migratory Birds Convention Act and Regulations; waterfowl hunting; North American Waterfowl Management Plan; bird banding programs; reports, studies and surveys; sanctuaries; migratory bird sanctuaries regulations; damage to crops by birds; Canadian Landbird Conservation Strategy; songbirds, seabirds, shorebirds; permits; research on species; use of birds; waterfowl kill statistics; waterfowl populations; breeding ground survey; breeding bird survey; brood production survey; waterfowl status reports. Correspondence with provinces, United States Fish and Wildlife Service; Mexico; and states on migratory birds and their conservation. Access: Files are arranged by name and geographic locations. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 120

Technology Development – Wastewater

Description: Information on development and demonstration of waste water pollution control technology; technology development assistance programs; technical training; technology transfer; program planning and evaluation. Topics: Program planning and evaluation; technology assistance program; waste water technology. Access: Files are arranged by company. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 265

Transboundary Wildlife

Description: Public information and correspondence on the proposal to explore for and develop potential oil and gas reserves in the sensitive coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in northeast Alaska. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 575

Wildlife Management

Description: Information on the federal participation and responsibilities in the management of wildlife. Topics: Endangered species conservation; endangered species legislative development; Committee on the Status of Wildlife in Canada; Recovery of Nationally Endangered Wildlife; Endangered Species Recovery Funds; transboundary wildlife; Porcupine Caribou Management Agreement; Convention on the International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES); Wild Animal and Plant Protection and Regulation of International and Interprovincial Trade Act (WAPPRIITA); Canada Wildlife Act; Conservation of Arctic Flora and Fauna; Humane Trapping; Federal-Provincial Agreements; Correspondence on wildlife conservation issues. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 150

Wildlife Toxicology

Description: Information and advice on the impacts of pesticides and pest control practices, environmental contaminants and other toxic substances on birds, other vertebrates wildlife (but not fish) and their habitats and foods (biodiversity). Topics: Predicting and evaluating wildlife effects of toxic substances for support of environmental conservation and protection policy and regulation development. Research to establish cause-effect relationships for toxic substances and wildlife, to identify toxic substances in the environment and their sources, to develop and apply assessment methodology including modelling and tests methods, and to select indicators of environmental quality and health of wildlife. Wildlife disease issues and federal contact point with the Canadian Cooperative Wildlife Health Centre. Biomonitoring of contaminant trends and effects in wildlife in Arctic, Great Lakes-St. Lawrence, Marine and other Canadian ecosystems. Laboratory services for measurement of selected contaminant residues, biomarkers and bioassays and quality assurance management. National Specimen Bank of more than 30,000 frozen specimens (mainly birds) dating from around 1970 and specimen preservation technology. National database of toxic chemicals residues in wildlife (primarily birds). Contaminants in waterfowl and wildfoods for human consumption. Access: By subject. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 145

◆ Ecosystems and Environmental Resources Directorate

Canada-United States and Interjurisdictional Waters

Description: Information on activities carried out under specific Canada-United States agreements or arrangements such as investigative, control, or surveillance board activities for the International Joint Commission (IJC) or in other bilateral Canada-United States situations; studies and implementation programs under formal federal-provincial arrangements; and Canada-United States activities on shared river basins. Data collection and research carried out as a part of any of these formal arrangements are included as well as specific federal-provincial agreements required to carry out Canada's obligations in boundary waters (the Canada-Ontario Agreement on Great Lakes Water Quality) and interprovincial arrangements (Prairie Provinces Water Board). Information is also available on water use for selected years and geographic areas. Topics: Great Lakes connecting channels, Great Lakes programs and studies, International and Interprovincial Waters, Prairie Waters, Lake of the Woods, Ottawa River Regulation.

Access: Files are arranged by subject and project title; many reports are referenced in AQUAREF. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 175

Ecosystem Initiatives

Description: Ecosystem Initiatives are partnership programs that have been put in place over the past ten years to address environmental, economic and social challenges in targeted geographic areas across Canada. They focus on issues involving air and water quality, resource use, human health and nature in an integrated manner responding to the unique problems of particular ecosystems and the unique needs of communities.

Program Record Number: ENV ECS 210

Flood Damage Reduction

Description: Information on all activities under federal-provincial flood damage reduction agreements, including flood risk mapping, construction of physical flood control works, and flood forecasting; policy development, data collection (hydrometric and other data collection purposes) carried out as an integral part of these agreements, and guidelines or methodology development and information programs directly in support of the program. Topics: Floods, flood damage reduction, floodplain mapping, designations. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location, annual reports and project title; a FDRP website is available: www.ec.gc.ca/water/en/manage/flood/e\_cont.htm.

Knowledge Integration

Description: Expert advice on the variety of information technologies and other electronic tools that are available for the management, integration and dissemination of scientific information and knowledge, and for consultation with the public and decision makers. Research and development into the efficacy of a number of different technologies, including geographic information systems, database management systems, animation and visualization applications, Internet and Intranet applications, multimedia, decision support systems. Applications developed for the specific needs of ECS and departmental staff. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 405

Sustainable Development

Description: Implementation of departmental sustainable development strategy; analysis of links between environment resources and economic development in policy and programs development; analysis of success stories of sustainable development as models for further development. Responsibilities include provision of scientific and technical advice to other departments, governments and organizations, domestically and internationally, with respect to sustainable development.

Topics: Sustainable development; wetlands policy; environment/economy integration; success stories of sustainable development; Canada's reports to the United Nations Commission on Sustainable Development.

Program Record Number: ENV ECS 155

Water Management Research

Description: Information on water resource research, including the study of the impact of pollutants and nutrients on the environment, sediment composition, water quality and quantity modelling, groundwater quality and sub-surface disposal of wastes, pathways, fate and effects of pollutants, dispersion and energy transfer processes in lakes and rivers, urban runoff processes, ice dynamics, hydrological forecasting, groundwater movement, biological and chemical techniques for water quality analysis, snow and ice hydrology, glacier dynamics, sociological, geographical, legal, institutional and economic aspects of water management. Also included is research management and coordination and research contracts. Topics: Groundwater; groundwater quality; ice river breakup; new analytical techniques; improved methodologies for aquatic studies; predictive technique on models for toxic substances; pathways and fate of pollutants; hydraulic variables; droughts; floods; climatic changes; restoration of lakes and polluted waters. Access: Files are arranged by subject and location. Most information is readily available. Storage Medium: Diskette, CD and electronic spreadsheet file. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 205

Water Pollution Programs

Description: Information on federal/provincial programs; pollution control in coastal areas; International Joint Commission programs; data management; Arctic water programs coordination; program evaluation; interservice and interagency program coordination; program planning and development. Topics: Program coordination and evaluation; coastal zone; data management and analysis. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 270

Atmospheric Transported Contaminants

Description: Research to investigate ecosystem-scale aquatic effects resulting from regional stressors such as the long-range transport of acidifying and persistent organic pollutants; information assessing aquatic ecosystem contaminants and their distribution, determining and modeling the factors controlling ecosystem responses (including pollutant fate and cycling), detecting and predicting trends, evaluating (with others) the environmental health of aquatic ecosystems, and providing technical advice to environmental managers. Topics: Great Lakes, Acid Rain Hazardous Air Pollutants and Arctic programs of Environment Canada and Northern Contaminants Program of Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development (DIAND). Program Record Number: ENV ECS 680

Ecosystem Health Objectives and Indicators

Description: Information on integration of social, environmental and economic factors in developing objectives and indicators to enhance, protect and sustain the health of Canadian ecosystems. Topics: Ecosystem approach; a framework for developing ecosystem health goals, objectives and indicators: tools for Ecosystem-Based Management. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 495

Effects of Toxic Substances

Description: Information on techniques to screen and assess priority substances and effluents for their potential to cause effects on aquatic biota, chemicals responsible for physiological and reproductive impacts, information to measure and predict exposure to a wide variety of contaminants in support of various national and regional ecosystem programs, e.g., CEPA, TSMP, EEM and Great Lakes 2000; assessments of priority substances and their impacts on the survival, growth and reproduction of biota. Future emphasis will shift toward the development of techniques to screen chemicals, effluents and environmental samples for physiological and reproductive impairment in aquatic biota, including fish and higher organisms. The development of methods to isolate and identify chemicals responsible for biological impacts in the environment will lead to the remediation of contaminated products, effluents and sites. More accurate prediction of exposure and effects of contaminants will greatly enhance our ability to assess their environmental hazard. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 675

Environmental Effects Monitoring

Description: Information on potential adverse effects in aquatic environments from point source discharges. The information/scientific data generated is used to assess the adequacy of regulations and other pollution control approaches (e.g. for the Canadian pulp and paper industry), to aid in the development and assessment of environmental protection policies (e.g. for metal mining industry) and to provide benchmarks for Canadian industry in demonstrating their environmental stewardship. Topics: Environmental effects of industrial discharges (pulp and paper, mining, etc.); National EEM Database; Science-based decision-making; Expert working groups; Technical guidance document development; National coordination. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 640

Environmental Quality Guidelines

Description: Information on national science-based guidelines/standards for soil quality, water quality, sediment quality and tissue quality to protect and sustain terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems and their beneficial uses; scientific assessments of toxic substances;

national protocols. Topics: Environmental effects of toxic substances; National environmental quality guidelines and protocol publications including Canadian Water Quality Guidelines for the protection of raw drinking water quality, recreational water quality, aquatic life, livestock water, and irrigation water; Sediment Quality Guidelines for the protection of aquatic life and wildlife; Tissue Quality Guidelines for the protection of aquatic life and wildlife; and soil quality guidelines for agricultural, residential/parkland, commercial and industrial land uses; guidance for setting site-specific environmental quality objectives; ecological risk assessment guidance. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 490

Groundwater Assessment and Remediation

Description: Research to assess and to develop techniques to remediate contaminated groundwater resources in Canada; information on the process of contaminant transport and transformation in a variety of groundwater environments; information on new techniques for isolating or remediating existing groundwater contamination; research on the role played by groundwater in regional water budgets and wetlands to support regional activities within Environment Canada such as the Great Lakes 2000 program, the Atlantic Coastal Action Program and the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA); research in the areas of groundwater/wetlands interactions and the contaminant hydrogeology of fractured media. New research will emphasize remediation of both nonaqueous and aqueous phase contamination in complex groundwater environments and the characterization of groundwater resources in relation to climate change. Emphasis will be placed on the development of user-friendly software packages for hydrogeological applications. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 685

Hydrological and Ecological Impacts of Atmospheric Change on Aquatic Ecosystems

Description: Research to develop a predictive understanding of how climate change influences the hydrologic and chemical cycles at regional and local scales, and, subsequently, how it affects the structure and function of aquatic ecosystems, particularly in northern environments; and to develop improved indicators, models and integrated assessment techniques for more accurate prediction of climate change impacts on the hydrology and ecology of aquatic ecosystems. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 660

Impact of Increased UV-B Radiation on Aquatic Ecosystems

Description: Information to assess and predict the impacts of atmospheric ozone depletion (enhanced ground level ultraviolet radiation fluxes) on aquatic ecosystems; the impacts of UV-B on algal photosynthesis, bacterial growth, dissolved organic matter and forest stream ecosystems. Particular emphasis is directed at wetlands and prairie lakes. Research into UV-B effects on the impact on wetlands; information on the national Atmospheric Change – Ozone Depletion/UV-B initiative; research to determine the relationships among the biogeochemical changes occurring within aquatic ecosystems, particularly wetlands; UV-B-related research with other government and university scientists. Increased focus will be directed towards wetlands, carbon cycle dynamics, and the quantification of direct-dose response of aquatic organisms to manipulated radiation fields. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 665

Indicators, Monitoring and Assessment

Description: Information on environmental indicators and for indicators of sustainable development, on standardizing the indicator data management procedures, and on streamlining and institutionalizing the indicator reporting process; coordinates the Ecological Monitoring and Assessment Network (EMAN) and provides protocols for ecological monitoring; maintains the national ecological framework and promote enhancements and applications; provides and maintains the electronic SOE infobase infrastructure; and provides guidance and expert advice on the SOE content of assessments. Storage Medium: Reports, maps, diskettes, electronic data base, Internet. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 700

Lake Assessment and Remediation

Description: Research to assess and remediate highly degraded aquatic ecosystems including large lakes, such as the Great Lakes, to smaller water bodies, including riverine lakes and reservoirs, to wetlands. The main focus is on the Areas of Concern (AOCs) in the Great Lakes and the development and implementation of Remedial Action Plans (RAPs) and on the development of Lakewide Management Plans (LAMPs) for the most degraded Great Lakes (Erie and Ontario), under the Great Lakes Action Plan. Research to provide knowledge and advice to the Great Lakes 2000 program on Lakewide Management Plans, and Remedial Action Plans. Increasing effort will be directed to efforts such as the PSL-2 (CEPA) national study on nutrients in the environment. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 690

Land Use Impacts: Forestry, Agriculture, Mining, Energy and Waste Management

Description: Research on land-use stressors such as forestry, agriculture, mining, energy development, waste management and urbanization, addressing the complex interactions between hydrological processes and ecological responses. Information to identify the impacts of such stresses on the health and sustainability of Canada's ecosystems and to foster sustainable development of Canadian resources through development of science-based best practices. The work supports Environment Canada mandates: e.g., the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA), Priority Substance List (PSL) regulations, and the Biodiversity Convention. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 655

Science Policy

Description: Information on Environment Canada's contribution to federal science policy; science policy expertise and support. Topics: ADM Committee for the Management of S&T, ADM Committee on Northern S&T, ADM Committee on the Four Natural Resource Departments MOU on S&T for Sustainable Development, and the ADM Steering Committee on the Management of Federal S&T Human Resources. The other chief focus of the Division's work is Environment Canada's S&T Management System, S&T Executive Committee, the S&T Management Committee, and the Deputy Minister's R&D Advisory Board, the Science Forum, the panel on Energy Research and Development. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 645

Sediment Assessment and Remediation

Description: Research to assess sediment quality and toxicity, leading to remediation of contaminated sediments. Multidisciplinary studies are carried out on the effects of sediment associated nutrients, organic chemicals and metals in aquatic ecosystems. New techniques are developed and tested to treat in-situ contaminated sediments, involving bench and pilot scale operations. Knowledge generated from the research is used to support programs such as Great Lakes Action Plan, Fraser River Management Plan, CEPA and Environment Canada regional activities. Research relevant to the assessment of contaminated sediment quality and remediation. Development of techniques for safe disposal of metal rich wastes. Studies of mercury methylation under different environmental conditions. Negotiations for full-scale treatment of contaminated sites for oil, PAHs or odour will continue while other treatments, such as metal fixation and sediment stabilization, are being studied. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 695

Sources and Fate of Toxic Substances

Description: Research on fundamental mechanisms governing the persistence and fate of toxic chemicals in aquatic environments to assess the hazards posed by toxic chemicals released to the aquatic environment; scientific information to support decision making for the Toxic Substances Management Policy (TSMP), the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA), the Pest Control Products Act (PCPA), the regional ecosystems programs, and ecosystem indicators; research on the occurrence, pathways and fate of present and future priority toxic substances in aquatic ecosystems; information on biological effects, especially the determination of chronic exposure to toxic chemicals (e.g., genotoxicity, reproductive toxicity, immunotoxicity, neurotoxicity, thyroid toxicity, etc.); priority substance assessment programs; advice to Environment Canada management; methods of destruction of toxic chemicals by physical, chemical, photochemical and biological means. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 670

Urbanization

Description: Information on large-scale aquatic ecosystems impacted by stresses from non-point sources of pollution from agriculture, industry and urban developments; the development of water management plans for large regional ecosystems, such as those studied under the Fraser River Action Plan (FRAP) and the Great Lakes 2000 Plan; research on non-point source contaminant pathways and controls in large ecosystems, sustainable sectors and technology transfer to the Canadian environmental industry. Research Topics: transport of pesticides and nutrients in soil, vegetation and water; fine sediment trapping by vegetated channels and flood plains; flows over porous boundaries; initiation of sediment transport in steep channels; floc and contaminant-binding mechanisms; roles of flocculation mechanisms and biofilms in sediment/contaminant transport; advanced Best Management Practices for controlling stormwater impacts on receiving waters; and development of designer flocs for environmental industry applications. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 650

Environmental Protection Service

Acid Rain

Description: Development and implementation of the Canada Wide Acid Rain Strategy for Post-2000; development of federal/provincial agreements to implement the Strategy; and development of and support to international agreements. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 235

Hazardous Air Pollutants

Description: Negotiation of international agreements on persistent organic pollutants and heavy metals, development of federal/provincial/territorial strategies and plans for implementing Canada's commitments under international agreements, reporting on progress in meeting international commitments. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 280

National Pollutant Release Inventory (NPRI)

Description: Collecting, analyzing and reporting on-site releases, offsite transfers in waste, and off-site transfers for recovery, re-use and recycling, and energy recovery of 176 pollutants from more than 1900 individual facilities on an annual basis; and estimating releases for other sectors such as fuel distribution and mobile sources; and reporting on releases from individual point sources. Topics: National Pollutant Release Database; National Pollution Release Inventory Summary Report. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 565

Oil, Gas and Energy

Description: Development, promotion and implementation of programs, standards and regulations for the control of releases from the oil, gas and energy sectors and from the use of the products produced by the sectors. Examples of standards of guidelines developed include emission standards for boilers, stationary combustion turbine, storage tanks and gasoline distribution systems. Recent regulations include regulations on benzene and on sulphur in gasoline. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 420

Stratospheric Ozone

Description: Implementation of Canada's commitments under international programs, negotiation of international agreements, and achievement of domestic phase-out targets; EC's contribution to the Montreal Protocol and the Multilateral Fund. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 570

Transportation Systems

Description: Dealing with the assessment of the environmental impact of transportation systems in Canada and internationally and developing policies, programs and regulations aimed at mitigating the impact. Working with other government departments, vehicle and fuels industries, provincial and municipal governments and the environmental community. Addressing a broad array of issues such as tougher vehicle emissions standards, alternative fuels, inspection and maintenance programs, urban transit and public education. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 510

Urban Smog

Description: Development and implementation of action plans and negotiation of federal/provincial and international agreements; completion of the 1990 Phase 1 NOx/VOC Management Plan and implementation of Phase 2 Federal Smog Plan initiatives; emission guidelines, and fuel standards related to creation of smog precursors. Completion of a Phase 3 Federal Smog Plan and negotiation of Canada-Wide Standards for PM and Ground-level Ozone. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 260

◆ Environmental Technology Advancement Directorate

Building Technologies and Environmental Systems

Description: All activities which contribute directly to the daily operation, recapitalization or modernization of service owned special purpose facilities. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 630

Environmental Monitoring

Description: All activities which support the quantification and geographical location of releases of pollutants into all media in the environment including programs such as the National Air Pollution Surveillance (NAPS) Network, Greenhouse Gases from Municipal Landfills, Light and Heavy Duty Engine Emission Testing, and Construction Equipment Retrofit and Emissions Testing. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 525

Environmental Research, Technology and Support

Description: All activities which support the development of methods, regulations, guidelines and standards to measure, prevent, control and manage toxics in air, water and soil including stationary and mobile source emissions, contaminated sites, oil and chemical spills, hazardous wastes, and wastewater. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 620

Environmental Science and Technology Centres of Expertise

Description: All activities at the Environmental Technology Centre and Wastewater Technology Centre which support the service and department in specialized technical and research and development such as technologies for the measurement of air pollutants in ambient air and from mobile and stationary sources; the analysis of organic and inorganic components in diverse sample matrices; the assessment, management and remediation of leaking hazardous waste and other contaminated sites; the prevention and response to pollution emergencies such as oil and chemical spills; and the assessment, evaluation and optimization of wastewater treatment plants. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 625

Program on Energy Research and Development

Description: Research activities: efficient energy use, in the areas of combustion efficiency, heat management and cross-sectoral energy efficiency technologies applicable to a broad range of industries, processes and energy sources; energy and climate change: understanding the role of greenhouse gases (GHG) in climate change, especially CO<sub>2</sub> in the sea, air and biota in, and surrounding, Canada; and, technologies for GHG capture and disposal; hydrocarbons and the environment: research addresses remediation and prevention technologies in atmospheric, marine and terrestrial environments; sustainable/renewable energy sources including bioenergy, small and large hydro, solar energy, wind and hydrogen from renewable resources; and sustainable transportation, including reducing energy demand, improving efficiency, and preparing for long-term sustainable transportation through advanced power systems and an eventual hydrogen-electricity energy economy. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 635

Technology Transfer and Capacity Building

Description: All activities which support the transfer of technology and build of capacity in the community, government and industry domestically and globally including programs such as Good Laboratory Practices, Multilateral Fund of the Montreal Protocol, Green Corps, Environmental Technology Verification, Climate Change Technology, Environmental Technology Trade Missions, Memoranda of Understanding on Environmental Cooperation, International Environmental Youth Corps, Technology Partnerships Canada, Environmental Technology Loan Program, Consultant Trust Fund for the Global Environmental Facility, and Publications. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 615

♦ National Programs Directorate

Emergencies Operations

Description: Operate a 24 hour, 7 day a week national environmental emergencies hotline for Environment Canada. Coordinate the provision of support and technical advice on the environmental aspects of emergencies. Provide statistical information on spills obtained from historical spill report data. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 590

Emergencies Preparedness

Description: Activities such as inter-agency arrangements and contingency plans which contribute directly to increasing the capacity of responders and advisors to prepare for and mitigate the effects of environmental emergencies. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 595

Emergencies Prevention

Description: Activities to prevent and reduce the frequency, severity and consequences of sudden or unplanned releases of hazardous substances (risk management). These activities are generic and not associated with a specific incident. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 285

Environmental Assessment

Description: Development of policy and legally sound guidance; provision of expert advice to other government departments, clients and partners; verification and reporting on EC's compliance with CEEA; and implementation of EC's CEEA responsibilities and Cabinet Directive on policies and programs. Topics: Information on provisions of legislation, policies, procedures and methodologies pertaining to EC's Environmental Assessment Program. Information on compliance with the 1990 (Revised 1999) Federal Cabinet Directive on Environmental Assessment of Policies and Programs. Topics include: Environmental Assessment studies of major development projects in Canada; regulations; guidelines; electronic data inventory; policies; links to international conventions. Also, Environment Assessment Infobase (EA Info); National Environmental Assessments System (NEAS); EC Referral Tracking System (RTS). Program Record Number: ENV EPS 600

EP Enforcement (Regulatory Guidelines)

Description: Activities which contribute directly to the enforcement of environmental protection and wildlife legislation, including the development of enforcement policy guidelines and protocols, training programs and information management systems, as well as their implementation. Topics: Information on enforcement of departmental legislation and regulations, CEPA, pollution prevention provisions of the Fisheries Act, Migratory Birds Convention Act, 1994; Canada Wildlife Act, Wild Animal and Plant Protection and Regulation of International and Interprovincial Trade Act; the National Environmental Management Information System and Intelligence System (NEMISIS); Successful Historical Prosecutions since 1988; On-going Prosecutions; Compliance and Enforcement

Report, National Inspection Plan and Compliance Promotion Plan. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 110

♦ Strategic Priorities Directorate

CEPA Review Office

Description: Supporting the Canadian Environmental Protection Act review conducted by the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Environment and Sustainable Development Program. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 555

♦ Toxics Pollution Prevention Directorate

Environmental Monitoring

Description: Quantification and geographical location of releases of pollutants into all media in the environment, tracking changes in release levels over time and projecting changes in release levels through regulatory or "voluntary" government/citizen actions. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 275

Environmental Monitoring Research and Development

Description: Development of methods to measure toxics in air and water; including stationary and mobile source emissions. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 240

Hazardous Wastes

Description: Transboundary issues (Basel, OECD Council Acts, Can/US Bilateral Agreement); hazardous waste computerized tracking system; development and implementation of regulations (e.g. hazardous waste and PCB); residual activity under Contaminated Sites; and residual activity under PCB Destruction. Topics: Canadian Notice and Manifest Tracking System (CNMTS). Program Record Number: ENV EPS 230

Land Based Sources of Pollution

Description: Implementation of international marine obligations and commitments; participation in coastal zone management; pollution prevention plans, strategies and guidelines for the following source categories: sewage, POPs, radionuclides, heavy metals, oil, nutrients, sediments, litter, physical alteration; and monitoring of marine environmental quality. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 250

National Nuclear Program

Description: Ensuring a comprehensive national nuclear approach; directing the examination of environmental impacts of specific nuclear activities, policies and technologies; and reviewing plans, proposals, applications and reports on nuclear industry to ensure consistency with policies of EC. This particular program is run from the Ontario Region as part of their work on environmental contaminants and sediments. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 295

New Substances Notification, Assessment and Control

Description: Administering the New Substances Notification Regulations, processes, and data systems; providing advice to industry; in conjunction with Health Canada, determining whether new chemical, polymer or biotechnology substances may pose a risk to the environment, or to human health; controlling substances where there is a suspicion of toxicity; harmonizing programs, assessment procedures and approaches to control other countries. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 300

Non-Hazardous Waste Management

Description: Implementing the National Packaging Protocol; product policy; life-cycle assessment; extended producer responsibility; maintaining the National Solid Waste Inventory; green procurement; and waste treatment/disposal (e.g. incineration, landfill, composting). Program Record Number: ENV EPS 610

Ocean Disposal

Description: Development of policies, guidelines and protocols; support of international commitments under the London Convention 72; review and issuing of ocean disposal permits under CEPA; and disposal of dredge spoils. Topics: National Ocean Disposal Database Network (NODNET). Program Record Number: ENV EPS 215

Pollution Prevention

Description: Pollution prevention planning under CEPA; Canadian Pollution Prevention Information Clearinghouse; management of ARET program; development of approaches e.g. producer responsibility, product policy, participation in international fora (ISO/EMS/UNEP); identification and application of economic instruments; and training and the development of training materials on pollution prevention. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 605

Risk Management

Description: Development of control options; and development of guidelines/codes of practice/standards/regulations to prevent releases into the environment. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 245

Scientific Assessment of Substances

Description: Priority Substances Assessments; revision of the Priority Substances List; screening level and other assessments; high production chemical assessments; Toxic Substances Management Policy; national and international harmonization of assessments. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 290

Toxicology Network

Description: Activities supporting the Toxicology Network, a network of scientists in Canadian universities conducting toxicology research in response to Canadians' concerns about toxic substances and risks posed to human health and the environment. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 100

Water Quality Protection (Shellfish)

Description: Activities which contribute to shellfish growing area water/sanitary quality and related public health issues. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 255

♦ Policy & Communications

Communications

Description: Information on communications in general and on communications programs. Program Record Number: ENV PAC 530

Consultations

Description: Information on the public consultation policies, practices and activities of the department. Access: Environmental Consultations Calendar and other reports. Program Record Number: ENV PAC 545

Program Evaluation

Description: Evaluation frameworks, assessments and studies of departmental components, and related data. Topics: Departmental components that have been subject to one or more of these evaluation activities. Access: Reports are classified by evaluation component. Storage Medium: Hardcopy. (In many cases, only single copies exist.) Program Record Number: ENV PAC 520

♦ Economic and Regulatory Affairs Directorate (ERA)

Economic Issues Branch (EIB)

Description: Information on economic aspects of departmental policies and programs (e.g. use of economic instruments for environment policy) as well as on integration of environmental considerations into economic decision-making (e.g. making trade and environment policies mutually compatible); associated information on reports, events, announcements; and related information on expert groups within organizations such as the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). Topics: Sustainable development; economic instruments; trade and environment; environment and competitiveness; economics of climate change; OECD reports available for public distribution. Program Record Number: ENV PAC 190

Environmental Economics Branch (EEB)

Description: Empirical information related to the economic value of natural capital; documentation related to the Environment Valuation Reference Inventory (EVRI) which is a storehouse of valuation studies that is capable of matching the results of previous valuation studies with current policy requirements; reports on the 1981, 1987 and 1991 survey on the importance of Wildlife to Canadians and on the 1996 survey on the Importance of Nature to Canadians; municipal and industrial water demand surveys. Topics: Natural capital valuation, socio-economic indicators of sustainability, Environmental Valuation Reference inventory valuing biodiversity, Importance of Wildlife to Canadians, Importance of Nature to Canadians, water uses and pricing, benefits transfer. Program Record Number: ENV PAC 585

National Regulatory Action Plan

Description: Development and review of legislation/regulations for new or existing substances, effluent discharges and commercial chemicals; implementation of CEPA and Fisheries Act Regulations; preparation of regulatory impact analysis statements; administration of the strategic options process (SOP); development of good laboratory practices; and development of toxic substances codes and guidelines. Program Record Number: ENV PAC 560

Regulatory and Economic Analysis Branch (REAB)

Description: Provides strategic socio-economic analysis, advice and support for various environmental issues, including policy development, the implementation and promotion of environment-economy integration, implementation of the environmental management tool box (e.g., economic instruments), development of modelling tools (e.g., AERCOS, AQVM, IAM), and the use of cost and benefit valuation. REAB has developed expertise in the areas of cost-benefit analysis, risk management strategies, Regulatory Impact Analysis Statements (RIAS), and impact assessments. REAB also has the responsibility of providing strategic advice on regulatory policy and process issues. The major focus of the work performed by the Branch is in support of the toxic substances and air issues programs led by the Environmental Protection Service (EPS). Program Record Number: ENV PAC 195

International Affairs Branch

Description: Information on broad policies and strategies relating to DOE's international relations, key international organizations, meetings and agreements dealing with the environment. Topics: International and Bilateral Agreements, and International Multilateral Institutions. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV PAC 540

♦ Strategic Directions and Policy Coordination Directorate

Aboriginal Affairs Branch

Description: Information on relationships between Environment Canada and Aboriginal people in the delivery of our legislation, policies and programs; and environmental management aspects of government-wide Aboriginal policies. Topics: Canada's Aboriginal Action Plan-Gathering Strength, comprehensive land claims and self-government agreements, political accords with national Aboriginal organizations (e.g. Assembly of First Nations, Congress of Aboriginal Peoples). Program Record Number: ENV PAC 140

Federal-Provincial Relations Branch

Description: Information on the broad policy aspects of the relationship between the federal and provincial/territorial governments on environmental issues. Topics: Harmonization; the Canadian Council of Ministers of the Environment; Canada-Wide Standards; Wildlife Ministers Council of Canada. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV PAC 505

Strategic Policy/Sustainable Development Branches

Description: Information on departmental directions and policies. Topics: Sustainable development; strategic directions, action plans and activities carried out by the department; amendments to the Auditor General Act creating a Commissioner of the Environment and Sustainable Development and requiring departmental sustainable development strategies; relations with clients and stakeholders. Access: Files are arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV PAC 515

Personal Information Banks

Access Request Data Bank

Description: Contains the access request forms sent by persons requesting access to their files, the replies to such requests, and information relating to their processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals making Access to Information Act and Privacy Act requests. Purpose: To process access requests only, and to determine the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 001401 Bank Number: ENV PPU 075

Applications for Research Grants Science Subventions

Description: Each entry in the bank contains information of the following type: educational, financial support for research, new scientific concepts, personal statement of productivity, third party evaluation of the entry. All assessments and grants are processed at Atmospheric Environment Service headquarters from Canadian university faculty members. Class of Individuals: Faculty members of Canadian universities in the environmental sciences or faculties related thereto. Purpose: To provide information used in the annual selection of research proposals to be funded by this institute. Consistent Uses: To assess research proposals in order to award research funds. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records kept less than five years, usually two years. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV MSC 310 TBS Registration: 001394 Bank Number: ENV PPU 010

Applications for Studentship in Meteorology or Atmospheric Science

Description: To provide personal and academic information used in the annual selection for the provision of studentships at Canadian universities. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents who have graduated with 3.5 courses in physics and 4.5 courses in mathematics with a 66% average. Purpose: To assess potential recipients of studentships. Consistent Uses: To assess applications for MSC Studentships. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years. If the applicant becomes an employee, the application is placed on his/her personnel file. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV MSC 310 TBS Registration: 001397 Bank Number: ENV PPU 025

Applications for Visiting Fellowship Awards

Description: Contains information of the following types: demographics, employment, educational, personal references, third party evaluations. All assessments are processed at Atmospheric Environment Service headquarters. Awards are granted to visiting fellows for their work at headquarters. Class of Individuals: Generally restricted to environmental scientists who have recently completed their doctoral degrees. Purpose: To provide personal and academic information used in the annual selection of visiting fellows to this institute. Consistent Uses: To assess potential candidates for visiting fellowship awards. The file is shared with NSERC. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are kept for less than five years, usually for three years. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV MSC 310 TBS Registration: 001395 Bank Number: ENV PPU 015

Employment Applications

Description: This bank can contain employment applications, personal information and curricula vitae from people wishing to work for the Department. All the applicants are registered in the bank. It is established on a regional basis, by service. The bank is used to hold information sent by the candidates. Class of Individuals: Anyone applying for employment with the Department. Purpose: The information contained in this bank is used for staffing purposes. Consistent Uses: Limited to present and future staffing purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Maximum five years, normally destroyed after two years. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 001402 Bank Number: ENV PPU 080

Information Disclosures to Investigative Bodies

Description: This bank contains copies of privacy requests and replies as well as requests for disclosure to federal investigative bodies, forwarded by investigative bodies as listed in Schedule II of the Privacy Act under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the same Act. This bank also contains the replies to such requests and gives information related to their processing. It is used to verify the conditions of disclosure to federal law enforcement bodies which are stated in paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act, and to report to the Privacy Commissioner on the number of access requests received annually. This bank is comprised solely of requests concerning persons for the purpose of law enforcement, and the replies to such requests. Class of Individuals: Individuals about whom requests for personal information have been received pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act from federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a law of Canada or a province, or carrying out a lawful investigation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to permit the Privacy Commissioner to review disclosures made under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act to federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a law of Canada or a province or for carrying out a lawful investigation. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 002326 Bank Number: ENV PPU 072

Post-graduate Fellowships

Description: Post-graduate fellowships are intended to provide financial assistance to Canadian citizens and permanent residents who are enrolled in an MSc or PhD program in Meteorology and Atmospheric Services.

Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents who have completed undergraduate degrees.

Purpose: To provide information in the annual selection of candidates for post-graduate fellowship awards.

Consistent Uses: Primary use is to assess fellowship applications. Retention and Disposal Standards:

Records kept less than five years, usually two years. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV MSC 310 TBS Registration: 001396 Bank Number: ENV PPU 020

University Research Support Fund

Description: Contains evaluations of proposals submitted by researchers at Canadian universities for funding consideration through the Canadian Wildlife Service. This bank contains an outline of projects, names of professors and personal data. Class of Individuals: Researchers at Canadian universities. Purpose: To evaluate and select proposals submitted by Canadian university researchers. Retention and Disposal Standards: The unfunded project files are kept for two years. Approved project files are retained for six years after completion of project. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 001399 Bank Number: ENV PPU 035

Water Resources Research Support Program (WRRSP)

Description: Contains project details including research plan, state-of-the-art reviews, budgetary requirements, progress reports, project reviews and assessments as well as personal data such as name and curriculum vitae. All files relate to scientists at Canadian universities. ## Chapter 51

Note: This institution is not subject to the Access to Information Act.

General Information

Background

The Export Development Corporation (EDC) was established on October 1, 1969, by the Export Development Act. The Export Development Corporation is an agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada and is a Crown corporation whose shares may be owned only by Canada. It is accountable for its affairs to Parliament through the Minister for International Trade. Both the Export Development Corporation and its predecessor, the Export Credits Insurance Corporation which commenced operations in 1944, were created to facilitate and develop trade between Canada and other countries.

The Corporation achieves this through a wide range of insurance, guarantee and financing services not normally provided by the public sector.

The Export Development Corporation's services are provided to help Canadian exporters who offer products competitive in price, quality, delivery and service, to compete internationally.

among other things, general biographies of individuals in relation to EDC's program services. This form of personal information is retrievable if specifics are provided concerning transactions filed e.g. names of exporters, countries and projects, rather than by name of individual or other personal identifier.

Other information provided by or about individuals may also be found in corporate record holdings such as information services, telecommunications, accounts payable and library files. This class of personal information is retrievable only if the requester identifies, in sufficient detail, the subject of the information that they wish to access. The retention periods are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Farm Credit Corporation Canada

Chapter 52

General Information

Background

Farm Credit Corporation (FCC) is a federal Crown corporation reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food. Established in 1959, FCC is Canada's largest agricultural term lender. Under the Farm Credit Corporation Act, FCC offers a range of flexible financing solutions to primary producers and agribusiness. The Corporation is governed by a Board of Directors comprised of up to 12 members. The Financial Administration Act provides for the direction, financial control and accountability of FCC and outlines its relationship with the Government of Canada.

Responsibilities

The Corporation makes and administers farm loans under the authority of the Farm Credit Corporation Act to enhance rural Canada by providing specialised and personalised financial services to farming operations, including family farms, and to small and medium-sized agribusiness. As well, it administers programs as directed by the federal government.

Legislation

- Farm Credit Corporation Act

Organization

In order to fulfil its mandate, the Corporation has established a network of more than 100 offices and more than 900 employees across Canada to serve the agricultural community and rural Canada. FCC's head office is located in Regina, Saskatchewan.

Chief Executive Officer

The President and Chief Executive Officer directs the business of the Corporation and exercises all other powers and duties as may be assigned by the Chairman or the Board of the Corporation.

Operations Division

Under the direction of the Executive Vice-President and Chief Operating Officer, the division consists of:

♦ Risk Management

Risk Management division ensures FCC's credit granting standards are maintained. The division assesses and analyses the risk of new loans to FCC's portfolio as well as portfolio risk over time.

Agri-Land

Agri-Land reports to Risk Management and is responsible for the management (sales, leasing and administration) of FCC's land holdings, the recovery process for non-collectible loans as well as full appraisal and environmental assessment services for FCC.

Farm Financing

Farm Financing is responsible for the delivery of FCC's products and services to the Canadian agricultural community through its trained field staff who work in over 100 locations across the country.

Agribusiness

Agribusiness provides credit to Canadian businesses requiring financial services to process, manufacture, transport, store or transform input to or outputs from farm operations. Agribusiness builds alliances with agricultural organizations throughout Canada to provide FCC's products and services to producers and agribusinesses.

Marketing and Product Development

Marketing and Product Development is responsible for the development and implementation of the Corporate Marketing strategy, the development of new loan products and market research.

Customer Service Centre

The Customer Service Centre, located in Regina, reports to marketing and Product Development and is responsible for processing loan applications originating from FCC's alliance partners and FCC field offices throughout Canada.

Finance Division

Under the direction of the Vice-President and Chief Financial Officer, the division consists of:

♦ Controller's Office and Treasurer's Office

These offices are responsible for the overall financial management of the Corporation including financial risk management, funding, cash management, corporate accounting, portfolio accounting, loan disbursements, financial planning and reporting and internal controls. They also ensure that the financial provisions of the Farm Credit Corporation Act and the financial management provisions of the Financial Administration Act are effectively employed by the Corporation.

Strategic Planning

Strategic and Corporate Planning co-ordinates the Corporation's corporate and strategic planning process including preparation of the economic overview and the corporate plan summary.

Loan Administration Centres

Responsible for all loan administration activities, security registration and documentation.

Corporate Audit & Business Process Re-engineering

Corporate Audit and Business Process Re-engineering report to the Chief Executive Officer. Audit is responsible for conducting a comprehensive program of broad-based, operations and special internal audit activities. Business Process Re-engineering is responsible for continuously improving business processes, resulting in higher quality customer service, reduced costs of service delivery and increased productivity.

Human Resources and Administration

The Human Resources & Administration division directs, controls, and advises on administrative and human resources services.

Information Technology

The IT division is responsible for the information technology requirements for Farm Credit Corporation. This includes all aspects of IT including infrastructure, systems development, and operations and support.

Communications and Public Relations

This division is responsible for all aspects of external and internal national communications, including media and public relations, community relations, advertising, the corporate website, translation, official languages and graphic services.

Government & Industry Relations

- (a) Government and Parliamentary Relations – includes liaison with the Minister's office, fulfilling FCC's parliamentary responsibilities, responding to government agency requests and representing FCC on working committees.
- (b) This function liaises with federal and provincial government representatives, as well as stakeholder organizations, to build relations and keep stakeholders informed about FCC's direction and services.

The Corporation was incorporated with a mandate to replace The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority as the corporate body with responsibility for superintending the Authority's non-navigational assets. The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority was dissolved on December 1, 1998 pursuant to provisions of the Canada Marine Act. The management of the Authority's navigational assets was transferred to a not-for-profit corporation while the Authority's non-navigational assets were transferred to FBCL.

FBCL also ensures the acquisition of lands for, and construction, maintenance and operation, alone or in conjunction with an appropriate authority in the United States, of bridges connecting Canada with the United States; and the acquisition of lands for, and construction or acquisition, maintenance and operation of such bridges and works or other property as the Governor in Council may deem necessary. FBCL reports to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Seaway International Bridge Corporation, Ltd.: Its head office, located in Cornwall, Ontario, operates and manages an international toll bridge system between Cornwall, Ontario and Rooseveltown, New York, on behalf of the owners – The Federal Bridge Corporation Limited of Canada and the United States Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

The Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated was established to provide the public with a safe and efficient transit across the Jacques Cartier, the Champlain and the Honoré – Mercier Bridges, along the Bonaventure Autoroute and through the Melocheville Tunnel, structures situated in the Greater Montreal region.

The main business involvement of FBCL at the Thousand Islands Bridge is the operation of the Canadian portion of the Thousand Islands Bridge System at Ivy Lea, Ontario which is administered for FBCL on a contract basis, by the Thousand Islands Bridge Authority in the United States.

Legislation

General Information

Background

The Constitution Act, 1867 gives Parliament jurisdiction over "Sea Coast and Inland Fisheries." The Fisheries Act, 1868 was enacted in accordance with this responsibility. The Department of Fisheries and Oceans Act, 1978 – 79 established the Department and provides jurisdiction over sea coast and inland fisheries, fishing and recreational harbours, hydrography and marine sciences and the coordination of policies and programs of the Government of Canada respecting oceans. The Canadian Coast Guard, formerly a part of Transport Canada, merged with the former DFO on April 1, 1995. The Constitution Act, 1982, the Canada Shipping Act, the Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act, the Navigable Waters Protection Act, the Department of Transport Act and the National Transportation Act are the principal Acts governing marine transportation activities. Legislative authorities concerning the integration of Coast Guard were finalized last year. The Fisheries Act is the primary piece of legislation for managing fisheries and the Oceans Act lays out the foundation for the department's oceans agenda.

Responsibilities

While other government departments contribute to the management of Canada's water-based activities, the primary focus of Fisheries and Oceans is on water and the resources it contains. It has responsibility for all matters respecting oceans not by law assigned to any other department. The scope of this responsibility and the extent to which it is exercised by the federal government have been determined by judicial interpretation, agreements with provinces and the evolution of public policy.

Specific responsibilities include:

- Provision of policies and programs for the provision of water transportation system and services interests contributing to safe, efficient and economical conduct of marine activities, protection of the marine environment in Canadian waters and, where appropriate, undertaking development, operation and maintenance of specific elements of the marine transportation system.
- Scientific research respecting stock assessment and resource conservation requirements, aquaculture regulation and development, primary production, physical oceanography and limnology (studies in freshwater), hydrographic surveying and charting, environmental issues and the behaviour and effects of marine contaminations, and administration of various Federal acts, regulations and policies designed to conserve and protect the aquatic habitat.

Organization

There are six major Activities under the departmental mandate which are administered by Assistant Deputy Ministers who are responsible for broad policy formulation, strategic and operational planning, resourcing, scientific and technical services and functional guidance to the Regional Directors General who provide for Program delivery.

Deputy Minister

In accordance with section 3 of the Department of Fisheries and Oceans Act the Deputy Minister of Fisheries and Oceans is the deputy head of the Department. The Office of the Deputy Minister develops, coordinates and implements the Departmental Program consistent with the powers, duties and functions outlined in section 4 of the Act and provides administrative support to Crown Corporations for which the Minister has responsibility. Program objectives are carried out by one Associate Deputy Minister (Associate DM) and six Assistant Deputy Ministers (ADMs) located at headquarters in Ottawa, Ontario and six Regional Directors General (RDGs) located across the country. In addition to the Associate DM, ADMs and RDGs, the Director General, Communications and General Counsel also report directly to the Deputy Minister.

- Communications – develops communications strategies and supports the initiatives of all sectors as well as scientific publications.
- General Counsel – Department of Justice legal services attached to DFO provide legal counsel on all matters touching the operation and administration of the Department.

Associate Deputy Minister

The Associate Deputy Minister is responsible for managing all aspects of the Department in co-operation with the Deputy Minister. The Associate DM's duties include a special focus on:

- Human resource management issues, such as La Relève;
- Essential change activities within the Department, including enhancement of the management model for DFO and working with employee consultative/ advisory committees (the National and Regional Advisory Committees) in support of their renewal efforts;
- Issues related to the merger of the fleets and shore installations of the former DFO and Coast Guard;
- Development of the Oceans Management Strategy;
- Fisheries restructuring on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts;
- Aquaculture.

The Associate DM has direct responsibility for the Review Directorate, which assesses the appropriateness and strength of the management framework and makes suggestions for improvements; evaluates policies and programs and makes recommendations for their confirmation, modification or discontinuation. The Review Directorate is also the focal point for Auditor General Audits.

♦ ADM, Corporate Services

The ADM, Corporate Services provides executive direction, coordination, corporate administrative services and human resource planning in support of Program objectives and is responsible for:

- Access to Information and Privacy – provides Departmental focal point for responding to requests under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.
- Coast Guard College – prepares Officer Cadets for a career in the Coast Guard, provides training in search and rescue, Marine Communications and Traffic Services, marine engineering, navigation, shipboard management and provides residential facility for conferences and meetings in the Maritimes.
- Finance and Administration – provides advice and services in areas of resource management, financial planning, accounting and reporting, policy and systems, contracting and procurement, asset management (not including Small Craft Harbours) and administration and security.
- Human Resources – provides human resource management, advice and services for human resource planning, classification and organization, staffing and workforce adjustment, executive resourcing, staff relations, compensation, training and development, employment equity, official languages, occupational health and safety, incentive/merit awards, employee assistance program, career counselling, and personnel management information systems.

- Information Management and Technology Services – provide advice and services in the areas of application development, information and data management (including libraries), computer processing and telecommunications.
- Newfoundland Bait Program (NBP) – unique to Newfoundland, this program exists to provide a bait purchase and sale function from as many as 25 locations across the Province. Legal authority for this program exists within the Terms of Union between Newfoundland and Canada. At present, facility ownership rests with Fisheries and Oceans Canada while day-to-day service delivery is provided by a private sector contractor.
- Real Property Management – delivers a real property services program in accordance with a comprehensive real property management framework.
- Small Craft Harbours – administration and maintenance of a national system of harbours to provide fishers and recreational boaters with safe and accessible facilities ranging from isolated mooring buoys to large, full service facilities. Small Craft Harbours (SCH) is also responsible for the Harbour Authority Program which encourages the formation of non-profit corporations (i. e. , harbour authorities). Comprised of fishers and other users, harbour authorities assume the day-to-day management and operation of the fishing harbours the industry deems to be most important. It's also responsible for the Recreational Harbour Divestiture Program which oversees the transfer of SCH's inventory of recreational harbours to public and private sector interests. Small Craft Harbours is responsible for the rationalization of fishing harbours to devolve derelict harbours and refine the inventory to core harbours, essential to the industry.
- Strategic Policy and Planning – provides corporate policy development and coordination, strategic planning, economic analysis in support of policy development, market analysis and intelligence, federal/provincial relations, legislative and regulatory review.
- Year 2000 Project – provides advice and services relating to Year 2000 and its complexities.

♦ ADM, Fisheries Management

The ADM, Fisheries Management is responsible for:

- Aboriginal Affairs – develops Native fisheries policies, administers the Aboriginal Fisheries Strategy in British Columbia, the Atlantic provinces and Arctic Canada, negotiates fishing provisions of land claims settlements in British Columbia, the Northwest Territories, Newfoundland and Quebec offshore and implements land claims and negotiates Aboriginal self government throughout the country.

- Assistance to the Sealing Industry Program – coordination of the annual seal hunt.
- Atlantic Fisheries and Pacific Region Licensing Appeal Boards – hear appeals from fishermen dissatisfied with departmental licensing decisions and consider general problems on licensing policy.
- Conservation and Protection – ensures compliance with legislation, policies and programs in support of conservation and sustainable fisheries resources through educational and enforcement programs in both tidal and non-tidal waters except in Ontario, Quebec and the Prairie Provinces. Fishery management plans, policies, programs and regulations ensure sustainability of stocks and fair distribution of harvestable surpluses.
- Fisheries Policy Development – The Atlantic Fisheries Policy Review (AFPR) has been established to develop a consistent and cohesive policy framework for the management of Canada's East Coast fish stocks. The work of the AFPR is being done in two phases: Phase I will deliver a long-term policy framework and Phase II will establish priorities and begin to operationalize elements from the policy framework developed in Phase I. Work also has been undertaken to establish a national fisheries policy framework.
- International Affairs – the role is to direct the conduct of international relations to advance Canada's fisheries conservation interests and works to assert Canadian interests with respect to internationally managed fish stocks. This includes the negotiation and administration of international treaties and agreements affecting conservation, allocations, the conduct of bilateral and multilateral fisheries relations with other countries, the settlement of issues related to maritime boundary disputes as well as the formulation and presentation of international fisheries conservation and allocation advice to the Minister.
- Licensing – provides a means for regulating participation in and access to the fishery to ensure that the harvest remains within conservation limits and promotes economic viability.
- Responsible Fishing Programs – contribute to resource conservation of fish stocks through the development and industry use of selective fishing practice and industry's endorsement and implementation of the Code of Conduct for Responsible Fishing.
- The Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation – advice and analysis of issues relating to the operations and mandate of this Crown Corporation are provided to the Minister on an ongoing basis. The Department coordinates on an annual basis the development and approval by Treasury Board and the Department of Finance of the corporate plan and operating and capital budgets of this Corporation.

◆ ADM, Marine Services/Commissioner, Canadian Coast Guard

The ADM, Marine Services and Commissioner, Canadian Coast Guard, develops and operates the national marine transportation system and is responsible for:

- Icebreaking and Arctic Operations – provides, operates and maintains icebreaking ships, facilities and services, manages a program of ice management, coordinates an annual Eastern Arctic Sealift, supports other government departments and agencies in safe and efficient movement of marine traffic in ice-infested waters, supports other government marine related activities, including sovereignty in the Canadian Arctic and operates a program to minimize the effect of flooding caused by ice jams on the upper St. Lawrence River.
- Marine Navigation Services – provides, operates and maintains a system of short and long range aids to navigation, oversees private aids to navigation systems, provides public safety information services and provides waterways management and protection.
- Marine Communications and Traffic Services – provides communications and traffic services for the marine community and for the benefit of the public at large. Ensures safety of life at sea in response to international agreements through the provision of a Distress and Safety radio service, protects the marine environment and enhances the efficient movement of shipping through the provision of traffic management systems in offshore, coastal, riverine and port waters, provides support for business, other government departments and the national interest by the provision of a marine information management system, and provides a public correspondence system to facilitate ship shore radio communications for the private sector and fleet operations.
- Marine Technical and Support Services – provides marine users with support to aids to navigation, search and rescue operations, civil construction and modernization of Coast Guard facilities, design, development, acquisition and repair of electronic, communications, navigation network, radar and computer systems and coordination of matters dealing with environmental issues.
- Rescue and Environmental Response – provides marine search and rescue capability within the Canadian area of responsibility as defined under International Maritime Organization agreements and in Canadian waters of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence system, promotes safety to the marine public in order to minimize loss of life and injury as well as the loss of property, provides emergency planning and environmental response to clean up pollution from shipping incidents, on a cost recovery basis and carries out a monitoring and oversight role as part of the joint Industry/Government partnership on spill response.

◆ ADM, Oceans

The ADM, Oceans ensures the development of an integrated departmental approach to the discharge of our oceans and freshwater responsibilities, and is responsible for:

- Habitat Management – design, development and coordination of policies, plans and programs related to the protection and conservation of aquatic habitats; investigation and monitoring of biological, chemical and physical conditions which affect the quality of the aquatic environments; environmental assessments of projects impacting the aquatic environment; compiling information in support of sustained economic utilization of Canada's renewable aquatic resources; and monitoring the management of the quality of the aquatic habitat.
- Oceans – the development and implementation of a national oceans management strategy and developing policies and programs for marine protected areas, integrated coastal zonal management, marine environmental quality and other related oceans initiatives. The management of the Minister's Advisory Council on Oceans (MACO) nomination process and subsequent Council secretariat functions. Also, the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act Public Registry and strategic relations activities related to oceans.

◆ ADM, Policy

The ADM, Policy is responsible for:

- Economic and Policy Analysis – economic analysis, statistical services and policy development advice on a wide range of domestic economic issues and international trade related matters. Lead the design and development of licence retirement programs for Atlantic and Pacific Canada that respond to the state of the stocks and meet the objectives established by Cabinet; policy and economic analysis in the context of fisheries restructuring, licensing and allocation policy, and co-management agreements.
- Governance – provide a single focus of expertise to support the development of new governance models in areas already identified for change; advise the department on horizontal governance initiatives that affect DFO programs and mandate.

- Planning, Coordination and Liaison – leadership in developing legislative and regulatory instruments to support the fishery of the future, and other departmental and government-wide priorities for renewal and enhanced performance; policy and regulatory analysis in support of legislative initiatives led by other sectors, including amendments to the Coastal Fisheries Protection Act, Navigable Waters Protection Act and the Canada Shipping Act; policy leadership on the development of additional bilateral mechanisms for intergovernmental cooperation; work to enhance the effectiveness of intergovernmental for a like the National Council of Fisheries Ministers, and the Atlantic Council of Fisheries Ministers; policy leadership and support to promote the full and productive implementation of the Canada-B.C. Agreement.
- Strategic Priorities and Planning – leadership to develop a departmental strategic plan that reflects the objectives and interests of all sector and the regions; advice and support to sectors and regions in their own strategic planning initiatives, including the provision of tools and resources to assist, such as environmental scans and analyses; lead a coordinated approach to developing departmental priorities.

◆ ADM, Science

The ADM, Science ensures the highest standard of scientific information for use in developing policies, regulations and legislation regarding oceans and aquatic life and is responsible for:

- Fisheries and Oceans Science – provides timely and reliable scientific information, understanding and advice for the conservation and sustainable use of fish and other living aquatic resources, for the sustainable development of Mariculture and fish health protection, and on oceans coastal waters and marine and freshwater ecosystems in support of environment and fish habitat management, integrated resource management, offshore development, climate prediction, marine services, coastal engineering, defence and shipping.
- Hydrography – enhances the safety and efficiency of navigation for vessels operating in Canadian waters by undertaking field surveys to measure water depth, bottom morphology, bottom type and composition, tides, water levels, near surface currents, sound velocity and turbidity. Accurate charts and navigational publications of Canadian and adjacent international waters are compiled and published.

◆ Offices of Regional Directors General (RDG)

Regional Directors General are responsible for Program Delivery in meeting the mandate of the Department under the functional guidance of the Deputy Minister, the SADM and the ADM's. Each Region is described hereunder:

- Central and Arctic Region – encompassing Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, the Northwest Territories and Nunavut, it contains about 67% of Canada's freshwater and seven of the 14 largest lakes in the world, emphasizing cleanup and preservation initiatives in the Great Lakes. It accounts for about 60% of Canada's recreational fishing which exceeds the commercial fishery catch. Some 50% of the commercial catch is marketed through the Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation. In marine transportation it directly supports shipping with nearly 200 icebreaking responses, over 1,300 search and rescue responses and it maintains nearly 5,900 nav aids. It provides primary marine pollution response North of 60 as well as the Eastern Arctic Sealift which resupplies coastal communities in the Arctic. Search and rescue services in the Great Lakes are provided to the highest concentration of pleasure craft in the country and the Region supports commercial marine traffic to the North American heartland.
- Gulf Fisheries Management Region – encompassing the northern and eastern portion of New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, and a portion of Nova Scotia adjacent to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The Region is responsible for the management of many groundfish and pelagic species such as cod, herring, tuna, halibut and flounder. Commercially imported invertebrates' species found throughout the Region include lobster, snow crab, and molluscs such as oysters, mussels, clams, and scallops. In addition, several of the southern Gulf tributaries act as important spawning rivers for anadromous species including Atlantic salmon, trout, and alewife. The DFO Regional Office is located in Moncton, N.B., with three area offices which are located in Tracadie-Sheila, N.B., Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Antigonish, N.S. With 12,498 commercial fishers and over 4,600 vessels involved in the southern Gulf of St. Lawrence fishery, the approximate landings of fish products for 1999 were 146,369 metric tons worth 316.7 million dollars.
- Laurentian Region – encompassing the Province of Quebec, it covers more than 6,000 kilometres of coastline. Fisheries sector includes over 4,000 fishermen, nearly 1,600 vessels, nearly 100 processing plants and over 200 small craft harbours. A marine science research centre, the Maurice-Lamontagne Institute, Mont-Joli, provides fisheries, oceanographic and hydrographic research. DFO manages the entire marine fishery in the region except for anadromous and catadromous species which are managed by the Province. In marine transportation it directly supports shipping with nearly 500 icebreaking and vessel escort responses, over 1,200 search and rescue responses and it maintains more than 2,550 nav aids. It ensures year-round access to the Port of Montreal and other ports on the St. Lawrence. Due to its icebreaking program, it safeguards susceptible water-side communities which may experience the effects of floods.

- Maritimes Region – encompassing the three Maritime provinces and adjacent waters out to the 200-mile limit of the economic zone, the coastline covers approximately 8,600 km. The region has a very active diverse commercial fishery that includes approximately 13,300 full and part-time fishers on over 4,750 vessels, some 440 harbours, and a commercial fishery that landed some 316,000 tonnes of product for a preliminary landed value of 590 million dollars in 1999. In addition, the aquaculture industry harvested 27,000 tonnes for a landed value of 208.3 million dollars in 1999. Coast Guard services are provided through three major land bases; some 4,800 fixed and floating navigational aids; a regional fleet consisting of 11 major vessels, including 2 heavy icebreakers, 3 oceanographic and fisheries research vessels; 2 primary offshore search and rescue/icebreaking buoytenders, 2 icebreaking buoytenders, 1 buoytender, 1 offshore patrol vessel used for C&P; 19 small crewed patrol, buoytending and research craft; 7 lifeboat stations and 7 helicopters.
- Newfoundland Region – comprising the province of Newfoundland and Labrador along with adjoining marine waters, the coastline covers nearly 29,000 km. With more than 95% of the province's communities being scattered along the coast, the economic and social complexion of this region is dominated by the fishery. Traditionally, cod has been the dominant species in the commercial groundfish fishery, however, since the various moratoria on cod and other groundfish species, shellfish (crab, lobster, scallops) have gained prominence. A small but growing high-tech ocean science and technology industry is evident. In marine transportation the Coast Guard's 14 ships and 3 helicopters support shipping with nearly 125 icebreaking responses, over 650 search and rescue responses and the maintenance of nearly 1,600 nav aids.
- Pacific Region – comprising British Columbia and the Yukon, it is entrusted with managing and protecting Pacific marine fish stocks, covering 105 river systems in BRITISH COLUMBIA, as well as three northern transboundary rivers, the Stikine, Taku and Yukon. This region supports commercial, recreational and aboriginal fisheries and significant Canadian oceans science and technology industries. In marine transportation it directly supports shipping with over 2,200 air and marine search and rescue responses and it maintains more than 1,950 nav aids.

Statistics Program

Description: The Department collects commercial fishing "Catch and Effort Data" from commercial fish buyers and vessel skippers and the Dockside Monitoring Program (DMP). The information identifies, but is not limited to, individual vessel and commercial buyers, species weight and quality, information on amount paid (except for DMP data), areas of catch and fishing effort where applicable, on a trip by trip basis (from log books). The operational and statistics system is decentralized, operating from regional offices. National statistics are developed in Ottawa using regional contributions. Class of Individuals: Commercial fish buyers, vessel skippers, DMP Companies. Purpose: Stock assessment and quota monitoring purposes, international fisheries agreements, economic and statistical analysis, policy development and analysis. Consistent Uses: In support of enforcement and the conduct of investigations in accordance with Canadian fisheries legislation, data is linked with the Commercial Fishing Licence Databases (DFO PPU 010) and DFO Violations (DFO PPU 060). Used for annual reporting on Canadian fisheries data to NAFO, OECD and FAO. Also used for economic analyses and program evaluations of various segments of the fisheries and for fisheries management purposes as authorised by the Fisheries Act and other related acts of Parliament. Some personal information maintained in the bank is shared with the Nova Scotia Department of Fisheries with the written consent for disclosure from the individual to whom the information relates. In all the above areas, data are produced in reports containing no personal information. However, personal information is maintained in the bank. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank will be held indefinitely due to the historical value of the information. TBS Registration: 003622 Bank Number: DFO PPU 055

Surveys

Description: From time to time, surveys are carried out by the Department to obtain information. These surveys include: Commercial Fishing Registration and Licensing Data; Domestic Quota System; Permis-pêcheur- bateau; Commercial Fishing Licence Data; Tidal Water Sport Fishing Licence Data; Licensing; Foreign Licensing and Surveillance System Flash; Aquaculture Licence; Complaint Control System; Import Rejection; Plant Capacity Survey; Vessel Performance Studies; Angler Diary; National Survey of Recreational Fisheries; Coûts et revenus des entreprises de Pêche; Costs and Earning Survey of Commercial Fishermen; Survey of Pacific Costs and Earnings; Fisherman's Income Survey; Atlantic Canada Sport Catch Data. Other similar surveys may occur as the need arises. Information may be gathered through the Catch and Effort Data (DFO PPU 055) and Commercial Fishing Licence Database (DFO PPU 010) banks. Much of this data is published in a statistical format, with all personal identifiers removed. For example, Newfoundland region publishes annually its "Costs and Earnings" Survey. Class of Individuals: Information in this bank relates to clients of departmental fisheries programs and sports fishermen. Purpose: The information is compiled to provide the Department with the statistical or economic information it requires to manage its programs effectively. Retention and Disposal Standards: The length of retention varies with each survey. TBS Registration: 003626 Bank Number: DFO PPU 075

Fraser River Port Authority

Chapter 56

General Information

Background

The Fraser River Port Authority was proclaimed May 1, 1999 pursuant to the Canada Marine Act, 1998. The Port Authority is a continuation of the Fraser River Harbour Commission which was established under the Harbour Commissions Act, 1965. Prior to 1965, the agency was known as the New Westminster Harbour Commissioners as created by federal legislation in May 1913.

The Fraser River is a major river transportation route in the Province of British Columbia with good harbour facilities available from Steveston (9 km from the mouth) to New Westminster (35 km from the mouth).

Responsibilities

The Fraser River Port Authority, also referred to as Fraser Port, is responsible for administering the lower portion of the main arm of the Fraser River from Kanaka Creek (near Haney, BC) downstream to the mouth of Fraser River. In addition, Fraser Port's jurisdiction includes a small portion of the North Arm of the Fraser River, a portion of the Pitt River from Pitt Lake to the Pitt River's confluence with the Fraser River, and from the mouth of the Fraser River, south to Brunswick Point in Canoe Pass.

Fraser Port, as the lead agency, works in conjunction with the nine municipalities that border the Fraser River, and numerous local, Provincial and Federal agencies, to coordinate harbour operations and developments, as well as to maintain sustainability of the Fraser River and harbour facilities within the jurisdiction of the Port Authority.

Legislation

- Canada Marine Act, S.C.1997-98, c.10

Organization

The President and Chief Executive Officer of the Fraser River Port Authority is the Head of the Institution for the purposes of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act and exercises all the powers and responsibilities pertaining to this function under the Acts in question.

♦ Corporate Development

Responsibilities of the department are to develop new business opportunities, market strategies and implementation plans; to review and maintain awareness of contracts, agreements, negotiations in progress, and geographic market segments; to maintain awareness of missions, objectives and key priorities of Fraser Port; to review and assess the overall strengths and weaknesses of the organization; to identify key issues and external events which are of significance to Fraser Port; and to develop awareness of opportunities for market development and expansion for all divisions.

♦ Finance and Administration

Responsibilities of the department are to develop corporate policies, standards and programmes related to organizational structure and processes; to review and develop information and data processing requirements and systems; to review and develop human resources, resource planning, career planning and succession policies; to review and develop purchasing policies, procedures and controls; and to review, plan, and develop financial standards, policies, procedures and controls.

♦ Operations

Responsibilities of the department are to review and maintain awareness of environmental and land maintenance issues; to review and develop awareness of vessel programs; to develop channel strategy policies; and to administer environmental matters relating to leasing, permitting, and licensing of tenants and activities along the Crown portions of the Fraser River.

♦ Property Development

Responsibilities of the department are to review and maintain awareness of land development opportunities; to administer capital projects; to review and address property issues; to resolve administrative processing inconsistencies; and to administer the leasing, permitting, and licensing of tenants and activities along the Crown portions of the Fraser River.

♦ Public Affairs

Responsibilities of the department are to coordinate preparation and distribution of the Annual report; to answer external requests for information at the Corporate level; to coordinate printing and distribution of Corporate Information brochures; and to coordinate advertising and publicizing the Fraser River Port Authority.

Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation

Chapter 57

General Information

Background

The Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation (FFMC) was established in 1969 under the authority of the Freshwater Fish Marketing Act. The Act gives the FFMC the exclusive right to interprovincial and export trade in designated products of the freshwater fisheries supplied from the three Prairie Provinces, the Northwest Territories, and part of northern Ontario. The FFMC is a federal crown corporation listed under Schedule III, Part I of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The objectives of the Corporation are: to market fish in an orderly manner; to increase returns to fishermen; and to promote markets and export trade in fish.

The Act requires the FFMC to purchase all legally caught fish offered for sale by licensed fishermen, subject to price and terms and conditions of purchase (including quality provisions). It must conduct its operations on a self-sustaining financial basis without appropriations by Parliament.

Legislation

- Freshwater Fish Marketing Act (1969)

Organization

The FFMC is managed by an eleven member board of directors composed of a Chairman, a President, one director for each participating province/Territories and four other directors. The Chairman and the President are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The remaining directors are appointed by the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans with the approval of the Governor-in-Council. Directors from a participating province are appointed on the recommendation of the Lieutenant Governor in Council of the participating province. The board of directors is supported and advised by an Advisory Committee composed of fifteen members appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Great Lakes Pilotage Authority Canada

Chapter 58

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Ltd. was established in February 1972 pursuant to the Pilotage Act, incorporated as a limited company in May 1972, and was continued under the Canada Business Corporations Act. Until October 1st, 1998, it operated under the name of Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Ltd. Pursuant to the Marine Act, which received Royal Assent on June 11 1998, the name of the Authority was changed to Great Lakes Pilotage Authority and the Authority is deemed to have been established under subsection 3(1) of the Pilotage Act. The Authority is a Crown corporation listed in Schedule III, Part I of the Financial Administration Act. On October 1st, 1998, the Authority ceased to be a subsidiary of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and has initiated a process to surrender its charter under the Canada Business Corporations Act.

Responsibilities

The role and objectives of the Authority are to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries; all waters in the Province of Quebec south of the northern entrance to St. Lambert Lock and all Canadian waters in and around the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. Pilotage in the international waters within the boundaries is shared with United States of America Pilot Corporations, which are under the direction of the United States Coast Guard, as agreed under a memorandum of arrangements between Canada and the United States. The Authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are to be fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Authority By-Laws
- Canada Shipping Act, RSC, 1985, c. S-9
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Great Lakes Pilotage Regulations
- Memorandum of Arrangements between the Minister of Transport, Canada and the Secretary of Transportation, U.S.A.
- Pilotage Act, RSC, 1985, c. P-14

Organization

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority consists of a part-time Chairman and six members appointed by the Governor in Council with a full time Chief Executive Officer appointed by the Board of Directors. The Authority's head office is located in Cornwall, Ontario. The Eastern District operations office is located at headquarters and the Western District operations office in St. Catharines, Ontario. All management, administrative, personnel, financial contracts and purchasing services are provided by the Cornwall office. The Authority is a Crown corporation, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

♦ Administration Branch

This Branch provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

♦ Operations Branch

This Branch provides pilotage service by assignment, and dispatches qualified pilots to ships navigating within the boundaries of the Great Lakes Pilotage Authority.

Gwich'in Land and Water Board

Chapter 59

General Information

Background

The Gwich'in Land and Water Board (GLWB) is a regulatory authority established pursuant to the Gwich'in Comprehensive Land Claim Agreement (GCLCA) and given effect on December 28, 1998 by the Mackenzie Valley Resource Management Act (MVRMA) (Bill C-6).

Responsibilities

The GLWB was established to provide for an integrated and coordinated system of land management in the Mackenzie Valley of the Northwest Territories.

The object of the GLWB is to provide for conservation, development and utilization of the land and water resources in the Gwich'in settlement area in a manner that will provide the optimum benefit for present and future residents of the settlement area and the Mackenzie Valley and for all Canadians.

The MVRMA authorizes the GLWB to regulate the use of land and water by issuing, amending, renewing and suspending Land Use Permits and Water Licences throughout the Gwich'in settlement area, which includes all Crown, Gwich'in settlement land, or any other private lands.

The MVRMA further prescribes that the Mackenzie Valley Land Use Regulations, the Northwest Territories Waters Act and the Northwest Territories Waters Regulations as the principle regulatory instruments for Board use.

Legislation

- The Mackenzie Valley Resource Management Act
- The Northwest Territories Waters Act

Organization

The GLWB is comprised of five members including, apart from the Chairperson, two Members appointed on the nomination of the Gwich'in Tribal Council (GTC), one Member appointed on the nomination of the Government of the Northwest Territories (GNWT) and one Member appointed on the nomination of the Federal Government. The Chairperson is appointed on the nomination of the appointed Members.

The offices of the GLWB is located on the second floor of the Chief Jim Koe Zheh in Inuvik NT.

The office personal include an Executive Director, an Office Manager, a GIS Technician, an Integrated Resources Manager and a Land and Water Technician.

Halifax Port Authority

Chapter 61

General Information

Background

The Halifax Port Authority was established pursuant to the Canada Marine Act which received Royal Assent on the 11th day of June 1998 and came into force with respect to Port Authorities on the 1st day of March, 1999. This Act repealed the Canada Ports Corporation Act of 1983 which amended the National Harbours Board Act of 1936, the Government Harbours and Piers Act and the 1964 Harbour Commissions Act.

The Canada Marine Act created 18 Port Authorities with their own specific Letters Patent and are responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

Responsibilities

The role of the Halifax Port Authority is to facilitate and expand the movement of cargo and passengers through the Port of Halifax, provide facilities, services, and technologies that are competitive, safe, commercially variable, dependable and customer oriented and to operate with broad public support in the best interests of Canadians.

Legislation

- Canada Marine Act, R.S.C. 1998, chapter C-10

Hazardous Materials Information Review Commission

Chapter 62

General Information

Background

The Hazardous Materials Information Review Commission (HMIIRC) was established by the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act, assented to on June 30, 1987 and proclaimed on October 1, 1987. The Commission is part of the Workplace Hazardous Materials Information System (WHMIS) which requires that information about the hazards of materials produced or sold in Canada or used in Canadian workplaces be provided by suppliers to employers and, in turn, by employers to employees.

Responsibilities

The mission of the Commission is to ensure the balance between industry's right to protect confidential business information and workers' right to know about the hazardous materials they are exposed to and their corresponding preventive health and safety measures.

As a vital and independent agency, accountable to Parliament through the Minister of Health, the mission of the Commission is to:

- ensure a balance between industry's right to protect confidential business information and the right of employers and workers to know about the hazardous materials they deal with in the workplace;
- provide a trade secret mechanism within WHMIS;
- resolve complaints and disputes impartially, fairly and promptly through statutory or alternate means.

To achieve its mission, the Commission carries out the following mandate under the authority of the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act and the provincial and territorial occupational health and safety acts:

- to formally register claims for trade secret exemptions, and issue Registry Numbers;
- to issue decisions on the validity of claims for exemption using prescribed regulatory criteria;
- to make decisions on the compliance of material safety data sheets (MSDSs) and labels within the WHMIS requirements as set out in the Hazardous Products Act and Controlled Products Regulations and various provincial and territorial occupational health and safety acts; and
- to convene independent, tripartite boards to hear appeals from claimants or affected parties on decisions and orders issued by the Commission.

Legislation

- Hazardous Materials Information Review Act [R.S.C. 1985, c. 24 (3rd Supp.), Part III]
- Hazardous Materials Information Review Regulations (SOR/88-456, August 25, 1988; amendment: SOR/88-510, September 29, 1988; SOR/89-288, June 1, 1989; SOR/91-419, June 20, 1991; SOR/93-234, May 11, 1993)
- Hazardous Materials Information Review Act Appeal Board Procedures Regulations (SOR/91-86, January 7, 1991)

Organization

The Commission is governed by a Council of Governors, consisting of members representing workers, suppliers, and employers, and the federal, provincial and territorial governments. Each governor is appointed by the Governor in Council to hold office for up to a three-year term. The Council is headed by a Chairperson chosen by the governors for a term of one year.

The Council is responsible for making various recommendations to the Minister of Health, including changes to the regulations respecting the Commission's fee structure, to procedures for reviewing claims for exemption and to appeal procedures.

The President and CEO is appointed by the Governor in Council, and has the authority and responsibility to supervise and direct the organization's work on a day-to-day basis. The President is accountable to the Council of Governors and the Minister of Health. The President's Office acts as Secretariat to the Council of Governors.

The Commission is organized into 2 Branches: Operations and Corporate Services and Adjudication.

♦ Operations

The Vice-President, Operations Branch, who is also the Chief Screening Officer, has the authority and responsibility to supervise and direct the work within the Client Services and MSDS Compliance business lines.

Client Services

The aim of Client Services is to assist suppliers or employers in protecting their products' confidential business information while allowing them to meet their disclosure obligations under the WHMIS.

Client Services involves the formal registration of claims for exemption, the issuance of Registry Numbers, and the security of claim-related information. Service to clients begins when the Commission is contacted by a company wanting to make a claim and needing to know what the process involves.

Client Services assists companies in protecting confidential business information while at the same time meeting their WHMIS obligations. Information is provided that can help companies present complete and accurate MSDSs with their claims. Our web site helps share this information with industry and labour. Once the application is accepted as complete, we issue the company a Registration Number for the claim in no more than seven days.

Screening Officers have the statutory responsibility to decide whether claims are valid, and for determining whether MSDSs or labels submitted with the claims comply with the WHMIS legislation.

The decision on claim validity is reached by reviewing supporting information from the claimant against the criteria prescribed in the Hazardous Materials Information Review Regulations.

MSDS Compliance

The aim of MSDS Compliance is to regulate, in the public interest, the maximum health and safety benefits in the workplace.

Screening Officers review claim related MSDSs and, in some cases, labels pursuant to the Hazardous Products Act, the Canada Labour Code, and provincial and territorial occupational health and safety legislation, and decide whether they are within the WHMIS regulatory requirements. Such decisions take into account health and safety advice prepared by scientific Evaluators in the MSDS Compliance Division.

When work begins on a file, the first step is to build a collection of scientific information relevant to each of the product's ingredients. The Evaluator will be alert for new information or information of which the company might not have been aware, trying to ensure that the MSDS reflects the current state of knowledge about the hazards that may be associated with a product.

Evaluators assess this information and prepare an advice document for the Screening Officers on the health and safety hazards posed by the product which have not been adequately disclosed on the MSDS. The Screening Officers offer claimants, and any affected party who has made representation to the Screening Officer following publication of the Notice of Filing in the Canada Gazette, an opportunity to review and comment on the health and safety information and advice provided by the Evaluators. In the case of the latter, sharing an advice document with an affected party must respect the legislative provisions which protect the confidentiality of information received from a claimant.

At the conclusion of the claim and MSDS review process, a formal Statement of Decision is forwarded to the claimant. Should a claim be ruled invalid, an order is issued to the claimant to disclose the confidential business information which was the subject of the claim. Where the MSDS or label does not meet the WHMIS requirements, the Screening Officer orders that changes be made to bring about compliance. All orders specify the period during which various changes must be made if the product is to continue to be sold in Canada.

A Notice is published in the Canada Gazette to make public the decisions and orders issued by the Screening Officer, and to initiate the time during which the claimant and affected parties may appeal the decisions or orders. If no appeal is filed, the claimant must provide a copy of the amended MSDS to the Screening Officer, who reviews it to ensure compliance with the order.

♦ Corporate Services and Adjudication

The Vice-President, Corporate Services and Adjudication Branch, who is also the Chief Appeals Officer, has the authority and responsibility to supervise and direct the work within the Dispute Resolution business line and Corporate Services.

Dispute Resolution

The aim of Dispute Resolution is to provide all parties with a range of options for discussion on issues arising from decisions and orders of the Commission in order to prevent disputes from arising and where they do arise, to address them as early and effectively as possible.

The Commission is in the process of designing and developing, through tripartite consultation, a Dispute Resolution system which will supplement and work in conjunction with the current appeals process.

The appeals process includes the convening of independent tripartite boards to hear appeals from claimants or affected parties. An appeal may relate to the compliance of an MSDS, the rejection of a claim or to request disclosure in confidence, for reasons of health and safety in a workplace, of information in respect of which a claim for exemption is made. For each appeal filed, a Notice of Appeal is published in the Canada Gazette to provide affected parties with an opportunity to make representations to the Appeal Board.

An Appeal Board is comprised of a Chairperson appointed by the Chief Appeals Officer, and two members appointed by the Chairperson: one representing suppliers and/or employers, and the other, workers. Board members are selected from lists of potential nominees established in accordance with the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act.

The final outcome of the appeals process is a decision by the Appeal Board to dismiss the appeal and confirm the decisions or orders of the Screening Officer; or to allow the appeal and either vary or rescind the decisions or orders being appealed. A Notice of Decision, including the purport and reasons, is published in the Canada Gazette.

Corporate Services

The Corporate Services Division has been mandated with a very important role: ensuring the success of the three core business lines. Corporate Services provides a full range of services to the Commission including finance, records and facilities management, security, management services, information technology, administration, human resources, communications and strategic planning.

Health Canada

Chapter 63

General Information

Background

Health Canada is the federal department responsible for helping the people of Canada maintain and improve their health. Branches were realigned July 1, 2000. For more information about the Department's structure, see About Health Canada on the web at <http://hc-sc.gc.ca/english/about.htm#org>.

Responsibilities

In partnership with provincial and territorial governments, Health Canada provides national leadership to develop health policy, enforce health regulations, promote disease prevention and enhance healthy living for all Canadians. Health Canada ensures that health services are available and accessible to First Nations and Inuit communities. It also works closely with other federal departments, agencies and health stakeholders to reduce health and safety risks to Canadians. Through its administration of the Canada Health Act, Health Canada is committed to maintaining this country's world-renowned health insurance system which is universally available to permanent residents, comprehensive in the services it covers, accessible without income barriers, portable within the country and publicly funded. Each province and territory administers its own health care plan with respect for these five basic principles of the Canada Health Act. Many factors including family history, social or financial status, physical environment and personal lifestyle choices influence individual health. By making Canadians more aware of dangers to their health, protecting them from avoidable risks and encouraging them to take a more active role in their health, Health Canada fosters a healthier population and contributes to a more productive country.

Organization

Chief Scientist

The Office of the Chief Scientist provides clear advantages to the Department by providing a central focal point for greater leadership, coherence and expertise to the overall strategic direction of the Department's scientific responsibilities, activities and needs. Sound science is central to sound policy development and decision making in Health Canada. The key role of the Chief Scientist will be to ensure the quality of science in the Department.

Corporate Services Branch

CSB provides financial planning and administration, human resources services, assets management, occupational health and safety, security operations, and Ministerial and Deputy Ministerial correspondence services.

◆ Assets Management Directorate

The Assets Management Directorate (AMD) supports the effective management of physical assets and the occupational health, safety, and security of the employees of Health Canada. The range of services in support of Departmental programs, includes: materiel acquisition and utilization; custodial and leased property acquisition, maintenance and disposal; facilities planning; building and tenant services; occupational health and safety, security; and environmental management for its facilities. The Directorate develops and maintains policies, systems, and procedures governing the management of these services within Health Canada.

◆ Client Services Renewal Secretariat

In November 1999, the Senior Assistant Deputy Minister (SADM) launched a service renewal initiative aimed at improving the delivery of corporate services in Health Canada. To oversee the improvement initiatives, the SADM of CSB has established a Client Services Renewal Secretariat. The objectives of the renewal initiative include, but are not limited to: modernizing corporate services to meet our clients' evolving business needs; helping our clients meet their business objectives by supporting them with more focussed services; improving communications; developing strong partnerships; enhancing a client-focussed culture in the delivery of corporate services. Several improvement initiatives are already under way such as improving the ministerial correspondence process, strengthening the facilities management function, reducing the paper burden, improving information, developing service commitments and simplifying the staffing process.

◆ Departmental Planning and Financial Administration Directorate

The focus of this Directorate is the management of departmental resources. Its role is to implement, interpret and administer the regulations, policies and processes associated with resource planning and utilization and financial administration (comptrollership) across the Department. Directorate activities include the provision of direct services such as financial planning, accounting, functional and advisory assistance to managers, and financial systems support and training to all branches. The Departmental Services Directorate is responsible for tracking, reporting, record-keeping, editing, proofreading, writing and word processing activities, as well as coordination, analysis and advice related to the management of Ministerial and Deputy Ministerial correspondence, on behalf of the Department. It also manages write-in campaigns and tracks Cabinet documents and action requests from the Deputy Minister's and Minister's offices.

◆ Human Resources Directorate

The role of this Directorate is to support the effective management of the Department's human resources. To this end, it provides advice and a wide range of programs and services to support managers in the identification, acquisition, development, and deployment of employees. The Directorate's goal is to ensure values that promote fairness, recognize competence and encourage opportunities for growth and development. The Directorate also has a continuing and critical role in ensuring integrity and good judgement in the application of legislation and policies concerning the management of human resources.

◆ Internal Audit Directorate

The role of Internal Audit is to conduct independent reviews of the Department's operations, activities, systems and functions to ensure that they support the delivery of departmental programs in an economic, efficient and effective manner. The coverage, objectives and scope of internal audits is overseen by a departmental Audit and Evaluation Committee, which also approves all audit reports and monitors the implementation of appropriate corrective action in response to audit recommendations.

◆ Special Projects Directorate

The Special Projects Directorate supports the Senior Assistant Deputy Minister, Corporate Services Branch and departmental senior management in the conduct and administration of a wide range of department-wide and government-wide projects through their life cycle. The Directorate undertakes special projects which support the improved delivery of Health Canada programs, the enhanced management of its resources and the provision of quality services. The Directorate participates, on behalf of the branch or department, in new initiatives being developed or introduced by central agencies to improve management efficiency and effectiveness. The Directorate provides expert advice and develops management frameworks for effective management of department wide programs (eg. sustainable development, environmental management system).

First Nations and Inuit Health Branch

The Medical Services Branch is a highly decentralized, client-oriented organization which is responsible for several programs. The activities provide health services to status Indians living on-reserve and to Inuit people. The delivery of health services and the management of Indian and Northern Health Services are conducted through regional offices, zone offices and a network of hospitals, nursing stations, health centres and various other health facilities, many of which are situated in remote and isolated locations.

♦ Executive Services

The objective of this office is to provide support to the Assistant Deputy Minister through the management of policy support to the Minister, executive support to the Deputy Minister and Assistant Deputy Minister; the executive management of branch activities among headquarters directorates and regional operations; ministerial correspondence and inquiries; parliamentary business; translation services; and Privacy and Access to Information services.

♦ First Nations and Inuit Health Programs Directorate

The objective of the directorate is to work with regions and national First Nations and Inuit organizations to assist First Nations and Inuit people and communities improve their health. FNIHP carries out its objective by: conducting health and program surveillance activities to identify trends and emerging issues to facilitate program design, implementation and evaluation; supporting regions, other directorates, the Department and national First Nations and Inuit organizations in the coordination of health programs to enable effective program development, delivery and evaluation; planning for and implementing the transfer of programs and functions managed nationally to First Nations and Inuit organizations and/or regions to improve the responsiveness of programs to the changing needs of First Nations and Inuit people.

♦ Non-Insured Health Benefits Directorate

The objective of this directorate is to provide national policy and coordination with regard to the delivery and management of the NIHB program, to assist regions in the management of the program and to manage the national claims processing system for pharmacy and dental benefits.

♦ Northern Secretariat

The Northern Secretariat was created in 1998 to support Health Canada's role with respect to Nunavut and to ensure consistency in the management of FNIHB program responsibilities in the Yukon, Nunavut and the Northwest Territories.

♦ Office of the Special Advisor Aboriginal Health

Responsible for the provision of policy advice with respect to Aboriginal health issues.

♦ Program Policy, Transfer Secretariat and Planning Directorate

The objective of this directorate is to assist and support First Nations and Inuit as they assume control of health resources through a variety of initiatives such as health program transfer and self-government; to provide policy development, advice and support for senior management and branch regional offices; and to coordinate the planning, management support and informatics/Y2K Preparedness services for First Nations and Inuit Health Branch.

♦ Regional Director(s)

Indian and Northern Health Services activities are largely delivered by seven regional offices which correspond to provincial and territorial boundaries, except for the Atlantic Region which includes all of the Atlantic provinces. Program delivery is highly decentralized and client oriented and is conducted through the regional offices, zone offices and service centres, and a network of hospitals, nursing stations, health centres and various other health facilities, many of which are situated in remote and isolated locations. The regional offices are headed by Regional Directors who report directly to the Assistant Deputy Minister. Regional Directors have delegated authority to manage regional budgets, which are determined each year by the Branch Executive Committee. A total of 1,200 First Nations and Inuit Health Branch staff work in these regions.

Health Policy and Communications Branch

The Health Policy and Communications Branch (HPC) provides advice and support to the Minister, the departmental executive and to program branches in the areas of policy development, intergovernmental and international affairs, strategic planning and review, communications and consultation, and the administration of the Canada Health Act.

♦ Communications, Marketing and Consultation Directorate

The Communications and Consultation Directorate provides communications and consultations advice and support to the department and the Minister, implements and evaluates communications strategies, prepares communications plans for Memoranda to Cabinet, and advises senior managers on high profile public issues as they emerge. It provides advice and support for Health Canada's consultations and citizen engagement strategies for major policy and program issues and initiatives.

◆ Health Care Directorate

The Health Care Directorate is responsible for providing overall policy advice and support to the Minister on Health System Renewal, which is one of the Business Lines of Health Canada. This responsibility includes providing broad advice on the financing, future directions and sustainability of the publicly funded health system, as well as specific policy advice on current health care priorities, including: primary care; health human resources; home and community care; pharmaceuticals; quality care; and accountability.

◆ Intergovernmental Affairs Directorate

The Intergovernmental Affairs Directorate is responsible for three areas: Canada Health Act interpretation, monitoring, and enforcement; Federal/Provincial/Territorial Relations.

◆ International Affairs Directorate

The International Affairs Directorate initiates, coordinates and monitors departmental policies, strategies and activities in the international field. It provides advice on the department's strategic approach to international affairs; ensures the department's international activities are internally coherent and consistent with government-wide policies; and recommends departmental representation at international meetings.

◆ Management Services Directorate

This directorate develops and provides management services in support of priority setting, planning, coordination and operations across the branch. It provides leadership in the management of cross-branch projects, problem solving and management of change.

◆ Nursing Policy

This new function was created in June 1998 to strengthen the focus on nursing policy issues within Health Canada. It is responsible for advising Health Canada on the nursing perspective on various policy issues and programs, representing that perspective in various fora, contributing to health policy formulation and program development, and working closely with the nursing community in developing advice to the Minister and the Department.

◆ Policy, Planning and Priorities Directorate

The Policy, Planning and Priorities Directorate provides strategic policy and planning advice to the Minister and Senior Management. In the development and coordination of policy, the directorate is guided by government priorities, the horizontal nature of policy issues, and the ongoing need for policy cohesion. Key partnerships include the other branches of the department, the central agencies, other federal departments, other levels of government, and also the non-governmental sector.

◆ Women's Health Bureau

The main responsibilities of the Women's Health Bureau are to promote, monitor and report on the implementation of Health Canada's Women's Health Strategy and to administer the Centres of Excellence for Women's Health Program. Its primary functions are: ensuring that women's health concerns receive appropriate attention and emphasis within the department; promoting an understanding of gender as a critical variable in health; promoting the implementation of a systematic gender-based analysis process throughout the Department; analysing and assessing the impact of programs, policies and practices in the health system, broadly defined, on women and women's health; maintaining an ongoing relationship with major health and women's organizations and promoting women's active involvement in their own health and well-being.

Health Products and Food Branch

Health Products and Food Branch has two main goals: promote good nutrition and informed use of drugs, food and natural health products; maximize the safety and efficacy of drugs, food, natural health products, medical devices, biologics and related biotechnology products in the Canadian marketplace and health system. Major programs are: therapeutic products (medical devices and drugs); food, including all Health Canada nutrition activities; natural health products; biologics and genetics (blood and blood products, viral and bacterial vaccines, genetic therapies and diagnostics, tissues, organs, xenotransplants, radiopharmaceuticals, and reproductive technologies); Office of Consumer Affairs and Public Involvement (OCAP); Office of Biotechnology and Science Health Products and Food Litigation Secretariat.

◆ Biologics and Genetics Directorate

The Biologics and Genetics Directorate will be formed over the next year, as announced in the document entitled "Realigning Health Canada To Better Serve Canadians." This new directorate is envisaged as being the national authority that evaluates and monitors the safety, effectiveness, and quality of biological products (including blood and blood products, viral and bacterial vaccines, genetic therapies and diagnostics, tissues, organs, xenotransplants, radiopharmaceuticals, and reproductive technologies).

◆ Food Directorate

The vision of the Health Canada Food Directorate is to be a client-focused organization within an integrated public health network recognized worldwide as a leader in protecting and improving health through public health policy related to safe and nutritious food for Canadians. Recognizing that food is fundamental to health, the mission of the Food Directorate is to protect and improve the health of the people of Canada through science-based policies and programs related to safe and nutritious food. Areas of work include veterinary drugs, food additives, chemical and microbiological contaminants, nutrients, novel foods, and food components and processes, e.g., food irradiation. The Directorate is responsible for the development of appropriate policies, procedures, regulations and guidelines to help ensure a high standard of safety and nutritional quality of foods and the safety and efficacy of veterinary drugs. These responsibilities are carried out through coordinated programs of scientific research, evaluation and regulatory activities under the authority of the Food and Drugs Act and Regulations and the Department of Health Act. In addition, under the Canadian Food Inspection Agency Act the Directorate is responsible for assessing the effectiveness of the activities of the Canadian Food Inspection Agency related to food safety.

◆ Natural Health Products

On March 26, 1999, Health Minister Allan Rock announced that he had accepted all 53 recommendations made in the Standing Committee report on natural health products. In accordance with the Standing Committee's report, the Minister also announced the creation of a new Office of Natural Health Products (ONHP) that will provide Canadian consumers with the assurance of safety while enhancing consumer access and choice to a full range of natural health products. The new Office of Natural Health Products will be responsible for all regulatory functions within the life-cycle of natural health products. The objective is to ensure a balance between Canadian's freedom of choice with respect to natural health products and the assurance of consumer safety. A Transition Team has been created by the Minister to: identify broad policy directions for the new Office; help define the work being carried out by the Office – including research; consult with relevant stakeholders on the policies and guidelines necessary for the regulatory framework for natural health products – in accordance with the Standing Committee's report; and assist the Executive Director to establish a new Expert Advisory Committee.

◆ Office of Consumer Affairs and Public Involvement

The Office of Consumer Affairs and Public Involvement promotes citizen input into the Health Products and Food Branch's policies, programs and decisions by designing citizen engagement initiatives for branch managers.

◆ Policy and Strategic Planning Directorate

This directorate is accountable for the management of key strategic policy and planning files/issues in support of and as assigned by the ADM, Health Products and Food Branch; for the integration of strategic policy and planning initiatives with departmental policies and programs; and strategic input into branch business plans, and priorities.

◆ Regional Directors

Regional Operations are concerned mainly with issues within three programs: Therapeutic Products (which include drugs and medical devices – also covers blood, tissues and organs), Food, and Environmental Health (safety of consumer products). Regional inspectors conduct inspections of manufacturing / processing plants for the Therapeutic Products Program and the Environmental Health Program. They also investigate product complaints from all sources including consumers. Regional drug laboratory personnel perform analyses of domestic and imported products including products that may help in the investigation of a complaint. They also support police forces with the investigation of illicit drugs. Regional food laboratories provide support to the policy, standard-setting, and risk assessment activities of the Food Program. The five regional offices are managed by Regional Directors who report organizationally to the Assistant Deputy Minister of the branch and functionally to the Program Directors General. The Health of Animals Laboratory is concerned with risk assessment and research on pre-harvest food safety.

◆ Therapeutic Products Directorate

The Therapeutic Products Programme is the national authority that evaluates and monitors the safety, effectiveness, and quality of drugs, medical devices and other therapeutic products available to Canadians.

Healthy Environments and Consumer Safety Branch

The Healthy Environments and Consumer Safety Branch promotes healthy and safe living, working and recreational environments. It provides occupational health and safety services within the federal government and establishes public health policies and services to protect the health of the travelling public and dignitaries visiting Canada. It assesses and reduces health risks posed by environmental factors and it regulates the safety of industrial and consumer goods. The branch also regulates tobacco and controlled substances, coordinates Canada's Drug Strategy, promotes initiatives that reduce or prevent the harm associated with tobacco, alcohol and other substances, and provides expert advice and drug analysis services to law enforcement agencies across the country. Finally, it is responsible for coordinating and monitoring Health Canada's Sustainable Development Strategy.

◆ Controlled Substances and Drug Strategy

Reducing and preventing the harm associated with drugs, alcohol and other substances through coordinating Canada's Drug Strategy; fulfilling Canada's obligations under UN Drug Conventions and collaborating at the international level to address the global drug problem; managing policy and regulatory activities to ensure that controlled substances including industrial hemp are confined to scientific, medical or industrial uses as well as to prevent diversion, misuse or abuse; undertaking initiatives related to prevention, treatment and rehabilitation and harm reduction; coordinating research activities on the use of marihuana for medical purposes and providing expert advice and drug analysis services to Canada's law enforcement agencies.

◆ Occupational Health and Safety Agency

The Occupational Health and Safety Agency (OHSA) works in partnership with departments to help them achieve and maintain a safer, healthier workplace, through advice and consultation and an integrated package of direct services, covering all aspects of work life. OHSA develops customized solutions to manage the various risks that can arise in the workplace. The Agency also provides public health services including food and water sanitation inspections on common carriers and cruise ships, emergency quarantine services, and a VIP Program which coordinates health-care services for foreign dignitaries on official visits to Canada.

◆ Product Safety Directorate

The Product Safety Program's mandate is to regulate and monitor compliance for the advertisement, sale and importation of hazardous or potentially hazardous products that are not covered by other legislations and to provide clients with information. The mission of the Product Safety Program is to prevent product-related death, illness and injury.

◆ Tobacco Control Directorate

The Bureau for Tobacco Control has recently been created as a single organization which incorporates the expertise and functions of tobacco related activities within Health Canada. To improve the cohesiveness of its tobacco control efforts and to better coordinate anti-smoking efforts, both the Health Canada representatives in the regions and in the National Capital Area will consolidate activities in policy, coordination/liaison, public education/promotion, research, surveillance and evaluation. One of the objectives of the Bureau is to better integrate work related to the "protection activities" with the "promotion". The Bureau will continue to work with provinces and territories to enforce tobacco control legislation and reduce sales to minors.

Information, Analysis and Connectivity Branch

The mandate is to promote evidence-based decision making at all levels in the health system; to make effective use of information technology in a knowledge management context; and to further develop a dynamic learning culture based on sound analysis within the Department. A key element of the federal health agenda is to facilitate evidence-based decision-making at all levels of the health system (i.e. governments, institutions, professionals and consumers). The establishment of an integrated health information (and knowledge) structure in Canada in general, and within Health Canada in particular, is one of the essential tools that will enable wider and better use of health-related information. The Information, Analysis and Connectivity Branch (IACB) brings together, in one organization, three key levers of the information spectrum from the creation of knowledge and information through analytical research to the dissemination of that information through the information highway. IACB will, at the same time, build strong information management and technology networks in the Department and externally with clients and stakeholders. Through the Information Analysis & Connectivity Branch, the Department hopes to: improve the analytical basis of decision-making; develop the long-range strategic framework and policies that establish, direct and redirect the involvement of the federal government in health research policy; develop the creative use of the information highway in the health sector; and, in cooperation with the provinces and territories, the private sector and international partners, provide advice, expertise and assistance with respect to information management and information technology, planning and operations.

◆ Applied Research and Analysis Directorate

The Applied Research and Analysis Directorate (ARAD), in consultation with clients and stakeholders, will develop and implement a strategic policy research agenda for medium to long-term issues, while at the same time maintaining the flexibility to respond to requirements for short-term problem analysis. The Directorate will also develop and direct a research publications program along with a program of data management for the Department. An internal professional presentation capacity to better package and market health-related information will round-out the communications activities.

◆ Information Management Services Directorate

The Information Management Services Directorate (IMSD) supports Health Canada by providing efficient, quality information management (IM), information technology (IT), and knowledge management services (KM). The Directorate provides library services, mail delivery and records management services, advice and Access to Information and Privacy.

◆ Government On-Line Project

On the October 12, 1999 Speech from the Throne, the federal government affirmed its commitment to be the government most connected to its citizens by 2004 and to provide Canadians with electronic access to government information and services at the time and place of their choosing. The completion of the Government On-Line (GOL) initiative will mean improved service to Canadians, and place Canada in an attractive position to invest and do business in the growing e-marketplace.

◆ Health Research Secretariat

With the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR) now a reality, the Health Research Secretariat, established in May 2000, will coordinate and support departmental relationships/collaborations with CIHR. A unique feature of this secretariat will be the integration of all branch/regional perspectives via a Research Fellowship Program. The Health Research Secretariat will have a key role to play in the CIHR objective — the translation of new knowledge into improved health for Canadians, more effective health services and products, and a strengthened Canadian health care system.

♦ Office of Health and Information Highway

The Office of Health and the Information Highway (OHIH) was created in recognition of the growing importance of information and communications technologies in virtually all aspects of the health sector, to assist the Minister of Health and Health Canada address new and evolving issues and develop a longer term strategy regarding Canada's Health Infostructure. Through the creation of OHIH, in the summer of 1997, the Department gave itself a focal point for coordinating, facilitating and managing health infostructure-related activities both within Health Canada and with external stakeholders. OHIH's goal is to serve the health needs of the people of Canada through the use of information and communications technologies. OHIH has been actively involved in major initiatives which underpin the national strategy including: the Minister's Advisory Council on Health Infostructure which completed its mandate by presenting its final report to the Minister in February 1999; the establishment of the F/P/T Health Chief Information Officers Forum, now expanded as the F/P/T Advisory Committee on Health Infostructure; project oversight and management coordination for Health Canada's core infostructure projects namely the Canadian Health Network (CHN), National Health Surveillance Initiative (NHSI), and the First Nations Health Information System (FNHIS); the implementation of the Health Infostructure Support Program (HISP); in partnership with Alberta Health, the hosting of the National Conference on Health Infostructure in Edmonton, Alberta, in February 1998; facilitation of a seminar on tele-homecare involving innovators and a roundtable with homecare providers; policy research and development on issues concerning the Health Infostructure, including the development of a series of papers addressing such issues as protection of health information, electronic health records, unique identifiers, telehealth and rural area and consumer health information; and, strategic alliances with other governments and health sector organizations.

Planning & Operations Directorate

The Planning and Operations Directorate is responsible for the development and co-ordination of branch strategic and business plans, including development of performance measures and input to Departmental planning documents; liaison with other departments and central agencies on planning and operational issues; the conduct of special projects; the development of branch policies and procedures and the provision of advice and leadership in the application of good management practices; co-ordination of audits and evaluations; provision of branch management services including finance, human resources, facilities management and administrative services such as occupational safety and health, access to information, records management and security.

Pest Management Regulatory Agency

PMRA is responsible for protecting human health and the environment by minimizing the risks associated with pest control products. The agency's health activities will be linked to those of other branches, with emphasis on: monitoring disease trends to provide a signal of potential health effects from pesticide exposure assessing the impact of pesticide use on the quality of the Canadian food supply regulating pesticides that are no longer registered but find their way into the environment as contaminants. PMRA collaborates with Environment Canada, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA), and other organizations in environmental and pesticide research and monitoring, including sustainable pest management. Branch Executive Committee. A total of 1,200 First Nations and Inuit Health Branch staff work in these regions.

Population and Public Health Branch

Population and Public Health Branch (PPHB) is primarily responsible for maintaining systems for and carrying out surveillance and health interventions to promote health and reduce risk factors or change individuals or group behaviour so as to avoid or mitigate injury, illness or disease. The branch is also responsible for the Canada Health Network (CHN), a national Internet-based service that will provide information on health promotion, disease prevention, self care and the performance of health system.

♦ Centre for Chronic Disease Prevention and Control

The Centre's proposed mandate is to reduce the burden of chronic disease in Canada through building an evidence base for policies and programs, detecting and assessing chronic disease threats, and providing leadership to make the best use of available knowledge and resources for chronic disease prevention and control.

♦ Centre for Emergency Response

The Centre for Emergency Response establishes high level project plans and federal contingency standards that are used to ensure readiness to deliver health care in the event of a crisis or emergency. It also provides expert advice and guidance to other departments, governments and agencies, nationally and internationally for combatting the threat of terrorism. As well, it provides leadership in surveillance coordination, analysis and risk assessment, advice, guidance, preparedness planning, and response to emergency situations. The Centre is responsible for regulating the importation of human pathogens, laboratory biosafety, quarantine, international outbreaks, international surveillance/medical intelligence, and for HC's activities with the Special Threat Assessment Group (STAG).

♦ Centre for Healthy Human Development

The Centre for Healthy Human Development (CHHD) encompasses the Childhood and Youth Division, the Bureau of Reproductive and Child Health, the Division of Aging and Seniors, the Health Issues Division, the Office of Rural Health, the Secretariat for Injury Prevention and the Canadian Health Network. Built on the concept of a comprehensive multidisciplinary approach (physicians, epidemiologists, social scientists, health promotion experts, etc.), CHHD is responsible for developing and implementing policies and programs that address critical health issues and risk factors, with a particular focus on community capacity building and the life stages.

◆ Centre for Infectious Disease Prevention and Control

The Centre for Infectious Disease Prevention and Control promotes improvement in population health status in the area of infectious diseases through public health action. Its objectives are to decrease transmission of infectious disease and to improve the health status of those infected.

◆ Centre for Surveillance Coordination

The Centre for Surveillance Coordination will provide leadership to enhance the capability to undertake health surveillance at national, provincial and local levels. This includes coordinating branch surveillance activities, pilot projects, standard development, policy issues related to information and skills development.

◆ Management Planning and Operations Directorate

The Management Planning and Operations Directorate is a centre of leadership and expertise that provides branch-wide services supporting the development of programs, including: comptrollership and operational planning; evaluation of performance measurement, monitoring and reporting; training, development and organizational renewal; administrative services such as accommodations, informatics, information management, Ministerial correspondence, and grants and contributions. The Population Health Fund provides time-limited funding to Canadian voluntary non-profit organizations and educational institutions.

◆ Strategic Policy Directorate

Strategic Policy Directorate is accountable for horizontal management of key strategic policy files in support of and as assigned by the Assistant deputy Minister, Population and Public Health; for the integration of strategic policy initiatives with the complete array of departmental policies and programs; for managing the branch strategic planning efforts and providing strategic input to the branch business plans, priorities, expenditures forecasts and resource projections; for providing a key interlocutory role with outside resources, opinion shapers and partners; the management of specific initiatives (voluntary sector) and the development of policy and program proposals.

Regional Directors General

Regional Directors General will become the focal point for the Department in their region, including ensuring, in their region, horizontal coordination and cohesion across both programs and issues, and in relations with provinces, territories and partners. They have also been given operational responsibility for program delivery in specific program areas.

Canadian Surveillance for Creutzfeldt – Jakob Disease

Description: This data will be collected about people with Creutzfeldt – Jakob disease and persons who do not have Creutzfeldt – Jakob disease (controls) by reviewing their clinical records for clinical information and for information about exposure to blood or certain procedures. Additional information will be collected by interviews with the family, by collecting blood samples for genetic tests and by collecting neuropathology samples after death. Class of Individuals: All persons who develop Creutzfeldt – Jakob disease and their controls, recruited through physicians from hospitals and the local community. Purpose: To determine the risk of acquiring Creutzfeldt – Jakob disease through blood transfusions; to determine if there is any unusual forms of Creutzfeldt – Jakob disease as seen in England following the bovine spongiform encephalopathy (mad cow disease) epidemic. Consistent Uses: None. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of 10 yrs, then reviewed for possible transfer to NAC (excluding questionnaires which may be destroyed after 2 yrs). PAC Number: 613215 TBS Registration: 004904 Bank Number: HCan PPU 286

Child Acute Respiratory Effects Study

Description: This bank contains information on the respiratory illnesses and pulmonary function measures and the ages of 100 females aged 7 to 15 years attending a girl guide camp (Camp Kiawa) in July and August of 1986. Data on parental smoking habits, education and other home characteristics were collected. Allergy test and heart rate monitoring results are also recorded. Class of Individuals: Girls aged 7 to 15 years who attended Camp Kiawa from July 1 to August 10, 1986. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to examine the relationship between transported air pollution and respiratory health in children. Consistent Uses: There will be no disclosure of any personal information from this data bank. Only summary statistics and conclusions drawn from the study will be publicly disclosed. There will be no linking and matching of information in this data bank with any other information or data bank presently existing. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of 10 yrs, then reviewed for possible transfer to NAC (excluding questionnaires which may be destroyed after 2 yrs). PAC Number: 613215 TBS Registration: 004096 Bank Number: HCan PPU 036

Drug Investigation (Users and Distribution) Files

Description: This bank contains information on people investigated under the Narcotic Control Act and Regulations, and the Food and Drugs Act and Regulations. It consists of reports prepared by the police departments, the Department of Justice, the Department of the Solicitor General, Crown counsel and lawyers on investigations concerning persons involved in illicit drug use and distribution. It also consists of information received as a result of the monitoring of drug importation, manufacture, distribution and prescription. It includes the following personal information: name, address, date of birth, fingerprints, sex, occupation, drug involvement, and details of the investigation, arrest and the case disposition, details of drugs, things, and assets seized and their disposition. Class of Individuals: In addition to the requirements indicated on the Record Access Request Form, requesters must provide their full name, date of birth and place of birth. In cases where the information is deemed to be of a sensitive nature enquirers will be required to provide appropriate identifying information about themselves at the time of access to ensure the personal information relates to them and not to another person of similar name and description. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to ensure that the use of narcotic and controlled drugs is limited exclusively to medical and scientific purposes, to prevent diversion of those drugs to other uses and to facilitate administration of asset disposal. The information in the bank is used in making decisions in enforcing the regulations concerning the prescribing and dispensing of narcotic and controlled drugs by practitioners and pharmacists and the receipt and use of such drugs by individuals; in making decisions in connection with the disposition of drugs and things (including money, conveyances and other assets) seized under the authority of the Narcotic Control Act and Food and Drugs Act; to prepare statistics (drug use and conviction) for health planning purposes, on drug use in Canada and in the preparation of the annual report required by the United Nations Narcotic Commission. This information is not used for any administrative purpose and is not retrievable by the name of the individual. Consistent Uses: Information from this bank may be released to provincial licensing authorities of the health professions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Cannabis cases where assets or other drugs are seized are kept five years from the date of final disposition or last correspondence, whichever is later. Cannabis cases with international implications which are reported to the United Nations are kept until a final report is submitted to that organization. Such reports are kept for two months after the last action taken. Offence reports dealing with cannabis-only offenses, where no assets are seized, are kept for only two months or until the information has been extracted on a depersonalized basis and recorded for statistical purposes. Reports are then destroyed. PAC Number: 75-021 TBS Registration: 004098 Bank Number: HCan PPU 055

Description: This bank contains recommendations and biographical information, as well as related correspondence, on persons recommended as nominees for an Order of Canada Award. Class of Individuals: Personal information on persons in sport or recreation who are nominated for the Order of Canada Award. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain an inventory of recommendations on persons in sport or recreation who may be nominated for an Order of Canada Award. The inventory of unsuccessful candidates is used for reconsideration of Award nominations. Consistent Uses: Use of this bank is consistent with the purpose specified in part 5. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for three years and are then forwarded to the National Archives of Canada. TBS Registration: 002738 Bank Number: HCan PPU 240

Pesticide Biological Monitoring Pilot Study

Description: Contains the name, address, socio-economic status, racial origin, religion, sex, country of birth, sample date, sample type (urine, semen, etc.), farm characteristics, chronic disease and accident histories of farm families participating in this study. Class of Individuals: Ontario farm families selected from the previous Ontario Farm Family Health Study (Personal Information Bank HCan-PPU-037 refers). Purpose: Obtain measures of pesticide levels and to assess effects on general health and male reproductive health, obtain data on chronic diseases and injuries; assess other risks to health. Consistent Uses: Epidemiological research only. In some instances, study information may be released to participant's family physicians with consent. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of 10 yrs, then reviewed for possible transfer to NAC (excluding questionnaires which may be destroyed after 2 yrs). PAC Number: 613215 Related to PR#: HCan 003 190 TBS Registration: 004105 Bank Number: HCan PPU 035

Physician Asthma Management Study

Description: Contains information provided by selected Canadian physicians on the management and education of asthmatic patients. Data includes name, address, age, specialty of physician, as well as descriptive indicators of their asthma management practice behaviours. Class of Individuals: Canadian physicians (family physicians / general practitioners, pediatricians, respirologists, allergists / immunologists, interns) with asthmatic patients. Purpose: To collect information on the variety and quality of asthma care and education in Canada; to provide advice to the National Asthma Control Task Force. Consistent Uses: None, Physicians may be asked to consent to individual patient follow-up by the investigators. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of 10 yrs, then reviewed for possible transfer to NAC (excluding questionnaires which may be destroyed after 2 yrs). PAC Number: 613215 TBS Registration: 004106 Bank Number: HCan PPU 086

Practitioner and Pharmacist Files

Description: This bank contains information concerning the prescription, utilization and distribution of narcotic and controlled drugs by practitioners and pharmacists. It also contains reports prepared by Drugs Directorate inspectors and enforcement agencies concerning the misuse and abuse of drugs by health professionals, and investigations with respect to such diversion. Class of Individuals: Practitioners and pharmacists. Purpose: It is used in connection with drug control programs to ensure that narcotic and controlled drugs are used for legitimate medical purposes and are not diverted to illicit avenues. Consistent Uses: It is also used as a basis to make decisions concerning notifications to pharmacists and licensed narcotic and controlled drug dealers not to supply narcotic and/or controlled drugs on the strength of orders issued by certain pharmacists and orders and prescriptions issued by certain practitioners. It also serves as a basis for decisions concerning prosecution action relating to health professionals. Information from this bank may be released to provincial licensing authorities of the health profession. Information may also be provided to provincial licensing authorities in the health professions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Practitioner files are retained for two years after death; if retired or lapsed registration, for five years with no history of drug-related problems; and for ten years with a history of drug-related problems. Pharmacist files are retained for two years after death; if currently registered for five years after last correspondence if retired or lapsed registration; and for ten years after the last date of correspondence or registration. TBS Registration: 002728 Bank Number: HCan PPU 050

Purchase Records of Hospitals, Licensed Pharmaceutical Companies, and Provincially-Registered Practitioners and Pharmacists

Description: This bank contains purchase records of narcotics and controlled drugs made by licensed pharmaceutical companies and hospitals as well as currently registered practitioners and pharmacists who are entitled to purchase and/or prescribe narcotic and controlled drugs under the "Narcotic Control Act" and "Food and Drugs Act". Class of Individuals: Pharmacists, physicians, dentists, veterinarians, hospitals and licensed pharmaceutical companies. Purpose: This bank is used to ensure that licensed narcotic and controlled drugs dealers supply narcotic and controlled drugs only to authorized persons. Consistent Uses: It is also used to monitor and assess purchases of narcotics and controlled drugs made by pharmacists, physicians, dentists, veterinarians, hospitals and licensed pharmaceutical companies. Information from this bank may be released to provincial licensing authorities of the health professions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records on individual cases are held for eight months for pharmacy sales reports and for three years for licensed dealers sales reports. PAC Number: 75-021 TBS Registration: 004107 Bank Number: HCan PPU 045

Record of Researchers

Description: This bank provides a list of persons authorized to use, and who are using narcotic, controlled and restricted drugs in research work. Class of Individuals: It is primarily concerned with scientists and medical and paramedical professionals. Purpose: The bank is used to ensure that persons using narcotic, controlled and restricted drugs for research purposes have been authorized to do so. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records in individual cases are held for ten years. TBS Registration: 002726 Bank Number: HCan PPU 040

Spousal Determinants in Delayed Response to Chest Discomfort Survey

Description: The telephone survey contains information on how a woman would respond if her partner consulted her regarding chest discomfort. Personal information will only be collected on those individuals who agree to participate in future surveys on the same subjects. Personal identifiers collected will include name, address, age, and telephone number. Class of Individuals:

Respondents are randomly selected adult women chosen by telephone number in Ottawa-Carleton. Purpose: Future surveys on delay determinants would be enhanced if repeated on the same individuals to examine changes over time or after community targeted interventions.

Consistent Uses: To match an individual's response from the first survey to subsequent surveys. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of 10 yrs, then reviewed for possible transfer to NAC (excluding questionnaires which may be destroyed after 2 yrs). PAC Number: 613215 TBS Registration: 004108 Bank Number: Hcan PPU 091

Student Lung Health Survey

Description: This bank contains information provided by students (ages 5 to 19) and their parents / guardians. The following personal information is in the bank: the parent's name, postal code, education, income, the student's name, date of birth, and sex. In addition, there is information on the student's lung health and the factors that may affect it. Class of Individuals: The information relates to students (and their parent / guardian) attending selected schools within the jurisdiction of nine volunteer public health units. The public health units are part of the Sentinel Health Unit Surveillance System (SHUSS).

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to collect enhanced surveillance data on current asthmatic and asthma-like students. Information will be collected on asthma prevalence, incidence, severity, clinical treatment, patience compliance, environmental control measures, asthma education, risk factors, health care utilization, and demographic and socioeconomic factors. This is needed for the planning and implementation of effective asthma control programs / measures in Canada. Consistent Uses: Respondents may be contacted in the future to provide other health related information. This information may be shared with other programs within Health Canada. The public health units will retain the original questionnaires and data for their own health services delivery. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of 10 yrs, then reviewed for possible transfer to NAC (excluding questionnaires which may be destroyed after 2 yrs). PAC Number: 613215 TBS Registration: 004110 Bank Number: HCan PPU 081

Traveller Illness Reports

Description: The Traveller Illness Report form will collect information on an individual who arrives ill at a port of entry (airport, seaport, border crossing, etc.) as well as when needed, other passengers in contact with the ill individual(s). Information collected include some, if not all, of the following: traveller's (or contact's) name, nationality, home address and phone number, address and phone number while in Canada (if different), transporter details (airline, ship, seat/cabin number, etc.), ill traveller's symptoms (high fever, coughing, rash, bleeding, etc.), travel history, particularly if there has been recent travel in a tropical country, if any, similar illness in travel companions preliminary diagnosis, if available, if the traveller is being referred to hospital for medical attention, details on the ambulance, hospital, immigration status of the ill individual (and if not Canadian, passport number), name and phone number of person reporting the ill traveller. Class of Individuals: Travellers arriving at a Canadian port of entry who exhibit two or more symptoms of illness. Purpose: The Traveller Illness Report form is used to document arriving ill individuals and their contacts in order to determine the amount of illness among travellers and to proactively identify unusual incidences of diseases overseas as well as to facilitate tracing of passengers in the event of an outbreak of diseases of significance. Consistent Uses: Nominal information collected by the Traveller Illness Report form will not be matched with any other personal information bank. Data on countries visited and symptoms exhibited may be collected for research purposes. Disclosure of an individual's information will be limited, on a need-to-know basis, to appropriate port of entry personnel, Health Canada quarantine officials and, in the case of someone who requires further medical attention at a health care institution, medical staff as well as immigration authorities, should the traveller not be Canadian. Retention and Disposal Standards: Nominal and tracing information will be retained for at least two incubation periods of the suspected illness, to a maximum of three months, in order to ensure that there is no secondary spread of the illness. After abstraction of data on countries visited and symptoms for research purposes, the form will be retained for 2 years, then destroyed. TBS Registration: 004064 Bank Number: HCan PPU 071

Tuberculosis Database

Description: Contains information collected and provided since 1996 by provincial and territorial offices of tuberculosis about persons reported with TB. Data may include name, address, date and place of birth, sex, marital status, clinical data, any unique identifier and aboriginal status. For deceased persons, data may include cause and date of death. Some reports may include follow-up treatment and compliance. Earlier data are retained by Statistics Canada in Personal Information Bank STC PPU 070. Class of Individuals: Individuals with new active or reactivated tuberculosis. Purpose: To support the prevention and control of tuberculosis. Consistent Uses: None. Information may be provided to Statistics Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of 10 yrs, then reviewed for possible transfer to NAC (excluding questionnaires which may be destroyed after 2 yrs). PAC Number: 613215 TBS Registration: 004112 Bank Number: HCan PPU 087

Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada

Chapter 64

General Information

Background

The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada grew out of the interplay of disparate elements of public opinion concerned with heritage preservation and government policy before the First World War. A growing heritage movement encouraged the government to preserve and develop sites with important historical associations. At the same time, the government was looking to extend its national parks system from the west into the east and the idea of creating historic parks around significant historic structures was conceived. The War delayed the introduction of a government program to identify and preserve Canadian heritage; however, in 1919, James B. Harkin, the Commissioner of Dominion Parks, suggested that "An Advisory Board for Historic Site Preservation" be established, and the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada was born.

The Board was given a statutory base for its operations through the Historic Sites and Monuments Act of 1953.

Responsibilities

The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada has the statutory responsibility to advise the Minister of Canadian Heritage and, through him or her, Parks Canada on the commemoration of nationally significant aspects of Canada's past, including the designation of national historic sites. When forwarding a positive recommendation to the Minister, the Board will also advise with respect to an appropriate level of Program involvement with the subject of commemoration – that is, by the erection of a bilingual bronze plaque, by entering into a cost-sharing agreement with a third party in order to preserve or interpret a site, or, more rarely, when resources are of exceptional quality or rarity and associated with themes of particular significance, by acquisition and development as a national historic site.

The Board also advises the Minister on the designation of heritage railway stations and other matters relating to the implementation of the Heritage Railway Stations Protection Act.

Normally, the Board meets in plenary two times a year to consider submissions from the general public, heritage organizations, provincial and municipal governments, and others regarding matters of possible national significance. The various committees which it has established to expedite its work, such as the Cultural Communities Committee, the Built Environment Committee and the Inscriptions Committee, meet as required.

Legislation

The following statutes provide for the operation of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada:

- Heritage Railway Stations Protection Act
- Historic Sites and Monuments Act

Organization

At full strength the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada has 19 members: two members from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec and one member from each of the other provinces and the three territories. The National Archivist and representatives of the Canadian Museum of Civilization and of the Department of Canadian Heritage also sit on the Board. The Director General of Parks Canada's National Historic Sites Directorate is the Secretary to the Board.

Provincial and territorial members of the Board are appointed by Order in Council (normally for three or five years). They must be resident in the province or territory that they represent, serve on a part-time basis, and are eligible for reappointment. The Chairperson is appointed by the Governor-in-Council from among the members of the Board.

Located in Hull, Quebec the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada Secretariat, provides administrative support to the Board.

Human Resources Development Canada

Chapter 65

General Information

Background

The Department of Human Resources Development Canada (HRDC) was officially created by Bill C-11- The Department of Human Resources Development Act which came into force on July 12, 1996. From November 1993 to the enactment of Bill C-11, HRDC had been operating under a series of Memoranda of Understanding involving various components of the founding departments: Employment and Immigration Canada, Health and Welfare Canada, Labour Canada, Secretary of State and the Department of Multiculturalism and Citizenship.

Responsibilities

- Employment Insurance programs (such as income benefits, and employment related programs, investigation and control)
- Employment Programs Branch
- The Employment Programs Branch brings together programs which are regionally delivered by the Aboriginal Relations Office, Youth Initiatives Directorate and the Labour Market Directorate.
- Nationally Delivered programs
- Nationally Delivered programs include Canada Student Loans, Canada Education Savings Grants, Sectoral Councils and International Academic Mobility
- HRDC also contributes to Canada's commitment to achieving sustainable development by using sustainable development strategies in the planning process of programs and projects, and by making sure that for each project an environmental assessment is done prior to funding it.

Organization

Corporate Services

The objective is to provide executive direction, policy development and management support services to the Department. It is pursued through the design and implementation of appropriate policies and programs, the rendering of strategic communications advice, and the development, placement and maintenance of a variety of operational systems. The activity components include: Communications, Finance and Administration, Human Resources Services, Strategic Policy, and Systems.

Communications plans, co-ordinates, and implements HRDC activities in the areas of external and internal communications, public opinion research, promotion, information, media relations, publishing, and advertising. This group ensures that information is available to the public about HRDC policies, programs and services.

Finance and Administration provides financial, administrative, operational, and management support services to HRDC's operations to ensure accountability, control, and security. This group is also responsible for the administration of the Privacy, Human Rights, and Access to Information Acts.

Human Resources Services provides a full range of personnel services to the Department.

Strategic Policy has broad responsibility for developing and maintaining statistical information banks which may be used for research, evaluation, policy and program analysis, and development in support of various departmental programs and services. This group is also responsible for Intergovernmental Relations and International Affairs.

Systems is responsible for the development and operation of the manual and electronic data processing systems required to execute HRDC programs and services.

Employment Programs Branch (EPB)

Since April 2000, there has been a new focus in the delivery of the department's human resource investment programs. It was decided that the Human Resources Investment Branch (HRIB) would be restructured into two new branches. In July, 2000, the Employment Programs Branch (EPB) was created and includes all "regionally-delivered" programs. These activities include: employment and support measures, older worker pilot projects, youth programs, Aboriginal programs and federal-provincial cost shared agreements.

◆ Labour Market

In partnership with provinces and territories, HRDC offers Employment Benefits and Support Measures to help individuals find employment. These include targeted wage subsidies, self-employment, job creation partnerships, skills development and counselling, as well as employment assistance services; local labour market partnerships; and research and innovation projects.

The National Employment Service provides information on employment opportunities across Canada to help workers find suitable employment, and to help employers find suitable workers. It includes: Labour Market Information Service, First Source – Information Resources of Employment Service Providers, Work Search, Electronic Labour Exchange, the Mobile Worker Web Site. Other labour market initiatives include: Fisheries Restructuring and Adjustment Measures, Older Workers Pilot Projects, the Opportunities Fund for persons with disabilities, Foreign Worker Policy, and implementation of the Labour Market Development Agreements.

◆ Aboriginal Relations Office

The Aboriginal Relations Office supports the government's Aboriginal agenda by ensuring HRDC's relationship and investments are consistent with the government's policy and reflect individual, institutional and organizational Aboriginal aspirations, particularly in regard to the development of human resources and employment opportunities.

◆ Youth Initiatives

The Youth Initiatives Directorate provides Youth Employment Initiatives, which are designed to help young people make the transition into the labour market by providing them with the employability skills, work experience, skills and knowledge they need and access to relevant labour market information.

Nationally Delivered Programs (NDP)

The other Branch that was created from the restructuration of HRIB is now known as the Nationally Delivered Programs. Activities include: sectoral partnerships, social partnerships, support to persons with disabilities, promotion of lifelong learning, student assistance and education support, literacy and the National Adoption Desk.

◆ Social Development

The Social Development Directorate addresses the social inclusion and strengthened partnerships strategic priorities of HRDC through policy development and program investments in three target groups: persons with disabilities, children and their families, and the voluntary sector. Its responsibilities also include the wind-up of certain cost-shared programs with the provinces/territories, and specific monitoring and compliance under the Canada Health and Social Transfer.

◆ Learning and Literacy

In support of the development and improvement of the quality of Canada's human resources, the Learning and Literacy Directorate (LLD) plays a key role in increasing awareness, promoting access and building individual and community capacity for lifelong learning. Through the development and implementation of a broad range of federal learning-related policies, LLD enhances access and opportunities for education through programs such as the Canada Student Loans Program, the Canada Education Savings Grants and International Academic Mobility. The Office of Learning Technologies promotes and supports learning technologies, increases the awareness and participation of Canadians in the area of literacy, and offers CanLearn Interactive.

◆ Human Resources Partnerships

The Human Resources Partnerships' (HRP) mission is to advance partnerships with industry and the learning system to ensure that Canadians have the skills and knowledge required for the workplace. The objectives that guide HRP's work are to: increase sectoral capacity; understand and describe skills; encourage learning system to be more responsive to the labour market; promote the workplace as a learning place; and to develop labour market transition mechanisms.

◆ National Secretariat on Homelessness

The National Secretariat on Homelessness is responsible for the implementation of the Supporting Communities Partnership Initiative. Information on agreements with communities and non-for-profit and private sectors.

Income Security Programs Branch (ISP)

Income Security Programs Branch promotes and strengthens the economic security of Canadians by developing and administering programs for seniors, persons with disabilities, survivors, and migrants. The Branch's main purpose is to administer the Canada Pension Plan (CPP) and the Old Age Security (OAS) programs. ISP also negotiates and administers International Social Security Agreements.

◆ Central Operations

The Central Operations Directorate provides a number of services to the Branch including National Information and Benefit Services, Medical Advisory Unit, Disability Benefits, Operational Support and Administrative Services, Ministerial Inquiries, Access to Information/Privacy and Translation. Functions include the determination, through the evaluation of an applicant's medical history and profile, of eligibility for CPP disability benefits; the processing, maintenance and reassessment of disability accounts, as well as appeals administration; the processing of dual accounts (contributors to both QPP and CPP); the maintenance of the Record of Earnings files, operational and administrative support; and resolution of problems and preparation of responses to ministerial inquiries.

◆ International Benefits and Foreign Affairs

The International Benefits and Foreign Affairs Directorate is responsible for the negotiation and administration of International Social Security agreements.

◆ National Program Delivery Services

Functions carried out are: Operations and Business Support, Business Systems Support, Strategic Business Technologies, Program Integrity and Quality Services, Rules Based Development and a Project Office. Functions include support to operations in both regions and headquarters through forms and procedures, problem resolution, coordination of operations problem identification, analysis and follow-up, EDP systems, new technology development and planning, and program integrity.

◆ Program Policy and Planning

The Program Policy and Planning Directorate provides a number of services to the Branch including CPP and OAS Programs, Legislation, Policy Interpretation, Planning Coordination and Special Projects, Outreach, Administration, and Forecasting Information and Results Measurement. The activities covered include CPP and OAS program policy direction; planning, special projects and executive briefing; public information awareness projects; preparation of Branch legislative bills and amendments; ministerial and parliamentary liaison; negotiating federal/provincial social assistance and disability income support program agreements; legislative interpretations and related administrative advisories.

Insurance Branch

The Insurance Group is responsible for the development, implementation and delivery of legislation, policies and programs for:

- (a) coverage and entitlement in relation to Employment Insurance income benefits;
- (b) program delivery efficiency, effectiveness and quality of service and payment of Employment Insurance benefits; and
- (c) the prevention, detection and deterrence of abuse and fraud in relation to the Employment Insurance Program and the Social Insurance Number Program.

Labour Branch

Labour Branch's objective is to promote a fair, safe, healthy, stable, cooperative and productive work environment that contributes to the social and economic well-being of all Canadians.

Under Parts I, II, and III of the Canada Labour Code, and the Employment Equity Act, the Branch oversees industrial relations, occupational safety and health, labour standards and employment equity in the federally-regulated section (about 10 per cent) of the labour force.

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS) provides effective settlement of industrial relations disputes and also provides for third-party arbitration, adjudication and referee assistance.

The legislative mandate surrounding Occupational Safety and Health involves operations intended to promote and enforce compliance with the provisions of Part II of the Canada Labour Code and its Regulations in order to prevent accidents and injuries.

With respect to Labour Standards and Workplace Equity, this activity establishes and protects employees' rights to fair and equitable conditions of employment. The operations are intended to promote and enforce compliance with the provisions of Part III of the Canada Labour Code and the Fair Wages and Hours of Labour Act and their regulations, and the Employment Equity Act and regulations.

The Workplace Information Directorate (WID) tracks and provides information on a vast array of Data and conditions of work in Canada. WID houses the most comprehensive, multi-jurisdictional collective agreements library in Canada (approximately 6000 agreements), and regularly monitors major contract talks (covering 200 or more employees in the Federal jurisdiction and 500 or more elsewhere). WID produces the following publications covering various industrial relations issues: Wage Settlements Bulletin, Workplace Gazette and the Collective Bargaining Bulletin. Information concerning Labour Organizations in Canada and Innovative Workplace Practices are available directly from the website.

The Labour Branch is also responsible for Canadian participation in the International Labour Organization and for the implementation of international labour cooperation agreements with the United States of America, Mexico and Chile as well as ongoing participation in the Summit of the Americas and Free Trade Area of the Americas initiatives and the Inter-American Conference of Labour Ministers.

Ministerial and Corporate Affairs

Ministerial and Corporate (MCA) operates as the primary point of contact within HRDC to provide the Ministers (HRD and Labour) and the Secretary of State and their staff with a wide array of services. Among these services are: preparing the Minister's daily Question Period briefing book; co-ordinating efforts and preparations for the passage of all HRDC legislation; playing the lead role in organizing contextual responses to Opposition Day motions, etc.; ensuring that the Ministers are prepared to fully participate in all Cabinet and Cabinet Committee discussions; the departmental regulatory process; providing contextual analysis and advice on controversial issues; managing the Ministers' and Deputy Minister's correspondence and telephone inquiries; co-ordinating the Ministers' invitation processes; preparing regular trends analysis reports; and managing the Governor-in-Council nomination processes. MCA also provides services to the Deputy Minister's Office by co-ordinating briefing material as well as corporate level initiatives such as senior level management meetings and the Employment Insurance Commission meetings.

Immigration and Refugee Board

Chapter 66

General Information

Background

The Board is an independent, statutory tribunal created by Parliament under Part IV of the Immigration Act. The Chairperson of the Board reports to Parliament through the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration. The Board carries out three major functions: immigration inquiries and detention reviews; immigration appeals; and refugee determination. It is committed to providing both fair and efficient proceedings to all persons appearing before it.

Responsibilities

Decision making is carried out by three divisions whose functions are quite distinct: the Adjudication Division, the Immigration Appeal Division (Appeal Division) and the Convention Refugee Determination Division (Refugee Division).

Legislation

- Adjudication Division Rules, SOR/93-47
- Convention Refugee Determination Division Rules, SOR/93-45
- Immigration Act, R.S.C. 1985 (4th Sup.), c.28, as amended
- Immigration Appeal Division Rules, SOR/93-46, as amended
- Immigration Regulations, 1978, SOR/78-172, as amended

Organization

Adjudication Division

The Adjudication Division conducts immigration inquiries and detention reviews for people believed to be inadmissible to, or removable from, Canada.

Convention Refugee Determination Division

The Refugee Division deals exclusively with claims to Convention refugee status. It is an independent, quasi-judicial tribunal that hears refugee claims within Canada. The Division is responsible for determining claims fairly and expeditiously, so that Canada can offer protection to Convention refugees.

Corporate Services Branch

The Corporate Services Branch is responsible for the following Directorates: Corporate Management Directorate (which comprises Finance, Administration and Informatics) and the Human Resources Directorate.

Immigration Appeal Division

The Appeal Division hears appeals by Canadian citizen or permanent resident sponsors against the refusal of an application for permanent residence made by a close family member as well as appeals from removal orders issued against permanent residents, visa holders, or Convention refugees. It also hears a small number of appeals made by the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration against certain adjudicator's decision to grant admission or not order removal.

Legal Services

The Legal Services Branch provides advice on matters of procedure. Legal Services provides advice to support policy, operational and personnel decisions. Legal Services manages all litigation on behalf of the Board. Legal Services participates in appeals and applications before the higher courts as amicus curiae in appropriate cases. Legal Services is responsible for drafting all the legal reference papers. Legal Services coordinates the Board's regulatory initiatives, including drafting the Rules of practice and procedure of the Board's three Divisions. Legal Services plays an active role in the training of Board decision-makers and staff. Legal Services produces a publication, RefLex, which contains digests of decisions of the Board and maintains electronic reference material for decision-makers and staff in SHARENet, and for the wider public on the Board's internet site.

Executive Secretariat Directorate

The Executive Secretariat is responsible for the following Directorates:

♦ Access to Information and Privacy Directorate

The Executive Secretariat also includes the responsibility for the administration of the Board's access to information and privacy requirements, in accordance with the principles of open government and the protection of the privacy of the individual.

♦ Public and Parliamentary Affairs Directorate

The Directorate provides advice, planning and support for all communications activities undertaken by the Board, including media relations, issue management, speeches, publications, public environment analysis, and information for the public. The Directorate manages the coordination and writing services for senior management correspondence, briefing material and the production of corporate documents.

◆ Secretariat Services Directorate

The Directorate provides administrative support to the Ministerial Advisory Committee for the selection of Members of the Board. It also provides executive support services to the Office of the Chairperson of the Board.

◆ Translation and Editing Directorate

Manages the Board's translation and editing services for headquarters and the regions, including the establishment of quality standards and guidelines, translation in both official languages, multilingual translation services, and editing and quality control. The Directorate is also responsible for interpretation services at the IRB.

Corporate Services Branch

The Corporate Services Branch is responsible for the following Directorates:

◆ Corporate Management Directorate

Finance Division is responsible for the application of financial policies, systems and procedures in accordance with legislation, regulations and central agency directives. It is also responsible for a full range of services to all Board employees in the areas of general administration, accommodation, telecommunications, security (personal and physical), materiel management (contracting, forms management, inventory control, printing procurement, supplies and furnishings). The Recorded Information Management Division is also part of the Corporate Management Directorate. Informatics Division is responsible for the provision of information systems and technology in support of the Board's programs and services. They are also responsible for the development and implementation of national informatics policy, procedures, standards, security and training.

◆ Human Resources Directorate

The Directorate provides direction, services and strategic advice related to the human resource aspects of the Board's programs, activities and initiatives. Human resource services are delivered to Public Service employees and Members across the Board, through four regional human resource offices. Services are provided in the areas of staffing, classification, organization design, training and development, strategic planning, employment equity, official languages, employee assistance, compensation, staff relations and workforce adjustment.

Policy, Planning and Research Branch

The Policy, Planning and Research Branch (PPR) is responsible for policy development coordination, the development of standards, and the provision of operational support, advice, and analysis to the Chairperson, Executive Director, the Convention Refugee Determination Division, the Immigration Appeal Division, the Adjudication Division, and Regional Operations. This is achieved through the development of policies, tribunal procedures, service standards, performance measures, and monitoring systems, as well as through the strategic planning of operational resource utilization, that supports fair, efficient, and well-reasoned decision making in a consistent fashion across the country. The Board's operations are highly decentralized. Regional Directors and District Managers now report to the Executive Director. Effective September 15, 1997, PPR is also responsible for the Research Program. The Research Program exists to meet the information requirements of those involved in Canada's refugee determination system. The Program produces and makes publicly available, current and reliable information related to human rights, refugee and migration issues by providing documentation that supports fair refugee determination. The Research Program also acts as an educational resource for organizations and individuals interested in these issues. Since November 1995, the Research Program has also been mandated to process research directives of a claim or claimant-specific nature in accordance with the instructions for the Acquisition and Disclosure of Information for Proceedings in the Refugee Division.

Adjudication Case Files

Description: The files contain documents presented at an immigration inquiry, conference or detention review; or filed in making an application or motion, so that both the person concerned and representative of the Immigration Department have knowledge of the information. Class of Individuals: This personal information, recorded by name and file number, relates to the individual's file when an adjudicator is called upon to conduct either an inquiry or a detention review. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information used in the conduct of immigration inquiries and detention reviews pursuant to the Immigration Act, the Regulations and the Adjudication Division Rules. The material on file, which is adduced at the proceeding, is used by the adjudicator in making the decision on the allegations that were raised at the proceeding. Consistent Uses: It may be shared for internal audit purposes. This information may be shared with Citizenship and Immigration Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: The retention period for case files is two years after the conclusion of the proceeding. Related to PR#: IRB ADJ 120/125/130/155/160/165 TBS Registration: 003312 Bank Number: IRB PPU 140

Convention Refugee Determination Division Records

Description: The records contain all the documentation related to the processing of any action before the Refugee Division of the Board, including all of the papers, submissions, evidence and exhibits provided by the parties to the action before, during and after the hearing. Decisions of the Division, reasons for decisions, notices of any proceeding before a higher court and decisions of higher courts also form part of the record. Class of Individuals: Persons whose claim to Convention refugee status has been referred to the Refugee Division. Purpose: This bank contains, in hardcopy and by audio tape recordings, the documentation and proceedings before the Refugee Division of the Board. Consistent Uses: Information is used to schedule and track cases before the Refugee Division, and to report statistics on cases being processed by the Refugee Division. Selected information is shared with Citizenship and Immigration Canada, Canadian Security Intelligence Service, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, provincial and municipal police forces and Corrections Canada. A Board policy on the acquisition of claimant specific information has been implemented. Personal information is used not only to determine the refugee claim of the person concerned, but may be used, when reasonable, to determine the refugee claim(s) of any other person(s) concerned. Retention and Disposal Standards: The case file is maintained in the regional office where the case is heard for six months after the final action is taken; it is then transferred to the National Archives of Canada, where it is retained for a further twenty years.

Related to PR#: IRB OPS 015/065/070/080/140 TBS Registration: 003971 Bank Number: IRB PPU 115

CRDD Reasons for Decisions

Description: The records contain selected reasons for decisions from the Refugee Division of the Board. Class of Individuals: Persons whose claim to Convention refugee status has been referred to the Refugee Division. Purpose: To provide precedent cases from the Refugee Division of the Board. Consistent Uses: Tracking precedent cases from the Refugee Division available through the Board's Regional Documentation Centres. Selected sanitized decisions are available through QuickLaw (Q.L.) Retention and Disposal Standards: The reasons for decisions are maintained at the Board for three years after the decision date, then referred to the National Archives of Canada to be retained for a further twenty years. Related to PR#: IRB DOC 060 TBS Registration: 002786 Bank Number: IRB PPU 120

Immigration Appeal Board Records

Indian and Northern Affairs Canada

Chapter 67

General Information

Background

The Department was established under section 15 of the Government Organization Act, 1966, now the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Act (RSC 1985 c. I-6, as amended). The Department is an amalgamation of the responsibilities of the then Department of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources, and the then Department of Citizenship and Immigration pertaining to Indian people in Canada.

Responsibilities

The federal government's legislative responsibilities for Indians and Inuit derive from section 91 (24) of the Constitution Act (1867) formerly called the B.N.A. Act which gives the federal government the exclusive authority to pass laws relating to "Indians, and lands reserved for Indians". On the basis of this authority, the Indian Act, which remains the major expression of federal jurisdiction in this area, was passed and a series of treaties was concluded between Canada and various Indian bands across the country. Federal jurisdiction for Indian peoples under the Constitution Act was subsequently (in 1939) interpreted by the courts to apply to Inuit as well.

Within this legislative framework, the department has a number of interlocking responsibilities and objectives. The department's principal emphasis is on pursuing initiatives to assist Aboriginal communities to overcome obstacles to their development and to help them marshal the human and physical resources necessary to build and sustain viable communities. Particular focus will be on: negotiating Aboriginal self-government; settling land claims; supporting the development of communities to improve on-reserve economic opportunities and living conditions; achieving the transfer of provincial-type responsibilities to the territorial governments; and promoting northern environmental awareness and sustainable development. Increasingly, the department is devolving its powers and responsibilities to the Aboriginal peoples and territorial governments directly concerned.

Organization

Administration Program

◆ Corporate Services

Responsible for integrated management processes of the Department covering financial administration and management; framework for funding arrangements with First Nations; contracts and administration; informatics and information management; the internal audit and evaluation of departmental programs; and the human resources function.

◆ Departmental Secretariat

Serves as a central link on such items as ministerial and executive correspondence, briefings, parliamentary relations, allegations and complaints and requests made under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Indian and Inuit Affairs Program

◆ Claims and Indian Government Sector

Responsible for managing the negotiation and settlement of comprehensive, specific and special claims with respect to Aboriginal rights; lawful obligations of other types, or on other grounds; managing and conducting self-government negotiations in accordance with approved mandates, and providing support to negotiations being conducted by Regions; has federal lead for developing the self-government policy framework to guide negotiations, managing the federal approval process for mandates and agreements; coordinating reporting on Gathering Strength theme of strengthening Aboriginal governance; and taking the lead in putting in place the Gathering Strength theme of a new fiscal relationship, including the development and implementation of appropriate fiscal relations policies and practices that complement policies on governance (under both the Indian Act and self-government regimes). It is involved in negotiations, research, policy development, funding support, and planning for and coordinating the implementation of any settlement or self-government agreement reached.

◆ Lands and Trust Services

Works to fulfil the fiduciary and statutory obligations of the Government of Canada in matters respecting Indians and the lands reserved for Indians in relation to lands, oil and gas, natural resources, revenues and trusts. It exists to protect and administer reserve lands and their resources; to administer the trust funds of bands and the estates of certain individual Indians; to administer the estates of deceased Indians who ordinarily live on reserve; to determine the entitlement of persons to Indian status and band membership and maintain the Indian Register and departmentally administered band lists; and to administer the elections of band councils, the passage of bylaws, and the Crown's treaty obligations. It also exists to assist First Nations in addressing environmental concerns affecting the health and safety, economic and social well-being of Indian people.

◆ Policy and Strategic Direction Sector

Responsible for developing the Government's national policy towards First Nations and Inuit people. More specifically, the Sector is responsible for monitoring the strategic implementation of Gathering Strength – Canada's Aboriginal Action Plan, the federal government response to the report of the Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples. It is also responsible for integrating the Department's long term strategy for creating a new relationship with First Nations and Inuit peoples; for managing the related policy analysis and development, basic research, consultation and legislative initiatives; for managing the government's commitment to consult with Treaty First Nations on a process for the resolution of treaty issues; for the development and implementation of a departmental policy on gender equality analysis and to provide a departmental focal point for Aboriginal women's issues; it will also manage departmental-level relations with First Nations, other federal departments interest, the provinces, foreign governments and international organizations. In addition, it is also responsible for overall communications informing DIAND's client groups about the policies and activities of the Department; to inform all Canadians about Aboriginal peoples and the North; to provide the Government and the Department with feedback on the interests and concerns of Canadians with respect to DIAND's responsibilities, and provide functional direction to communications officers in all regions. Responsible for the strategic management of Aboriginal litigation where DIAND is the lead Department, and the test case funding program.

◆ Socio-Economic Policy Program

Responsible for providing support to the overall objectives of Gathering Strength and focusses primarily on supporting strong communities, people and economies. It is responsible for developing policy and program frameworks to assist First Nations in meeting the social, educational, economic development, housing and infrastructure. Responsible for economic initiatives including the Procurement Strategy for Aboriginal Business, business support programs, and economic partnership initiatives with the private sector, the provinces, Aboriginal economic organizations and other governments.

Northern Affairs Program

The Program is responsible for managing land, water and non-renewable resources in the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territory and Nunavut (established April 1, 1999), as well as forestry in the Yukon; assisting northerners with political, economic and social development; participating in the negotiation of land claims settlements and the transfer of resource management responsibilities to the territorial governments; coordinating the federal government's activities in the North; providing support for federal policy and activities in circumpolar affairs; ensuring that the quality for the Arctic environment is maintained; fostering knowledge of the North through scientific investigation and technological development.

Regional Organizations

The regional offices are responsible for implementing departmental programs and policies. They are directly involved in funding First Nations and First Nations institutions, and negotiating and implementing sectoral self-government agreements and other intergovernmental arrangements. They also manage the delivery of residual education, social development and economic development services which have not yet been taken over by the First Nations. Regional staff work closely with the local client groups, their representatives, and representatives of provincial/territorial governments.

In addition the Yukon, Northwest Territories and Nunavut regional officials are responsible for the management of minerals, water, the majority of lands and forests.

Responsibilities for environmental assessment of proposals for the use of these resources, and for implementation of the Arctic Environmental Strategy, are carried out in conjunction with these resource management functions. Provide support to the negotiation and implementation of comprehensive land claim agreements.

Industry Canada

Chapter 68

General Information

Background

Industry Canada promotes the growth of a strong, dynamic Canadian economy and helps Canadians take advantage of the opportunities offered by the global, knowledge-based economy.

Responsibilities

Industry Canada's mandate is to help make Canadians more productive and competitive in the global, knowledge-based economy. The department's policies, programs and services help create an economy that: provides more and better-paying jobs for Canadians; supports stronger business growth through sustained improvements in productivity; and gives consumers, businesses and investors confidence that the marketplace is fair, efficient and competitive.

To reach its clients, Industry Canada collaborates extensively with partners at all levels of government and the private sector, and has become a leader in providing leading-edge service products such as the Canada Business Service Centres, and Internet services such as Strategis (<http://strategis.ic.gc.ca>) and ExportSource (<http://exportsource.gc.ca>). These provide businesses and individuals with strategic information services 24 hours a day, seven days a week. For clients who prefer personal contact with the department, Industry Canada has regional offices, as well as local service points located in 50 communities.

The department's efforts are concentrated on five strategic micro economic objectives in order to build the competitive advantage Canada needs for long-term economic growth:

- improving Canada's innovation performance;
- making Canada the most connected nation in the world;
- building a fair, efficient and competitive marketplace;
- improving conditions for investments; and
- increasing Canada's share of global trade.

The Minister of Industry is responsible for 13 federal departments and agencies that make up the Industry Portfolio. These organizations are uniquely positioned to further the government's goal of building a knowledge-based economy in all regions of Canada and to advance the government's jobs and growth agenda. The Industry Portfolio includes:

- Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency
- Business Development Bank of Canada
- Canadian Space Agency
- Competition Tribunal
- Copyright Board Canada
- Canada Economic Development for Quebec Regions
- Industry Canada
- National Research Council of Canada
- Natural Science and Engineering Research Council
- Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council
- Standards Council of Canada
- Statistics Canada
- Western Economic Diversification Canada

Organization

Audit and Evaluation

Conducts internal audits and evaluations consistent with Departmental and Central agency policies.

Canadian Tourism Commission

The Canadian Tourism Commission is a working partnership between tourism businesses and associations, provincial and territorial governments and the Government of Canada. Its mission is to promote Canada as a desirable tourist destination to both international and domestic travellers and supply the tourist industry with the information it needs for its decision-making.

The Commission strives to coordinate the efforts of numerous players in the tourism sector, including hotel owners, tour operators, people who run tourist attractions, airline carriers, local and provincial associations and government agencies. The CTC continuously seeks to create new partnership opportunities for its marketing, research and industry promotional activities. The CTC has a WEB site which, in addition to providing general information on the CTC's activities and a list of its publications, establishes hypertext links with other WEB sites dealing with travel or tourism in Canada.

Chief Information Officer

The Chief Information Officer is accountable to the Deputy Minister and the Information Management Committee for the effective and efficient management of strategic information and informatics within Industry Canada. A major responsibility of the CIO is the planning, coordination and delivery of Industry Canada's strategy to put the departmental key services on line through Strategis, Canada's largest business Web site at <http://strategis.gc.ca>. Specifically, the CIO manages the department's informatics resources including the high capacity national wide area network; operates Industry Canada's library and information products; manages the electronic publishing process and development of custom information products; manages the Department's national efforts in the network of Canada Business Services Centres; establishes and implements marketing strategies to promote the use of strategic business information; and undertakes systematic client feedback assessments.

♦ Canada Business Service Centres (CBSCs)

The Canada Business Service Centres (CBSCs) are the gateway to government information for business providing a wide range of information on government services, programs and regulations. The CBSCs answer client questions about starting a new business or improving an existing one. Services are available by telephone, fax, mail, E-mail, on the Web and in person. Currently there are thirteen CBSCs – one in every province, the Northwest Territories, Yukon and Nunavut. The CBSCs also have regional access arrangements with existing business service organizations in many communities across Canada. The CBSC initiative is a cooperative arrangement among 36 federal departments and agencies, provincial governments and, in some cases the private sector. A National Secretariat, located in Ottawa, is responsible for supporting the CBSCs and maintaining the technical network, web site, information databases, and products. Also see the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA), Canada Economic Development for Quebec Regions, and Western Economic Diversification (WED) for listings on CBSCs.

Communications Branch

The Communications Branch plays a pivotal role in ensuring that the Canadian public, including the departments' clients and employees, receives information about Industry Canada's policies, programs and services.

Services provided by the Branch include communications research and public environment analysis; communications planning and advice to the Minister and senior management on policy development, and program planning and implementation; media relations; and the coordination, production and distribution of speeches, news releases, publications and multimedia materials. Through the Industry Canada Corporate Information site the Branch provides current information on departmental activities, as well as links to the Industry Portfolio's various resources. The Branch is also responsible for handling enquiries from the public.

Communications Research Centre

Communication Research Centre Canada (CRC) has been dedicated to advanced communications R&D for over 30 years. Its research provides a technical basis for the development of regulations and standards in support of public policy. Key research areas include: radio sciences; terrestrial wireless; broadcast technologies; satellite communications systems; broadband network systems; and microelectronic and optical technologies. CRC has a strong tradition of technology transfer to industry and has been responsible for the creation of more than 60 companies. It operates an Innovation Centre to provide high-tech startups with access to its technologies, research expertise and unique laboratories.

Competition Bureau

The Competition Bureau promotes competition and efficiency in the Canadian economy through the administration of the Competition Act concentrating on a balance between enforcement activities and compliance programs, public awareness and submissions on regulatory matters. The Bureau also promotes a fair and efficient marketplace through the administration of the Textile Labelling Act, the Precious Metals Marking Act, and the Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act emphasizing a compliance approach by working with business to predict and prevent problems from occurring.

The Commissioner of Competition, the head of the Competition Bureau, is a statutory appointment under the Competition Act with the responsibility of administering and enforcing the Competition Act and the other Acts cited above. The Competition Bureau consists of six branches, four of which are responsible for the enforcement of the Acts. A unit has also been established for the purpose of co-ordinating possible amendments to the Competition Act.

◆ Civil Matters Branch

Responsible for administering the reviewable section of the Competition Act (excluding mergers). The Civil Matters Branch is also responsible for the Commissioner's regulatory representations before Boards, Commissions and other Tribunals.

◆ Compliance and Operations Branch

This Branch is comprised of two directorates, plus a Communications Unit and an Informatics Centre:

Compliance and Coordination Directorate: Assists in the development and dissemination of Bureau policies and procedures; provides research assistance to the enforcement branches; provides preliminary assessment or referrals of complaints and information requests received through its Information Centre, and develops and coordinates internal operational training for Bureau staff.

The Communications unit provides strategic advice on all internal and external communications issues, coordinates Bureau publications and manages media relations.

Management Policy and Services Directorate:

Responsible for Bureau strategic, operational, and resource planning and reporting; operational review; and administrative and personnel services.

COMPASS Information Management Centre: Responsible for information systems and support within the Bureau.

◆ Criminal Matters Branch

◆ Economic and International Affairs Branch

Provides economic, policy and strategic analysis and advice to the Commissioner and other units of the Bureau dealing with enforcement and policy issues. The Directorate also participates in departmental and interdepartmental development of government policies and legislation with relevance to the Competition Act, and is responsible for Canada's participation in and contribution to the work of international organizations such as the Organization for Economic Development and United Nations Conference on Trade and Development in the field of competition policy.

◆ Fair Business Practices Branch

Responsible for enforcing the misleading advertising and deceptive marketing practices provisions of the Competition Act and for administering the Textile Labelling Act, the Precious Metals Marking Act, and the Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act, as well as the guidelines concerning the Care Labelling of Textiles, the Marketing of diamonds, Coloured Gemstones and Pearls, and Environmental Labelling and Advertising.

◆ Mergers Branch

Responsible for the administration of the merger provisions of the Competition Act (including the notifiable transaction requirements) in all sectors of the Canadian economy.

Comptroller's Branch

Provides advice to the Deputy Minister and provides functional direction and advice to managers on comptrollership, covering both financial and non-financial matters. The branch is responsible for maintaining a financial management framework within the department and reports periodically to the Deputy Minister and the Comptroller General in compliance with government-wide standards. Operationally, the Comptroller's Branch provides corporate planning and reporting including performance measurement coordination, establishes and manages systems, processes and procedures for financial and material management. The Branch is also responsible for the overall liaison on these matters with Treasury Board Secretariat, the Deputy Comptroller General, and PWGSC.

Human Resources Branch

The Human Resources Branch provides strategic information, advice and operational services to the department on corporate management and succession planning strategies, relationships with unions, demographic profiling, research and analysis, indicators of the health of the organization, strategic infrastructure for training, rejuvenation and revitalization program strategies. Operationally, it provides decentralized, comprehensive and timely advice, guidance and assistance to departmental management and employees on classification, staffing and researching, official languages, employment adjustment, labour management, employee equity, training and development, awards and recognition, career planning, compensation, benefits and security.

Industry Portfolio Office

The Industry Portfolio Office (IPO) provides executive secretariat support to the Minister, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister of Industry as it relates to their broad Industry Portfolio coordination responsibilities.

The fourteen Industry Portfolio members are: Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency; Business Development Bank of Canada; Canadian Space Agency; Competition Tribunal; Copyright Board Canada; Canada Economic Development for Quebec Regions; Enterprise Cape Breton Corporation; Industry Canada; National Research Council Canada; Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada; Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada; Standards Council of Canada; Statistics Canada; and Western Economic Diversification Canada.

Industry and Science Policy

The Industry and Science Policy Sector is responsible for leading development of industry, science, international business and economic framework policy in the Department, and for influencing policies of other government departments in order to enhance the business climate and to promote Canada's industrial competitiveness and scientific excellence.

◆ Corporate Governance Branch

Responsible for all research and policy development activities which lead to legislative reform of corporate law, intellectual property law and regulatory and standards policy in the department. The Branch develops and directs research activities, and participates in international and intergovernmental negotiations.

To enhance competitiveness, manage Industry Canada's contribution to the development and implementation of corporate governance policy initiatives respecting regulations, standards and issues concerning harmonization and business framework legislation under the jurisdiction of Industry Canada.

◆ Innovation Policy Branch

The Innovation Policy Branch formulates the federal government's science, technology and innovation policies to ensure that these policies support business growth through research and innovation and lead the shift to a knowledge-based economy. Three directorates carry out these policies: Science and Technology Strategy, whose main focus is government science; Knowledge Infrastructure, who liaise with the university community and the federal granting councils; and Marketplace Innovation, whose focus is Canadian firms and international collaboration. The Branch also serves as secretariat for the Council of Science and Technology Advisors (CSTA).

◆ Internal Trade, Consultations and Federal-Provincial Relations

The Internal Trade, Consultations & Federal-Provincial Relations Branch is responsible for coordinating implementation of the Agreement on Internal Trade within the federal government and for developing strategies for reducing barriers and impediments to internal trade within Canada. It is responsible for monitoring provincial government developments impacting on the agenda of Industry Canada, for the coordination of senior federal-provincial meetings and for developing strategies for the effective management of federal-provincial relations within the department. The Branch is also responsible for managing a concerted approach to the DM's outreach activities, for promoting and improving the practice of electronic consultations, particularly in the context of the Government On-Line (GOL) initiative, and for contributing to and coordinating consultations on major, horizontal policy issues.

♦ International Business Branch

International Business Branch (IBB) is responsible for policy analysis and coordination for Industry Canada's international business policies and strategies. IBB undertakes policy and industrial impact analysis, and participates in negotiations for international trade and investment, including services and provides strategic information to Canadian business through Strategis and other means. IBB is also responsible for high-level trade missions; a variety of international industrial cooperation agreements; and is the departmental focal point for APEC.

♦ Investment Review Division

Responsible for identifying potentially reviewable foreign direct investment transactions; reviewing and assessing investment proposals to determine net benefit to Canada; and ensuring that formal plans and undertakings given by investors are carried out.

♦ Management & Administrative Services

The Management and Administrative Services Unit provides centralized corporate support services to the Industry and Science Policy Sector.

♦ Micro-Economic Policy Analysis Branch

The Branch is Industry Canada's centre of excellence in micro-economic analysis and responsible for providing the fundamental economic research and analysis underpinning the policy development process of the department. Collaborating with leading experts, the Branch provides leadership in the provision of both current economic analysis and strategic information on issues relating to micro-economic policy, marketplace rules and services and industry sector development. In addition to organizing a number of conferences, workshops, seminars, distinguished speaker series and consultations with the private sector, the academic community and other levels of government, the branch runs a nationally recognized research publications program, both of which serve to convey timely information and facilitate an informed public debate on economic policy issues. The branch also publishes a number of regular reports, including the Monthly Economic Indicators and the Micro-Economic Monitor, and is responsible for maintenance of the Economic Information Source – a value-added database service which is accessible by all Industry Canada employees.

♦ Small Business Policy Branch

The Small Business Policy Branch is responsible for maintaining a strategic overview of Canadian small business, across regions and industrial sectors, including assessing gaps and weaknesses in the marketplace, and advising on government policy and programs. Main activities focus on providing policy direction and advice in the following areas: access to financing; business management skills; E-business; self-employment; business climate policy; and business information products. The Branch also provides advice in the development of a coherent long term government SME agenda. To achieve its mandate, the Branch works in partnership with other government organizations and with key private sector organizations (e.g., CFIB, CCC, CMA, CBA, etc.).

♦ Strategic Policy

The Branch is responsible for strategic policy leadership, both within Industry Canada and interdepartmentally, with respect to the micro-economic policy agenda. Specific functions include: development of the micro-economic framework agenda including key policy initiatives; advice on horizontal policy issues such as youth, skills, rural and sustainable development; industrial policy analysis and integration; analysis and advocacy with respect to economic framework policies; strategic planning and priority setting; managing departmental relations with the OECD and G-7 on policy issues; managing the planning function within the Industry and Science Policy sector; the departmental policy development process, management of the Cabinet briefing process in the department and coordination and advice on the department's support to the Minister in Parliament.

♦ The Advisory Council on Science and Technology Secretariat (ACST)

The Secretariat provides policy advice, coordination and administrative services to the Prime Minister's Advisory Council on Science and Technology (ACST). It is responsible for: planning and coordinating meetings and activities; providing policy analysis and research assistance; facilitating communications and linkages among advisory bodies, various levels of governments and the S&T community.

Industry Sector

The Industry Sector provides leadership and support to Canadian businesses and industries as they adapt to new challenges and opportunities of the global economy. The sector pursues an innovative approach to industrial development based on: delivering a policy agenda designed to influence the behaviour of firms; providing world-class marketplace services; and helping Canada's industrial sectors become more innovative and internationally competitive. This is accomplished by working with clients and partners and through Industry Canada's five strategic objectives – trade, investment, innovation, connectedness and marketplace; by developing and delivering sector policies and strategies designed to promote the international competitiveness of Canadian industry; and, providing unique, world-class information products based on sectoral analysis and international benchmarking.

◆ Aerospace and Automotive Branch

Aerospace and Automotive Branch is responsible for developing and implementing policies, programs and services aimed at promoting the international competitiveness and sustainable growth in the aerospace, defence, automotive, truck, and rail sectors of the Canadian economy.

The Branch fulfils its missions by gathering and analyzing sectoral and business intelligence for which it develops policies and strategies for promoting trade, attracting investment, advancing new technologies and enhancing productivity and employee skill levels. It also develops business intelligence information products for delivery to industry clients.

◆ Canadian Biotechnology Secretariat

The Federal government's Canadian Biotechnology Strategy (CBS) includes a new policy framework, a new broad based advisory committee, strengthened interdepartmental management and a ten-point work plan which is being developed with interested partners. The Canadian Biotechnology Advisory Committee (CBAC) is an independent, expert panel that advises ministers on the ethical, social, economic, scientific, regulatory, environmental and health aspects of biotechnology. It also gives Canadians an ongoing forum to voice their views and participate in an open and transparent dialogue on biotechnology issues. A team of seven ministers (Agriculture and Agri-Food, Environment, Fisheries and Oceans, Foreign Affairs and International Trade, Industry, Health, Natural Resources) coordinated by Industry Minister John Manley, oversees the strategy and addresses issues that cut across the mandates of various federal department agencies. Under this new strategy, the Secretariat supports CBAC and the new interdepartmental coordinating structures. The Executive Director reports to the Assistant Deputy Minister, Industry Sector, Industry Canada and the Assistant Deputy Minister, Health Protection Branch, Health Canada.

◆ Coordination and Management Services Branch

Coordination and Management Services Branch supports the Industry Sector Assistant Deputy Minister, branch managers and teams with leadership, integration, communications and analytical expertise. It is a service organization dedicated to the provision of specialized corporate functions to Industry Sector branch managers and sector teams. Key areas of service include: strategic issues management; briefings and correspondence; parliamentary affairs; inquiries and media relations; analytical support on information products, policy analysis; strategic planning; marketing, promotion and communication services; networks advice; human resource development and best practices advice; and program management and repayments administration.

◆ Environmental Affairs Branch

The federal government is firmly committed to sustainable development and has taken a number of steps to forge the convergence of economic and environmental signals. Industry Canada's contribution to this agenda is to promote, or contribute to the promotion of innovation and competitiveness in the private sector by encouraging the efficient use of natural resources and minimizing the generation of waste.

Environmental Affairs Branch fulfils three important roles. It coordinates and integrates the Department's input to the government's environmental regulatory initiatives and promotes the development and diffusion of key environmental science and technological capabilities which enhance industrial competitiveness. The Branch promotes the growth and development of an internationally competitive environmental industry. Through the Canadian Office of Technology Exchange in the Environment (COTE), the Branch facilitates the transfer of environmental technologies to less developed countries and, in so doing, supports the international competitiveness of the environmental industry.

◆ Forest, Metals and Building Products Branch

Forest, Metals and Building Products Branch's (FM&BP) vision is to 'Make A Difference'; its mission is to lead in the development and delivery of services and products to industry and government to promote sustainable economic growth. FM&BP's activities are focused on trade, innovation, connectedness, including electronic commerce as well as promoting Canada as the location of choice for domestic and foreign investment. Respecting trade, FM&BP continues to nurture and strengthen the 'Building Products' Trade Team Canada Sectors (TTCS) and its subsidiary country working groups. The branch supports the TTCS through the delivery of information products and services to export-ready companies and promotes continued market access through ongoing participation in international trade organizations. On the innovation front, the Branch concentrates on: a) Climate Change; b) Technology Roadmaps; and, c) the development and implementation of strategies to promote increased 'value-added' in the resource sector. Through its existing metals and forest products websites, FM&BP strives to enhance client databases and to produce and distribute new strategic information products, i.e. Techroute, to promote connectedness. Concurrently, the branch contributes to an electronic commerce strategy through active promotion of the concept to its client industries. In order to encourage increased investment by both Canadian and foreign MNEs, FM&BP supports sector campaigns and the Deputy Minister Country Champion Program by developing relevant strategies and information products based on competitive intelligence and analysis. FM&BP relies on its ability to form effective partnerships with key stakeholders – OGDs and industry – in order to promote greater coordination and management of effort.

◆ Industrial Analysis and Strategies Branch

The Industrial Analysis and Strategies Branch, in partnership with Industry Sector branches and other stakeholders in the department, government and industry, will conduct a broad range of analysis to help advise the Minister and the government on industrial development policies. The analysis will focus on Industry Canada's five strategic objectives: innovation, connectedness, marketplace framework, investment, and trade with emphasis on the knowledge-based economy and its potential for high-growth opportunities. Accessing, using and building knowledge for the benefit of Canadian business has been identified as a key role for the branch. Additional resources will be directed at priority policy analysis in three areas: North American linkages, biotechnology and climate change.

◆ Industrial and Consumer Products Branch

Industrial and Consumer Products Branch provides business intelligence and strategic information to enterprises in the advanced materials, chemicals, plastics, rubber and consumer products industries (focus is on textiles, apparel, furniture, sporting goods and recreational products). It is involved in trade policy formulation, international negotiations and promotional activities; it establishes alliances with industry associations and companies and works on their behalf to ensure that competitiveness and sustainable development issues are addressed in government policy making; and plays an advocacy role on environmental issues and supports human resource initiatives. The Branch also assists client industries expand their domestic and global markets by: i) providing intelligence on sectors and markets, ii) promoting the use of technology and electronic commerce, and iii) advocating for policy decisions that foster greater competitiveness.

◆ International Business Opportunities Centre

International Business Opportunities Centre (IBOC) matches Canadian companies, particularly small- and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), with leads generated by Canadian trade officers around the world. Operated by Industry Canada and the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT), IBOC works on a case-by-case basis to provide a timely response to foreign buyers. Using search tools such as DFAIT's WIN Exports and Industry Canada's Canadian Company Capabilities (Strategis) databases as well as a broad network of other sources, IBOC contacts Canadian companies to advise them of product or service-specific inquiries from foreign buyers. Although the Centre does not publish a general list of inquiries, a selection of trade leads is available on-line at: <http://www.iboc.gc.ca>

◆ Position Your Company to Receive Trade Leads

If your company isn't already registered in the WIN Exports or Strategis databases so frequently used by IBOC and DFAIT's Trade Commissioners you won't hear of trade leads. To register in the WIN Exports database, call 1-800-551-4WIN (4946) or (613) 944-4946; or fax your request for a registration form to 1-800-667-3802 or (613) 944-1078. To register in the Canadian Companies Capabilities database, access Strategis on-line at: <http://strategis.ic.gc.ca> or call 1-800-328-6189 or (613) 954-5031.

◆ Life Sciences Branch

The Life Sciences Branch (LSB) advances the economic growth and competitiveness of the Canadian health and biotechnology industries for the improvement of the quality of life of Canadians. The Branch provides a national perspective for the formation of responsible economic policies for the health and biotechnology industries; conducts analysis; shapes policy and regulatory issues on behalf of industry clients based on sectoral intelligence and reasoned advocacy; and develops products, services and networks for health and biotechnology stakeholders. LSB work contributes to the development of Canada's health and biotechnology industries with respect to innovation and productivity; global sales; adoption of information technology and telecommunications; investment climate; and confidence for businesses, investors and consumers in a fair, efficient and competitive marketplace.

Initiatives include: advocacy on regulatory issues such as the Patent Act and intellectual property policies; trade and investment development strategies and activities, including two Trade Team Canada initiatives and leadership of a Life Sciences Investment Round Table; Technology Roadmaps; and dissemination to industry of intelligence on trade, investment, regulation, technology and sectoral contacts through web sites on Strategis.

◆ Manufacturing Industries Branch

Note: Forest, Metal and Building Products; Industrial and Consumer Products; and Manufacturing and Processing Technologies are in the process of merging to become the new Manufacturing Industries Branch. While the organizational transition is under way, for the purposes of this report, each branch is described separately.

◆ Manufacturing and Processing Technologies Branch

Manufacturing and Processing Technologies Branch (MPT) encourages the adoption, adaption, development, and diffusion of advanced manufacturing and processing technologies as a means of stimulating growth and creating jobs, particularly within the small and medium-sized enterprise community. The branch works with its industry clients in all manufacturing sectors (including petroleum refining and oil and gas equipment; electrical power technologies; and resource equipment and technologies – e.g., forestry, mining, pulp and paper, oceans, agriculture). In addition to its sectoral policy and liaison responsibilities, it is a strong advocate for the adoption of continuous improvement and best management practices by Canadian industry, and serves as an advisor to government on innovation and technology issues facing the Canadian economy.

MPT also works to strengthen the sectoral approach to trade development, planning and delivery through its Trade Teams in the Electrical Equipment, Advanced Manufacturing Technologies, Ocean Technologies, Oil and Gas Equipment, and Agricultural Equipment sectors.

The use of advanced manufacturing technologies is further encouraged by the enabling technologies component of Technology Partnerships Canada (TPC).

◆ Service Industries Branch

Service Industries Branch (SIB) is the focal point of expertise within the federal government on Canada's service industries, including those involved in undertaking domestic and international capital projects. The branch maintains a knowledge base on service industries and provides strategic information, services and policy products aimed at enhancing the international competitiveness of Canadian service firms. The branch focuses on the business, professional, distribution, and marketing service industries, including the capital projects related industries, such as consulting engineering, architecture and the construction industry.

Specific activities of the branch include: promoting the export readiness of Canadian service firms; encouraging partnering and strategic alliances among Canadian and foreign companies; encouraging the use of information technologies and electronic commerce; raising the profile and credibility of Canadian firms in foreign markets; ensuring the timely delivery of market and other strategic competitive information to private sector clients; promoting innovation and investment; providing information on access to financing, particularly for small services suppliers; assisting firms to exploit better, major project opportunities, in particular, those funded by international financial institutions (e.g. World Bank); promoting a greater participation of Canadian firms in Public-Private Infrastructure projects; developing technology roadmap and sector competitiveness frameworks and strategies for selected service industries; undertaking studies and analyses of policy and horizontal service industries issues, such as trade in services, marketplace issues, and services data development; and supporting the government's efforts to obtain better market access through the World Trade Organization and the North American Free Trade Agreement and to ensure that agreements are implemented in practice.

◆ Women's Bureau

The Women's Bureau provides research, development, delivery, evaluation, communication, secretarial and coordination support to the Action Committee on Women's Issues (ACWI) co-chaired by the Assistant Deputy Minister of Spectrum, Information Technologies and Telecommunications (SITT) and the Director General, Innovation Policy Branch. The Bureau works in close collaboration with other departmental units to improve the work environment and help employees balance their work and personal life. The Bureau also facilitates career development for women in areas where they are clearly under-represented and helps support staff (80% of which are women) make the transition to a professional career.

Information and Privacy Rights Administration

Oversees the administration and policy development of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act as related to the Department. It processes formal requests, advises senior management on the administration of the legislation and the disposition of cases, and promotes awareness of the legislation within the Department.

Investment Partnerships Canada

Investment Partnerships Canada (IPC), a joint venture between Industry Canada and the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, undertakes research and analysis to target investment prospects, and develops and manages investment campaigns directed at selected multinational enterprises in key strategic sectors.

IPC also provides one-stop servicing of the investment interests of client companies and other major investors.

IPC has been mandated to act as the federal government's focal point in partnership ventures with sector branches, other departments, and posts abroad.

For more information, please call our general inquiries number at 1 (613) 941-3356.

Office of Consumer Affairs

The Office of Consumer Affairs (OCA) works to promote a fair and efficient marketplace for Canadian consumers, and to protect the consumer interest. The Office helps consumers obtain credible marketplace information; provides analysis of key policy issues from the consumer perspective; and works with governments, business and consumer groups to improve Canada's system of consumer protection.

Office of the Corporate Secretary

The Office of the Corporate Secretary (OCS) provides executive support to the offices of the Minister, Secretaries of State, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister. It manages the processes and information systems that support Industry Canada executives in their formal relationships with the rest of the Department as well as with Industry Canada partners and clients and the Canadian public. The Corporate Secretary also acts as secretary to the departmental management committees and advises the Deputy Minister on the management of the departmental agenda. OCS is organized along three business lines:

♦ Executive Correspondence and Records

OCS manages the departmental correspondence process for the Minister, two secretaries of State, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister. It establishes and administers the departmental procedures and corporate correspondence management system for executive correspondence, carries out quality control and manages the flow and storage of executive documents.

♦ Executive Briefings and Appointments

OCS coordinates the preparation and provision of executive briefing materials. It supports the office of the Minister in managing the process for governor-in-Council and Ministerial appointments under the Industry portfolio and coordinates the provision of departmental advice on appointments.

♦ Executive Services

OCS supports the day-to-day operations of executive offices by providing administrative, financial and informatics services. It also manages Industry Canada's conference planning and official hospitality.

Office of the Ethics Counsellor

The Ethics Counsellor administers the Prime Minister's Conflict of Interest and Post-Employment Code for Public Office Holders as it applies to ministers, secretaries of state, parliamentary secretaries, full-time Governor in Council appointees and ministerial staff. The Ethics Counsellor maintains a registry of public declarations and provides guidance on conflict of interest and other ethical issues to departments, agencies, other governments and individuals on request. The Ethics Counsellor is available to the Prime Minister to investigate allegations of impropriety against Ministers and senior officials.

The Lobbyists Registration Branch of the Office of the Ethics Counsellor administers the Lobbyists Registration Act by registering paid lobbyists and maintaining a public registry. Lobbyists are required to disclose information on their activities, and the Director of the Branch has formal powers to issue interpretation bulletins. The Branch also provides guidance to potential lobbyists and information on lobbyists to federal officials and the general public. The Director produces an annual report for Parliament.

Under the Lobbyists Registration Act, the Ethics Counsellor is responsible for the administration of a Lobbyists' Code of Conduct. The Ethics Counsellor is required to investigate alleged breaches to the Code, and prepare reports on them for Parliament. The Ethics Counsellor also prepares an annual report on these responsibilities for Parliament.

Operations Sector

The Operations Sector is Industry Canada's service delivery arm with 2400 employees providing services in over 50 Canadian communities. It serves the business community with a full range of information and intelligence on trade, investment and technology opportunities; through the marketplace component, it contributes to a framework for the orderly conduct of business and the development of new technologies and promotes an environment that will improve the competitiveness of Canadian industry and fair market practices.

Branches that make up the Sector include: Aboriginal Business Canada, Canadian Intellectual Property Office, Corporations, FedNor, Measurement Canada, Office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy, Programs and Services, Regional Offices, Strategic Planning and Corporate Services, and Trade and Operations Branch.

♦ Aboriginal Business Canada

Aboriginal Business Canada promotes the growth of Aboriginal businesses in Canada, and to help integrate them into the national and international economies. The program provides a range of services, support, and information products to Canadian Indian, Métis, and Inuit entrepreneurs and business organizations. This support includes advice and counselling by business development officers; business planning assistance; management training and networking opportunities, and direct financial assistance to Aboriginal companies in the form of contributions or loan insurance. Strategic priorities have been established for: trade and market expansion (including Aboriginal tourism), innovation, Aboriginal youth entrepreneurship, and strengthening Aboriginal financial and business organizations, in particular the network of Aboriginal Capital Corporations.

Aboriginal Business Canada benefits from the direct involvement of the National Aboriginal Economic Development Board. This Board sets program policy, and provides strategic direction, contributing to the advancement of the program's specific strategic priorities. In some cases, the Board reviews and recommends proposals to be supported. Membership is made up primarily of Aboriginal entrepreneurs and individuals with backgrounds in business and economic development.

◆ Canadian Intellectual Property Office

The Canadian Intellectual Property Office (CIPO) is responsible for granting and registering intellectual property rights in Canada and for ensuring that the information acquired, in exchange for such rights, is made available to the public. The development, management and exploitation of intellectual property is important to Canada's economic development and international competitiveness. CIPO's role is to ensure that intellectual property contributes to an acceleration of Canada's economic development and that the benefits of the intellectual property system accrue to Canadians.

◆ Corporations

Corporations administers the Canada Business Corporations Act (CBCA), the Canada Cooperatives Act, the Canada Corporations Act, and several other statutes, through the examination of applications for federal incorporation, continuance, amalgamation and dissolution of corporations; the management of a database on federal corporations and the collection, assessment and verification of information made available to the public. It issues exemptions from certain requirements of the CBCA and monitors and enforces compliance with various statutory requirements. As of April 1, 1995, the Corporations Directorate assumed responsibility for the Registration Division. The Office of the Registrar General within the Registration Division is the guardian of the Great Seal of Canada. Documents are issued under the Formal Documents Regulations, the Public Officers Act and the Seals Act (Commissions, Land Grants, Proclamations, etc.). The Division accepts and retains on file railroad deposits under Sections 104 and 105 of the Canada Transportation Act.

◆ FedNor

FedNor is the Federal Economic Development Initiative for Northern Ontario. Its mission is to promote economic growth, diversification, job creation and sustainable, self-reliant communities in Northern Ontario by working with community partners and other organizations to improve small business access to capital, information and markets.

In support of its mission, FedNor directs its efforts toward planning, developing and implementing innovative strategies designed to meet the needs of Northern Ontario. In addition, FedNor continues to maintain responsibility for delivery of the Community Futures Program throughout northern and rural southern Ontario. FedNor also remains positioned to continue to assist northern Ontario and rural southern Ontario in a manner that responds to the expressed needs of its stakeholders by providing a coordinated approach to economic development.

FedNor supports Industry Canada's strategic priorities of improving conditions for investment in the Canadian economy, of contributing to Canada becoming the most connected nation in the world, of improving Canada's innovation performance and the transition to the knowledge-based economy, of working with Canadian companies to increase Canada's share of global trade, of building a fair, efficient and competitive marketplace for business and consumers.

Ontario's 52 Community Futures Development Corporations (CFDCs) are governed by volunteers in partnership with FedNor, to help develop and diversify the local economy through community strategic planning, business counselling and investment in small business.

Through its community and business partnerships and networking within the region, and between the region and elsewhere; FedNor, through its offices in Sudbury, Sault Ste-Marie and Thunder Bay, ensures a strong Northern Ontario voice in national affairs.

◆ Measurement Canada

Measurement Canada administers and enforces the Electricity and Gas Inspection Act and the Weights and Measures Act. The mission of the Agency is to ensure equity and accuracy, where goods and services are bought and sold on the basis of measurement, in order to contribute to a fair and competitive marketplace for Canadians.

Direct services provided by Measurement Canada include: calibration and certification of measurement standards; compliance assurance; device approval; marketplace surveillance; dispute investigation and accreditation. Other services and activities provided include: policy and legislative development and client services, including responding to complaints and enquiries.

◆ Office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy

The Office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy supervises the administration of the Canadian bankruptcy and insolvency process. It maintains a public record of bankruptcies and receiverships, as well as consumer and commercial proposals, which enable individual debtors and viable businesses to reorganize their financial affairs and possibly avoid bankruptcy. It is responsible for the licensing, monitoring and disciplining of private sector trustees. The office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy also helps maintain a sound and modern legislative framework, which promotes fair treatment of creditors and debtors and acts to deter abuses, and ensures public access to relevant insolvency data.

♦ Programs and Services Branch

The Programs And Services Branch is responsible for the administration of the Small Business Loans Act (SBLA) and the Canada Small Business Financing Act (CSBFA), pursuant to which lenders in the private sector are encouraged to make term loans to small businesses, to finance specified fixed assets for new or expanded operations. Responsibility includes registration of loans made by lenders, auditing and adjusting of lender's claim for loss and interpretation of the program's legislation (Act and Regulations). The Branch also serves as the department's focal point for direction and coordination of all Industry Canada's financial assistance programs and business services' activities. These include program design and program policy development and interpretation. The Branch is responsible for providing secretariat services and related administrative support to the Programs and Services Board which serves as a forum for senior departmental officials to provide corporate direction in the selection, design, implementation and performance monitoring of financial assistance programs and business services originating from the various sectors of the department. It acts as a focal point for the Environmental Assessment function throughout the department and is responsible to ensure departmental compliance with the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act. It is also mandated to protect Crown interests through recovery action on defaulted loans, loan guarantees and contributions related to all departmental programs.

♦ Regional Offices

Industry Canada has regional and district offices across Canada. They deliver a wide range of Industry Canada programs and services to foster a fair and competitive marketplace. The regional offices also bring a national perspective to the development of micro-economic policy and the enhancement of national objectives by reflecting regional realities. The regional offices support international business development through the International Trade Centres (ITC) by helping firms to become export-ready and to be knowledgeable about markets and competitive opportunities. They also work closely with their portfolio partners, such as the Regional Agencies, the Business Development Bank of Canada (BDC), National Research Centre of Canada (NCR)/Industrial Research Assistance Program (IRAP) and other federal departments and agencies at the regional level as well as with the provinces and with the municipalities to offer business intelligence services through the Canada Business Services Centres (CBSC).

♦ Strategic Planning and Corporate Development Branch

The Strategic Planning and Corporate Development Branch directly supports the Assistant Deputy Minister (ADM), Operations Sector. On behalf of the ADM, the Branch provides analysis and advice on major operational policy issues facing the Sector, develops the Sector's strategic direction, objectives, performance measurement and accountability accords. The Branch plays a key role in improving service strategies and providing integration amongst the Sector's business units, and across the department's Marketplace Services, on emerging service delivery and corporate governance issues. In addition, the Branch is responsible for the management of central services, which are comprised of financial services, human resources management and organizational development for the Operations Sector, and the management of facilities (leased and owned properties), moveable assets, records and mail and telecommunications facilities for Industry Canada.

♦ Trade and Operations Branch (TOBI)

This Branch comprises the Trade Integration Directorate (TID), the Operations Directorate, Facilities Management and the Management Consulting Centre.

TID plays a key role in developing strong Team Canada partnerships across the federal government and the regions. TID serves as a focus within the Department of International Business Development (IBD) and promotes and integrates a range of departmental IBD-related initiatives. The Directorate is also responsible for ExportSource — a leading-edge, award-winning, one-stop Internet site allowing companies to tap into the full range of Team Canada IBD services.

The Operations Directorate provides timely briefings, national program and special Departmental and Sectoral project/initiative coordination and delivery, information dissemination, and other management support services to Regional Offices, to the Minister and Secretary of State and to senior officials (e.g., the ADM Operations, the DM and Associate DM) of the Department. The Operations Directorate is also responsible for national program delivery of Section 41 of the Official Languages Act (S41) in the Department.

Facilities Management is responsible for the management of facilities (leased and owned properties), moveable assets and telecommunications for Industry Canada, as well as occupational health and safety activities and environmental stewardship initiatives for the department.

The Management Consulting Centre provides consulting services on a broad range of issues within Industry Canada on a cost-recovery basis.

Spectrum, Information Technologies and Telecommunications Sector

The objective of this sector is to facilitate the development and use of information and communication technologies, systems and services that serve the economic and social needs of all Canadians. This responsibility includes formulating telecommunications and information policies, which provide an encouraging and predictable environment for investment and innovation; providing a competent base of expertise in technical and strategic issues in the area of systems interconnection goods and related telecommunications and information technology standards; ensuring the availability and use of communications and information goods and services to all Canadians; improving the international competitiveness of Canada's information and communication technologies industry; accelerating Canadians connection to, competence on, and development of content on the Information Highway through programs such as SchoolNet, Community Access Program, Computers for Schools Program, Digital Collections Program and various Youth Employment Strategy Programs; enhancing the competitiveness of the information and communications industries through the delivery of innovation, trade support, investment promotion and policy advocacy programs; developing policies aimed at achieving Canadian interests in multilateral communications organizations such as the International Telecommunications Union (ITU) and the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD); managing the department's bilateral telecommunications relationships; and, achieving international R&D cooperation and technical marketing. The Sector also strives to ensure the accommodation of as many users of the radio frequency spectrum as possible with a minimum of interference; promotes the development and growth of radio; manages spectrum use by Canadian broadcasters, operators and radio license holders; and, protects Canada's rights and interests regarding spectrum use through international agreements and regulations.

♦ Electronic Commerce Branch

Electronic commerce is a key component of the Government's Connectedness Agenda. The Branch is coordinating the development of a comprehensive strategy for electronic commerce in Canada. The goal is to provide the proper environment and the level of support necessary for investment in e-commerce, and for its rapid diffusion throughout the economy in order to maximize its contribution to industrial competitiveness and productivity. It is working with the private sector, consumer and public interest organizations, the provinces and territories, other federal government departments and agencies on a policy framework to build trust, clarify rules and position Canada so that we can maximize the social and economic benefits derived from electronic commerce.

The Branch is working in three areas. First, it is maintaining domestic and policy leadership favourable to the conduct of e-commerce. An intensive communications and consultation initiative is underway, over the three year implementation period, to ensure Canadian industry fully understands the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act and its implications for their businesses. The Branch is also engaged in consultations to encourage the development of an economy-wide framework for electronic authentication and certification to ensure electronic transactions and the compatibility of electronic business processes. The Branch participates in international policy development and coordination activity on privacy, authentication, lawful access, network security and trade issues with OECD, APEC, WTO, FTAA, G8 and GBDe and on security matters as part of the Wassenaar Arrangement.

Second, it is working to accelerate the rapid adoption and use of electronic commerce by Canadian industry. Its activities are focused on encouraging and facilitating private sector-led sectoral initiatives to establish Canada's brand domestically and internationally, accelerating the transformation of existing business, fostering e-business creation and growth, expanding the e-business talent pool, making government on-line a priority for all governments in Canada, and building Canada's leadership in international Internet policy development.

Third, the Branch is encouraging innovation in approaches to the development of e-commerce technology and applications. Its activities are focused on bringing together the efforts of academic researchers, business and government to develop a comprehensive, co-ordinated and multi-disciplinary research agenda to initiate new advanced research and share knowledge and innovations.

♦ SITT Sector Strategic Planning

The directorate provides sector strategic planning and coordination services. Activities include the coordination of federal-provincial-territorial initiatives related to the information highway, the coordination of statistical and research plans, the preparation of sector strategic plans, and the management of sector financial resources and administrative services, including ATIP.

♦ Information and Communications Technologies Branch

The Information and Communications Technologies Branch is committed to improving the competitiveness of the Canadian information and communications technologies (ICT) industries through its business analysis, trade, policy advocacy, technology and investment activities. It delivers R&D programs and is responsible for the delivery of programs and services such as CANARIE and Precarn. The Branch develops strategies and implements promotional programs to attract and retain value-added multi-national enterprise (MNE) activities in Canada. In addition, the Branch supports industry associations in their work in fields such as quality, standards, international marketing and strategic alliances for the ICT industry. The Branch also promotes Canadian interests in multilateral and bilateral telecommunications trade development and assists Canadian information and communications industries to access export markets and foreign technology. It leads the government role on the CANARIE program and develops initiatives to promote Internet service providers and electronic commerce in Canada. A major activity for the branch is the development of information products and services to improve access by SMEs to market and business intelligence. This includes market studies, a clearinghouse on networking initiatives, directories of company capabilities, a database on financing options and sources, industry surveys and statistics, published on Strategis.

♦ Information Highway Applications Branch

The Information Highway Applications Branch works toward accelerating Canadians' connection to, competence on, and development of content on the Information Highway through programs such as SchoolNet; Community Access Program; Computers for Schools Program; Canada's Digital Collections Program; SchoolNet First Nations Program; SchoolNet Grassroots Program; Office of International Partnerships; SkillNet.ca; and various Youth Employment Strategy Programs. This includes fostering the innovation and information technology skills needed for a knowledge-based economy; encouraging the development of multimedia learnware applications and the development of a Canadian multi-media learnware industry and fostering the expansion of community networks.

♦ Radiocommunication and Broadcasting Regulatory Branch

Under the authority of the Radiocommunication and Broadcasting Acts, the Radiocommunication and Broadcasting Regulatory Branch develops spectrum management regulatory and operational policies and procedures. The Branch also plans, authorizes and manages radio spectrum use by Canadian operators and radio licence holders, and certifies broadcasting facilities. Its principal activities include: pursuing and protecting Canadian regulatory interests in the International Telecommunication Union and other bilateral or multilateral fora where International regulations, allocations, standards and planning methods are developed; drafting legislation and regulations required for the spectrum management program; licensing the operation of radio facilities using the most appropriate licensing process (first-come, first-served, comparative or auction) including mobile radio systems, satellites, microwave relay stations etc.; certifying broadcasting facilities (CATV, television, AM and FM and amateur radio); technical evaluation and exchange of international notifications of TV, AM, FM, DTV, MDS and DRB assignments under bilateral or lateral agreements; coordinating enforcement with respect to non-compliance, for example, illegal broadcasting stations and the use of illegally modified (chipped) satellite decoders; developing and promulgating all operational policies and procedures; operating, maintaining and updating the automated spectrum management system (SMS) and the Broadcasting and Cable Database System used by all departmental spectrum field offices; conducting examinations for radio operators, and; planning for the continuity of telecommunications in the event of a national emergency, including catastrophic earthquakes.

♦ Spectrum Engineering Branch

The Spectrum Engineering Branch performs the engineering studies required for rational communications policy and the accommodation of new technologies. It is responsible for all engineering issues required for the effective and efficient delivery of the spectrum management program, the Terminal Attachment Program, as well as the technical planning and regulation of all broadcasting facilities in Canada. It is also responsible for engineering aspects of the national and international negotiations and legal arrangements needed to ensure the orderly introduction of new telecommunications technology and evolution of the Canadian telecommunications system. Its main activity is to conduct all engineering studies required as a basis for: the international negotiation of spectrum allocations; the development of domestic policy for the exploitation of those allocations; international and domestic spectrum sharing agreements and, finally; the corpus of engineering plans, standards, specifications and procedures necessary for the assignment of interference-free frequencies to Canadian radio services and assurance of the continuing quality of the spectrum and the Canadian telecommunication system. Ancillary services are provided through: the development of automated tools for spectrum management; the promotion of spectrum management technology to Canadian industry for export; the provision of laboratory and test facilities to support the Branch's engineering analysis and certification obligations; ensuring the maintenance and staging of spectrum surveillance vehicles and Integrated Spectrum Observation Centre (ISOC) equipment; providing engineering support to regional spectrum offices and; under an IC/DND MOU, the performance of the spectrum management engineering functions required to ensure the compatible accommodation, in Canada, of the radio facilities of the Department of National Defence and its military allies. In short, the Branch is responsible for all engineering aspects of the implementation of the Radiocommunication, Telecommunication, and Broadcasting Acts with the primary objective of forestering electromagnetic and regulatory environments, both domestic and international, in which Canada's multi-billion dollar telecommunications service and manufacturing industries will continue to prosper. A fundamental aspect of this work is that the Branch provides Canada's primary technical interface with all of the responsible international bodies in the field, such as: the International Telecommunication Union, (ITU) and its radio and telecommunications arms (ITU-R and ITU-T), the International Special Committee on Radio Interference (CISPR), and a broad range of other regional, multinational and binational affiliations. It is also the focus for the technical negotiations for mutual recognition agreements with other countries and world regions and implementation of telecommunication aspects of Free Trade Agreements such as NAFTA and CCFTA to facilitate international trade in telecommunications products.

♦ Task Force Year 2000 Secretariat

The Task Force Year 2000 Secretariat was formed in September 1997, to support the work of the private sector Task Force Year 2000 created by Industry Minister

John Manley. The mandate of the Task Force, and hence the ongoing mandate of the Secretariat, is to encourage private sector preparedness in dealing with the well known millennium computer bug associated with difficulties in reading two-digit date codes. In July of 1998, the Task Force completed its work with the publication of its final report, "A Call for Action: The Eleventh Hour." The Secretariat will continue its efforts through the end of the millennium to encourage and assist businesses in planning and executing Year 2000 compliance activities.

◆ Telecommunications Policy Branch

The Telecommunications Policy Branch formulates policies, recommendations, regulations and legislation governing and promoting the orderly development and efficient operation and competitiveness of the telecommunications facilities and services required by Canadians for national and international communications, including the present and future use of the radio frequency spectrum and use of geostationary orbits. The Branch develops policy proposals related to the structure of the industry providing telecommunications services; develops policy proposals fostering the orderly development and use of Canadian national and international telecommunications facilities and networks, including radio licensing policies and technical standards; assumes policy development, coordination and representational functions in multilateral and bilateral telecommunications negotiations; develops business and regulatory policy proposals affecting the telecommunications industry, new media and the Internet including regulatory reform proposals, and develops analysis and recommendations respecting the possible review by the Governor in Council of regulatory decisions.

◆ Technology Partnerships Canada (TPC)

Technology Partnerships Canada (TPC) is a technology investment fund established to contribute to the achievement of Canada's objectives: increasing economic growth, creating jobs and wealth, and supporting sustainable development.

TPC makes strategic investments in research, development and innovation in order to encourage private sector investments, and to maintain and grow the technology base and technological capabilities of Canadian industry.

Eligible activities for TPC funding include:

- Industrial research,
- Pre-competitive development, and
- Studies.

TPC supports research, development and innovation in:

- Enabling technologies such as advanced manufacturing and processing technologies, advanced materials processes and applications, and applications of biotechnology and of selected information technologies.

- Environmental technologies that contribute to the achievement of sustainable development or have significant environmental benefits. It involves projects in priority areas such as the development of sustainable alternatives, as well as pollution prevention, abatement, and remediation.
- Aerospace and defence projects for the development and application of technologies essential to these sectors. Included are projects that sustain and expand technological capacity and capability, as well as defence conversion projects.

Information Holdings

Program Records

Aboriginal Business Canada

Description: Aboriginal Business Canada provides a range of support and services to Aboriginal businesses across Canada. The program focuses on four strategic priority areas for support: trade and market expansion, including Aboriginal tourism, innovation, youth entrepreneurship, and strengthened Aboriginal business and financial institutions. Topics: All components of the Canadian Aboriginal Economic Development (CAED) Strategy relating to Business Development, Joint Ventures, Capital Corporations and Research and Advocacy; Special Agricultural & Rural Development; Native Economic Development. Program Record Number: IC IC 010

Access to Information and Privacy

Description: Records relating to the administration of the access to information and privacy legislation, information collection and public opinion research, information management practices and inventories of information holdings. Topics: Policy; procedures; reports; studies; audits; legal advice; training; surveys; personal information banks and classes; disclosures to investigative bodies; Info Source; delegation of authority; consultations; requests; complaints and correspondence. Access: Information is filed by subject. Individual requests are filed by name and sequential number by fiscal year. Storage Medium: Paper file and EDP system. Program Record Number: IC IC 020

Accreditation

Description: Information on the Accreditation Program. Topics: Accreditation, electricity and gas, weights and measures, verifiers, manufacturers, contractors (utilities), service organizations, accredited, factory initial inspections, accreditation standard, International Organization for Standardization (ISO), quality assurance criteria, administrative requirements, initial transition period, manual review procedure, audit procedure, enforcement policy. Access: Internet. Program Record Number: IC IC 405

Advanced Devices and Reliability

Description: Information pertaining to research and development of new microelectronic devices and circuits, particularly those based on compound semiconductor materials such as gallium arsenide (GAAs), and the evaluation of these materials in regard to their suitability for device and circuit fabrication. Topics: Device and circuit fabrication processes and evaluations; GAAs high-speed logic optoelectronic devices and circuits for data processing; and broadband switching applications.

Program Record Number: IC IC 030

Behavioural Research

Description: This bank contains reports, studies, field trial evaluations, surveys and interviews involving individual reactions, views and opinions related to the intellectual, creative and productive capabilities of human beings in information communication and related processes, especially human perceptual and cognitive processes, human behaviour, and the interaction between people and communications technology. The reports themselves, published or unpublished, reflect collective human behaviour and not personal information about an individual. Personal information may be obtained in the process of preparing a report to establish the identity and credibility of the source. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the report involved. Program Record Number: IC IC 040

Broadcast Engineering Database

Description: This bank contains technical and administrative information related to broadcasting certificates. The information is used in the issue, renewal and amendment of certificates under the Radiocommunications Act and in providing technical certification to the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) to permit the issue of broadcast licenses under the Broadcasting Act. It is also used in meeting the technical criteria in bilateral agreements with the U.S.A. and agreements administered by the International Telecommunications Union (ITU). Some of this information is shared with: the Department of Transport to ensure that transmission of FM broadcasting stations do not interfere with aircraft communications; Energy, Mines and Resources Canada in preparing topographical maps; CRTC; Federal Communications Commission of the U.S.A. (FCC) related to the above agreements. Program Record Number: IC IC 050

Broadcast Technologies Research and Development

Description: Information on research and development in broadcasting and related technologies, systems and services. Topics: Television; sound (radio); datacasting; imagery; video and film generation; interactive home-services; behavioural research; broadcast standards and networks. Program Record Number: IC IC 060

Cable Television Database

Description: This bank contains technical and administrative information related to broadcasting certificates for cable television distribution systems. The information is used in the issue, renewal and amendment of certificates under the Radiocommunications Act and in providing technical certification to the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) to permit the issue of licenses under the Broadcasting Act. Parts of this information are shared with: the Department of Transport to ensure that transmission towers do not interfere with aircraft communications and navigation, and with the CRTC.

Canada Awards for Business Excellence

Description: Covers subjects relating to Canada Awards for Business Excellence. Topics: Dealings with businesses, industries and individuals, relating to specific categories of Canada Awards for Business Excellence, finalists and winners in each category; presentation ceremony events such as public relations, invitations, banquet, entertainment; promotion such as mailing list, advertising, entry kits, entry solicitations, flyers, pins, buttons, posters; proposals such as reports, bids, etc. from consultants who want to participate in the adjudication and events and networks of centres of excellence. Program Record Number: IC IC 090

Communications Application Research

Description: Information on the development, implementation, testing and marketing of new or improved communications and information technology products and services to meet the requirements of industry, governments and special needs groups such as people with disabilities, aboriginal peoples, seniors and those in remote locations. This involves project management resulting from the application of policy and R & D developed by the Department and its partners. Topics: Social and informatics applications, disabilities, native syllabics, database industry. Program Record Number: IC IC 110

Competition

Description: Information on enquiries, complaints, legal proceedings and prosecutions under the Competition Act. Topics: Program of compliance; international agreements; co-operation and liaison; enquiries and investigations; exports; imports; investments; textiles labelling; merchandising; mergers and pre-notifications; monopolies; price fixing; research; sales; services; tariffs; trade marks; transportation; warranties; guaranties. Industries: agricultural and retail services, fishing and trapping; logging and forestry; mining; manufacturing; construction; transportation and storage; communications and other utilities; wholesale and retail trade; finance and insurance; real estate and operating insurance agents; business services; government services; educational services; health and social services; accommodation; food and beverage services. Access: Case files are arranged under the 18 major groups of the standard industrial classification system. Storage Medium: Microfilm, magnetic tape. Program Record Number: IC IC 120

Components and Subsystems

Description: Information pertaining to research and development on the design, testing and application of GAAS monolithic microwave integrated circuits (MMIC), miniature hybrid microwave integrated circuits (MHMIC), components for use in the EHF frequency band, and the design and application of silicon very large scale integrated circuits (VLSI). Topics: MMIC components and devices; EHF MHMIC components; high speed digital components; and phased array antennas (for communications, radar and microwave landing system application). Program Record Number: IC IC 130

Conflict of Interest

Description: Information on conflict of interest provisions. Topics: Reports and appointments; correspondence with federal government departments, agencies, councils and commission; conflict of interest measures such as trust arrangements and guidelines for Ministers, their exempt staff, Parliamentary Secretaries, and full-time Governor in Council appointees; co-operation and liaison with provincial and international ethics agencies; complaints and enquiries. Program Record Number: IC IC 140

Consumer Affairs

Description: Information on consumer issues, policy, marketplace trends and grants and contributions to consumer groups. Topics: Applications for funding. Program Record Number: IC IC 150

Consumer Products – General

Description: Information on regulations, company liaison, complaints and enquiries, reference materials, sampling and testing, and enforcement concerning specific products. Topics: Alarm and protective devices; artist supplies and stationery; appliances; automotive; entertainment; furnishings; furniture care supplies; garden and yard equipment; home fuels; home structures and building material; insulation; housewares; infant and children's products; maintenance products; paper products and containers; personal use items; recreation equipment; sports and protective equipment; textiles; tobacco; tools and workshop equipment; toys; compliance. Complaints analysis – established to analyse product – related complaints by the Branch. Access: Files are arranged by product. Storage Medium: EDP System. Program Record Number: IC IC 160

Consumer Products – Packaging and Labelling

Description: This class covers information on regulations, interpretations and rulings, complaints and enquiries, correspondence, inspections, seizures, prosecutions, statistical data, sampling and testing concerning non-food products. The portion relating to agri-food and labelling has been transferred to the department of Agriculture Canada. Topics: Surveillance and liaison with Canadian General Standards Board. Access: Files arranged by subject with a case file arrangement for company enquiries by name. Storage Medium: A system on magnetic tape is used to evaluate the compliance of various commercial establishments with the different consumer protection laws. Program Record Number: IC IC 170

Consumer Products – Precious Metals and Fur Garment Marking

Description: This class covers information on regulations, interpretations and rulings, complaints and enquiries, correspondence, inspections, seizures, prosecutions, statistical data, sampling and testing concerning precious metal products and fur garments. Topics: Fur: garment marking, liaison, surveillance and enforcement; precious metals marking: liaison, surveillance and enforcement, foreign government marks, national mark, trade marks. Access: Files arranged by subject with a case file arrangement for company enquiries by name. Storage Medium: A system on magnetic tape is used to evaluate the compliance of various commercial establishments with the different consumer protection laws. Program Record Number: IC IC 180

Copyright, Integrated Circuit Topography and Industrial Design

Description: Information on copyright, integrated circuit topography and industrial design legislation. Topics: Copyright Act, Integrated Circuit Topography Act, Industrial Design Act; copyright, integrated circuit topography and industrial design case files; Timber Marking Act; registration and revision, enquiries, surveys, consultations with provinces, the private sector, and other departments; registration and enquiries about authors' and designers' works; applications for licenses. Access: Registration and files arranged by title with cases filed numerically by subject, registration number and owner name. Storage Medium: EDP system. Program Record Number: IC IC 190

Corporations

Description: Information concerning incorporation of federal companies – contains data on federal corporations which are used for internal record keeping and information dissemination via Canada Corporations Bulletin, telephone, mail, fax or internet. The master file also contains data used for the issuance of certificates of incorporation and corporate changes, and for the administration of Directorate programs dealing with compliance enforcement activities. Topics: Applications, charters, financial statements, annual returns, enquiries, liaison with companies, enforcement and surveillance investigations; exemptions; take-over bids; boards of trade; corporations. Access: Files accessible by corporation name with a numeric case file arrangement. Storage Medium: Microfiche and EDP systems. Program Record Number: IC IC 200

Departmental Programs

Description: Governmental programs carried out by the department and includes correspondence and material related to the initial contact with applicants, initial requests for information, investigations and analysis.

Topics: Programs include: Acid Rain Abatement Program (ARAP); Canada Scholarships; PRECARN – Grants & Contributions; Computers for Schools; Environmental Technology Commercialization Program (ETCP); SchoolNet; Community Access Program; Defense Industry Productivity Program (DIPP); Technology Outreach Program (TOP); Program for Export Market Development (PEMD); Federal Economic Development Initiative in Northern Ontario (FedNor); Ontario Community Futures Program; Small Business Loans Act (SBLA). Program Record Number: IC IC 300

Economic Policy

Description: Information on economic and industrial policies; trade; financial institutions; the environment.

Topics: Federal-provincial relations; foreign; monetary; prices – indexes and surveys regional situation; regulations; taxes; unemployment; industries; Canada, distribution, industry, legislation and programs, prices and indexes, processing, retailing, United States; agreements on tariffs and trade, United Nations Committee on Trade and Development; tariffs – imports, quotas; trade – agreements, extra-territoriality. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: IC IC 210

Electricity and Gas

Description: Information on the electricity and gas program. Topics: Electricity – approvals, imports and exports, statistics, inspection regulations and reports, calibrations, registration applications; gas – inspection regulations, approvals, calibrations, technical information, inspection reports, metric conversion standards and equipment, and registration applications. Storage Medium: EDP system. Program Record Number: IC IC 220

Emergency Telecommunications

Description: Information on emergency telecommunications planning in support of the Department's mandate summarized in Emergency Preparedness Act dated April 27, 1988 and Departmental Responsibilities for Emergency Preparedness dated May 1985. Topics: Emergency preparedness and crisis management; interdepartmental, intergovernmental and international committees on civil emergency planning; emergency telecommunications programs and contingency plans; emergencies broadcast system and support by regions; NATO and U.S./Canada military and civil exercises. Program Record Number: IC IC 230

Engineering

Description: This class of documents contains information on technical standards and procedures for radio equipment and systems, the development and implementation of radio frequency plans and frequency assignment criteria. It also contains the Terminal Attachment Program standards and procedures. Topics: Equipment type approval; technical methods, practices, procedures and standards; development and engineering. Spectrum management: assignment and licensing subsystems, research, special projects, pilot projects, spectrum surveillance system, automated systems development. Program Record Number: IC IC 240

Industry Development

Description: Information on the development of Canadian products industries for Canadian and Foreign markets.

Topics: Beverages; adhesives; petroleum and industrial chemical products; plastics; commercial services; consumer products – cultural products, leisure products, sporting goods; construction industry; defence industry; distribution services; electrical and electronics; communications equipment; environmental industry; fishing and trapping; food industries; forest industries – wood products, pulp and paper; furniture and fixtures – business and household products; information technology; leather and applied products; machinery; metals and minerals – iron, steel, non-ferrous; oil & gas, paper and allied products; retail trade; rubber products; scientific and professional industries; textile industries; tobacco products; transportation – air, marine, automotive, military, railway and street railway; wood industries – fabricated materials; framework policies; biotechnology. Program Record Number: IC IC 290

Industry Structure and Services

Description: Policies relating to corporate relations and services in the telecommunications carriage industry.

Topics: Legislation; competition; terms and conditions of service; terminal attachment. Program Record Number: IC IC 310

International Comparative Policy Group

Description: Information on Canada's telecommunications and cultural relations with multilateral trade organizations as well as Canada's bilateral relations with the United States in the field of telecommunications to ensure the successful pursuit of Canada's bilateral interests, and the promotion of the Canadian communications trade and industry. Also, information, studies, briefs and documentation on related cultural and communications policies in selected foreign countries. Topics: Canada United States trade relations; spectrum coordination matters; cable and satellite retransmission rights; satellite services – direct broadcasting satellites (DBS); European Economic Community (EEC); Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD); Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC); comparative policy analyses of Canadian communications policies versus those of other countries and regions. Program Record Number: IC IC 320

International Telecommunications & Coordination

Description: Development, analysis and the national integration of international telecommunications policy and strategic positions, the provision of advocacy and representational services to the department and government through promoting, negotiating and implementing privileged bilateral, and multilateral government-to-government cooperative and framework agreements, the development and elaboration of telecommunications trade policy, and the provision of authoritative advice and recommendations on issues and opportunities to support the realization of the corporate vision of increasing Canada's competitive advantage in the international fora. Topics: International telecommunications policy strategy and positions; Treaty-based inter-governmental organizations (e.g. ITU, INTELSAT, CTO); Privileged bilateral relations; Emerging strategic markets; Multilateral and regional market liberalization (e.g. WTO, FTAA, APEC, TAFTA, EFTA); International policy and regulatory developments; WTO commitments; International fora of influence (e.g. OECD, CITELE, APEC, PTC, Francophonie); Global Information Society (GIS); Government/Industry consultative committees (e.g. ITU, CITELE, APEC, OECD); World radio, standardization and development conferences; International policy coordination; Gender issues and telecommunications (e.g. ITU, APEC). Program Record Number: IC IC 330

International Telecommunications Union (ITU)

Activities

Description: Information pertaining to Canada's involvement in the International Telecommunications Union activities in consultation, management, regulation, development, standards setting and technical assistance.

Topics: Plenipotentiary Conferences, Council, Council Working Group on ITU Reform, world conferences on international telecommunications, the Radiocommunication Sector (ITU-R); world and regional radiocommunication conferences, radio regulation board, radiocommunication assemblies, radiocommunication advisory group, national and international study groups; Telecommunications Standardization Sector (ITU-T); world telecommunication standardization assembly (every four years); national and international study group meetings, telecommunication standardization advisory group; Telecommunication Development Sector (ITU-D); telecommunications development conferences; national and international study groups, and the telecommunication development advisory group, world and regional telecommunication development conferences. Program Record Number: IC IC 340

Investment Research and Policy – Research Projects

Description: Information and correspondence pertaining to specific research projects. Topics: General; Decimal studies and reports; joint venture projects; high tech studies; venture capital project; scanning model; health care industry in Canada; foreign investment, technology and economic growth; investment flows; strategic alliances; key company analysis; mergers and acquisitions; corporate taxation; Phoenix project; Canada's technological capabilities; Canadian investment to year 2000; portfolio investment project; Gleneagles research project; CDIA and Trims project; Canadian minority equity participation; world product mandate; Canada's fair share of international direct investment; Canada's leading companies; investment activity database; business roundtable discussions on international investment issues (Conference Board of Canada); multi-lateral investment agreement- Strategicon; multinationals and international competitiveness.

Research series – Corporate Globalization through mergers and acquisitions; foreign investment, technology and economic growth; Canadian direct investment abroad; Multi-national enterprises in North America.

Access: By specific issue or project. Program Record Number: IC IC 350

Investment Research and Policy – Working Papers

Description: Includes correspondence relating to the various working papers written for the Agency by research and policy. Topics: Working papers-general; Canadian Minority Equity Participation in Foreign Controlled Subsidiaries; Subsidiary Strategy in a Free Trade Environment; Formation and Operation of Joint Ventures in Canada; Trends and Traits of Canadian Joint Ventures; Business Implications of Globalization; International Investment; Canadian Developments in a Global Context; Opportunities and Challenges of North American Free Trade: A Canadian Perspective; A Multilateral Investment Accord: issues, models and options; International Investment and Competitiveness; Contribution of Investment and Savings to Productivity and Economic Growth in Canada; Business Performance Following a Takeover; Foreign Investment in Canada: Measurement and Definitions; Issues Surrounding Merger and Acquisition Activity in Canada and by Canadian Firms Abroad; Foreign Investment Protection Agreements: A Canadian Perspective; Extraterritoriality in the 1990s; Foreign Multinationals and Canada's International Competitiveness; Economic Integration in North America: Trends in Foreign Direct Investment. Access: By specific topic or title. Program Record Number: IC IC 360

Investment Review – Legal Opinions

Description: Contains information on ministerial opinions and related information concerning requests that the Minister determines whether he/she is satisfied that a delay in implementing an investment would result in undue hardship to the investor or would jeopardize the operations of the Canadian business that is the subject of an investment; Views and opinions on the applicability of the provisions of the Investment Canada Act, regulation and interpretation notes, in response to written requests submitted by one or more parties to an Investment and Ministerial opinions and related information as to whether or not an investor is a Canadian as defined in the Investment Canada Act. Topics: Status opinions – rules respecting control of entities; trusts; corporations deemed to be Canadian; equal ownership of a corporation; transitory provisions concerning Foreign opinion; Corporate reorganization; acquisition of control; joint ventures; partnerships; indirect acquisitions; oil and gas properties and mining properties; business and Canadian business; calculation of thresholds; step transaction; absolute rights. Access: Files arranged by name of applicants who ask for an opinion (individual, company, partnership, joint venture, government or agency of a foreign corporation). Program Record Number: IC IC 370

Legal Metrology

Description: Information on metering, specifications, symbols and standards, metric conversion, international measurement, international standards, and Canada's participation in international working groups and Canada's comments and votes. Programs include Organisation internationale de métrologie légale. Topics: Calibrations; liaison with associations, councils and international organizations; technical enquiries; metric conversion; misleading advertising and standards. Program Record Number: IC IC 380

Lobbyists Registration

Description: Information concerning the registration of lobbyists. Topics: Lobbyist registration, information systems, forms, legislation, regulation, policies and procedures, and administration, studies. Access: Files arranged by subject. Storage Medium: EDP system. Program Record Number: IC IC 390

Marketing Practices

Description: Enquiries, complaints, investigations, legal proceedings, interpretations and correspondence on misleading advertising and deceptive marketing practices. Topics: Advertising enquiries; misleading advertising complaints (National, Pacific, Ontario, Quebec, Atlantic and headquarters); program of compliance; surveys and studies. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and individual name. Storage Medium: EDP system. Program Record Number: IC IC 400

Network Policy and Standards Management

Description: National policies related to the orderly development and implementation of telecommunications networks and standards, and management of the Canadian national effort in the CCITT or the ITU.

Topics: Network development; standards policy; northern communications. Program Record Number: IC IC 420

Notifications

Description: Information concerning the notification of investments by non-Canadians – a complete record of the notification of each non-Canadian investment, from the submission of a notice to the issuance of a receipt by the Agency. Topics: Notices in prescribed form; subsequent correspondence with investors; consultations with relevant provincial governments and federal departments concerning investments related to Canada's cultural heritage or national identity; statutory receipts; orders for the review of investments relating to Canada's cultural heritage or national identity. Access: Files arranged by non-Canadian investor (individual, company, partnership, joint venture, government or agency of a foreign country). Program Record Number: IC IC 430

Office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy

Description: Information on investigations, licensing, assets and liabilities, enquiries, discharges, legal actions, control and audits, enquiries on civil and common law, and correspondence on bankruptcies. Topics: Audits and auditing; student loans; examination; fraudulent bankruptcies; enquiries – civil law, common law; bonds and bonding; claims; conferences; liaison – foreign governments, provinces, etc.; costs and taxation; dividends; estates; fees and expenses; instruction bulletins; licences; offenses; petitions; projects; prosecutions; reports and statistics; trustees; investigation of bankruptcies; trustees-in-bankruptcy; bankruptcy estate control files; retired or rejected applications. Access: Trustee files are arranged by name of individual or corporation. Storage Medium: EDP system; contains insolvency data used by bankruptcy offices to publish bankruptcy notices. Program Record Number: IC IC 440

Optical Communications Technologies

Classes of Personal Information

Behavioural Research

This class contains reports, studies, field trial evaluations, surveys, and interviews involving individual reactions, views and opinions related to the intellectual, creative and productive capabilities of human beings in information communication and related processes, especially human perceptual and cognitive processes, human behaviour and the interaction between people and communications technology. The reports themselves, published or unpublished, reflect collective human behaviour and not personal information about an individual. Personal information may be obtained in the process of preparing a report, to establish the identity and credibility of the source. This information is not used for administrative purposes and is not arranged by or retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the report involved. The retention of information depends on the length of time it is needed for related research. It is active for the fiscal years in which the project is active; otherwise, it is active for the current fiscal year; thereafter it is inactive but retrievable for the next two years, after which it is transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Complaints, Investigations and Inquiries Class (Competition Bureau)

This class contains personal information relating to the administration and enforcement of the Combines Investigation Act, the Competition Act, Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act, Textile Labelling Act, and Precious Metals Marking Act. The material may relate to the legislation in general, or to any category of product or service. Most filing is done according to standard industrial classification coding; the key reference for retrieval purposes is the industry or company involved. There is limited cross-referencing to and recording of incoming correspondence which may contain personal information. (Such correspondence includes complaints and requests for information as well as information obtained from the Canadian Police Information Centre, U.S. Department of Justice and from O.E.C.D. anti-trust authorities.) Personal information held by the Bureau may be provided to federal or provincial departments and agencies to ensure a proper level of service to the person identified.

Enterprise/Industrial Development and Assistance

The Department and its predecessor departments have administered a number of enterprise/industrial development and assistance programs. These programs have been aimed at encouraging enterprise and industrial development in a wide variety of ways. Personal information may be collected in the course of these departmental activities. Programs and activities which may have involved the storage of personal information include the Program for Export Market Development, the Defence Industry Productivity Program, the Microelectronics and Systems Development Program, the Technology Outreach Program, the Sector Campaigns, including the Prosperity Initiative, the St. Lawrence River Environmental Technology Development Program, the Advance Manufacturing Technology Application Program, the Strategic Technologies Program, the Science Culture Program, the Pharmaceutical Industrial Development Assistance Program, the Credit Reinsurance Program, the Shipbuilding Industry Assistance Program, the Advanced Technology Program – Waterloo Centre for Process Development, the Small Business Investments Grants, the Government Procurement Projects, the Industry Energy Research and Development Program, the Major Crown Projects, Aboriginal Business Canada and its earlier programming, the Western Transportation Industrial Development Program, the FEDNOR Core Industrial Program, the Rural Small Business Program – FEDNOR, the FEDNOR Loan Insurance Program, the FEDNOR Tourism Program, and Grants and Contributions to non-profit organizations to promote economic cooperation and development.

Personal information may include particulars such as the names, addresses, social insurance numbers, financial interests, management capabilities, employment histories, remuneration, age, health, marital status and educational background of individuals. Such personal information is stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided such as the program area, the corporate/project name, the location of a facility and the approximate date of submission/award.

General Development Agreements, Economic and Regional Development Agreements, Subsidiary Agreements and Related Initiatives

The Department has collected data needed for the administration of subsidiary agreements entered into with the provinces, consistent with the terms and conditions of general development agreements previously signed with all provinces, except Prince Edward Island, and the new economic and regional development agreements entered into with the 10 provinces. The general development agreements, which expired on March 31, 1984, established the framework for development and identified development opportunities for implementation under subsidiary agreements. The economic and regional development agreements with the provinces, as well as the subsidiary agreements signed under the economic development agreements with the Territories, provide a framework for co-operation and consultation on matters relating to economic development in each province and territory. As opportunities are identified, individual subsidiary agreements are formulated. These opportunities are normally unique to a province and, as a result, subsidiary agreements cover a broad range of specific programs.

Personal information may be stored in administering a number of subsidiary agreements. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided such as the name of the project or program that may be related thereto and the approximate date of submission/award.

Inquiries (Bureau of Consumer Affairs)

This class contains inquiries concerning the following Acts, which are administered in whole or in part by the Department: Canada Agricultural Products Standards Act; Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act; Electricity; Gas and Inspection Act; Fish Inspection Act; Food and Drugs Act; Hazardous Products Act; National Trade Mark and True Labelling Act; Precious Metals Marking Act; Textile Labelling Act; Weights and Measures Act. This class contains records on establishments that have been inspected with respect to the requirements or the legislation listed above. It contains inspection and incident reports, complaints, warning letters and other correspondence, and reports of prosecution. The names of individuals who are sole owners of companies appear in the files. These files are kept for several years in order to plan inspection visits and monitor the compliance level in relation to the regulatory requirements of the legislation administered by the Department.

Mailing Lists (Bureau of Corporate Policy and Strategic Planning)

This class of personal information contains the names and addresses of individuals who are on a mailing list to receive specific information or publications on departmental programs and activities. The lists are used by all bureaus to distribute departmental information and to respond to requests by individuals. The lists are updated on a continuing basis. The lists are maintained for a minimum of two years.

Ministerial Correspondence

This class of information contains correspondence addressed to the Minister, the Secretaries of State, the Deputy Minister and/or the Associate Deputy Minister from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Industry Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, a 15-year development agreement, the Prince Edward Island (P.E.I.) Comprehensive Development Plan, was signed by Canada and P.E.I. in 1969, under the authority of the Fund for Rural Economic Development Act. The plan has allowed for the design and implementation of a broad range of programs to stimulate economic growth, create jobs and raise per capita income. In addition, under the Federal Development Strategy, the Department has been involved in providing further economic development activities in P.E.I.

Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided, such as the name of the program concerned, the name of the specific project and the approximate date of submission/award.

Program Evaluation (Bureau of Corporate Policy and Strategic Planning)

This class of personal information contains data collected from departmental employees for departmental program evaluation studies. The aggregate data are used to support program evaluation, policy analysis and program development activities. All data are retained at headquarters with study files retained for a minimum of two years. Files are retrievable by study only. The names of individual participants are not retained.

Public Opinion Research

This is a class of records generated by departmental officials who conducted public opinion research on a vast spectrum of topics related to the mandate and mission of the Department of Industry Canada. Retrievable records consist of data gathering instruments, such as, but not exclusively, questionnaires which may contain personal information that reveals the identification of the research subject. Data contained in this class of records are not used for administrative purposes. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the title of the research project in which they participated, the location and the date of the research, and any other data that may help to identify and locate the personal information they are seeking.

Technological Information Services Requests (Intellectual Property Directorate)

This class includes the names, addresses and telephone numbers of individual inventors and entrepreneurs who have submitted requests for technological information. Also included is background information relating to the requests, the purposes of the requests and the specific areas of interest. The purpose of this service is to provide a technology search to assist in the development of new or improved products and processes and to avoid duplication of research and development. Requests are received via intermediary agencies (such as provincial research councils), and files are maintained by agency, not by name of individual. Requests are retained for a minimum of two years.

Security Video Surveillance

This class includes video surveillance tapes for close circuit television (CCTV) cameras located on the perimeters of or within departmental facilities. The cameras record the image of employees and visitors entering and exiting some of the department's facilities or movements within certain restricted areas of the department. Access to the videotapes is strictly controlled by the Departmental Security Officer. Video information that reveals evidence of illegal activity, employee misconduct or accidents may be disclosed to appropriate staff relations, enforcement or investigative bodies for further investigations, charges or disciplinary actions. The tapes are normally kept for a thirty day period and are then reused. In the case of video information used in the conduct of an investigation, the video evidence will be kept as long as required by law or until no longer required as evidence.

International Centre for Human Rights and Democratic Development (Rights & Democracy)

Chapter 69

General Information

Background

The International Centre for Human Rights and Democratic Development was established by an Act of the Parliament of Canada in 1988, and officially inaugurated in 1990. As of April, 2000 the Centre is known as Rights & Democracy.

Responsibilities

A Canadian institution with an international mandate, Rights & Democracy is an independent and non-partisan organization which initiates, encourages and supports the promotion, development and strengthening of democratic and human rights institutions and programmes as defined in the International Bill of Human Rights. Its mandate therefore covers civil, political, social, economic and cultural rights, as defined by the Universal Declaration and its two companion covenants.

Legislation

- International Centre for Human Rights and Democratic Development Act

Organization

The Centre is governed by a 13-member Board of Directors, named by the Governor General of Canada. Three members of the Board must be from developing countries.

Additional Information

Please see the INTRODUCTION to this publication for information on access procedures under the provisions of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Chapter 70

General Information

Background

The International Development Research Centre (IDRC) was established as a public corporation by the International Development Research Centre Act of 1970.

Responsibilities

IDRC initiates, encourages, supports, and conducts research into the problems of the developing regions of the world and into the means for applying and adapting scientific, technical, and other knowledge to the economic and social advancement of those regions. It supports research principally in three program areas: Social and Economic Equity; Environment and Natural Resource Management; and Information and Communication Technologies for Development. IDRC is financed by the Parliament of Canada; its policies, however, are set by an international Board of Governors.

Legislation

- General Bylaw of the IDRC
- International Development Research Centre Act, 1970

Organization

IDRC's headquarters are in Ottawa where it has an international staff. Regional offices in Asia (Singapore and New Delhi), East Africa (Nairobi), West Africa (Dakar), Southern Africa (Johannesburg), Latin America and the Caribbean (Montevideo) and the Middle East (Cairo) link Ottawa with the researchers and policy makers of the developing countries, encourage and assist the development of research proposals, and monitor ongoing projects within their regions.

IDRC's 21-member Board of Governors is appointed by the Canadian government. Under the International Development Research Centre Act, the chairperson, vice-chairperson and nine other governors must be Canadian citizens; the other ten are non-Canadians.

The president of the Centre holds the rank of deputy minister and is responsible to Parliament through the Minister designated for that purpose by the Governor in Council (currently the Minister of Foreign Affairs). A management committee composed of officers appointed by the Board of Governors assists the president in the Centre's operations.

Program and Partnership Branch (PPB)

The Program and Partnership Branch implements the Centre's program of research support, which is defined in terms of development issues and the knowledge required to address them.

Resources Branch (RB)

Resources Branch provides administrative support to the Centre's activities.

Laurentian Pilotage Authority Canada

Chapter 72

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Laurentian Pilotage Authority, a Crown corporation, was established on June 30, 1971, and became effective as of February 1, 1972, governed by the Pilotage Act and Regulations. For the purpose of the Financial Administration Act, the Authority is a corporation specified in Schedule III, Part I of that Act.

Responsibilities

The objects of the Authority are to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient pilotage service within the region.

The Chairman is the Authority's chief executive officer. The board is composed of a maximum of seven members, appointed by the Governor in Council. The head office is located in Montreal.

Legislation

- Pilotage Act and Regulations, RSC, 1985, c. P-14

Organization

♦ Administration Branch

This Branch attends board meetings, keeps minutes and takes care of files and records.

♦ Board of Directors

The Authority's board of directors is appointed by the Governor in Council, to a maximum of seven members. The chairman is the chief executive officer.

♦ Operations Branch

This Branch provides pilotage services by assignment, and dispatches qualified pilots to ships navigating within the Authority's region.

Law Commission of Canada

Chapter 73

General Information

Background

The Law Commission of Canada is an independent institution created by Parliament in May 1996 with the passage of the Law Commission of Canada Act. The Act came into force on April 21, 1997 and the Commission started its operations on July 1, 1997. The Commission meets the needs of both government and Parliament for broadly-based and strategic advice on legal policy and law reform issues.

The work of the Commission is to be guided by a set of principles, emanating from the consultations conducted in establishing the Law Commission, and embedded in the preamble of the legislation. These principles include a multidisciplinary approach, openness, inclusiveness, responsiveness and cost-effectiveness.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Law Commission is to study and keep under systematic review, in a manner that reflects the concepts and institutions of the common law and civil law systems, the law of Canada and its effects. Its efforts will focus on improvements, modernization and reforms to meet the changing needs of Canadian society and ensuring a just legal system.

The Law Commission of Canada will be responsible for the development of new approaches to, and new concepts of law, and the development of measures to make the legal system more efficient, economical, and accessible. The Commission will work towards the elimination of obsolescence and anomalies in the law. In addition, the Law Commission is mandated to stimulate critical debate in, and forge productive networks among academic and other communities.

In furtherance of its purpose, the Commission may undertake or sponsor studies and research, disseminate reports and other documents, organise conferences, seminars and other meetings and facilitate cooperation among governments and other organizations interested in justice and law.

Legislation

- Law Commission of Canada Act (proclaimed April 21, 1997)

Organization

The Law Commission of Canada reports to Parliament through the Minister of Justice and is designated as a departmental corporation.

The structure of the Commission consists of one full-time Commissioner who is the President and CEO of the Commission and four part-time Commissioners, representing a broad range of expertise, who continue to reside in their community.

The work of the Law Commission is supported by a small permanent Secretariat located in the National Capital Region and headed by an Executive Director. The research work of the Commission is conducted by outside experts such as contractors from the academic community and the private sector under the direction of a Research Director.

A permanent Advisory Council provides the Commission with advice on strategic direction, including the establishment of its long-term agenda and program of studies and reviews its performance. In addition, the Commission has the ability to establish study panels to assist with specific projects on an as-needed basis.

Leadership Network (The)

Chapter 74

General Information

Background

The Leadership Network was designated as a Division or Branch of the Public Service under the Financial Administration Act by Order in Council P.C. 1998-952 in June 1998 and extended by Order in Council 1999-1832 in October 1999. The Leadership Network has also been designated as a department for the purposes of the Public Service Employment Act.

Responsibilities

The mandate and mission of The Leadership Network are to promote, develop and support networks of leaders throughout the Public Service of Canada, and to assist them in the ongoing challenge of public service renewal.

Operating Environment

The Leadership Network develops close partnerships and horizontal links with departments, agencies, regions, functional communities, the Public Service Commission, the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Canadian Centre for Management Development, and complements and supports existing networks. The Leadership Network is also responsible for supporting the collective management of the Assistant Deputy Minister community.

Objectives

The objectives of The Leadership Network are to promote, develop and support networks of leaders throughout the Public Service of Canada, and to assist them in the ongoing challenge of public service renewal.

Organization

♦ Assistant Deputy Minister (ADM) Corporate Secretariat

Managing a 'single window' secretariat to facilitate collective management of ADM's: career counselling and advisory services related to entry into the ADM community, assignments, personal and career development strategies, learning opportunities and, support for ADM contribution to La Relève – particularly in leading dialogue among executives, managers, and other leaders in the Public Service.

♦ Strategic Planning and Leadership Network Development Branch

Nurturing existing leader networks, creating others as needed in partnership with regions, departments and central agencies; reaching out to leaders at all levels of the Public Service – executives, managers, supervisors and employees using traditional communications techniques, Internet, enhancing dialogue among leaders around the challenge of public service renewal, and contributing to strengthening communications within the Public Service, assisting departments and agencies, functional communities and federal regional councils in implementing La Relève and promoting and supporting action across the country around major issues such as: pride and recognition, values and ethics, the challenges faced by executives and middle managers, the emerging workforce of the future, and regional issues.

♦ Technology and Innovation Branch

Researching, identifying, developing and implementing technology-based solutions and innovation; providing Web site design and Web site content development by knowledge experts within TLN and by partner groups; supporting the development of an intranet Web site as the main interface to support the collection, analysis and dissemination of knowledge based products and key functional services; providing direct support to ADM Secretariat and ADM Community; fostering the identification and development of innovative technology-based tools and products.

♦ Internal Services and Systems Branch

Consists in the provision of Administrative, Financial, Informatics and Human Resources Services.

Mackenzie Valley Land & Water Board

Chapter 76

General Information

Background

The MACKENZIE VALLEY Land & Water Board is a regulatory authority that has its origins from the land claim process in the Mackenzie Valley Settlement Area of the Northwest Territories and the Mackenzie Valley Resource Management Act. The Mackenzie is defined by the area bounded in the north by the Inuvialuit Settlement Region, the east by Nunavut, in the west by the Yukon and in the south by NWT border, excluding Wood Buffalo National Park.

Responsibilities

The Mackenzie Valley Resource Management Act (MVRMA) was proclaimed December 22, 1998, with the exception of Part 4. Part 4 was proclaimed on March 31, 2000. The Act empowers the MACKENZIE VALLEY Land & Water Board to regulate the use of land and water and the deposition of waste by issuing, amending, renewing and suspending land use permits and water licences in areas of the Mackenzie Valley outside settled land claim areas; to deal with transboundary applications for land use permits or water licenses and to ensure a consistent application of the Act within the Mackenzie Valley. This authority extends to all crown, and private lands and all water. The MVRMA prescribes the Mackenzie Valley Land Use Regulations, the Northwest Territories Water Act/Regulations as the principal regulatory instruments for the Board to utilize.

Legislation

- Mackenzie Valley Resource Management Act
- Mackenzie Valley Land Use Regulations
- Preliminary Screening Requirement Regulations
- Exemption List Regulations
- Regulations Amending the Territorial Land Use Regulations
- NWT Waters Act
- Northern Inland Waters Regulations

Organization

The Board is composed of 17 members including, apart from the chairperson, all members of the Sahtu Land and Water Board, all members of the Gwich'in Land and Water Board, three members appointed on the nomination of the First Nations in the areas outside settled land claim areas in the Mackenzie Valley, one member appointed on the nomination of the GNWT and two members appointed on the nomination of the Federal Government.

The MACKENZIE VALLEY Land & Water Board's office is located in Yellowknife with an Executive Director, and a staff of 14.

Millennium Bureau of Canada

Chapter 78

General Information

Background

The Millennium Bureau of Canada (MBC) was created on March 12, 1998, as a small temporary department of the Government of Canada by Order in Council P.C. 1998-336. The MBC administers the Canada Millennium Partnership Program (CMPP) and ensures that the Government of Canada has a co-ordinated approach to millennium planning.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Bureau is to administer the Canada Millennium Partnership Program and to provide overall co-ordination for federal government initiatives and events relating to the millennium, in Canada and internationally.

The Bureau's core program is the Canada Millennium Partnership Program (CMPP), a funding program that was approved by Treasury Board Ministers on March 19th, 1998. The program is designed to provide funding assistance for community-based local, regional, national and international groups and organizations to develop projects and initiatives to mark the millennium in Canada. The objective of the program is to assist in building partnerships among governments, communities and citizens to mark the millennium. Funding for the program terminates on March 31, 2001.

The program was divided into four funding phases. All approved projects were required to meet established criteria, including the stipulation that no more than one-third of eligible costs will be covered through the CMPP.

Legislation

- Order in Council P.C. 1998-336

Organization

◆ Contributions

This service is responsible for negotiating the terms and conditions of funding agreements and monitors their implementation and progress.

◆ Communications

This service is responsible for developing and implementing communications strategies for the Millennium Bureau of Canada. The service is accountable for providing Canadians with information and updates on Millennium Bureau activities. The service also organizes special events; co-ordinates the assembling and distribution of daily media clippings; develops and maintains the Web site and ensures implementation by CMPP funding recipients of the Bureau's visibility protocol.

◆ Strategic Planning and Executive Services

This service is responsible for the overall co-ordination of the Government of Canada's approach to the millennium both nationally and internationally. The service performs the consulting and liaison function for the Millennium Bureau, meeting with officials of other government departments and agencies to discuss issues such as program criteria and funding. The service prepares questions and answers for Question Period in the House of Commons; manages Ministerial correspondence and Access to Information requests. The service is also responsible for the evaluation of the Canada Millennium Partnership Program in accordance to Treasury Board guidelines.

◆ Corporate Services

This service is responsible for the development and implementation of a corporate management framework and service base required to provide staff with the information, technology and support needed to achieve the Bureau's mandate in a timely and cost-efficient manner. It is also responsible for co-ordinating the negotiation of Memorandum of Understanding with other federal departments for the provision of corporate and program delivery services. The service is also responsible for the management of the Department's human, material and information resources.

◆ Financial Services

This Service prepares all financial planning and reporting documents for the Millennium Bureau, provides direction to managers and staff of the Bureau on matters related to financial management, and is responsible for the processing of all contribution payment claims and accounts payable. The Service is also responsible for the operation and maintenance of the financial systems used by the Bureau, including interfaces to numerous departmental and interdepartmental databases and systems.

Montreal Port Authority

Chapter 79

General Information

Background

On March 1, 1999, pursuant to the new Canada Marine Act, the name and status of the Montreal Port Corporation were changed to the Montreal Port Authority (MPA). The transition from the Montreal Port Corporation is facilitated by the fact that the enterprise has already been operating in a commercial, efficient and profitable manner since at least its founding as a local port corporation in 1983 in accordance with the Canada Port Authorities Act, which had replaced the National Harbours Board Act of 1936, the Government Harbours and Piers Act and the Harbour Commissions Act of 1964.

Responsibilities

The MPA builds and maintains infrastructures leased to private stevedoring companies. It also directly operates a grain terminal, a passenger terminal and its own railway network with more than 100 kilometres of track providing transcontinental railways with direct access to almost every berth.

The MPA's mandate essentially is to facilitate domestic and international trade and thus contribute to the achievement of local, regional and national socio-economic objectives. Within its mandate and in respect of the environment, the MPA is committed to provide highly efficient facilities and services to its clients and increase and promote the competitive advantages of the Port of Montreal.

Legislation

- Canada Marine Act, 1999

Organization

The three levels of government each name an individual to the MPA Board of Directors. The federal transport minister, on the recommendation of the port users, nominates four other directors. All members of the MPA Board of Directors are from the Montreal area.

◆ President and Chief Executive Officer

Defines the broad orientations of the enterprise, manages the objective and strategy setting exercise for the various Vice-Presidents; ensures that objectives are achieved and that the MPA's mission and mandate are respected and report to the Board of Directors.

◆ Vice-President, Legal Affairs and Secretary

Acts as corporate secretary for Executive Committee and Board of Director meetings; provides advice to Port's management on legal questions; take charge of and monitor all legal files for the Port.

◆ Vice-President, Marketing and Development

Maintains good relations with the maritime industry and business community with a view to knowing and satisfying current and future clientele; participates in the development of the enterprise's broad orientations and contributes to the achievement of its objectives.

◆ Commercial Affairs

Plans and organizes promotional and marketing activities; gathers information of a strategic nature.

◆ Communications

Creates and maintains excellent relations between the MPA and its stakeholders using various communication tools; support marketing effort; provides advice to management about public affairs matters, communication and promotion strategies.

◆ Economic Research and Analysis

Carries out various economic studies and cost analyses; monitor traffic, market trends and government bills; prepares traffic forecasts and co-ordinates in preparation of corporate plan; prepares annual rate file and analyses industry demands with respect to rates.

◆ Vice-President, Operations

Ensures that ships have secure access to wharves at all times; facilitates on and off loading of merchandise; carries out improvements and ensures that infrastructures are maintained; operates port rail network, grain terminal and passenger terminal; manages stores inventories; monitors environmental compliance and the security of individuals and property located on the premises.

◆ Harbour Master

Ensures ship access to port at all time; ensures safety of port operations; manages port rail network and links transcontinental rail lines to the terminals; ensures compliance with laws and regulations within the boundaries of the port.

◆ Grain Terminal

Operates grain terminal and responds to domestic and international grain business requirements; preserves the quality of grain handled and stored at our facilities; develops new markets.

◆ Technical Services

Plans, co-ordinates, manages and controls engineering and maintenance activities and projects so as to maintain and develop adequate port facilities that respond to established guidelines and environmental norms in order to optimize the return on MPA investments.

◆ Vice-President, Administration and Human Resources

Ensures MPA financial self-sufficiency by putting in place policies, procedures and administrative and financial controls; plans infrastructure improvements; optimizes information technology efficiency; maximizes efficiency of human resources by providing managers with the necessary human resource management tools and by ensuring that the work environment is conducive to individual professional development.

◆ Financial Services

Produces financial information; ensures accuracy of accounting records; co-ordinates budget preparation and follow-up activities; ensures that assets are safeguarded by taking inventories and by maintaining appropriate work methods; provides support for activities with appropriate internal controls; conducts financial analysis of special and investment projects; assess and manage insurance portfolio; responsible for the purchase of materials, supplies, equipment and services; co-ordinates process reengineering activities and provides support to managers in reviewing their ways of doing things.

◆ Information Technology

Plans, co-ordinates, manages and controls the MPA's management information systems and telecommunications activities; determines technological orientations; provides support required for maximizing these activities; manages filing systems, archives, messenger, receiving and reproduction.

◆ Property Service

Prepares the property master plan for all real estate assets, oversees the planning and development of port terminals and facilities, manages the various steps for land purchases and sales, negotiates and/or manages contracts with current or potential tenants.

◆ Human Resources

Negotiates and manages collective agreements; develops partnership with employees and their union representatives making it possible to achieve, within a harmonious, open and collaborative atmosphere, the objectives of the MPA; co-ordinates preventive and training activities with respect to health and safety in the workplace so that the MPA can provide all its employees with a work environment in which physical safety is assured at the lowest possible cost; structures personnel training and development in such a way as to meet the organization's needs and satisfy individual aspirations; ensures that human resource policies and programs as well as communications with employees contribute to the achievement of the organization's objectives.

National Archives of Canada

Chapter 81

General Information

Background

Since its beginnings in 1872, the National Archives of Canada has been preserving the collective memory of the Canadian people and the federal government. The dual role of the National Archives of Canada as both a national heritage institution and an administrative arm of the federal government was confirmed in legislation in 1987. The terms of the National Archives of Canada Act accords the National Archives of Canada four key responsibilities: to conserve and facilitate access to private and public records of national importance in all media, to be the permanent repository of records of government institutions and ministerial records, to facilitate the management of records of government institutions and ministerial records, and to encourage archival activities and the archival community.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the National Archives of Canada consists of three basic activities: acquire, control and preserve federal government and private sector records of long term historical value; manage the preservation or disposition of recorded information that remains under the control of government institutions; provide access to the holdings of the National Archives of Canada and support the development of archives for the use, well-being and enjoyment of Canadians.

Legislation

- National Archives of Canada Act, S.C. 1987, c. 1.

Organization

◆ Archives Development and Preservation Branch

The Branch develops and manages the National Archives of Canada's holdings of records of national significance. Its mandate includes acquiring, accessioning, selecting, arranging and describing records; the creation of finding aids and reference tools for private and public records in order to ensure their physical availability and informational content. The Branch is also engaged in preventive conservation, copying and treatment of documents for the National Archives and the National Library of Canada. The Manuscripts Division, the Government Archives and Records Disposition Division, the Visual and Sound Archives Division, the Office of Government Records, the Electronic Records Project Division and the Preservation Division form an integral part of this Branch.

◆ Client Services and Communications Branch

The Branch provides reference services including research requests for information on private and government archival records and access to National Archives of Canada automated information systems; administers the Access to Information and Privacy Acts, and manages departmental communications, public programs, resource development and partnership initiatives. The Branch consists of the Researcher Services Division, the Access to Information and Privacy Division, and the Communications and Public Programs Division.

◆ Information Management Branch

The Information Management Branch provides direction, assistance, advice and services in support of the use of information technology systems, telecommunications and the management of operational and administrative information. The provision of library and documentation services to the National Archives of Canada also falls under the control of the Information Management Branch. To help fulfil its mandate, the Branch relies on assistance from the Information Technology Division, the Systems Development Division, the Electronic Systems Projects Division, the Library and Documentation Services Division and the Records Operations Division.

◆ Management Services Branch

This Branch offers personnel, financial and administrative services to the staff of both the National Archives and the National Library of Canada. It also administers the facilities maintenance of the Federal Records Centres located across Canada. The Management Services Branch includes Personnel Operations, Staff Relations and Compensation, Organization Renewal and Development, Facilities Management, Accounting Operations, Financial and Administrative Systems, Financial Policy Planning, and Analysis and Security Systems.

◆ Office of the National Archivist

The National Archivist is ultimately responsible for all activities of the National Archives of Canada. As an active member of various national and international committees, the National Archivist is involved in numerous associations and councils on archives. The National Archivist is aided in his role by the Assistant National Archivist who oversees the management of Regional Operations including the Federal Records Centres. The Centres economically store and protect records of continuing historical value, as well as other government departments dormant and essential records, retrieve them when required, segregate archival and historical records designated by the National Archivist, and destroy records in a timely and secure manner when they are no longer needed. They also hold back up copies of computer records, and records essential, in the event of disaster or emergency, to the operations of government. In addition, the Assistant National Archivist administers the Executive Secretariat, the Strategic Planning and Policy Coordination, and the Program Evaluation and Internal Audit. Finally, the Archives Headquarters Accommodation Project, responsible for the implementation of the National Archives' long term accommodation and storage strategies reports to the Assistant National Archivist.

Program Records

The information holdings of the National Archives of Canada are comprised of three main types of records: program records (records concerning the operations of the National Archives), historical records (which are the most frequently requested records held at the National Archives), and personal information banks (a summary of the type of information about individuals which is held by the National Archives of Canada).

Historical Records

The information contained in Historical Records is generally limited to records produced and acquired from the government of Canada. The majority of government records are subject to the Access to Information and Privacy Acts. The ATIP Acts do not apply to historical records which are acquired from the private sector such as private organizations, donors, or certain Crown Corporations. Access conditions for records acquired from the private sector are normally established by negotiation between the organization or donor and the National Archives of Canada.

Records of the Federal Government of Canada in the National Archives of Canada

001 – Textual Records

Description: Each year, the Government of Canada transfers millions of documents related to the business of government to the National Archives of Canada. The National Archives government holdings comprise over 80 kilometres of textual records which document all aspects of Canadian history from the eighteenth century to the present. The personnel records of approximately four million former military and public service employees are also held by the National Archives of Canada. In addition, there are thousands of related records such as wartime sailing lists, Royal Canadian Air Force Daily Routine Orders, pay sheets and medical records.

002 – Audio Visual Records

Description: The National Archives of Canada acquires and conserves all forms of moving images and recorded sound, of national historic significance, produced by government departments, film and broadcasting companies, corporations and individuals. Ranging from documentary to drama and from current affairs to popular entertainment material, the audiovisual collection encompasses more than 300,000 hours of film, video and sound recordings.

003 – Cartographic and Architectural Records

Description: The National Archives of Canada has a collection of well over two million maps, charts, atlases, globes, architectural and engineering drawings, blueprints and plans. Cartographic holdings range from Ptolemy's atlas of 1490 to the most recent maps published by government and private industry. These records document numerous themes in Canadian history, including telecommunications, the exploration of the North and historical and current demographic movements. Architectural and engineering collections range from early plans of fortifications in Canada to blueprints for modern buildings of national significance.

004 – Photography and Documentary Art Records

Photography

Description: Numbering more than 15,000,000 items, the National Archives of Canada's photography collection includes daguerreotypes, ambrotypes, tintypes and other unique photographic objects. The bulk of the collections are black and white and colour negatives on paper, glass, celluloid and plastic bases. Photographic positives include single prints, photographic albums, contact sheets and transparencies, books with original photographs, and photographic postcards.

Documentary Art

Description: The National Archives of Canada's collections of documentary art encompass a large variety of subjects relating to Canadian history and social development. The program covers work done in Canada by Canadians and others, as well as work done by Canadians abroad. With approximately 250,000 items, the holdings include original works of art on paper, canvas and other materials – including 30,000 caricatures and cartoons from the eighteenth century to the present, and collections of stamps and a wide variety of materials related to the history of the Canadian postal system. Printed materials in the collection include original and reproduction prints, posters, postcards, greeting cards and photoprocess prints. Medals, political buttons, seals, heraldic devices and coats of arms, are also in the holdings.

Guides

To find out more about the historical records held at the National Archives of Canada, researchers are encouraged to examine a variety of sources readily available to them. They should consult directories and published guides to Canadian archives available at their local library, through the interlibrary loan system or the reference libraries maintained by major archives.

Many National Archives of Canada published finding aids can be consulted in major university and specialized libraries throughout the country.

The Library and Documentation Services of the National Archives of Canada can provide bibliographic information on published guides, as well as information on guides and other finding aids available on microfiche.

As another option, the National Archives of Canada's decentralized access sites located in Winnipeg, Halifax, Saskatoon, Vancouver and Montreal, give researchers access to a number of data bases on CD-ROM.

Finally, researchers should consult our site on the World Wide Web at www.archives.ca for current information about our services and holdings.

National Battlefields Commission

Chapter 83

General Information

Background

The National Battlefields Commission derives its mandate and powers from a 1908 Act of the Parliament of Canada, the Act respecting The National Battlefields at Quebec, 7-8 Edward VII, ch 57, and its amendments.

Administratively, the Commission is designated as a departmental corporation and is listed in Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The Commission was established to acquire the historic battlefields of the city of Quebec and neighbouring communities, to create a national battlefields park and to conserve, develop these historic and urban parks.

The National Battlefields Commission administers the following sites: Battlefields Park (better known as the Plains of Abraham), with an area of about 101 hectares, commemorates the historic battle of 1759; Des Braves Park, with an area of about 6 hectares, marks the battle of 1760. Apart from these two parks, three major thoroughfares come within the Commission's jurisdiction, namely Des Braves Avenue, De Laune Avenue and De Bernières Avenue. The Commission also operates St Denis Terrace, east of the Citadel, and manages Martello Tower # 4.

In extra of the maintenance, the conservation and the security, the Commission offers public services:

- the Interpretation Centre tells the story of the Plains of Abraham from the time of New France to the present day and presents in complement an temporary exhibition
- an exhibition in the Martello Tower 1 on military engineering
- guided tours, commented bus tour of the Park, period fare, animation on various thematic subjects for groups and school programs for primary and secondary level based on the teaching of natural and human sciences (the historic events)
- a garden, le Joan of Arc Garden and other floral planning

The Commission also provides a number of sports, cultural and recreation facilities including football, soccer, baseball fields, a bandstand, in-line skating path, a running track, paths and cross-country ski trails.

Legislation

- The Law respecting the national battlefields at Quebec
- Government Property Traffic Act

Organization

The Commission reports to Parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage, to whom the Chairman is directly accountable. It is governed by a board of seven Commissioners and a Secretary, all appointed by the Governor General in Council. The Provinces of Quebec and Ontario are entitled to appoint one representative each, by virtue of having contributed at least $100,000 when the Commission was founded. The Secretary, who acts as Director General, is responsible for the day-to-day management of all of the Commission's activities.

The administration, which is composed of management and financial and personnel services.

The conservation, which includes preservation, maintenance and surveillance activities aimed at ensuring a safe, stable environment, reducing wear and tear and minimizing or preventing damage. Two services are involved: development and maintenance, and surveillance and security.

The development of the site's historic, cultural, recreational and natural resources – which encompasses visitor reception, facilities and services, interpretation, public awareness, dissemination of information, exhibits, activities and opportunities for public participation, advertisement and promotion of activities and services ensuring the visibility of the Commission and the federal government. Two services are involved: Client Services and Communications.

National Defence

Chapter 85

General Information

Background

The Minister of National Defence has the control and management of the Canadian Forces and all matters relating to National Defence establishments and works for the defence of Canada. The Canadian Forces, besides forming part of National Defence Headquarters, are organized into seven major functional commands and one command with regional responsibilities. The Department is responsible for the administration of the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pensions Continuation Act, the National Defence Act, and the Visiting Forces Act.

Responsibilities

The role and function of the Department of National Defence, and its principal component, the Canadian Forces, have historically been to ensure the security of Canada and to contribute to the maintenance of world peace.

Its basic roles and responsibilities are to supplement and support the civilian authorities in maintaining surveillance and preserving control over and security within the national territory of Canada and areas of Canadian jurisdiction, to assist civilian authorities in the event of emergency or disaster, to provide search and rescue services, and to contribute to national development. To enhance the security of Canada against military threat, the Department co-operates with the United States in the defence of North America, and co-operates in collective defence measures under the North Atlantic Treaty. The Department promotes international stability by contributing to peacekeeping activities in co-operation with other members of the international community, and by providing military training assistance to friendly nations. It controls, manages, and administers all activities of, and provides the services necessary to ensure adequate supply and technical support for, both the Department and the Canadian Forces. It also provides all levels of training for the Canadian Forces. Finally, the Department works to maintain and advance Canadian scientific and technological knowledge and analytical capability in the area of defence.

Legislation

- Aeronautics Act, R.S.C. 1970; for matters therein relating to defence; otherwise, the designated minister is the Minister of Transport
- Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, R.S.C.
- Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, R.S.C. 1970

- National Defence Act, R.S.C. 1970
- Visiting Forces Act, R.S.C. 1970

Organization

Assistant Deputy Minister – Communications and Public Affairs

The Division provides advice and guidance to the minister, deputy minister, chief of defence staff, commanders, and managers on public information and communications matters in support of National Defence and Canadian Forces policies, objectives, programs and activities. It also plans, conducts, and evaluates information programs for groups within and outside the Department; provides the public and media with the maximum amount of information on defence consistent with national and international security; and arranges Canadian Forces participation in exhibitions and displays. The Division maintains a working relationship with communications agencies of federal, provincial, and allied governments.

◆ Directorate of History

Is responsible for the production of official histories of the Canadian Forces. The Directorate collects source documents on Canadian military history, acts as an information centre on the history of the Canadian Forces, and provides historical research facilities.

Assistant Deputy Minister – Finance

◆ Automated Information Services Branch

Responsible for controlling the administration of departmental management consulting services, providing a departmental forms management program, and administering the departmental reports control program. It also controls the administration of automatic data processing support to military commanders and departmental managers by formulating appropriate policies, procedures and plans, as well as conducting evaluations. In addition, the Division directs the analysis and design of departmental information systems.

◆ Financial Services Branch

Responsible for controlling and coordinating the financial administration functions of the Department. This involves ensuring the effective functioning of the departmental budgetary system, the internal controls over funds and assets, and accounting systems, procedures and practices. It is also responsible for the interpretation and communication of financial policies and procedures, the provision of costing, military pay, superannuation administration and financial services, and the operation of the Department's financial information system.

Assistant Deputy Minister – Materiel

◆ Construction and Properties Branch

Responsible for formulating plans and programs for the design, construction, operation, maintenance, protection, and evaluation of accommodations, fixed facilities and utilities. It implements the approved programs, manages real property and utility services, coordinates the disposal of surplus real property and facilities, formulates related policies, and provides the necessary control and guidance for their application.

◆ Materiel Quality Assurance Division

Responsible for planning and directing departmental quality assurance policies and activities, compiling and publishing Canadian qualified products lists, and maintaining surveillance over defence contractors and departmental manufacture and repair facilities. It looks after quality control and inspection systems, establishes and ensures the implementation of quality assurance standards for the repair, overhaul, modification, and acquisition of new equipment; and ensures the quality of materiel being procured for the Department of National Defence, other government departments, and foreign governments, as required.

◆ Research and Development Branch

Responsible for the formulation and conduct of the departmental research and development program. It participates in the formulation and implementation of departmental policies for research and development activities, controls and directs the operation of the defence research establishments, and ensures that knowledge and application of actual and anticipated advances in science and technology are brought to bear on all departmental functions.

◆ Research and Development Operations Division

Responsible for the planning, control, and operation of research and development in the maritime, land, air and communications elements, and in the field of human performance.

◆ Research and Development Policy Division

Responsible for planning and directing the Department's position on all NATO matters relating to research, development and production of defence equipment. It markets defence equipment and participates in all aspects of national and international marketing activities. This includes costing, evaluating, and obtaining necessary approvals for all departmental commitments in support of defence equipment sales. In addition, the Division coordinates export permits, memoranda of understanding, and metric conversion.

◆ Research and Development Services Division

Exercises control over the administrative functions for those units of the Canadian Forces permanently allocated to the assistant deputy minister materiel, provides administrative support to the defence research establishments, provides documentation and discussion papers for review, administers the departmental inventions and patents program, and coordinates the departmental logistics operations.

◆ Supply Branch

Accountable for the provision of materiel for the Canadian Forces.

◆ Transportation Division

Responsible for the provision of transportation and postal services. This includes planning, programming, and managing the actual provision of these services, and managing the Department's vehicle accident prevention program.

◆ Weapons Systems and Equipment Engineering and Maintenance Branch

Responsible for providing all aspects of design, engineering, maintenance, and standardization service for all weapons systems, support systems, and related equipment for the Canadian Forces. These functions are carried out by project managers and life cycle materiel managers organized in maritime, aerospace, land and communications, electronics engineering, and maintenance divisions. It is responsible for providing and managing ammunition design engineering, maintenance, storage, explosive safety, and disposal services for the Department. In addition, it develops and recommends ammunition-related policies and programs, and provides guidance and coordination for their implementation.

Assistant Deputy Minister – Personnel

◆ Chaplain General Protestant Division

Responsible for upholding and fostering spiritual values and pastoral care of Protestant Canadian Forces personnel and dependants. This includes the implementation of ecclesiastical and military policy as it affects the ministry of chaplains; administration of chapel-oriented programs that provide a comprehensive pastoral ministry; development of lay participation and leadership; administration of all religious activities, including those involving chaplain service with the reserves and cadets; and the maintenance of a close working relationship with the Canadian Council of Churches, through its committee on chaplain service in the forces and various civilian committees concerned with sponsorship of Protestant chapel stewardship projects.

◆ Chaplain General Roman Catholic Division

Responsible for upholding and fostering spiritual values and the pastoral care of Catholic service personnel and dependants. This includes recommending and implementing ecclesiastical and military policy as it affects the ministry of chaplains, and administering programs that provide a comprehensive pastoral ministry to meet the needs of service personnel and their dependants. In ecclesiastical matters, the Chaplain General is responsible to the Roman Catholic military vicar of the Canadian Forces.

◆ Civilian Personnel Services Division

Responsible for developing policies and plans and implementing programs for the recruitment, promotion, transfer, training and development, career management, and lay-offs of departmental civilian employees. It implements and maintains a complete departmental civilian personnel administrative service, represents the Department in the development of government-wide policies and programs in all of these personnel areas, and provides advice to senior military and civilian officials on personnel administration matters. The Division also plans, coordinates and advises on the Affirmative Action Program.

◆ Classification Division

Responsible for the administration and application of the classification system for all Department civilian employees. In addition, the Division handles employees' classification grievances, audits regional classification offices, and develops policies, directives, methods and procedures.

◆ Compensation and Benefits Division

Responsible for planning and directing the development of policies and programs for military and civilian compensation, allowances, and personal benefits for personnel employed in a wide variety of environments who require special compensation plans and practices specific to the Department's requirements and equitable with outside compensation policies.

◆ Dental Services Division

Responsible for formulating dental policies, plans, and programs to ensure the dental health of all members of the Canadian Forces and, in certain areas, their dependants and other civilians. This includes providing treatment, accommodation, equipment and supplies; preparing the budget; coordinating command and dental unit resource allocations for the provision of dental services; determining both the professional and technical training standards and requirements for dental personnel; maintaining liaison; and representing the Canadian Forces to dental services of other nations, federal and provincial dental associations, and educational agencies in Canada.

◆ Dependants Education Programs Division

Responsible for developing policy on, and administering, organizing, constructing, equipping, and operating the National Defence Dependants school system. This includes teacher establishments and salary agreements; the attendance of children at municipal schools on payment of school fees; and the payment of education allowances, under Privy Council authority or the Military Foreign Service Regulations, 1979, for children of members of the Canadian Forces serving in Canada and abroad.

◆ Manpower Utilization Division

Responsible for developing personnel policies and systems through which departmental objectives, both present and forecast, are translated into statements of manpower requirements. It ensures that personnel requirements, establishments, and actual strengths are in accordance with approved policies and budgets; allocates military manpower resources within staffing priorities to fill established positions; and prepares and controls annual personnel estimates for military and civilian personnel pay, allowances, salaries, wages, and pension contributions required by the Department. In addition, the Department forecasts and controls military posting and removal expenses and is responsible for determining the occupational analysis requirements for the Canadian Forces.

◆ Official Languages Division

Responsible for the development of all departmental official languages policies, both military and civilian, while ensuring that they are in accordance with the Official Languages Act, government policies, and departmental requirements. This includes evaluating, monitoring, and amending existing policies; and formulating, when necessary, new directives on terminology, translation, language training programs, and testing. In addition, the Division identifies the language requirements of all civilian positions, maintains an automated information system on civilian personnel, and schedules their language training.

◆ Personnel Careers and Senior Appointments Branch

Responsible for controlling and administering the assignments and career progression of military personnel who have completed basic training; developing, implementing, and interpreting personnel management policies; selecting personnel for career development and academic upgrading; and administering honorary military appointments.

◆ Personnel Coordination and Administrative Services Division

Responsible for the administrative functions of the departmental personnel management information systems. It investigates and replies to personnel enquiries and complaints, including those under the provisions of the Canadian Human Rights Act; publishes newsletters for both military and civilian personnel; and provides records management services for personnel and fatal casualties records.

◆ Personnel Development Branch

Responsible for developing personnel policies, for officer training and education, and for conducting research in these areas. The Branch is also responsible for the effective overview and administration of special research, planning, and development studies.

◆ Personnel Services Branch

Responsible for developing and implementing policies on physical education programs for military personnel and for recreation activities for Canadian Forces members, their dependants, and resident Department civilian employees. The Branch administers all non-public fund operations, programs, activities, and the Canadian Forces Exchange System (CANEX). It determines military standards of dress, drill and ceremonial. The Branch also monitors conditions of service as experienced by service members and their dependants, operates the National Defence Dependants school system, and plans and advises on matters concerning the employment of women in the Forces.

◆ Recruiting, Education and Training Division

Responsible for the development and implementation of policy with regard to Regular Force recruiting and selection, and individual training and education of military and civilian members of the Department.

◆ Surgeon General Branch

Responsible for the organization and administration of the Canadian Forces medical services to conserve military manpower and provide medical support for military operations. This includes the development, review, and evaluation of medical policies, plans and programs relating to operational commitments; therapeutic medicine; preventive medicine; social development services; training and staffing of medical, nursing and medical associate officers, and medical trades personnel; pharmaceutical and financial services; the design and maintenance of medical facilities; and the negotiation of medical agreements with other government departments, civilian hospitals, and affiliated universities in support of Canadian Forces requirements.

Assistant Deputy Minister – Policy

◆ Chief Review Services Branch

The Branch provides departmental advice and functional authority on review matters. It is responsible and accountable for the planning and conduct at the National Defence Headquarters (NDHQ) level of program evaluations, internal audits, and military reviews of all aspects of departmental and military operations and activities. It also provides independent, objective reports on the effectiveness, efficiency and economy of the Department of National Defence and the Canadian Forces.

◆ Defence Program Branch

Develops and maintains the defence program management systems, controls and reviews the defence services program, analyzes options to meet the Department's capability goals, reviews and guides the management of major projects, and prepares the defence services program forecast.

◆ Operational Research and Analysis Branch

Directs the operational research and systems analysis program, and is responsible for the maintenance of scientific quality and support of financial research elements.

◆ Organization and Manpower Division

Responsible for generating departmental organizational policy, procedures, structures, changes, and orders; and for identifying current and future military and civilian manpower requirements with the Department. It also controls military rank and occupational code structures, develops and maintains the official position list of continuing civilian employees, controls the casual person-year allocation, develops and maintains manpower scales and standards, manages the on-site manpower evaluation program, and produces and maintains unit establishment documents.

◆ Policy Coordination Division

Effects liaison with Cabinet through the Privy Council Office, monitors departmental policy and conducts relations with Parliament.

◆ Policy Planning Branch

Responsible for originating and advising on policy matters, evaluating strategic developments, developing defence policy proposals (including defence objectives) and guidance for the planning of defence capabilities, and coordinating policy planning with external agencies, NATO in particular.

Chief Review Services Branch

The Branch provides departmental advice and functional authority on review matters. It is responsible and accountable for the planning and conduct at the National Defence Headquarters (NDHQ) level of program evaluations, internal audits, and military reviews of all aspects of departmental and military operations and activities. It also provides independent, objective reports on the effectiveness, efficiency and economy of the Department of National Defence and the Canadian Forces.

Communications Security Establishment

Deputy Chief of the Defence Staff

◆ Air Doctrine and Operations Branch

Responsible for all air force matters, including the type of air force that is required and how it should be used, equipped, and trained to meet established departmental objectives. This branch also advises on air reserve employment and training policy, and provides representation to meet national and international liaison and representational requirements.

◆ Emergency Preparedness Canada

Emergency Preparedness Canada is the federal agency responsible for coordinating the emergency planning and response of the Government of Canada for peacetime and wartime emergency situations.

◆ Executive Secretariat Division

The Division is responsible for providing and managing administrative services to ensure the effective functioning of the Department in general, and National Defence headquarters in particular. This includes providing departmental administrative support such as library services, records management services, personnel identification services, and National Defence headquarters accommodation management services. The Division also provides departmental policy coordination and review, and secretarial support for senior management meetings. The director general of this division is the corporate secretary for the Department of National Defence.

◆ Land Doctrine and Operations Branch

Responsible for army future force development, doctrine (material taught), force structuring, operational training and planning, equipment requirements, and scaling of equipment.

◆ Maritime Doctrine and Operations Branch

Responsible for the development of maritime policy and doctrine relating to force structure, capability requirements, equipment requirements, contingency plans, operational employment, resource management, staffing, training standards, and training and employment policy related to the naval reserve.

◆ Military Communications and Electronics Division

Responsible for providing communications and electronics support to National Defence by directing or coordinating all military communications and electronics matters. This includes coordinating communications for exercises and operations, communications security, communications plans and requirements, the management of radio frequencies, coordination of international military communications matters, and electronic warfare.

◆ Military Engineering Operations Division

Acts as principal adviser on all military engineering and cartographic matters for both Regular and Reserve Forces. This includes training standards, policy, and doctrine for the employment of military engineering and cartographic units. The Division also provides operational information, advice, and guidance for the military engineering and cartography portion of the departmental force structuring, operational planning, training, and resource management processes. In addition, it meets national and international liaison and representational requirements.

◆ Military Plans and Operations Coordination Division

Aligns military (sea, land, and air) operations and plans so that they are mutually supporting and centrally controlled. The Director General, Military Plans and Operations applies a National Defence Headquarters overview to current national concerns in planning for war and peacetime emergencies. As well, the Division acts as a focal point for operational training and activity planning by assigning and monitoring operations of the Canadian Forces and coordinating Canadian Forces activities on standardization agreements and equipment requirements for nuclear, chemical, and biological defence operations.

◆ National Search and Rescue Secretariat

The Secretariat is an independent body outside the line authority of the Department that has as its central focus the coordination of the national search and rescue program in Canada.

◆ Office of the Judge Advocate General

The Office provides legal advice to the Department and the Canadian Forces and oversees a system of courts and justice applicable to all members of the Canadian Forces and to civilians subject to the code of service discipline under section 55 of the National Defence Act. The Office also administers and settles damage and injury claims by and against the Department; administers the service estates of all deceased members of the Canadian Forces; and administers the Service Pension Board.

◆ Reserves and Cadets Division

Responsible for advising on policy, training standards, and doctrine for the employment of Reserve Force sub-components; operational information; structuring and development; operational training; equipment acquisition; and the implementation of National Defence Headquarters reserve policy. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records in this bank are destroyed after fifty calendar years, however, they may be retained for a longer period if deemed to have archival value or to be of historical value to the Department of National Defence. Records are accessible through the Director Access to Information and Privacy (DAIP) section by providing: dates, organizations, events and geographical areas or locations, name, and initials and service number. Related to PR#: DND MIS 085 TBS Registration: 001968 Bank Number: DND PPU 060

Staffing Program

Description: This data bank contains records, commencing in 1989, relating to applicants for trades with Fleet Maintenance Facility Cape Scott (formerly known as Ship Repair Unit (A)). The bank consists of information taken from PSC 3000 (Application for Employment), and contains: applications, screening information, staffing board results, supporting documents, and trade tests results. Class of Individuals: This bank applies to applicants for employment with the Public Service in the Ship Repair trades in Halifax. Purpose: This bank exists in accordance with the Public Service Employment Regulations to provide for the maintenance of an inventory of applicants who applied for employment in the Public Service of Canada in the Fleet Maintenance Facility – Cape Scott, Maritime Forces Atlantic, Halifax, Nova Scotia. Consistent Uses: To identify candidates suitable for referral and appointments to positions in the ship repair trades at Fleet Maintenance Facility Cape Scott (Formerly known as the Ship Repair Unit (Atlantic)), to maintain an inventory of applicants who have applied for employment with the Public Service of Canada in the ship repair trades on Halifax, and to retrieve statistics related to the inventory and staff competitions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records have been maintained since 1989 and are destroyed by shredding: 1) immediately following requested removal from the inventory, or 2) if file/application is not updated annually. Records are accessible by providing specific identifiers, such as; name, trade inventory and SIN. PAC Number: 69-014 TBS Registration: 002764 Bank Number: DND PPU 065

Manuals

Because of the wide range of manuals, regulations and orders used by the Department of National Defence to fulfil its functions, it is impractical to include a complete list of its holdings in this publication. The Department may, on request, provide a list of existing manuals relating to a particular subject or activity.

The bilingual publication entitled Defence Canada is published annually by the Department of National Defence. It is designed to provide an overview of current strategic considerations relative to defence planning, and to highlight departmental activities during the preceding year.

Reading Room

A section of the Department's library at National Defence Headquarters has been designated under the Access to Information Act as a public reading room. Its address is:

101 Colonel By Drive
Ottawa, Ontario

Because of the security classification and the necessity to continually amend an unusually wide range of technical and training manuals, regulations and orders used by the Department of National Defence to fulfil its functions, it was found impractical to put all 90,000 publications on display. However, a complete list of its holdings is available in AIA Reading Room and the Department may, on request, provide for viewing a copy of existing manuals relating to a particular subject or activity, provided the material is releasable and sufficient time is allowed to retrieve the publication from the depot.

National Energy Board

Chapter 86

General Information

Background

The National Energy Board (NEB) was created by the National Energy Board Act of 1959.

Responsibilities

The Board's principal responsibilities under the National Energy Board Act are; regulate specific matters concerning oil, gas and electricity in the public interest (granting authorizations for the export of oil, natural gas, electricity and the construction of international and interprovincial pipelines and designated international power lines; setting of tolls and tariffs on pipelines under NEB jurisdiction); responsibilities under the Canada Oil and Gas Operations Act and certain provisions of the Canada Petroleum Resources Act now encompass the regulation of exploration for and the development and production of oil and gas on Frontier Lands in a manner that promotes safety of the worker, protection of the environment, and conservation of hydrocarbon resources; and to advise the Government on the development and use of energy resources (keeping under review the Canadian supply of all major energy commodities and the demand for Canadian energy in Canada and in export markets).

Legislation

Organization

Executive Office

♦ Chief Operating Officer

The Chief Operating Officer is the Board's senior staff member. His responsibilities include the overall management of the Board, the acquisition and allocation of human and financial resources, the efficiency of Board activities and operations, leads the Board's Executive Team, and provides advice on matters deemed appropriate by the Chairman.

♦ Office of the Secretary

The Office of the Secretary receives all applications and submissions and co-ordinates their consideration by the Board. It advises on the scheduling of hearings, and makes all administrative arrangements for public hearings in Calgary and across Canada. It also administers the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act.

Legal Services

Legal Services provides legal advice to the Board on all matters relating to the Board's powers and responsibilities, acts as Counsel for the Board at public hearings, and represents the Board in proceedings before the Federal and Supreme Courts of Canada.

Business Units

♦ Applications

The Unit assesses and processes applications for oil, gas and petroleum product pipeline transmission, and oil and natural gas exports from the time of an application's receipt through to the Board's decision. It is also responsible for financial surveillance and financial audits of companies under the Board's jurisdiction. It provides expertise in the areas of economics, engineering, environment and financial regulation.

♦ Commodities

The Unit develops guidelines and regulations relating to Part VI of the National Energy Board Act. It is also responsible for reserves assessments, supply projections, market studies, maintenance of economic energy models, inter-commodity regulatory advice, industry monitoring, liaison with governments, industry and energy associations, and advice and information on natural gas, oil and related commodities, and electricity. As well, the unit assesses and processes applications for electricity exports and international and interprovincial electric power lines.

♦ Corporate Services

The Unit manages the Board's human and financial resources. Its responsibilities include corporate policy and planning activities, material and facilities management, staffing, training, pay and benefits, procurement, inventory control, physical security, and union/management activities.

♦ Information Management

The Unit provides expert advice on the treatment of information as a strategic resource. It is accountable for information production, exchange and storage at the Board. Its responsibilities include internal and external communications, library services, corporate records management, mail services, access to information, regulatory and hearing services, document production services, Board-wide computer services and the Electronic Regulatory Filing initiative.

♦ Operations

The Unit is responsible for health, safety and environmental monitoring and enforcement, accident investigation, and emergency response. The unit develops guidelines and regulations related to the National Energy Board Act, the Canada Oil and Gas Operations Act, and the Canada Petroleum Resources Act. Its Frontier responsibilities involve regulation of geophysical and geological programs, information management, resource assessments, environmental aspects of applications, inspection, accident investigation, and advice to Indian and Northern Affairs Canada. The unit also provides engineering services to the Northern Pipeline Agency.

Information Holdings

Program Records

Accounting and Auditing

Description: Audit reports and correspondence of companies under the Board's jurisdiction. Topics: Annual reports. Access: Files arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: NEB FRB 010

Allocation of Oil

Description: Correspondence between the Energy Supply Allocation Board and the Oil Branch of the National Energy Board on the allocation of oil resources in an emergency. Program Record Number: NEB GAO 195

Associations and Committees on Electric Power

Description: Information on liaison with power transmission companies, associations and conferences on electrical matters. Note: Some files have been transferred to the Historical Branch of the National Archives of Canada. Topics: Reports on, and agendas of, meetings and conferences; associations; power and transmission companies. Program Record Number: NEB EPB 170

Associations, Committees and Conferences on Energy Supply

Description: Information on applications and supporting documents for hearings held on the energy supply. Note: Copies of applications, interventions and transcripts of all hearings are held in the National Energy Board library. Topics: Supply data originating from energy supply and demand hearings. Access: Files arranged by year and company. Program Record Number: NEB ESB 280

Canadian Content in Energy Projects

Description: Information on Canadian content and industrial benefits of energy projects. Topics: Studies; specific applications. Access: Files arranged by application. Program Record Number: NEB ECB 255

Canadian Electric Power Projects

Description: Information on Canadian electric power projects and studies; also generation of electric power and the transmission of extra-high voltage electric power. Topics: Electric power projects and studies – Churchill Falls, James Bay, Fundy Tidal Power Development study; power generation – power potential, load and supply, nuclear, technology for fuel cells, thermal coal-fueled and thermal gas-fueled. Access: Files arranged by project or study. Program Record Number: NEB EPB 155

Certificates, Licences and Orders

Description: Originals of all certificates, licences and orders issued by the Board. Note: See "Prefix Identification of Certificates, Licences, Orders and Permits" issued by the National Energy Board (internal reference memo listing document prefixes and references to legislation). Topics: Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity – oil and gas pipelines, electric power lines; licences for the export of oil, gas and electric power; safety orders; rates, tolls and tariffs; miscellaneous orders. Program Record Number: NEB OOS 095

Coal

Description: Published material and correspondence on coal. Topics: Forecasts; coal-gasification, liquefaction, reserves. Program Record Number: NEB ESB 320

Construction of International Electrical Power Lines

Description: Applications for certificates and supporting documents to construct or modify existing power lines. Topics: Policy; environmental guidelines; interventions filed by interested parties. Access: Files arranged by power company. Program Record Number: NEB EPB 160

Crude Oil Movements by Pipeline

Description: Correspondence on pipeline capability and the availability of crude oil; also nomination, by refinery, of crude oil requirements. Topics: Pipeline capability – pipeline traffic; nominations by companies for crude oil requirements; allocations of domestic crude, prior to June 1985. Program Record Number: NEB GAO 205

Crude Oil Statistics on Refinery Production

Description: Statistical information on the amount of crude oil received in refineries, the amount of crude processed by refineries each week, the monthly supply survey on Canadian oil products, monthly deliveries of crude oil and condensates under licence, and the amount of products exported each month. Note: Most of these statistics are supplied confidentially to the National Energy Board by individual companies. Information can therefore be released only as a combined total of all companies. Topics: Canadian refinery receipt survey of crude oil; crude oil runs (amount of crude processed in refineries weekly or monthly); Canadian oil product monthly supply survey; oil product export return. Access: Files arranged by company. Storage Medium: Storage Computer disc or tapes. Program Record Number: NEB GAO 230

Economic Benefits of Proposed Energy Projects

Description: Analyses of the economic viability of, and benefits from, projects. Topics: Viability analyses; cost-benefit – committees, studies, specific applications; licences, orders and exports. Access: Files arranged by application. Program Record Number: NEB ECB 260

Economic Considerations in Setting Pipeline Tolls

Description: Information on the operations of pipeline companies and the economic considerations in setting tolls. Topics: Productivity and efficiency of pipeline companies; rates, tolls and tariffs; financial arrangements; certificates and orders. Access: Files arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: NEB ECB 270

Electric Power Failures

Description: Information on selected electric power interruptions. Topics: Hydro-Quebec power interruption on January 10, 1978; power interruption on the Maritime grid, November 14, 1978; Northeast power failure of 1965. Program Record Number: NEB EPB 175

Energy Cost and Pricing

Description: Correspondence on costs and pricing of energy. Topics: Cost data; profitability data and studies; royalties. Program Record Number: NEB ESB 315

Energy Supply and Demand Statistics

Description: Information on energy supply and demand and related data for all energy commodities. Topics: Information, liaison and data related to co-operation among various associations, committees; statistical energy inquiries; statistical reports and returns; supply and demand data for all energies; international data. Access: Files arranged by subject and committee. Program Record Number: NEB ECB 250

Energy Supply, Surpluses and Reserves

Description: Information on the supply side of enquiry hearings, renewable energy, reserves and surpluses. Topics: Energy supply; renewable energy; reserves and surpluses – particular applicants; licences, orders and exports. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: NEB ESB 275

Enquiry Hearings on the Canadian Oil Supply and Requirements

Description: Submissions of various oil companies and supporting data during public hearings in 1975, 1976 and 1978. Topics: Public hearings – Canadian oil supply requirements; submissions by companies on reserves and demand. Access: Files arranged by year of public hearing. Program Record Number: NEB GAO 220

Environmental Aspects of Energy Development

Description: Correspondence on oil, gas and electric power development. Topics: Arctic hydrocarbon transportation systems; northern oil and gas pipelines; offshore oil and gas transportation; other agency reviews – Federal Environmental Assessment and Review Office (FEARO). Access: Files arranged by committee, project. Program Record Number: NEB ERW 030

Environmental Assessment, Surveillance and Monitoring

Description: Published information on the environmental aspects of applications for certificates and orders to build a pipeline or power line, to commence construction, or to cross a pipeline by a facility over or under a pipeline, submitted by a company or by a private citizen; also documentation for interventions and appeals submitted by interested parties, surveillance and monitoring reports.

Note: Applications to build a pipeline, transcripts of hearings and reasons for decisions are held in the Board library. Topics: Applications for certificates and orders; environmental information submitted prior to construction of a pipeline or power line; applications to construct a compressor station, gas plant, meter station, pump station and terminal; crossing of a pipeline by a buried cable, overhead cable, road, ditch, building, parking lot, etc.; crossing of facility by a pipeline; appeals and interventions; environmental assessment of the effects of pipelines or power lines; environmental surveillance. Access: Files arranged by company and location of pipeline. Program Record Number: NEB ERW 055

Environmental Associations and Committees

Description: Correspondence between the Board and various pipeline, industry, and environmental associations; information on liaison with various committees, conferences, oil and gas pipeline companies, and environmental agencies. Topics: Environmental regulatory matters; co-operation and liaison with oil and gas pipeline companies, interdepartmental committees on environmental matters. Access: Files arranged by association, committee, conference and pipeline company. Program Record Number: NEB ERW 050

Environmental Implications of Oil and Gas Pipeline Operations

Description: Correspondence on environmental aspects of operating pipelines and facilities including storage and processing facilities. Topics: Right-of-way conditions, gas plant emissions, tank farms, loading facilities, PCB and hazardous waste storage and disposal, etc. Program Record Number: NEB ERW 035

Environmental Incidents or Emergencies

Description: Reports of environmental inspection of spills of oil, products or other substances and their impact on the environment. Topics: Leaks, breaks, spillage, environmental impact, clean-up, restoration. Access: Files arranged chronologically by incident and by pipeline company. Program Record Number: NEB ERW 045

National Film Board of Canada

Chapter 88

General Information

Background

The National Film Board of Canada (NFB) was established by an Act of Parliament on May 2, 1939. It is presently governed by the National Film Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. N-8, as amended. The NFB reports to the Minister of Canadian Heritage. Its mandate is "...to produce and distribute films designed to interpret Canada to Canadians and to other nations..."

Responsibilities

In its most recent mission statement, the NFB expresses its mandate as follows: The National Film Board of Canada enriches Canadian society through the production and distribution of audiovisual works which provoke discussion and debate on important subjects for Canadians and others and which achieve recognition for their excellence, relevance and innovation while exploring the creative potential of audiovisual media.

Recent NFB productions include documentaries, animated shorts, CD-ROMs and interactive productions. NFB videos can be purchased via the toll-free number 1-800-267-7710 or the NFB website at www.nfb.ca. The website includes the full catalogue of the NFB's productions as well as other information on its activities. NFB videos can also be obtained at the NFB's CineRobotheque in Montreal or through public libraries in Canada. NFB productions are broadcast on television and are distributed in Canada and abroad directly by the NFB or through authorized distributors.

The NFB English and French Program Branches produce audiovisual works and are responsible for marketing and distributing them to their target audiences in Canada. NFB production centres are located in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Moncton and Halifax, as well as in Montreal. There is a permanent creative staff in Montreal, though a large proportion of NFB productions are made by freelance filmmakers. The NFB's average annual production is approximately 85 original audiovisual works and 30 versions or adaptations of existing productions.

Legislation

- National Film Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. N-8, as amended

Organization

The Board of Trustees of the National Film Board is composed of the Government Film Commissioner, who is both the Chairperson and the Chief Executive Officer of the NFB, the Executive Director of Telefilm Canada and six other members appointed by the Governor in Council.

The NFB is headed by the Government Film Commissioner, with the support of the Director General of the English Program Branch, the Director General of the French Program Branch, the Director of the International Program, the Director of Technical Services and Informatics, the Director of Corporate Affairs, the Director of Planning, Program Evaluation and Audit, the Director of Administration, the Director of Human Resources, and the Secretary to the Board of Trustees.

The NFB's head office is in Ottawa, while its operational headquarters are located in Montreal.

The NFB is divided into nine major areas of responsibility:

Administration

This branch comprises Financial Administration, Accommodations, Material Management and Customer Services.

Board of Trustees Secretariat and Legal Affairs

In addition to acting as the Board of Trustees Secretariat, this branch is responsible for legal affairs, the administration of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act and the NFB Conflict of Interest and Post-Employment Code.

Corporate Affairs

This branch handles internal and external corporate communications, government relations, the management and conservation of the NFB film collection, the exploitation of the NFB Stock Shot Library, Cinematheque and Phototheque, the operation of a database on the NFB collection, the publication of the annual report and the operation of the Internet and Intranet sites. This branch also administers the Official Languages Act within the institution.

English Program

This branch manages the production, marketing and distribution of English-language films, videos and multimedia products for audiences in Canada and abroad. It produces and co-produces mainly documentaries, animated shorts and interactive productions, out of studios located in Montreal, Halifax, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver which cover all of Canada. English Program uses both permanent staff and freelancers.

French Program

This branch manages the production, marketing and distribution of French-language films, videos and multimedia products for audiences in Canada and abroad. It produces and co-produces mainly documentaries, animated shorts and interactive productions, out of studios located in Montreal, Moncton and Toronto which cover all of Canada. French Program uses both permanent staff and freelancers.

Human Resources

This branch is responsible for human resources management, training, the employment equity program and the negotiation of collective agreements with artists' and authors' associations.

International Program

This branch is responsible for marketing and sales activities for NFB productions outside Canada and manages the NFB's participation in Canadian and foreign festivals.

Planning

This branch is responsible for planning, program evaluation and internal audit.

Technical Services and Informatics

This branch provides the other branches with technical support in the form of film and video equipment rental services, traditional and electronic non-linear picture and sound editing and post-production services and facilities. It also maintains a large library of sound effects and operates an Informatics division for the institution as a whole.

National Gallery of Canada

Chapter 89

General Information

Background

The National Gallery of Canada (NGC), a Crown corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act.

Responsibilities

The corporate objectives of the National Gallery of Canada are to develop, maintain and make known, throughout Canada and internationally, a national collection of works of art, historic and contemporary, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, and to further knowledge, understanding and enjoyment of art in general among all Canadians.

Legislation

- The Museums Act, 1990

Organization

♦ Director's Office, Deputy Director's Office, Comptroller's Branch

These provide overall guidance, direction and common services to the programs and operations of the National Gallery of Canada. Included in these common support services are administrative, financial, personnel, records, audit, facilities and security. Also it provides the secretariat for the Board of Trustees.

♦ Collections and Research Branch, Canadian Centre for the Visual Arts Branch

These Branches are responsible for the following operational areas: curatorial, registration, restoration and conservation, photography and a research library, known as the Canadian Centre for the Visual Arts. The Branch develops a record of visual art, historic, modern and contemporary, situates that record within an international cultural context, and maintains documentary records on the condition and cultural and historical origins of the objects collected. Through the Canadian Centre for the Visual Arts, the Branch provides a major study and teaching resource for Canadian and international artists, scholars and students, and interested members of the public.

♦ Communications and Marketing Branch, Exhibitions and Installation Branch

These branches make the collection of more than 40,000 works of art and related knowledge accessible to national and international audiences through its displays of the permanent collections and special exhibitions, education services, publications, sales and media relations.

♦ Canadian Museum of Contemporary Photography

This museum undertakes a broad range of activities involving contemporary Canadian photographs and photographers. Its activities include acquisition and ordering of photographs, public programs, travelling exhibitions, loans, publications, educational programs, special exhibitions and national service.

Classes of Personal Information

Some NGC files summarized in the Program Records contain personal information which is not used in a decision-making process directly affecting the individual to whom it relates. Examples are inquiries about NGC collections, programs and services, information and advice given to individuals by NGC employees about museums and museum objects, and information about individuals in documents relating to grants or proposed grants to institutions.

These classes of personal information are kept on the relevant subject files and are not identifiable by name of the individual or other personal identifier. To retrieve these classes of personal information, the NGC would need as much detail as possible about the subject matter, the geographic location and the time the information would have come to the NGC.

The retention periods for these classes of personal information are the same as those for the subject files containing the information.

National Library of Canada

Chapter 90

General Information

Background

The National Library of Canada, created in 1953, operates under the National Library Act (1969) and its amendments, and administers the National Library Book Deposit Regulations (revised 1995). The Library is a branch of government having the rank of a department and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage. The National Library serves Canada from the National Capital Region.

Responsibilities

The National Library ensures that the published heritage of the Canadian people is preserved and made accessible to Canadians directly and through the country's libraries.

To fulfil its responsibilities the Library collects and promotes the Canadian historical, literary and musical heritage in its broadest sense. This includes listing the nation's publications to facilitate their retrieval and use; providing reference, information, referral and document delivery services to support similar services provided by other Canadian libraries, with special emphasis on Canadian-related subjects; making known the written and musical heritage of the nation through a cultural events and exhibitions program; and facilitating the use of the nation's total library resources by coordinating and participating in national and international programs for sharing information on publications and for identifying and supplying needed documents on interlibrary loan.

Legislation

- National Library Act (R.S. (1985), c. N-12) and its amendments
- National Library Book Deposit Regulations (revised 1995)

Organization

◆ Acquisitions and Bibliographic Services

The Acquisitions component is responsible for the development of the Library's collections of published material in all formats. It acquires material through legal deposit, purchase, gift, exchange, and administrative arrangements with the provincial and territorial governments.

The Bibliographic component creates, maintains and disseminates records which identify and describe Canadian publications, coordinates a prepublication cataloguing program covering Canadian trade and official publications (Cataloguing-In-Publication), compiles and produces a national bibliography of Canadiana, distributes machine-readable catalogue records for both Canadian and foreign materials, and provides access to the Library's collections by compiling and maintaining catalogues. In support of resource sharing, it creates and maintains a national resource sharing database listing the holdings of participating Canadian libraries. It is also responsible for coordinating the microfilming, preservation and distribution of theses from 51 Canadian universities. This component is also responsible for developing bibliographic and documentation standards and for coordinating national programs for the assignment of international standard numbers to Canadian book, serial and music publishers.

◆ Corporate Policy and Communications

Corporate Policy and Communications is responsible for the Library's corporate policy, planning and communications activities, including internal audit, program evaluation, staff development and strategic planning. It is also responsible for marketing the National Library and promoting its programs, services and role as a national cultural institution through publications and guided tours.

◆ Information Resource Management

Information Resource Management is responsible for coordinating the development of policies and strategies related to the Library's corporate information resources including collections, databases, preservation and government information holdings.

◆ Information Technology Services

Information Technology Services is responsible for developing, maintaining and operating the computer systems which serve both the National Library and the Canadian library and information community. Information Technology Services conducts research into library applications of computer technologies, provides Internet support services to the National Library and provides systems support services to both the National Library and to its federal government library clients.

◆ National and International Programs

National and International Programs is responsible for directing the Library's role in national and international activities related to its major program activities. It provides advice and support services to federal government libraries, the Council of Federal Libraries, and to libraries serving specialized communities. It also co-ordinates and facilitates the implementation of national and international resource sharing and heritage initiatives.

◆ Office of the National Librarian

The National Librarian is the Chief Executive Officer and is responsible for all matters relating to the National Library. The National Librarian reports to Parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage.

◆ Research and Information Services

Research and Information Services is responsible for providing a location and interlibrary loan service and a reference and information service, to libraries, and researchers. Special advisory services are offered in Canadian literature including children's literature, in music, and in library and information science. It also provides service from the National Library's collections, including official publications, Canadian newspapers, serials, reference, music, rare books and literary manuscripts, native studies and the Jacob M. Lowy Collection of old and rare Hebraica and Judaica. Surplus library materials from Canadian libraries are collected and exchanged through the Canadian Book Exchange Centre in Ottawa. Public Programs offers a variety of lectures, readings, musical events, and exhibitions based on the Library's collections.

National Museum of Science and Technology

Chapter 91

General Information

Background

The National Museum of Science and Technology (NMST), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act.

Responsibilities

The purpose of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, is to foster scientific and technological literacy throughout Canada by establishing and maintaining a collection of scientific and technological objects, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, and by demonstrating the products and processes of science and technology and their economic, social and cultural relationships with society. It consists of three interpretive centres: the Canada Science and Technology Museum (CSTM), the Canada Aviation Museum (CAM) and the Canada Agriculture Museum.

Legislation

- Museums Act, 1990

Organization

◆ Collection and Research

The Collection and Research Branch is responsible for collecting, preserving, recording, understanding and communicating the processes of discovering, creating, inventing, manufacturing and employing science and technology and the effects these processes have on Canadian society.

◆ Corporate Development Division

The Corporate Development Division is responsible for generating resources (including money, goods and services) in order to augment the corporation's appropriated federal budget in support of its mandate and corporate objectives. Resources are generated through sponsorship, fundraising and membership programs aimed at the private sector and the general public.

◆ Corporate Services Branch

Corporate Services is responsible for providing support, functional direction and control to management, and ensuring the Corporation operates effectively, efficiently and economically in accordance with legislative requirements, sound business practices and ethical management standards. Offer services in the areas of finance, administration, human resources, facilities, protection, commercial operations, policy development and internal audit.

◆ Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for the direction of the museum and the management of all its activities, resources and outputs. It includes the office of the Corporate Secretary which provides a support function for the Director and the Board of Trustees.

◆ Canada Aviation Museum

The Canada Aviation Museum is responsible for preserving, demonstrating and interpreting for present and future generation the development of Canadian and world aviation, both civil and military and illustrating the past and continuing contribution of aviation to the evolution of the social, economic and built fabric of Canada.

◆ Public Programmes

The Public Programmes Branch is responsible for fostering scientific and technological literacy throughout Canada by demonstrating the products and processes of science and technology, as well as their economic, social and cultural relationships with society, with special, but not exclusive reference to Canada. It includes the Communication and Promotion division which serves the Corporation.

Classes of Personal Information

Some CSTM and CAM files summarized in the Program Records contain personal information which is not used in a decision-making process directly affecting the individual to whom it relates. Examples are inquiries about CSTM and CAM collections, programs and services, information and advice given to individuals by CMST or CAM employees about museums and museum objects.

These classes of personal information are kept on the relevant subject files and are not identifiable by name of the individual or other personal identifier. To retrieve these classes of personal information, CSTM and CAM would need as much detail as possible about the subject matter, the geographic location and the time the information would have come to the CSTM or CAM.

The retention periods for these classes of personal information are the same as those for the subject files containing the information.

National Parole Board

Chapter 92

General Information

Background

The National Parole Board, part of the criminal justice system, was created by the Parole Act in 1959.

Responsibilities

The National Parole Board is an agency within the Ministry of the Solicitor General. Board members are appointed by the Governor in Council (Cabinet) to offices in the Atlantic, Quebec, Ontario, Prairies, and Pacific regions and to the Appeal Division at the national office in Ottawa. The national office also houses Legal Services, Corporate Services, Policy, Planning and Operations, Performance Measurement, and the Clemency and Pardons Division.

The Corrections and Conditional Release Act empowers the National Parole Board to make conditional release decisions for offenders in federal penitentiaries, territorial, and provincial prisons in those provinces which have not established their own board of parole. Ontario, Quebec, and British Columbia maintain parole boards for offenders serving sentences of less than two years in their provincial institutions.

The National Parole Board has adopted policies to guide Board members in making decisions; the Board uses information from police, prosecutors, psychiatrists, judges, officers of the Correctional Service of Canada, the offender, victims and others to assess risk. Most conditional release decisions are made after Board members hold a hearing with the offender. Some decisions are reached simply after a review of an offender's file.

The Criminal Records Act allows the Board to issue, grant, refuse to grant or revoke pardons for convictions under federal acts or regulations.

If a pardon is in force, any federal agency or department that has records of convictions must keep the records of those convictions separate and apart. They may not disclose the information in the record without permission from the Solicitor General of Canada.

Legislation

- Corrections and Conditional Release Act and Regulations
- Criminal Code
- Criminal Records Act
- Prisons and Reformatories Act

Organization

♦ Chairperson and Vice-Chairperson

The Chairperson is the chief executive officer, responsible for all National Parole Board matters. Reporting directly to the Chairperson are the Executive Vice-Chairperson; Executive Director; the Vice-Chairperson of the Appeal Division and the Vice-Chairpersons in the Board's regional offices in Moncton, Montreal, Kingston, Saskatoon, and Abbotsford; the legal Counsel and the Director of Communications.

♦ Executive Director

The Executive Director is responsible for advising the Chairman on all matters related to the NPB's mandate, for providing leadership to the five regions as well as a number of the staff functions at the National Office providing support to the organization.

♦ Director, Corporate Services

The Director is responsible for advising the Chairman on all matters related and direction of the National Parole Board's Corporate Services functions including Finance, Human Resources, Procurement, Security, Administration, Informatics and Records Management.

♦ Director, Performance Measurement

The Director is responsible for providing the National Parole Board with an independent and objective assessment of the performance of its programs and policies, and for making recommendations for their improvement. He is also responsible for providing all statistics to support the management and improvement of programs and policies.

♦ Director, Policy, Planning and Operations

The Director Policy, Planning and Operations, is accountable for the establishment of the broad policy framework governing the national operations and administration of the National Parole Board's (NPB) conditional release and clemency and pardons programs and for its contribution to major reviews and amendments to the Canadian Justice System legislation and operations. The incumbent is also accountable for the Board's strategic and operational planning processes and for providing broad functional advice and directions for regional operations, and for ensuring the conduct of research.

♦ Director, Professional Development and Decision Processes

The Director is responsible for development and support of Board member appointment and appraisal processes as well as the development and implementation of Board member training and development. The Director is also accountable for managing the process of granting pardons as well as supporting the Clemency and appeal process and the case audit and investigation functions.

♦ Director, Communications and ATIP

The Director of Communications and ATIP is responsible for managing the National Parole Board's communications program by providing strategic communications advice to the Chairperson and senior management of the National Parole Board as well as the Minister's office on public issues involving the National Parole Board. The director is also responsible for managing the Access to Information and Privacy function of NPB as well as Ministerial liaison and parliamentary relations.

Information disclosed to investigative bodies

Description: This personal information bank contains copies of the written requests or Treasury Board forms 350-56(83/2) (Request for Disclosure to Federal Investigative Bodies) forwarded by investigative bodies listed in schedule II of the Privacy Regulations to the National Parole Board under paragraph 8(2) (e) of the Privacy Act. These nation-wide requests are made for the purpose of law enforcement. This bank also contains the replies to such requests and information related to their processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have been involved in investigations under the Criminal Code, federal and provincial statutes or municipal by-laws.

Purpose: This information was compiled in compliance with the Privacy Act to enable the National Parole Board to account for the number of requests under paragraph 8(2) (e) of the Privacy Act. Consistent Uses: This bank enables the Privacy Commissioner to audit the procedures utilized, as set out in Treasury Board Guidelines .3.7.5. It is used to verify the conditions of information disclosure to federal investigative bodies under paragraph 8(2) (e) of the Privacy Act and to account to the Privacy Commissioner for the number of access requests from investigative bodies received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank is retained for two years after a case is resolved. Related to PR#: NPB NPB 050 TBS Registration: 002505 Bank Number: NPB PPU 020

Pardon and Clemency case files

Description: This bank contains the following information: Criminal histories; police and court reports; social, financial, educational, medical and psychiatric histories; appraisals and recommendations and decisions from NPB and/or Correctional Service of Canada staff; records of Board members recommendations and decisions and related documentation; memoranda and letters from other agencies, government departments and the general public. Social insurance numbers (SIN) are found in this bank in the cases of military personnel who request pardons from the Board, since the Department of National Defence (DND) used to use the SIN as a personal identifier for its personnel. Board usage of SINs is dependent on DND usage. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have applied to the National Parole Board for a pardon under the Criminal Records Act or an act of clemency under section 110 of the Corrections and Conditional Release Act pursuant to the Letters Patent or sections 749 and 750 of the Criminal Code. Records may also contain personal information on individuals other than the individual for whom a file was opened, e.g. the individual's family, friends or representatives. Purpose: To determine eligibility and suitability for the awarding of a pardon or other act of clemency or for revocation of a pardon. Consistent Uses: To fulfil its legislative mandate, the National Parole Board gathers a great deal of personal information about applicants under its jurisdiction. To obtain the information, it is necessary for the Board to routinely share, when warranted, its information with other sources, including the Correctional Service of Canada, the RCMP, provincial and municipal governments, and members of the general public associated in some way with the individual to whom the information pertains. However, unless the pardon was subsequently revoked, personal information banks containing files of individuals who have been granted a pardon are kept separate and the content cannot be disclosed to any person without the prior approval of the Solicitor General of Canada who, before granting such approval, has to be satisfied that the disclosure is desirable in the interests of the administration of justice or for any purpose related to the safety or security of Canada. This information is also used for research, statistical, program monitoring and evaluation purposes, and for the purpose of presenting a defence when court actions are brought against the National Parole Board. Data matching: law enforcement agencies, Correctional Service of Canada and other federal institutions and provincial authorities. Retention and Disposal Standards: Pardon – for premature requests, files are kept for 2 years; for discontinued requests, files are kept for 2 years after the last contact with the applicant; for pardon granted, files are kept for 25 years after administrative activity ceases or 1 year after the death of the subject is confirmed by the RCMP; for pardon revoked files are kept for 5 years following the last administrative action; for pardons denied (all types) (except conditional pardon early CRA) – 10 years after last contact with applicant; for pardons denied – conditional pardon (early CRA) – 5 years after last administrative activity; for pardons cease to exist – 5 years after administrative activity ceases. Royal Prerogative of Mercy – files are kept for a period of 25 years following the last administrative action or 1 year after the death of the subject is confirmed by the R.C.M.P. Once the retention periods are satisfied, Pardon case files are destroyed. Clemency files (RPM) are retained by National Archives of Canada for historical value. PAC Number: 85-018 Related to PR#: NPB NPB 010, 015, 020 TBS Registration: 000507 Bank Number: NPB PPU 010

Parole Case Files

Description: Criminal histories; police and court reports; social, financial, educational, medical and psychiatric histories; progress reports, appraisals and recommendations from staff of penal institutions and parole offices; records of Board decisions and related documentation; warrants and certificates; memoranda and letters from other agencies, government departments and the general public; and electromagnetic cassette tapes of hearings with offenders. Class of Individuals: Individuals who are serving or who, at one time, were serving a sentence of imprisonment in a federal penitentiary; individuals who are serving or who, at one time, were serving a sentence of imprisonment in a provincial institution and applied for parole to the National Parole Board. These records may also contain personal information on individuals other than the individual for whom a file was created, e.g. the individual's family, friends or representatives. Note: For individuals currently under sentence, requests for documents in files under this Bank will be interpreted as a request for the current file only. Those who wish to access files from previous sentences as well, must specify. Purpose: Parole case files are used by the National Parole Board in accordance with the provisions of the Corrections and Conditional Release Act and other relevant statutes, to determine eligibility and suitability of offenders for full parole, day parole, unescorted temporary absences and, in some cases, escorted temporary absences; to set conditions of all types of conditional releases including statutory release and to review performance on such releases; to consider modifying or reducing conditions of release; to review cases to order detention past their presumptive release date. Consistent Uses: To fulfil its legislative mandate, the National Parole Board is provided with a great deal of personal information about offenders under its jurisdiction. To obtain the information, it is necessary for the Board to routinely share, when warranted, its information with other sources, including, the Correctional Service of Canada, the RCMP, provincial and municipal governments, and members of the general public associated in some way with the individual to whom the information pertains. In addition, the significant public education role that the Board has to play and the wish to demonstrate to the public the fairness of its decisions, allows the general public, where legitimate reasons exist, to be informed of decisions concerning offenders currently under its jurisdiction as well as the general reasons supporting these decisions. However, the information shared under these circumstances is either factual and/or publicly available, and is general enough to ensure sufficient protection against any invasion of privacy of the individual to whom the information pertains. This information is also used for research, statistical, program monitoring and evaluation purposes, and for the purpose of presenting a defence when court actions are brought against the National Parole Board. Data matching: law enforcement agencies, Correctional Service of Canada and other federal institutions and provincial authorities. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are kept for 10 years after Warrant Expiry Date and destroyed thereafter. Records deemed to be of historical value are retained by the National Archives of Canada. Hearing tapes are retained as follows; all hearing tapes for 2 years after their last administrative use; or until there is a further hearing, if one has not been held within 2 years; and until warrant expiry date when the hearing resulted in the release of the offender; and until 2 years after warrant expiry date when considered necessary by the Regional Director or Regional Manager in cases where an investigation has been ordered, it is reasonable to believe that there may be a further interest in the recording, or it may assist administrative functions of the Board. PAC Number: 85-018 Related to PR#: NPB NPB 025, 030, 035, 040 TBS Registration: 000506 Bank Number: NPB PPU 005

Audits and Investigations

This group is a class of records on Audits and Investigations performed by the Clemency and Investigations Sector. Case audits, which consist of an in-depth review of file documentation and hearing tapes, are conducted on particular issues or into selective incidents. Investigations are convened by the Chairperson and are generally conducted jointly with Correctional Service of Canada. The reports of the investigations include the convening order with terms of reference, the facts pertaining to the situation being investigated, as detailed in a chronology; the issues developed during the investigation; the findings of the board members; and the recommendations made on the basis of these findings. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the location and approximate date it was initiated. Records are retained for ten years after the warrant expiry date of the offender involved in the incident. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

National Research Council Canada

Chapter 93

General Information

Background

Operating under the National Research Council Act since 1916, the National Research Council of Canada (NRC)'s goal is to promote scientific research for Canada, with a focus on industry. NRC offers Canadian industry and the Canadian scientific community a wide variety of R&D support services. This support includes collaborative research programs, access to major facilities and installations, technical advice and expertise, hands-on training of high-quality personnel, licensing opportunities, testing analysis, verification and calibration services and innovation activities, such as incubator facilities and access to S&T information.

Responsibilities

In pursuing the above activities, the Council, on occasion, is involved in the collection and use of personal information. Details of those instances where the information is used to make administrative decisions affecting the individual are described under Personal Information Banks – General Public. Persons wishing access to their own records should include their full name and address, and any additional information specified in each information bank. Where no additional information is indicated, only the full name and address are required.

Personal information in NRC files that is not used for administrative purposes and is normally neither organized nor retrieved by personal identifiers is outlined in the Classes of Personal Information section.

Legislation

- National Research Council Act

Organization

Executive Offices

The President is the Chief Executive Officer of the National Research Council and has supervision over and direction of the work of the Council. The President is assisted by two Vice-Presidents, for Research, and for Technology and Industry Support respectively.

Included in the Executive Offices is the Office of the Secretary General / Director General Corporate Services. This office includes the Support to Executive Offices, and the Corporate Services Function.

The Support to Executive Offices functions deal with the day to day activities such as ministerial and parliamentary relations; executive correspondence and support for NRC's Council, corporate committees and advisory boards; conflict of interest; access to information and privacy policy support; and research ethics and review.

The Corporate Services function includes the planning, external and business relations, and communications efforts undertaken in support of NRC and its managers. This element is divided into four business lines, in the following areas: Business Relations, Communications, International Relations; Planning and Assessment.

National Research Council Institutes

◆ Biotechnology Research Institute (Montreal)

The Biotechnology Research Institute (BRI) conducts research in biochemical and molecular engineering in close collaboration with industry, universities and public research agencies. The objective is to establish a strong national program in biotechnology R&D that will have extensive and eventually dominant private sector involvement.

The Institute houses one of the nation's largest facilities for pilot-scale R&D, giving Canadian industry unique access to technical expertise and state-of-the-art equipment. Dozens of projects are in progress with industry and university partners in areas such as biosensor development, anaerobic waste water purification systems, computer programs for protein design, and the culture of mammalian cells.

◆ Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information (Ottawa)

The Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information (CISTI) is this country's largest scientific, technical and medical information resource, serving industry, governments, universities, and individuals with a need for specialized information. Services are based on a comprehensive collection of published information and the expertise of information specialists.

CISTI provides customized literature searches, reference services and referrals to experts and current awareness services.

CISTI responds to nearly a million requests for copies of articles, reports, conference papers, and books annually. The academic community is its largest client with industry being second, followed by government and health care facilities.

To promote Canada's international presence in science and technology, CISTI offers scientists and engineers from Canada and elsewhere, journals of high quality in which to communicate their work to their peers and other interested communities.

NRC publishes 14 primary research journals in both paper and electronic forms: the Canadian Journals of Botany, Chemistry, Civil Engineering, Earth Sciences, Fisheries and Aquatic Sciences, Forest Research, Physics, Microbiology, Physiology and Pharmacology and Zoology, the Canadian Geotechnical Journal, Biochemistry and Cell Biology, Genome, and Environmental Reviews.

These highly cited publications feature top quality refereeing and excellent technical production, and attract international contributions and subscriptions. Ten rank in the top 50 per cent of the world's science literature as measured by total citations.

NRC Research Press also publishes monographs and conference proceedings and other allied publications.

◆ Canadian Hydraulics Centre (Ottawa)

The Canadian Hydraulics Centre is one of North America's largest hydraulic engineering laboratories. It has the expertise & experience in physical & numerical modelling, analysis and field studies to solve a wide range of hydraulic engineering problems. Its business is the provision of physical and numerical modelling and analysis services to the engineering community in the general field of hydraulics, specializing in coastal engineering, environmental hydraulics, and cold regions technology.

◆ Centre for Surface Transportation Technologies (Ottawa)

CSTT offers its clients unique expertise and facilities to improve the productivity, competitiveness, reliability and safety of rail and road, and off-road vehicles and related equipment and systems. Expertise includes engineering research and development, computer modelling and analysis, field evaluation, climatic simulation, and vehicle performance certification. Highlights of CSTT's work include large improvements to railway wheels and rails, discovery and prevention of tank car failure mechanisms, and performance evaluation and improvement of railway freight and passenger locomotives and coaches, railcar bogies and brakes, railway rails and track, military vehicles and systems, highway trailers and intermodal containers, and vehicle heating and air conditioning systems.

◆ Herzberg Institute of Astrophysics (British Columbia)

As a mandated responsibility, the Herzberg Institute of Astrophysics operates and maintains astronomical observatories as national facilities, which are made available to scientists across the country. These are the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Victoria and the Dominion Radio Astrophysical Observatory in Penticton, British Columbia. In addition, the Canada-France-Hawaii Telescope atop Mauna Kea in Hawaii, is operated as an international partnership of the National Research Council, France's Centre national de la recherche scientifique and the University of Hawaii, as is the James Clerk Maxwell

Telescope, also in Hawaii, as a partnership of NRC, the United States, the United Kingdom, Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Australia.

In support of its mandate, the Institute carries out research in astronomy, solar terrestrial physics, and develops new techniques and instrumentation for collecting and assessing data in these fields.

◆ Industrial Materials Institute (Boucherville, Quebec)

The Industrial Materials Institute (IMI) seeks to promote innovation and economic growth through partnered research and development related to materials technologies. With 200 scientists, engineers and technical officers employed by IMI and other organizations in Canada and abroad, IMI is acknowledged as a scientific and technological leader as well as a dynamic force for innovation as it assists businesses in becoming more competitive and innovative. IMI has developed unique formulas for collaboration, joint projects and multi-partner programs (specialized technology groups, multi-partner projects and consortia) with industry, universities and government. IMI also incubates many start-up firms working on new technologies for the development of the materials, products and services that are required by the new economy. Every year, the Institute takes part in and organizes major conferences and welcomes numerous visitors and scientists from throughout Canada and abroad.

R&D activities involve metals, polymers and ceramics, as well as composites and alloys. IMI puts its expertise to work for industries involved in materials exploitation and fabrication, software engineering services, as well as the manufacture of finished and semi-finished products.

IMI's multi-disciplinary expertise covers the following areas:

- Materials and process design that enhances performance and formulation and thus optimizes process-structure-performance relationships.
- Intelligent and virtual technologies through modelling, visualization, high-performance calculation and information processing.

◆ Industrial Research Assistance Program (Offices across Canada)

The Industrial Research Assistance Program (IRAP)'s mandate is to stimulate wealth-creation for Canada through technological innovation. Its mission is to stimulate innovation in Canadian Small and medium-sized enterprises (SME) by helping them develop and exploit technologies. The goal is to enhance SME's innovation capacity, so that it can turn good ideas into products and services. IRAP provides knowledge-based innovation assistance and services to SMEs and access to relevant resources to support client innovation activities.

IRAP is founded upon a national network of some 260 Industrial Technology Advisors who are situated in more than 90 communities across Canada. They are the front-line people who deliver IRAP services to SMEs. Their expertise covers all industrial sectors and can help SMEs access the resources they need to carry out their research and development activities.

◆ Institute for Aerospace Research (Ottawa)

The Institute for Aerospace Research (IAR) performs research and applies technology in the fields of aerodynamics, structures and aerospace materials, flight systems, and propulsion technologies for clients, and collaborators which include aerospace manufacturing industries, government departments and universities.

Research activities are directed toward the development of solutions and advancing technologies critical to Canada's industrial competitiveness and to issues addressing public safety, security and protection of the environment.

Major test facilities are available to outside agencies on a cost-recovery or collaborative basis. These include seven wind tunnels of various sizes and wind speeds, experimental aircraft, facilities for structural and engine testing, a Flight Recorder Playback Centre, and flight impact and intense noise facilities. Considerable effort is directed toward development of advanced testing techniques and equipment which attract customers from around the world.

◆ Institute for Biodiagnostics (Winnipeg)

The Institute for Biodiagnostics, located in Winnipeg, carries out research to develop techniques and instrumentation for improved diagnosis of disease and monitoring of therapy in humans. Research is performed in partnership with medical schools, universities, other institutes, instrument manufacturers and the pharmaceutical industry. The technology developed as a result of research in the Institute is transferred to the medical instrument industry and medical practice. Research areas include biosystems, magnetic resonance technology, spectroscopy and informatics. Techniques are developed to model and characterise normal and disease states in humans. The principal areas of research are cancer, heart disease, osteoporosis, arthritis and stroke.

Magnetic resonance technology focuses on development of magnets, spectrometer systems and pulse sequences for localized spectroscopy. A 3 Tesla MR spectrometer/imager has been developed for functional imaging of the brain, and transferred to industry for commercialization. Infrared spectroscopy is used to investigate the molecular basis of structural changes underlying the transformation from healthy to disease states. Mathematical methods and computer software are developed for the improved analysis of instrumentally derived data for medical diagnosis and evaluation of therapy. The Institute has formed six spin off companies which are marketing internationally.

◆ Institute for Biological Sciences (Ottawa)

The Institute does innovative research of importance to the health and pharmaceutical sectors. Research programs are carried out with partners in industry, universities, hospitals and other R&D organizations. To achieve its mission, IBS is composed of two major research programs.

Cell Biology is focused on applications related to therapies for neurodegenerative disorders at the cellular level. Immunochemistry is focussed on molecular level research by a multidisciplinary team leading to the development of novel vaccines and immunotherapeutics.

◆ Institute for Chemical Process and Environmental Technology (Ottawa)

With core capabilities in chemical sciences and engineering, as well as outstanding research facilities, NRC's Institute for Chemical Process and Environmental Technology (ICPET) develops chemical process technology, know-how and information of current and future value to clients in the Canadian manufacturing industries for improving the commercial viability of their products, processes and operations, while helping them meet their environmental responsibilities.

ICPET focuses on development of innovative materials and processes, cleaner manufacturing, and virtual manufacturing. With its key technologies, ICPET's influence is national in scope, through partnering with leading manufacturers and their suppliers, universities and governments at regional and community levels.

◆ Institute for Information Technology (Ottawa)

The Institute for Information Technology (IIT) takes advantage of its expertise in information technology (IT) as a critical enabling factor in the development of technologies with a wide range of applications.

IIT's five research groups include interactive information, integrated reasoning, network computing, software engineering, and visual information technology. The capabilities gained from these areas of research are applied in collaboration with the information technology suppliers to Canadian business.

Background studies on the competitive positioning of Canadian industry have demonstrated that the telecommunications and software industries have a particularly strong technological capacity and that private funding of research in these fields is considerably higher than in other sectors of the economy.

Therefore and to maximize the impact of its activities, IIT concentrates its efforts on providing IT expertise in research where there is a demonstrated need, and clear potential for wealth generation for the Canadian economy.

◆ Institute for Marine Biosciences (Halifax)

The Institute for Marine Biosciences (IMB) applies biotechnology in two key areas: Aquaculture and Genomics. Its mandate is national in scope.

IMB's Aquaculture program contributes knowledge through research on finfish, shellfish, and seaplants. It focuses on fish health and nutrition, early development, species diversification and seafood safety. Specific research projects on diseases, rearing techniques, and the development of effective vaccines help the industry reduce costs and produce healthier organisms. Research on high-performance aquaculture feeds leads to improved nutritional quality of feed, fish health and sustainability and, more generally, the cost-effectiveness of finfish and shellfish aquaculture.

Under its Genomics program, IMB develops platform technologies in DNA sequencing, protein analysis, and bioinformatics that have applications for many Canadian industries.

The Institute provides innovative, multi-disciplinary research and problem solving to a broadly based client and collaborator community. Key industrial sectors include aquaculture, pharmaceuticals, life sciences, scientific instrumentation manufacturers, and analytical laboratories servicing the environmental and seafood safety sectors.

◆ Institute for Marine Dynamics (St. John's, Newfoundland)

Since its official opening in 1985, in St. John's, the Institute for Marine Dynamics (IMD) has developed internationally recognized facilities and expertise in the field of oceans engineering research and development. The Institute is a leading centre of expertise in offshore Engineering and ship technologies.

A number of high value-added global niche markets in Ocean Technology (OT) have emerged in recent years in which small, innovative Canadian firms are competitive. OT firms specialize in fields such as cold ocean environmental engineering, subsea systems, and ocean information systems with applications in the oil and gas, and ocean transport sectors.

Within this context, IMD therefore increasingly concentrates its efforts on enhancing the competitiveness of the emerging OT sector in Canada, as well as the offshore oil and gas and marine transportation sectors. The Institute also plays an important role in collaboration with other government departments in ocean environmental protection, marine defence, and ocean transport safety systems. It also works with other NRC institutes to serve Canada's ocean technology community.

◆ Institute for Microstructural Sciences (Ottawa)

The mission of IMS is to provide leadership, in collaboration with Canadian industry and universities, in the development of the strategic base for information technology; that is, in the development of enabling technologies related to future hardware requirements for information processing, transmission acquisition and display.

The transfer of information between people, countries, through distance and time will irrevocably change within the next decade. The role of the Institute for Microstructural Sciences is to help keep Canada at the leading edge of the technologies that enable this information revolution.

Through the application of novel materials and components to solve problems posed by the need for advanced hardware, IMS has demonstrated its relevance and expertise.

The programs in Optical Communications, Wireless Communications, Multimedia Components, Exploratory Research and Special Applications include a high level of partnership and interaction with industry in areas crucial to the economic well-being of Canada.

◆ Institute for National Measurement Standards (Ottawa)

NRC has a mandated responsibility for metrology, the development and maintenance of standards of measurements, and has well-established programs in this area.

The Institute for National Measurement Standards (INMS) draws together all activities related to metrology to provide a basis for the national measurement system of Canada. R&D is aimed at the realization of high accuracy primary standards compatible with those of other countries and at specific applications of measurement techniques, including contract research and development for individual clients, R&D conducted jointly with industrial partners, and R&D in the national interest.

A high accuracy calibration service is provided to industry, universities, hospitals, clinics and other government departments and agencies. A calibration laboratory assessment service (CLAS) is also provided to enable private and government laboratories to become accredited as calibration laboratories and become members of the Canadian Calibration Network. These services give industry easy access to calibrations facilities with traceability to national and international standards.

The Institute maintains active interaction with the international community represents Canada in its obligation connected with the Convention du Mètre and acts as the Canadian focal point in the field of measurement science. Since international trade increasingly depends on internationally recognized measurement standards, this Institute provides an important national service, building on a foundation of basic research.

◆ Institute for Research in Construction (Ottawa)

The primary strategic thrust of the Institute for Research in Construction (IRC) is the support of Canada's physical and technological infrastructure as applied to construction activities. IRC's expertise in the provision of safe and secure built facilities, effective urban infrastructure systems, structures and construction materials evaluation, energy efficiency technologies, indoor environment research, and the development of codes and standards are critical assets in support of this objective.

Construction activity in Canada is valued at over $100 billion. Although only a small fraction of those services or products is exported, efficient and safe built infrastructure is considered to be a critical factor in economic efficiencies for wealth generation through cost savings in energy, repair and replacement. IRC's close interactions with industry associations, professional societies, and national and international standards bodies provide it with the capability of having a pervasive incremental impact on a highly diverse and fragmented sector of the economy.

Efficient production of high value-added goods and services in a knowledge-based economy relies heavily on an efficient physical infrastructure and a productive environment. The technologies needed to support the development of such systems are addressed by IRC in collaboration with its partners and clients with the goal of enhancing Canada's economic competitive positioning.

◆ Integrated Manufacturing Technologies Institute (London, Ont)

The mission of the Institute is to be a leader in the research and development of integrated technologies for the manufacture of products and equipment.

◆ Plant Biotechnology Institute (Saskatoon, Saskatchewan)

PBI's biotechnology research benefits agriculture and industrial innovation through research with crops and crop products. Strongly linked to the local agro-biotech community, PBI maintains competitive research and enables the commercialization of the new technologies and discoveries.

The Institute is a world leader in the genetic engineering of wheat and in seed oil modification of Brassica. PBI is committed to the improvement of crops that are of primary importance to the Canadian economy. PBI's main areas of research include Brassica technology, gene expression, growth regulation, promoter technology and seed oil modification. Transgenic plant and DNA technologies contribute to PBI's ability to develop novel systems for the analysis and manipulation of genes, leading to the state-of-the-art technologies and crop development.

◆ Steacie Institute for Molecular Sciences (Ottawa)

The Steacie Institute for Molecular Sciences (SIMS) was created in 1990. It is named for one of Canada's most eminent scientists, Dr. E.W.R. Steacie who was President of the NRC from 1952 to 1962 and who did much to put Canadian science on track during that period. SIMS' mission is to investigate topics in molecular sciences that have the potential to transform areas of interest to NRC's technology groups. Our motto is "The fundamental things apply". This means that, while we are, in a sense, the radar of the NRC, focused on the moving frontiers of molecular science, we favor interdisciplinary work that can bring the results of discovery at the frontiers to bear on Canada's innovation system. At SIMS we believe we can achieve both these goals.

The Institute performs interdisciplinary science with NRC's institute in support of Canada's manufacturing, information and telecommunication and biotechnology sectors. SIMS uses molecular science to develop new approaches in therapeutic, diagnostics, advanced electronics, telecommunication, precision manufacturing, optoelectronics and advanced materials. The institute's expertise runs the full gamut of fundamental science in the areas of chemical synthesis, materials characterization, understanding the chemistry of biological processes, the prediction of material properties, and the use of femtosecond laser in manufacturing, optics and telecommunications.

The Institute offers a stimulating and fertile environment for collaborative research, providing and attractive entry point into NRC for young scientists. Its eight research programs attract visiting researchers and graduate students from universities and other Canadian and foreign research organizations.

◆ Thermal Technology Centre (Ottawa)

The Thermal Technology Centre consists of a well-qualified team of engineers, researchers, and technologists, with broad experience in R&D in thermal engineering systems and advanced processes. This group has worked extensively with industry and acquired specialized expertise in the application of alternative refrigerants technology in HVAC&R systems. This high level of technical competency is combined with the operation of a range of special purpose state-of-the-art test facilities.

TTC offers its services to clients in the commercial refrigeration, air-conditioning, heat pump, and process heat transfer equipment manufacturing industries. Applied R&D projects are also conducted in collaboration with government departments and agencies involved in energy and environmental issues.

Information Holdings

Program Records

Executive Offices

President's Office

Description: Information on visits, lectures, gifts, interviews; correspondence with the Minister; correspondence and minutes on board memberships.

Topics: General administration; committee memberships.

Program Record Number: NRC EXE 005

Secretary General / Director General, Corporate Services

Description: Documents on Council membership, meetings and agenda; review and advisory committees of Council; Institute advisory boards; follow-up of Council decisions; and correspondence with the Minister's Office, the Privy Council Office, Members of Parliament and the Senate Committee on Science Policy. Information on international affairs, corporate planning and evaluation, communications, intellectual property, legal advice, advisory committees and archival material. Topics: General administration; National Research Council committees; history and archives; legal services; advisory committees; Access to Information and Privacy; animal and human subjects research ethics; research integrity; coordination and policy aspects of NRC activities in the international domain; responses to enquiries from the media and general public; displays and exhibits; films, audiovisual, graphics, photography, general information on international affairs, corporate planning and evaluation, communications, intellectual property. Program Record Number: NRC EXE 010

♦ Biotechnology Research Institute (Montreal)

Administration

Description: Correspondence and documents on the operation of the Institute, such as project planning and reports, space, policy planning, program forecasts, travel, seminars, finance, correspondence from external agencies, minutes of Management Committee and Advisory Board meetings. Topics: General correspondence, policies, visits, seminars, staffing, training programs, administration and operation of the Institute, finances, budgets, research and development studies, supplies, divisional project management system, equipment, building, committees. Program Record Number: NRC BRI 135

Operations

Description: Correspondence and documents on the operation of individual laboratories. Topics: General correspondence; agreements; tests; projects and sub-projects; contributions; research and development contracts; programs; seminars; guest workers; students; publications; patents; conferences. Program Record Number: NRC BRI 136

♦ Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information (Ottawa)

Operations

Description: Document Delivery, CISTI Source and DocLine are three CISTI services managed in the Operations Directorate. Document Delivery supplies copies of articles, conference papers and technical reports from CISTI's collection to NRC employees and external clients in Canada, US and internationally; CISTI Source is a current awareness service and Docline is a document ordering service for health sciences libraries. Topics: Transaction data for delivery of services, copyright data to support royalty payments, statistics on client use, information on products and services.

Program Record Number: NRC CIS 800

NRC Research Press

Description: The National Research Council of Canada has been publishing scholarly journals since 1929. They currently publish 14 journals, monographs, conference proceedings, and other allied publications and have developed electronic publishing capabilities. Topics: Administration; authority and policy on publications; general correspondence; typesetting, printing, electronic publishing and distribution service contracts; translation of abstracts; continuing agreements; and manuscripts for publication in the research journals, conference proceedings and monographs; client information and client usage statistics. Program Record Number: NRC CIS 900

Information Services and Product Development (ISPD)

Description: ISPD operates the information centres for the rest of NRC. They developed NRC's Virtual Library, a world-class Internet-based information service for NRC staff. Technical journals are available on line through this service. ISPD's other role is product development and research in Internet-based service design and architecture. Topics: NRC Information Centres (by location) – Boucherville, Halifax, London (ON), Montreal, Ottawa, Saskatoon, St. John's, Winnipeg, Victoria, general correspondence, systems documentation, agreements. Program Record Number: NRC CIS 300

Information Resource Management (IRM)

Description: The Information Resource Management Directorate is responsible for the selection, acquisition, and cataloguing of the library material, including the maintenance of databases such as the copyright tracking system and the licensing of electronic collections. Topics: Correspondence, invoices, payment records. Program Record Number: NRC CIS 200

Business Affairs and Client Relations (BACR)

Description: Business Affairs and Client Relations (BACR) is responsible for the support to CISTI's business in the areas of administration, finance, communication, marketing and client information and access requirements. Topics: Finance records, administration, translation, client information, client invoices, marketing surveys. Program Record Number: NRC CIS 600

Technology Services

Description: Technology Services provides technical support for computer systems, software applications, databases and access tools for CISTI. Topics: System documentation, project plans and progress reports. Program Record Number: NRC CIS 400

♦ Herzberg Institute of Astrophysics (British Columbia)

Administration

Description: Correspondence and memoranda pertaining to policies, contracts, contributions, special projects, program forecasts and other administrative matters as they apply to the operation of each laboratory section.

Topics: Administration; general correspondence; enquiries; visits; lectures; talks and papers; review of manuscripts and theses for outsiders; seminars and colloquia; unsolicited suggestions and ideas submitted to HIA; exhibits and displays; research – general; miscellaneous work done for outsiders. Program Record Number: NRC HIA 335

Dominion Astrophysical Observatory

Description: Data and general correspondence on astronomy related to observations and research on stars, galaxies and cosmology, testing and construction of instruments, archiving of data. Storage Medium: Photographic plates, computer printouts, magnetic tapes and disks, publications and reprints. Program Record Number: NRC HIA 350

Dominion Radio Astrophysical Observatory

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and astronomical data. The latter are stored on computer printouts, magnetic tapes and computer disks. Topics: General correspondence; operation and administration of the national facility; observing proposals; research concerning the interstellar medium; various other topics in radio astronomy; design and construction of radio telescopes; aperture synthesis techniques. Program Record Number: NRC HIA 341

JCMT Group

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and working papers connected to the topics listed below. Topics: Policy; millimetre and submillimetre astronomy, James Clerk Maxwell Telescope, SIS receivers, planar arrays; interstellar molecules; long baseline interferometry; long-range planning; instrumentation; applications for observing time; data processing. Program Record Number: NRC HIA 340

♦ Industrial Research Assistance Program (Offices across Canada)

Management

Description: Information on program policy, program planning and coordination, policy proposals and evaluations, industrial surveys, program promotion, program analysis, methods and procedures, program evaluation. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; cooperation with provincial research organizations; industrial research institutes; provincial and trade associations; IRAP Website. Program Record Number: NRC IRP 705

Program Delivery

Description: IRAP provides advisory services through its national network of experienced Industrial Technology Advisors. ITAs can help a firm define its technical needs or identify technological opportunities; obtain technical information; solve technical problems; identify sources of appropriate technology and expertise; acquire and adapt technology; or access other programs. Through CTN, ITAs and CTN advisors can provide access to innovation related expertise and services. IRAP can also provide limited funding for projects designed to enhance a firm's technological capability. Program Record Number: NRC IRP 720

♦ Institute for Aerospace Research (Ottawa)

Administration

Description: The files contain material related to the orderly management of all programs and projects in the Institute, contracts and agreements relating to external commitments, correspondence with national and international clients, and material pertaining to IAR involvement in organizations devoted to the aeronautical sciences. Topics: Administration – general correspondence, personnel, procurement, national and international agreements and contracts, publications, technical enquiries, programs and projects, planning, conferences, laboratory operations, policy, aircraft accidents, publicity and inventions, security, NATO research and Technology Organization; the Technical Cooperation Program; research; tests and work done for outsiders. Program Record Number: NRC IAR 465

Aerodynamics Laboratory

Description: Information on research projects, contracts and agreements with external civil and military agencies and industry; operation and maintenance of wind tunnels, management matters, meetings and conferences. Topics: (Active): General correspondence; aircraft aerodynamics; computational fluid dynamics; manoeuvring aerodynamics; unsteady aerodynamics; propeller/rotor aerodynamics and aeroacoustics; effects of icing on aircraft performance; aerodynamics of helicopter/ship operations; dynamic wind tunnel tests and techniques; nonlinear airloads analysis, oscillatory characteristics of aircraft and components; wind engineering; vehicle aerodynamics; subsonic and transonic engine aerodynamics; cascade and stage testing and computational fluid dynamics analysis of turbomachinery; turbine nozzle heat transfer; operation and maintenance of wind tunnels; operation and maintenance of turbomachinery test facilities; wings and bodies in transonic flows; advanced airfoil development; high lift systems; viscous flow drag reduction; flutter analysis; stores clearance; wind tunnel test technology. (Inactive): Aviation security; wind energy research; helium hypersonic wind tunnel; modelling of drift in aerial spray operation; passive dosimeter for UFFI home; trace vapour detection of explosives, and narcotics; Canadian sounding rockets; flow about cones at supersonic speeds. Program Record Number: NRC IAR 480

Flight Research

Description: Information on the operation of NRC research aircraft fleet and on research projects in the general areas of flight mechanics and airborne geoscience. Topics: (Active): Flight test techniques and instrumentation; handling qualities and flight dynamics; airborne simulation; flight safety and operational problems; flight recorder playback facilities; guidance, navigation and control of aircraft; pilot-aircraft interface technologies; atmospheric studies; biospheric studies/global change; aeromagnetism; synthetic aperture radar. (Inactive): VTOL/STOL projects; lighter-than-air vehicle technology; agricultural and forestry spray research. Program Record Number: NRC IAR 470

Structures, Materials and Propulsion

Description: Information on internal research, external commitments, agreements with other agencies in government and industry, management matters, meetings and conferences. Topics: (Active): Policy; general correspondence; flight loads, fatigue; durability and damage tolerance; acoustic excitation of structures; aerospace applications of metallic and composite materials; structural analysis; structural dynamics; vibration, real-time photogrammetry; impact strength of structures; crack propagation theory of structures; non-destructive inspection of structures and materials, NDI of manufacturing defects and service induced damage; gas turbine engine performance including aerodynamic, thermodynamic and structural factors. (Inactive): Road accidents study group; orthopaedic implants; biomedical materials; Ottawa-Carleton computer traffic control system. Program Record Number: NRC IAR 490

◆ Institute for Biodiagnostics (Winnipeg)

Administration

Description: Documents on the operation of the individual laboratory sections such as project planning and reports, program forecasts, travel and seminar information. Topics: General correspondence; policy; visits; technical enquiries; administration and operation; technical support. Program Record Number: NRC IBD 205

Animal Resources

Description: Information on the basic care and health of research animals. Topics: General correspondence and policy on animal care and research. Program Record Number: NRC IBD 230

Biosystems

Description: Information on research involving the use of MR imaging and spectroscopy and physiological techniques in studying biomedical problems. Topics: Structure and metabolism in intact biological systems; cell metabolism; cancer; cardiology; neurology. Program Record Number: NRC IBD 210

Informatics

Description: Information on multivariate mathematical modelling. Topics: Biomathematics; classification; clustering; pattern recognition; computer modelling; software. Program Record Number: NRC IBD 215

MR Technology

Description: Information on theory and methodology in magnetic resonance imaging and spectroscopy. Topics: Magnetic field gradients, radiofrequency probes, magnetic resonance software. Program Record Number: NRC IBD 220

Spectroscopy

Description: Information on vibrational spectroscopy, infrared and Raman, and its application to biological/biomedical systems. Topics: Proteins, membranes, tissues, metabolism, cancer. Program Record Number: NRC IBD 225

◆ Institute for Biological Sciences (Ottawa)

Administration

Description: Documents on the operation of the individual laboratory sections such as project planning and reports, program forecasts, travel and seminar information. Topics: General correspondence; policy; visits; technical enquiries; administration and operation; technical support – e.g., supplies and equipment, and safety committee. Program Record Number: NRC IBS 065

Animal Resources

Description: Information on the basic care and health of research animals. Topics: General correspondence and policy on animal care and research. Program Record Number: NRC IBS 075

Cell Biology

Description: Information on the application cell biology and cell technologies to the treatment of select neurodegenerative disorders. Animal and culture models of diseases. Correspondence and memoranda relating to cell regulation and cell culture. Topics: Cellular mechanisms; neurobiology; cell technologies. Program Record Number: NRC IBS 125

Immunochemistry

Description: Information on immunology and immunochemistry and antibody engineering. Topics: Antigens; antibodies; pathogenic bacteria; hybridomas; immunotherapeutics; vaccines. Program Record Number: NRC IBS 110

◆ Institute for Chemical Process and Environmental Technology (Ottawa)

Operations

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports relating to the planning and execution of the Institute's programs. Topics: General correspondence, technical inquiries, visits, lectures, seminars, publications, patents, project reports. Program Record Number: NRC CPE 165

Chemical Systems and Materials

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports on focused scientific research programs to improve the performance of materials for the manufacturing industries.

Topics: Functional polymers; solid waste reduction; performance of battery materials; process modeling and simulation; chemical-based sensors. Program Record Number: NRC CPE 300

Environmental Management

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports on process integration, modeling, environmental stewardship relating to the manufacturing system. Topics: sustainable development; technology impact assessment. Program Record Number: NRC CPE 310

Process Technology

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports on innovative processes and technologies for the chemical and manufacturing industries. Topics: Gaseous separations; liquid separations; combustion research, including particulate waste treatment and reduction; electrosynthetic methods and electrochemical processes; spray technologies; surface characterisation; nanotechnologies. Program Record Number: NRC CPE 400

♦ Institute for Information Technology (Ottawa)

Research Result

Description: This is the output of the Institute and is in the form of technical reports, external publications, correspondence, designs, patents and transfer of technology. Topics: Human-Computer Interaction: multi-modal interfaces; integration of language and visualization in 3-D models; modelling dialogue structure to improve computer-human interaction. Interactive Information: software tools to improve identification and navigation of information sources; machine learning; intelligent agents; navigational tools for digital libraries. Integrated Reasoning: diagnostic and decision making systems; integration of multiple reasoning techniques (fuzzy logic, case-based reasoning, decision networks, induction and model-based reasoning.) Network computing: information networks; seamless integration of heterogeneous information sources and applications into homogeneous environments; advanced AI technologies. Software Engineering: real-time and embedded systems; commercial software products; large scale systems; design recovery; configuration control; software portability, software costing. Visual Information Technology: 3-D visual information acquisition and processing; sensor systems; machine vision; 3-D data interpretation; virtual environments and museums; 3-D shape and colour reproduction. Program Record Number: NRC IIT 265

♦ Institute for Marine Biosciences (Halifax)

Administration

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, requests, minutes, and technical reports. Topics: Plant engineering; scientific societies and institutes; committees (health and safety, scientific committees); Aquaculture Research Station files (basically engineering and maintenance); financial services; budgets, purchasing; travel and conference files, inventory and control records.

Program Record Number: NRC IMB 035

Director General's Office

Description: Director General's working files include material on the activities of projects, such as research and development and project planning; NRC committees and external committees. Topics: General correspondence and files on research and development pertaining to research projects; files by subject interest, general correspondence from various institutes within the NRC, by institute; working files; forward planning. Program Record Number: NRC IMB 030

Business Office

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, requests, public relations materials, contracts with collaborators and clients. Topics: General correspondence related to commercial interactions, strategic planning and performance reporting, general descriptions of research activities, Committee reports, and working files. Program Record Number: NRC IMB 500

Aquaculture

Description: General Correspondence; seminars; research files of published and unpublished data, reprints and information relating to: aquaculture of seaweeds, finfish and shellfish; cell biology; light and electron microscopy; analytical chemistry; biochemistry; marine microbiology; and certification of instrument calibration standards and reference materials (Certified Reference Materials Program), including related research. Topics: Aquaculture research; chemistry and biochemistry of shellfish toxins; toxin production and transfer in the marine food web. Program Record Number: NRC IMB 003

Genomics

Description: General correspondence; seminars; research files of published and unpublished data, and reprints and information relating to: genomics; bioinformatics; molecular biology; proteomics; DNA sequencing; enzymes; proteins; DNA markers; genomic sequencing, high resolution separation techniques, and related instrumentation. Topics: Genomics research, and Canadian Bioinformatics Resource. Program Record Number: NRC IMB 004

♦ Institute for Marine Dynamics (St. John's, Newfoundland)

Ocean Technology

Description: Administration and operational files; general technical correspondence; working and correspondence files containing technical and administrative details of research programs, participation in societies, associations, conferences and interdepartmental government committees and working groups; raw data from model tests and full scale trials; technical reports on internal research projects or work done for external clients. Topics: Administration – policy, general correspondence, visits, lectures, exhibits; conferences and seminars; co-operation and liaison (with other government departments, universities, associations, clubs and societies, and foreign countries); buildings and properties; equipment and supplies; finance and personnel. Operational – policy, general correspondence; research and development (general, for industry and for government); ships, including icebreakers, ferries, fishing vessels, naval vessels; offshore structures; ice properties; computer modelling. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 385

Acoustics and Signal Processing

Description: Carries out a R&D program focussed on the auralization of information for multimedia, communications and virtual reality applications. Topics: Advanced acoustical components for telecommunications; Exploring active sound field control for improved signal intelligibility in communications headsets. Other areas of research: Acoustical design for telecommunications; Active noise control for multimedia applications; Microphone arrays; Theoretical modelling of multimedia acoustical environments; Sound propagation; Acoustical materials; Acoustical applications of signal processing. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 510

Advanced Devices

Description: Conducts research in the area of new and novel electronic, electro optic, photonic and multimedia devices. Topics: Infrared Imaging Devices; Exploratory Infrared and Terahertz Devices; Mass Spectroscopy and Temperature Measurements of Semiconductor Laser Facets; Growth and Characterization of Semiconductor Self-Assembled Quantum Dots; GaN Device Fabrication; Optical Hole-Burning and Dephasing. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 110

Advanced Materials

Description: Centers on the use of novel organic and inorganic materials for information and communications technology applications. Topics: Investigation of Charge Transport in OLEDs; Chemical and Optical Characterization of Polymeric Materials; Fabrication and Characterization of Polymeric Transistors; Small High Resolution OEL Displays and Related Processing Technology; Fabrication and Characterization of Optically Pumped Organic Laser Structures; Patterning of Organic Materials by Excimer Laser Ablation; Assessment of Stability of Organic and Polymeric Materials and Device Lifetime and Performance; Application of lasers for patterning (laser direct lithography) and microstructuring of materials; Patterning of organic materials by excimer laser ablation; Laser-induced Quantum Well/Dot Intermixing; Laser-induced modification of surfaces; GaN

MBE growth; Structural, electrical and optical properties of III-nitrides; AlGaIn/GaN MODFETs. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 090

Device Physics

Description: Researches electronic and optoelectronic devices to gain a better understanding of the physical processes important to the functioning of the devices.

Topics: Flux Method of Charge Transport in Heterojunction Bipolar Transistors; Composite-Emitter InAlAs/InP/InGaAs/InP Double Heterojunction Bipolar Transistors; Development of High-performance InP Heterojunction Bipolar Transistors; InP-based Devices and Circuits; Passivation of InP-based HBTs; Development of New Device Characterization Capabilities; Microwave HTS Electronic Devices; Microwave Characterization of Optical Switches; HTSC Film Deposition by Laser Ablation; Silicon-Germanium Devices; Thin Film Process Control; Current Spreading in Optical Waveguide Switches. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 441

Epitaxy

Description: Researches the epitaxial growth and characterization of advanced semiconductors. Topics: Growth of GaAs/AlGaAs Layers for Quantum Well Infrared Detectors(QWIPs) and Related Devices; Growth of InAs Self-assembled Quantum Dots on GaAs Substrates; Plasma-Assisted MBE growth of InGaNAs on GaAs; UHV-CVD Growth of Si and SiGe for devices; MBE Growth of Si/SiGe Superlattices for Applications in Si-Based Photonics; CBE Growth of InP/InGaAsP Waveguide Structures; Growth of InP/InGaAs/InGaAsP Laser Structures for Quantum Well Intermixing Studies; CBE growth of InAs self assembled quantum dots on InP substrates; Ammonia-MBE Growth and Characterization of Gallium Nitride; Gallium Nitride Device Fabrication; Radiation-induced Defects in GaN Epilayers and Devices; Advanced characterization of epitaxial semiconductors. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 455

Microfabrication

Description: Fabricates electronic and optoelectronic devices from the semiconductor epitaxial materials grown. Topics: Circular-grating surface-emitting DBR lasers; Fabrication of WDM components at 1  $\mu\text{m}$ ; Design of a wavelength demultiplexer for 1.55  $\mu\text{m}$ ; InP optoelectronic and microelectronic devices; Nanofabrication; Inter sub-band detector arrays. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 460

Optoelectronics

Description: Focuses on understanding the science and technology of optoelectronic materials and structures with the goal of developing novel technologies and devices.

Topics: Guided optics and computer simulation; Novel Digital Optical Switch Based on InP; Planar Waveguide Etched Grating Demultiplexer; High Repetition Rate Diode-pumped Nd:YVO<sub>4</sub> Laser; Hybrid Oscillator Development; Diode-pumped Nd:LSB Grazing Incidence

Slab Laser (DPGSL); Passively Mode-locked Diode-pumped Laser; Cr4+:YAG Lasers; Si Photonics; Wavelength Translation; Near-field Scanning Optical Microscopy. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 462

Quantum Physics

Description: Involved in research into the electronic and optical properties of materials (primarily semiconductors). Topics: Transport through Nanoelectronic Devices; Lateral Single Electron Devices; Mesoscopic Transport through Nanoelectronic Devices; Transport through Self-organized Quantum Dots; Properties of Quantum Dots and Wires; Collective properties; Theory of Modulation-doped Quantum Dots Grown by Self-assembly; Quantum Coherence and Information Processing; Optical Studies of Quantum Dots; Optical Properties of Self-assembled Quantum Dots; Raman Measurements on InGaAs-based Quantum Dots; Theory of Excitonic Artificial Atoms; Transport Properties of SiGe Heterostructures; Timing Quantum Particles; Optical Characterization; Ion-induced Intermixing in Quantum Wells; Development of InP-based Devices; Ion-implantation-induced Intermixing of Buried Waveguides; InGaAsP/InP Band Structure Parameters; Light-emitting materials; Patterning of Porous Semiconductors; Light-emitting Organic Diodes; Optical Properties of GaN; Properties of Semiconductor Interfaces; Si/SiO<sub>2</sub> Superlattices; Properties of Si Films; Passivation and Surface Structure; CERION – The Canadian-European Research Initiative on Nanostructures. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 461

Surfaces and Interfaces

Description: Focuses expertise and capabilities on the investigation of surface and interfacial structures in strategic materials of interest to the information technology industries. Topics: HBT Device Processing and Packaging; Structure of Cl-passivated III-V Surfaces; STM Studies of S-passivated III-V Surfaces; Structure and Composition of Films Formed on AlGaAs; Oxides for Device Applications; Chemical and Electrical Characterization of the GaAs(110) and Silicon Nitride Interface Layer; Gate Dielectrics for Silicon. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 410

Thin Films

Description: Carries out research on optical thin films and provides various services to outside organizations. Its expertise is of increasing importance to Canadian industry as new applications for thin films and coatings continue to emerge. Topics: Telecommunication Filters; Optical Components for Displays; Long Wavelength Cut-off Filters; All-dielectric Non-polarizing Beamsplitters; Anticounterfeiting Technology; UV Thin Film Coatings; Facet Coatings for Optoelectronic Devices; Design Techniques for Homogeneous and Inhomogeneous Coatings. Program Record Number: NRC IMS 535

◆ Institute for National Measurement Standards (Ottawa)

Chemical Metrology

Description: This group is involved in the development of state-of-the-art methods and instrumentation for both organic and inorganic trace analysis, in the production of environmental certified reference materials (CRMs), and in various international activities related to the traceability of chemical analysis measurements. Facilities include an array of atomic spectroscopy instrumentation for inorganic trace analysis, mass spectrometry instrumentation for both organic and inorganic trace analysis, a variety of gas and liquid chromatography equipment for chemical separation, and "clean room" facilities for contamination-free sample preparation and manipulation. The CRMs produced in the laboratory are essential to both public and private sector laboratories routinely engaged in the analysis of environmental samples (e.g., water samples, sediments, biological tissues) as a means to ensure the accuracy of their results. The CRM production program provides the focus for many of the methods and instrument development research activities of the group. The group also offers analytical chemistry services on a contract of fee-for-service basis for selected industrial clients with needs which cannot be met by any private sector Canadian chemical analysis laboratory. A notable example is our glow discharge mass spectrometry (GDMS) facility for direct analysis of conducting and semi-conducting materials, in particular very high purity materials such as gallium and cadmium telluride, destined for use in fabrication of microelectronic devices. The group also seeks opportunities for collaborative research with manufacturers of instrumentation for chemical analysis, either through in-house development of prototype instruments or through "beta-site" testing of pre-commercial instruments. Program Record Number: NRC INM 535

Electrical Power Measurements

Description: This group is involved in the development of new state-of-the-art instrumentation and measurement techniques. These include revenue meters for electric utilities and calibration facilities for equipment such as instrument transformers, active/reactive power and energy meters under sinusoidal/nonsinusoidal waveform conditions, high voltage capacitors, high current resistors and shunts, and high voltage loss measuring systems transformers and inductive reactors. The group is also involved in the development of new diagnostic measurement techniques and instrumentation to assess the operating conditions of electric power apparatus in service and to predict their remaining life. An important element of this program is the development of new and improved measuring techniques and instrumentation to meet and anticipate the measurement requirements of the electrical power industry. Program Record Number: NRC INM 525

Electrical Standards

Description: Electrical standards of measurements play a basic role in maintaining compatibility, coherence and safety in all services connected to the field of electricity. In fact electricity touches essentially all sectors of the economy. The proper monitoring of electrical energy consumption at either the individual or the industrial level depends on the use of well calibrated reference standards. The fabrication of electrical instruments, their testing and the marketing of these instruments require internationally accepted electrical standards. These standards are developed and maintained by the Electrical Standards Group. The group is involved in the ac, dc and rf fields. It does basic research on primary standards of voltage and resistance using the Josephson and Quantum Hall effect and develops techniques and instruments connected with ac and rf measurements. The group also maintains a calibration service for high accuracy secondary standards and top of the line instruments. Program Record Number: NRC INM 530

Frequency and Time

Description: The demands of science have pushed the capability for accurate frequency and time determination to a very high level. Accuracy levels are available that might appear excessively high for everyday applications, yet they provide the basis of many modern systems such as navigation and communication, as well as the basis of measurements in diverse fields such as advanced physics, radio astronomy, geodesy, length metrology, voltage measurements, and electronics manufacturing and testing. The Frequency and Time Group designs, builds and maintains atomic clocks which serve as Canada's standards for frequency and time. The standard of length, the metre, is now also defined in terms of time. The Group therefore also maintains lasers whose wavelengths define the metre. Frequency calibration and laser wavelength calibration services are provided. Time is disseminated throughout Canada by various means, some of which include short-wave radio transmissions on NRC station CHU, digitally coded signals on telephone lines, the National Satellite (Parliament) Channel on cable television and by other direct satellite links. The Group conducts research to further extend the range and accuracy of frequency and wavelength standards to ensure internationally recognized, state-of-the-art standards for Canada. Program Record Number: NRC INM 545

Ionizing Radiation Standards

Description: Ionizing radiation plays a major role in modern medical practice, both for diagnostic purposes (e.g. CT scanners, x-rays) and for therapeutic purposes primarily in cancer therapy. The monitoring of radiation exposure is also very important in many industrial environments particularly in nuclear power production and uranium mining. In order to provide a degree of accuracy that ensures that radiation exposure levels are properly monitored and that therapy is done with maximum efficiency without endangering life, industrialized countries provide reference standards for the calibration of instruments or devices used in these various sectors. The national laboratories in charge of these standards make sure that they are accurate by comparison with those of other countries. This is done under the umbrella of the Bureau International des Poids et Mesures. This important activity which takes place on a continuous basis ensures uniformity of the national standards with the international measurement standards system. In Canada the standard in this field is provided by the Ionizing Radiation Standards Group of the NRC. The Group develops, maintains and promulgates Canada's primary measurement standards for ionizing radiation and provides calibration service as well as the link to the international measurement system. Program Record Number: NRC INM 555

Mechanical Metrology

Description: The Group is composed of three programs rooted in fundamental metrology. The Mass Standards Program is responsible for the maintenance and propagation of primary mass standards and derived standards of pressure and mass flow which are based on the kilogram mass unit. It establishes the mass scale for Canada which supports domestic and international trade in bulk commodities and ensures traceability of mass measurements to the international prototype of the kilogram. It realizes the SI unit of pressure, the pascal, and subdivides and multiplies it over sixteen decades in the interest of the avionics, power generation and transport industries. It is directly involved with industrial collaborators in the measurement of the flow of bulk commodities in the fluid states. The Dimensional Metrology Program establishes and operates measurement systems based upon the Canadian realization of the metre, the SI primary unit of length. It calibrates end standards, such as gauge blocks and line standards, as well as scales, engineering and surveying tapes and levelling rods for industrial use. It also calibrates angle standards, optical flats and parallels as well as roundness and diameter standards. General form, profile, roundness, and surface roughness are also determined in support of Canadian industry. The Acoustical Standards Program is responsible for the reciprocity calibration of condenser microphones and carries out ultrasound power calibration for medical applications. It offers a primary interferometric calibration service for accelerometers which is unique in Canada. This program plays a particularly important role in the area of normative standards directly related to the public good in Canada. Program Record Number: NRC INM 515

Photometry and Radiometry

Description: Radiometry (measurement of optical radiant energy) and photometry (measurement of optical [luminous] radiant energy as sensed by the human eye) are important to a large part of the public, manufacturing, and service sectors. Recent rapid expansion of electro-optical, photodetector, and optical fibre communications industries have produced a concurrent demand for more accurate and wider ranging radiometric measurements. It has been estimated that one-quarter of electricity consumption is for lighting; the enormous potential benefit of increased efficiency through improved photometric standards is obvious. Transportation (highway, air, marine) depends heavily upon visual signals and lighting where photometric energy and colour are of prime importance. Public health and safety require accurate measurement of such quantities as ultraviolet, laser, and phototherapeutic radiation levels. Other areas requiring photometric, radiometric, or colorimetric standards include paint, textile, and plastics industries; pulp and paper; television; agriculture; meteorology; environment; military and space agencies. To serve this wide and varied clientele, the Photometry and Radiometry section has developed and maintains the SI base unit of luminous intensity (candela) and basic standards for the measurement of light, colour, and optical radiation in the wavelength range from 200 nm to 50,000 nm. Program Record Number: NRC INM 540

Thermometry

Description: Temperature plays a most important role in everyday life as well as in the many specialized activities of industrialized countries. Processes such as those concerned with advanced materials preparation and growth, fabrication, analytical processes and diagnosis require either good temperature control or accurate temperature determination. Other important and diverse fields that require an excellent knowledge of temperature conditions include biology; biotechnology and clinical studies, analysis and diagnosis; aircraft industries; metallurgical industries; food industries, chemical industries; oceanography; pharmaceutical production. In order to ensure for these activities an accurate temperature scale, industrialized countries support a national laboratory which maintains accurate reference standards and provides a high accuracy calibration service based upon an International Temperature Scale. In Canada this role is fulfilled by the thermometry group of the NRC which does basic research in the field of thermometry, contributes to international activities in that field, and ensures through intercomparisons that its standards are compatible with those of other countries. Program Record Number: NRC INM 550

Optics

Description: Data, correspondence, memoranda, and working papers related to the research of the group. Topics: Optical components and systems, optical design, fabrication of components and systems, testing of optical components and systems. Program Record Number: NRC INM 025

◆ Institute for Research in Construction (Ottawa)

Administration

Description: Personnel data on all members of staff, financial reports, purchasing documents, travel authorizations, correspondence and documents on building up-keep. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 010

Building Envelope and Structure (BES)

Description: Information on the characterization and evaluation of the performance of materials such as concrete, sealants, polymers, asphalt, roofing materials and clay brick through the use of chemical, physical and mineralogical techniques. Information on the evaluation of the thermal characteristics and performance of materials, components and systems leading to standards, product development and proper design; the development of techniques for monitoring the movement of these products within the building envelope; and other aspects of the products. Information on the introduction of "limit states design" into Canadian structural codes and standards, and the development of improved serviceability criteria based on risk considerations, including the investigation into the variability of masonry strength. Topics: The performance of coatings; basic engineering properties of concrete; durability to frost-action in concrete and other porous materials; properties and performance of joint materials; characterization of building materials by their microstructure and composition; processes of degradation of building materials; performance of concrete as related to the chemical processes in cements; physical and mechanical properties of repair systems; performance of Canadian aggregate; performance of concrete in the presence of aggressive solutions; weathering factors and accelerated test methods for assessing durability of building materials; and the durability of structural clay products. Energy calculations; thermal and hygro properties of materials, hermetically sealed multiple glazing; thermal performance of walls and ceilings; thermal performance of windows; thermal insulation materials; properties and emissions. Case histories of structural failures and problems due to differential movement in buildings; structural safety and serviceability; wind effects on roofs and walls; failure of structures and progressive collapse; masonry research; wind tunnel studies of buildings; and others. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 200

Canadian Construction Materials Centre

Description: Information on the suitability for use of construction materials, systems or services. Topics: Technical information and advice to manufacturers and suppliers of construction materials, systems and services on how to obtain the evaluation of these products and services with respect to their suitability for use; technical information and advice to architects, specification writers, engineers and regulators on the suitability of use of construction materials, systems and services; information to the construction industry on laboratories which conduct testing of construction materials, systems and services; assistance to Canadian exporters of construction-related products and services on the evaluation requirements of these products and services by other countries; replies to inquiries and requests for interpretation of evaluation reports and listings; technical information and advice to Canadian Commission on Construction Materials Evaluation. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 657

Canadian Codes Centre

Description: Information on topics related to the development and content of the National Model Codes (National Building Code, National Fire Code, National Farm Building Code, National Plumbing Code, and Model National Energy Codes). Topics: The continuing review of the code documents to account for developments in building design and technology and in public safety and health issues; technical studies, information and advice for code technical committees considering code changes; information to code users on the scope, application and intents of the codes; liaison with industry and with provincial/territorial and municipal regulatory authorities on code-related topics. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 615

Director General's Office

Description: Documents on the operation of the individual programs and units, advisory bodies, research and development studies and seminar or workshop information. Topics: minutes of the Advisory Board and Federal Interdepartmental Construction Technology Forum and NRC's Construction Technology Forum; program and budget submissions; institute strategic and annual plans as well as individual program reports. Organizational structure and register to NRC/IRC policies and procedures. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 590

Fire Research – Research in Fire Risk Management

Description: Information on the development and revision of standard methods of fire tests and research activities, which include fire performance on structural components, flammability of materials, products of combustion, growth of fire, human behaviour in emergencies, and the influence of fire risks on the overall design of buildings. Topics: Behaviour of building components in fire; evaluation of fire behaviour of components and materials; flammability studies; fire performance information; production and movement of smoke in fire; fire protection features of buildings; fire suppression techniques; advanced suppression technologies; development of fire; combustion of organic materials; human performance in fire and other emergencies; fire resistance safety factors; restraint and fire severity; and commercial test reports. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 625

Indoor Environment

Description: Information on physical and psychological aspects of indoor environment, including indoor air quality, ventilation, Acoustics, and lighting and daylighting, leading to best practice, standards, and building regulations; cost-effective and energy-efficient effective technologies that maximize the health and well-being of occupants; information on building materials properties and envelopes, affecting indoor environment, including sound propagation, materials' emission of contaminants, thermal comfort, glazing, visible light-transmittance; information of building systems on air movement, noise, lighting, ventilation, and energy efficiency; human factors and occupants' performance. Information includes numerical modeling, field studies and lab measurements. Topics include: Acoustics: Prediction of room acoustics criteria, such as speech intelligibility, sound propagation, and sound pressure levels; prediction of occupant's comfort; development of impact tests for floors; acoustical test methods; development of noise criteria; insulation of buildings from external noise; determination of dynamic response characteristics of structures; measurement of sound power of noise sources; reverberation room acoustics; vibration problems in buildings; evaluation test reports. Indoor Air Quality and Ventilation: Prediction and measurement standards methods of materials' emissions, air movement; efficiency of air cleaning methods; measurement methods and prediction of air leakage; indoor air quality; computational fluid dynamic modeling of Indoor air quality; impact of heating systems on house ventilation; thermal comfort and temperature distribution; subjective aspects of Indoor air quality and ventilation; evaluation test reports. Lighting: Energy performance of advanced lighting control systems; development of lighting quality indicators; impact of lighting fixtures and systems on occupants' mood and satisfaction; daylighting prediction methods and measurement protocols; development of integrated an energy-efficient office workstations. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 400

Outreach Services

Description: Information on the activities of the Library and internet services, the Publications Service, Seminar Service, Marketing & Client Services. Topics: Reference service; loans; information retrieval; periodical subscriptions; acquisitions; translation requests; requests for information; preparation of publications and reports. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 060

System Support Unit

Description: Information on the Institute's calibration and standards facility, the instrument pool for loans, the maintenance and repair shop and the co-ordination and advisory services provided to the Institute. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 635

Urban Infrastructure Rehabilitation

Description: Information on cold climate effects, performance, deterioration and rehabilitation of urban infrastructure, specifically buried water and sewer lines, urban roads/sidewalks and concrete bridges. Numerical modelling, laboratory testing and full scale field studies. Topics: Material and structure performance and deterioration, condition assessment including non-destructive evaluation, risk/decision models, maintenance management, asset management, performance-based guidelines for design and rehabilitation, frost action, permafrost, thermal conductivity of soils, steel corrosion/mitigation, early age cracking of concrete, bitumen chemistry and crack sealing of pavements, utility cuts in pavements and cold in-place recycling of pavements, thermal performance of manholes, trenchless technologies/sliplining. Program Record Number: NRC IRC 500

♦ Integrated Manufacturing Technologies Institute (London)

Research Thrusts of the Institute

Description: To accomplish this mission, IMTI's activities are concentrated in two areas, each with three research groups: (1) Design – to provide manufacturers the tools they need to work in a collaborative business environment: sharing and exchanging design and manufacturing data and information in real time with others (customers, suppliers and others) anywhere in the world. The three research groups are: Concurrent Engineering, Distributed Manufacturing, Modelling and Visualisation. (2) Production – to provide manufacturers with novel production processes to fabricate the products that their clients want: eg. taking full advantage of material properties; making shapes that are difficult or impossible to make with conventional processes. The three research groups are: Material Addition Processes, Precision Fabrication Processes, Shape Transfer Processes. The integration of these two areas to create new machines or systems that users can buy is crucial. The Institute cannot do this alone. To this end, IMTI seeks the collaboration of users and system integrators (machine suppliers, equipment builders) to participate in the R&D and the transfer of technology. Program Record Number: NRC IMT 000

♦ Plant Biotechnology Institute (Saskatoon, Saskatchewan)

Description: The Institute's primary focus is to improve Canadian crops, specifically Brassicas, cereals and grain legumes, given their importance to the Canadian economy. The Institute is also developing enabling technologies to enhance our ability to improve these crops. Through close collaborative efforts with public sector organizations and industry, PBI has contributed to the emergence of Saskatoon as one of the foremost agricultural biotechnology centres in North America with the critical mass for community-based innovation. Program Record Number: NRC PBI 000

Chemical Biology Program

Description: The Chemical Biology program aims to develop a molecular level understanding of selected biological processes and to exploit this knowledge in collaboration with the NRC Biotechnology Group and the Canadian biotechnology sector. Chemical sciences are applied at the interfaces between chemistry, biology and medicine. Our research programs rely on core expertise in two areas. The first is the ability to design and synthesize compounds having the essential structural and functional elements of natural biomolecules, with particular emphasis on the development of combinatorial methodologies. The second is the ability to monitor and measure the functions and behavior of biomolecules and their mimics, with the long term goal of developing a quantitative molecular level understanding of biological processes. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 007

Femtosecond Science Program

Description: With femtosecond pulses, we have access to very strong fields and very short times. Time scales that match the time for nuclear motion in molecules and solids; fields that rival the fields that hold matter together. These pulses can severely modify and control any quantum system. The technology of control is much more powerful than it might seem at first glance. We know and control the amplitude and phase of a broad spectrum so that we can synthesize any pulse shape as long as it falls within the spectrum of the initial femtosecond pulse. Soon we will control the full time-dependent field of a light pulse. Control and measurement go hand in hand. Femtosecond pulses are short enough to measure anything involving nuclear motion providing we can find a good method for measurement. No other technology can rival femtosecond pulses in their ability to measure fast phenomena. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 008

Functional Materials Program

Description: Much of the improvement in the quality of life depends on the continuing development of materials with novel properties and improved processes for their production. Today, many research strategies are concerned with the development of materials and processes that will have positive effects on the environment and human health. The FM program explores new strategies in these areas with partner Institutes at NRC, and external partners in academia and industry. This includes the development of supramolecular strategies for materials design, synthesis and characterization, and also requires considerable effort to be directed at technique development for characterizing materials at the molecular level, including single crystal and powder X-ray diffraction, solid-state NMR and microimaging, and vibrational spectroscopy. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 011

Molecular Interfaces Program

Description: This program provides a platform of expertise that will catalyze scientific developments among physics, chemistry and biology by developing the tools and methodologies for creating and characterizing molecular structures on surfaces. Controlling and manipulating surfaces on the atomic or molecular scale is the key to the ultimate miniaturization of electronic devices and to the development of new devices that incorporate both solid-state semiconductor structures and molecular materials based on organic or biological components. The long term impact will be in the development of new molecular electronic devices and of highly miniaturized chemical and biochemical sensors. We focus on the organic modification and characterization of semiconductor surfaces such as silicon and germanium using state-of-the-art scanning probe microscopies (both UHV and in situ electrochemical scanning tunneling microscopy and atomic force microscopy) to image and manipulate atoms and molecules on these surfaces. Solution and gas phase organic chemical reactions are developed to fine tune the interfacial properties of semiconductors. These properties are further characterized using a variety of linear and nonlinear optical probes such as ellipsometry and second harmonic generation. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 010

Molecular Spectroscopy Program

Description: We study the structure, energetics, reactivity and internal dynamics of isolated gas phase molecules and clusters by means of high-resolution spectroscopy at wavelengths ranging from the ultraviolet to microwave regions and carry out kinetic measurements using spectroscopic probes. In addition to structure, energetics and dynamics, molecular spectroscopy provides the key to identifying molecules in remote sources and hostile environments by means of their spectral "fingerprints". It also gives detailed information on intermolecular forces. Our work is targeted at molecules of chemical, biological and astrophysical interest. There is special emphasis on metal-metal and metal-ligand interactions and on weak intermolecular interactions. Our objective is to develop and study model systems in order to provide a pertinent and reliable data base for the understanding of important phenomena such as molecular recognition, hydration, the role of metals in biology, reactions at metal centers, and aggregation and condensation. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 005

Neutron Program for Materials Research

Description: Located at Chalk River, the Neutron Program for Materials Research (NPMR) operates Canada's only national neutron beam laboratory. The program provides 3 primary functions. (1) Ensure that Canadian and international researchers from universities, industries, NRC and other government laboratories can exploit neutron beam methods effectively at our collaborative user-facility. The knowledge generated by neutron beam experiments complements and amplifies our understanding in a wide range of scientific disciplines, including condensed-matter physics, chemistry, biology, materials science and engineering. The seven research officers of the NPMR interact with about 200 collaborators each year. (2) Develop and promote the application of neutron beam methods to support industrial R&D and stimulate a culture of innovation in Canadian companies. The Applied Neutron Detection for Industry (ANDI) program helps to enhance the performance and reliability of many engineering components, often addressing issues of public safety or industry competitiveness. (3) Maintain a forefront capability in the science of neutron scattering through continuous innovation and development, to attract talented researchers to Canada, and provide unique resources on which young scientists can build careers in advanced materials research. Students broaden their education through involvement with the NPMR's multi-disciplinary laboratory and interaction with the network of international experts whose research incorporates neutron beam experiments at Chalk River. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 009

Organometallic and Cluster Chemistry Program

Description: Our current research is focussed on three areas of intense activity in contemporary organocluster chemistry: acetylide and polycarbon ligand chemistry relating to the construction of nano-scale electronic devices; metal cluster chemistry of binary oxides of phosphorus (PO, P<sub>2</sub>O, PO<sub>2</sub>) and of hydroxyphosphinidene cluster acids; single source organometallic precursors for chemical vapour deposition of metals (Cu) and bimetallics (Ru/Pt). We design rational synthetic routes to new and interesting molecules; establish their structures, chemical and physical behaviour; and assess their potential in catalysis, for accomplishing novel organic transformation and as new molecular materials. The techniques we use include: Schlenk and glove-box inert atmosphere methods of synthesis; chromatographic separations; multinuclear (<sup>1</sup>H, <sup>13</sup>C{<sup>1</sup>H}, <sup>31</sup>P{<sup>1</sup>H}) solution and CP MAS solid state NMR and FTIR spectroscopies, full single crystal X-ray structure analysis and cyclic voltammetry. This is supplemented by EHMO and ab-initio calculations with the SIMS Theory Group. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 006

Theory and Computation

Description: The Theory and Computation Program uses analytical and computational methods to investigate the structure and dynamics of molecules and extended systems. New theoretical techniques are developed and applied to complement the research activities of the experimental Programs at the Institute and to engage the Technology Groups of NRC in identifying promising new strategic areas. A significant portion of the research effort of the Program is devoted to collaboration with experimentalists and in planning and supervising experimental projects. The Program has a dual mandate: (1) to perform fundamental and transformational science within the core expertise in order to advance the frontiers of knowledge in selected research areas, and (2) to assist and guide experimental efforts inside and outside SIMS. To satisfy this mandate, the Program requires a broad knowledge base. Furthermore, Program members need to be flexible and eager to engage in a wide spectrum of theoretical problems. Based on this premise, the research is focused onto five core projects: (1) Theoretical Spectroscopy, (2) Chemical Dynamics, (3) Materials, and (4) Quantum Chemistry of Macromolecular Systems, (5) Combining Density Functional Theory and other Tools to Model Complex Systems. Strong collaboration is maintained among the projects. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 004

Administration

Description: Documents on the operation of the different individual programs such as project planning and reports, program forecasts, research and development on industrial materials, travel and seminar information, replies to technical inquiries, and records on technical support – i.e., supplies and equipment, safety committee. Topics: Administration; liaison (with associations, industries, foreign countries, universities, federal departments, and provinces); Government Industrial Assistance Programs; finance; budget; operations-general; projects and project evaluations; tests; and technology. Program Record Number: NRC SIM 014

General-Use Series

Description: Information on the organization of international conferences – memberships, fees, minutes, annual reports regarding associations and societies; co-operation and liaison activities with universities, institutes, provincial and federal departments and agencies; commercial agreements with provincial research councils and federal government departments; interdepartmental committee correspondence and minutes; research agreements; correspondence, policy and guidelines on the Canadian Human Rights Act, status of women and access to information and privacy. Topics: Associations, clubs and societies; universities; institutes of technology; international conferences; commercial agreements; provincial governments; federal government departments; interdepartmental committees; Canadian Standards Association; publications; status of women; Canadian Human Rights Act; Access to Information Act and Privacy Act, Employment Equity, Advisory Board on Scientific and Technological Information; Scientific and Technological Information Services; research agreements. Program Record Number: NRC GEN 750

Personal Information Banks

Accounts Receivable

Description: These files record debit and credit entries in connection with National Research Council accounts receivable. Files include information on financial transactions and outstanding balances. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public who have purchased goods and services offered by the National Research Council. Purpose: In addition to recording payment, records are used to follow up on overdue accounts. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six fiscal years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000937 Bank Number: NRC PPU 045

Contracts between NRC and Individuals

Description: This bank contains the initial proposal and submission, evaluations and correspondence, details of contract, financial transactions and interim or final reports. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public who submit proposals for work to be performed for the National Research Council. Purpose: To evaluate proposals, to process contracts, and to provide information for the verification of invoices, payments and scientific monitoring, and to administer contracts. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six fiscal years after termination of the contract or two years after rejection of the proposal and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000939 Bank Number: NRC PPU 055

Deposit Accounts

Description: These files contain a record of credit balances of individuals in account with the National Research Council for the purchase of goods and services. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public who have established a deposit account for the purchase of scientific and technical information. Purpose: Files are maintained for the purpose of recording debit and credit entries against deposit accounts established by private individuals. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six fiscal years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000938 Bank Number: NRC PPU 050

Employment Applications

Description: This bank contains information on candidates available for employment at the National Research Council when vacancies arise. Records contain letters, completed application forms, applicant resumes, comments of interviewer, and letters of reference. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public who apply for employment at the National Research Council. Purpose: To select candidates for vacancies at the National Research Council. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000940 Bank Number: NRC PPU 060

Industrial Research Assistance Program

Description: The records in this bank are used to support proposals for financial assistance to cover the costs of salaries for company research staff engaged in approved projects. Participating companies provide the research facilities and other expenses involved in the project and retain all titles or have rights to access to the results of the jointly-funded research. Class of Individuals: Directly-related employees of companies that submit proposals for financial assistance through this program. Purpose: To determine the amount of financial contribution to the company if the proposal is accepted. Retention and Disposal Standards: Accepted proposals are retained for 20 years. Unaccepted proposals are retained for 5 years. TBS Registration: 001683 Bank Number: NRC PPU 026

Information Dissemination

Description: Information in this bank is provided by the purchaser of publications, subscriptions, information or computerized services. Class of Individuals: Scientific community, contractors, architects, engineers and technicians. Purpose: To provide individuals with information on prepaid subscriptions, publications, or computerized services, and to assess and collect charges. Consistent Uses: This information is used to record financial transactions and update computerized mailing lists. Retention and Disposal Standards:

Records are retained for a period of two years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000944 Bank Number: NRC PPU 080

International Exchanges and Visits

Description: This bank contains applications from individuals who wish to visit France under the NRC/CNRS Scientific Co-operation Program or the France/Canada Exchange Agreement, recommendations, decisions of the selection committee, and related correspondence. Class of Individuals: Members of the scientific community. Purpose: To select individuals for these two programs and to implement administrative procedures connected with the exchange or visit. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the termination of exchange or visit, or two years after the date on which the application was rejected; and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000934 Bank Number: NRC PPU 030

Inventions: Submissions by Private Individuals

Description: This bank contains information on inventions submitted by individuals for assessment and scientific comments and patent protection advice provided by the National Research Council. Information includes the original submission, evaluation by scientific personnel where expertise was available, and the reply to the enquirer. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public who request advice about their inventions. Purpose: To carry out an assessment and provide scientific comment and advice on inventions submitted by the general public. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for a period of two years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000932 Bank Number: NRC PPU 010

Manuscripts for Publication

Description: These records contain manuscripts, forms and publishing department correspondence related to the printing of Council research journals. Full name, address, title of paper, name of journal to which the paper was submitted and date of submission are required for access. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have submitted manuscripts. Purpose: To record information relating to the publication of papers in research journals. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000936 Bank Number: NRC PPU 040

National Research Council and Committee Membership

Description: This bank contains background information, including the educational background, affiliation, publication list, and professional experience of individuals nominated for service on Council and its associated committees. Class of Individuals: Past and current members of Council and members of committees of Council. Purpose: To assist in the selection and appointment of members of the National Research Council and its committees. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records of persons who are or have been members of the Council and/or its committees are retained for 30 years and then transferred to the Archives Branch of the National Archives of Canada. TBS Registration: 000931 Bank Number: NRC PPU 005

Personal Letters of Recommendation by National Research Council Personnel Relating to Non-Staff Members

Description: This bank contains requests for recommendations and copies of letters of recommendation made by staff members for non-staff individuals. Class of Individuals: Members of the scientific and academic communities who ask for letters of recommendation. Purpose: To provide letters of recommendation to members of the scientific and academic communities. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for two years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000933 Bank Number: NRC PPU 015

Requests to Access Personal Information

Description: This bank contains requests for access to personal information contained in personal information banks administered by the National Research Council. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have applied for access to personal information banks administered by the National Research Council. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to verify the identity of individual applicants and to process requests. Consistent Uses: To prepare statistics for annual reports required under the Privacy Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for a period of two years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000943 Bank Number: NRC PPU 075

Research Associateship Program: Applicant Inventory

Description: Records contain application forms, curricula vitae, academic records, publications, letters of recommendation, personal characteristics and employment history. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have made application to the National Research Council for research associateships. Purpose: To select recipients of NRC research associateships. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000941 Bank Number: NRC PPU 065

Secondments and Exchanges Between the National Research Council and Outside Organizations

Description: This bank contains requests for secondment or exchange of personnel and memoranda leading to the approval or rejection of requests. Class of Individuals: Persons other than NRC employees who have been involved in exchanges or loans. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of exchanges and loans of personnel. Information is used to make decisions on these exchanges and loans. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for three years after the agreement ceases or after rejection of the proposal and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000942 Bank Number: NRC PPU 070

Youth Initiative

Description: This bank contains information about post-secondary students, their name, age category, year of graduation, field of study, address, telephone number, level of study, and designated category under the employment Equity Act. Class of Individuals: General public Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to list selected participants in the Science Collaborative Research Internship Program and the Science Technology Internship Program with small and medium-size enterprises. Consistent Uses: Monitoring, follow-up and reporting to Human Resource Development Canada Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained by NRC for the duration of the program plus three years, after which the records are destroyed. TBS Registration: 004039 Bank Number: NRC PPU 085

Classes of Personal Information

The personal information contained in this class is distributed across a wide range of subject files. It is not used for administrative purposes, and is normally neither arranged nor retrieved by personal identifiers. The most common types of personal information contained in this class are name, address, and, in some cases, affiliation, educational background and experience. The information was collected through general enquiries, complaints, requests for assistance, and personal views and opinions directed by the public to the scientific laboratories; to the Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information; to the Industrial Research Assistance Program regarding its assistance programs; and to the Council's supporting administrative branches such as Personnel and Administrative Services, Contract Services, Public Relations and Information Services, and External Relations. Individuals wishing to access information relating to themselves should provide specific details regarding:

- the institute, branch, or individual to whom the correspondence was addressed;
- the approximate date of the correspondence;
- the subject matter;
- the name of the program (if applicable); and
- the file reference number, if available.

The retention periods for this class of personal information vary and are provided in the records schedules of the general subject files in which the information is stored.

National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy

Chapter 94

General Information

Background

The National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy (NRTEE) was created in 1988 in response to the Report of the World Commission on Environment and Development (Brundtland Commission) and the recommendations of the National Task Force on the Environment and the Economy. In 1993, the National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy Act received Royal assent. The Act mandated the NRTEE to serve as a catalyst in identifying, explaining and promoting the principles and practices of sustainable development. This Act establishes the organization as a departmental corporation, reporting directly to the Prime Minister.

The National Round Table is a departmental corporation committed to providing decision makers and opinion leaders with reliable information and objective views on the current state of the debate on the environment and the economy. Specifically, the agency identifies issues that have both environmental and economic implications, explores these implications, and attempts to identify actions that will balance economic prosperity with environmental preservation.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy, as stated in Section 4 of the National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy Act, is to play the role of catalyst in identifying, explaining and promoting, in all sectors of Canadian society and in all regions of Canada, principles and practices of sustainable development.

Legislation

- National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy Act

Organization

The National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy is a departmental corporation consisting of a chairperson and not more than twenty-four (24) other members appointed by Governor-in-Council for renewable terms of up to three (3) years. NRTEE's members are distinguished Canadians that represent a broad range of regions and sectors – including business, labour, academia, environmental organizations and First Nations.

An Executive Director, also appointed by Governor-in-Council, serves as the Chief Executive Officer. The Executive Director supervises and directs the work and staff of the Round Table. The Secretariat in Ottawa, provides analytical, communications and administrative support to Round Table members.

Activities are organized into a series of programs, each of which is overseen by a task force made up of one or more NRTEE members and a number of volunteers from business, government and non-profit organizations. The responsible task force commissions research, conducts national consultations, reports on areas of consensus and disagreements, and puts forward, for adoption by the full membership, reasoned recommendations for steps to be taken that will promote sustainability.

Consultant Information

Description: This data file contains the names, addresses and profiles of all consultants who have submitted company profiles to the NRTEE. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have submitted, solicited or unsolicited profiles to NRTEE for contract work. Purpose: To maintain a record of consultants that have an expertise in, and are interested in doing contract work with NRTEE. Consistent Uses: The records are used to review profiles for possible contract work. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for at least two years following the last administrative action on those records. TBS Registration: 003983 Bank Number: NRTEE PPU 001

Information Management and Processing Action System (IMPACT)

Description: This is a database of individuals' information in the form of name, affiliation, and business or home mailing address. Information on individuals who have expressed an interest in the NRTEE's corporate information, publications, or programs is maintained in this database. Class of Individuals: Individuals and groups that have an interest in sustainable development issues and NRTEE activities, including academia, government, business, media, non-governmental and environmental organizations, and libraries. Purpose: To maintain standard lists for the mailing of NRTEE publications, specifically the NRT Review. The database also contains contact information on individuals who have expertise in areas related to the programs and activities of the NRTEE, to be used mainly for the construction of multistakeholder discussions. Consistent Uses: The information contained in the records is used to communicate with individuals interested in issues addressed by the NRTEE. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained permanently. TBS Registration: 003984 Bank Number: NRTEE PPU 002

Natural Resources Canada

Chapter 95

General Information

Background

Previously known as the Department of Energy, Mines & Resources and Forestry Canada, the Department of Natural Resources was created by the Department of Natural Resources Act on January 12th, 1995. Some branches of the Department have been in existence for more than a century.

On August 16th, 1995, the Department of Natural Resources was re-organized into four science-based sectors and one Corporate Services Sector. The mandate of the Department focuses on science and policy for the sustainable development and use of Canada's natural resources (including climate change).

Responsibilities

Natural Resources Canada's objective focuses on the interests of Canada's natural resources industries such as: developing Canada's mineral, energy (including climate change) and forestry potential consistent with broader environmental and social objectives; promoting sustainable development of forests and coordination of national forest policy in close cooperation with the provinces and territories; conducting research, developing an appropriate regulatory framework and managing incentive programs; and, monitoring international developments and the domestic energy environment to ensure secure energy sources for Canadians.

Organization

The Department of Natural Resources Canada is organized into five sectors and three branches: Canadian Forest Services Sector; Energy Sector; Earth Sciences Sector; Minerals and Metals Sector; and the Corporate Sector; Strategic Planning and Coordination Branch; Communications Branch; and the Audit and Evaluation Branch. There is also a Crown Corporation and several boards, commissions, committees and councils which report to Parliament through the Minister of Natural Resources Canada.

♦ Audit and Evaluation Branch

The Audit & Evaluation Branch is responsible for providing senior management with independent professional advice and assurances on the performance of the management framework, performance information, departmental programs, policies, operations and the management of risks.

♦ Canadian Forest Service (CFS) Sector

The mission of the Canadian Forest Service (CFS) is: "To promote the sustainable development of Canada's forests and competitiveness of the Canadian forest sector for the well-being of present and future generations of Canadians." In an effort to increase understanding of the complexity of forest ecosystems, the CFS evaluates approaches to forest management, monitors forest health conditions and conducts research on issues of national and international significance such as biodiversity, the impact of atmospheric change on forests and change. Equipped with the scientific and technical expertise, the CFS plays a strong policy role in addressing national and international issues affecting the sustainable development of Canada's forests. To this end, the CFS brings together various stakeholders to develop common strategies and arrive at national consensus on forestry issues. The CFS also establishes links with other federal departments, provinces, industry and non-governmental organizations to better address issues such as international trade, market access and sustainable management of forests world-wide. It delivers its many services through a network of five national forest research centres and its Headquarters in the National Capital Region.

♦ Climate Change Secretariat

The Climate Change Secretariat was established by the Prime Minister in February 1998. It reports directly to a Federal Deputy Ministers Steering Committee on Climate Change through the Deputy Ministers of Environment Canada and Natural Resources Canada. The Secretariat is responsible for coordinating the development of a national implementation strategy on climate change for consideration of federal, provincial and territorial Ministers of Energy and Environment (JMM). It is tasked with: ensuring the coordination and integration of the federal government's policy, programming and communications activities on climate change; establishing and managing, with the provinces and territories, a national implementation strategy; and, the overall management of the $150 million Climate Action Fund (CCAF). The Secretariat works closely with federal government departments/agencies and does not duplicate or replace the climate change related policy, programs and communications responsibilities of these organizations.

♦ Communications Branch

The Branch is responsible for providing a full range of communications services to the Minister, Deputy Minister and senior management. It also provides advice and helps different Sectors in the Department to plan and implement strategies for keeping the public informed. It also analyses public and media reaction to departmental initiatives.

♦ Corporate Services Sector

This Sector is responsible for providing financial, administrative, informatics, information management and support services to departmental operations so as to ensure accountability and control. Other responsibilities include: the development, implementation and provision of a full range of personnel policies, programs and services; providing information on environmental and socio-economic issues and analysis and advice at the strategic level on environmentally related concerns.

♦ Earth Sciences Sector

The Earth Sciences Sector, part of Natural Resources Canada, comprises Geomatics Canada, the Geological Survey of Canada and the Polar Continental Shelf Project (PCSP).

Geological Survey of Canada

The Geological Survey of Canada (GSC), part of the Earth Science Sector and fulfills a requirement of the Resources and Technical Surveys Act of 1949 and 1994 that the Minister "make a full and scientific examination of the geological structure and mineralogy of Canada". GSC is responsible to provide Canada with a comprehensive geoscience knowledge base contributing to economic development, public safety and environmental protection by acquiring, interpreting and disseminating geoscience information concerning Canada's landmass, including offshore. Aspects include mapping the regional geologic and tectonic framework of Canada's landmass and offshore; developing an understanding of the nature, quantity, distribution and formation of Canada's mineral and energy resources; developing an understanding of the contemporary geological processes affecting Canadian society; maintaining a National Geoscience Data-base (including appropriate archives and reference collections), and ensuring that all information is available as maps, reports or computerized databases in a timely fashion. These programmes are national in scope and carried out in every province and territory and in the offshore 200 mile Economic Zone, from each of the GSC's sites. Projects range from basic scientific research to the development of new methodologies and technologies for transfer to the private sector.

Geomatics Canada

Geomatics Canada is a division of the Earth Sciences Sector of Natural Resources Canada. It is part of what makes Canada one of the world's "smartest" natural resources developers. Geomatics Canada is responsible for matters relating to surveying, mapping, remotely sensed data and geographically referenced information describing the Canadian landmass. This information is used in formulating public policy and in supporting internationally competitive Canadian geospatial enterprises. Primary activities include the acquisition and dissemination of topographical and geographical information and remotely sensed data, the development and transfer of associated technologies, and participation in related national and international partnerships. Recently the Canadian Geospatial Data Infrastructure (CGDI) internet site was launched, giving a web-based access point for the latest Canadian environmental, geographic and scientific information of all kinds. This project was developed in cooperation with other agencies of the Government of Canada, provincial governments, industry and Canadian universities.

♦ Energy Sector

In partnership with all levels of government, universities, research institutes, the private sector and international organizations, the Energy Sector works to enhance the economic and environmental well-being of Canada by fostering the sustainable development and use of the nation's energy resources to meet the present and future needs of Canadians. Its mission is "A better Energy Future for Canada". The sector focuses on science and technology (S&T), policies, programs, knowledge and international activities in the areas of energy efficiency, renewables and alternatives, and energy resources to further sustainable development.

♦ Minerals and Metals Sector (MMS)

The Mineral and Metals Sector is the federal government's primary source of scientific and technological knowledge, and policy advice, on Canada's mineral and metal resources and on explosives regulation and technology.

In addition to housing three of Canada's premier scientific research institutions, MMS has the government lead in promoting the sustainable development and responsible use of Canada's mineral and metal resources. The sector is a leader in the generation and dissemination of knowledge on the Canadian minerals and metals industry, and collaborates with and provides research services to governmental, institutional and industrial clients for the development of new technology with economic, environmental and social benefits to Canadians.

♦ Strategic Planning and Coordination Branch SPCB

Information relating to the Strategic Planning and Coordination Branch which supports the Deputy Minister and the Departmental Management Committee (DMC) by working within NRCan and with other partners to develop NRCan responses to government-wide policy priorities and policy research initiatives, and to position NRCan work strategically within the interdepartmental community. It develops and coordinates policies on environment and sustainable development and manages the Department's sustainable development strategy. Through the Deputy Minister, the Branch provides advice and issue management support services to the Minister and the Department. Cabinet Affairs and Parliamentary Affairs units are the key areas of responsibility for these services. The Branch coordinates ministerial and deputy ministerial correspondence through the Executive Documents Unit. The Branch leads the development of strategic departmental policies and management approaches to S&T (e.g. revenue generation, performance measurement). It coordinates the Department's S&T Management Framework and our response to the federal S&T strategy. The Branch also leads the Department's strategic and business planning cycle activities. The Branch provides leadership and coordination across the Department on the development and implementation of NRCan's Excellence Program.

Information Holdings

Program Records

♦ Audit and Evaluation Branch

Audit and Evaluation

Description: Information relating to risk assessments and audits on the performance of the management framework, and on the effectiveness of systems and controls related to: 1) the cost-effectiveness of program delivery activities and internal operations, including the economic and efficient use of resources; 2) the reliability and integrity of information for decision-making and accountability reporting; 3) prudence and probity in the use of public funds and the safeguarding of assets; and 4) compliance with statutes and policies. Includes assessments, surveys and evaluation studies to assess the continued relevance, cost-effectiveness, impacts and success of departmental programs, policies and organizations by assessing their performance and identifying opportunities and innovative ways of achieving goals in alternative ways. Topics: Risk assessments, comprehensive audits, compliance reviews, special reviews, financial attest audits, follow-up audits, and assurance engagements; development of performance indicators, evaluation and accountability frameworks, evaluation assessments, evaluation studies, impact analyses and special studies, client and stakeholder surveys; internal audit and program evaluation methodologies; Auditor General and Commissioner of the Environment and Sustainable Development Reports; Treasury Board Secretariat and Comptroller General for Canada. Program Record Number: NRCan AEB 640

♦ Canadian Forest Service (CFS) Sector

CFS Forestry Centres / S&T Networks

Description: The CFS delivers much of its research and communicates the result through a system of 10 networks, involving five national research centres and within two key theme areas: understanding forest ecosystems and advancing sustainable development. This network system allows the CFS to address national and international issues while delivering programs through regionally-based research centres. The networks are suited to create partnerships and alliances between the CFS and outside agencies, to undertake specific projects and to identify and address strategic national issues. The Research Centres are located in: Victoria, British Columbia; Edmonton Alberta; Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario; Sainte-Foy, Québec; and Fredericton, New Brunswick. Each Centre is also interconnected to other parts of the forest sector such as universities, private research facilities, international institutes, and non-governmental organizations. Topics: Each of the five centres has been designated as the "lead centre" for scientific leadership in the following 10 key priority areas within the CFS S&T program: Victoria – Effects of Forest Practices, and Landscape Management. Edmonton – Fire Management, Climate Change, and Socio-economic Research. Sault Ste. Marie – Pest Management Methods and Forest Ecosystem Processes. Sainte-Foy – Forest Ecosystem Processes, Tree Biotechnology and Advanced Genetics. Fredericton – Forest Biodiversity and Forest Health. Program Record Number: NRCan CFS 004

Industry, Economics and Programs Branch (IEPB)

Description: Working with other federal departments and forest sector stakeholders, this Branch helps the CFS address key issues on trade, resource supply; industrial policy and market access, and facilitates the continuing sustainable development of the forest industry. The Industry, Economics and Programs Branch is responsible for industrial liaison and relations and programs related to the forest industry and trade. This Branch provides direction to the CFS's five forestry centres and the other two Branches on matters regarding industry, trade and economics. The IEPB also gives forest economic and statistical advice and services, including support to projects such as the development of Criteria and Indicators (C&I), the State of Canada's Forests Report, the National Forestry Database Program (NFDPP) and other federal forestry mandated programs. Topics: Canada's Model Forest Program, liaison with the Tree Canada Foundation; First Nation Forestry Program, support to territorial and federal lands programs and other federal forestry mandated programs. Program Record Number: NRCan CFS 002

Policy, Planning and International Affairs Branch (PPIAB)

Description: The Policy, Planning and International Affairs Branch is responsible for forest policy development and coordination, operational and strategic planning international affairs, as well as federal-provincial, ENGO, Aboriginal and private woodlot owner relations. The PPIAB gives direction and assistance to the CFS's five forestry centres and the other two Branches on the development and implementation of policy for all forestry activities in science, environmental and international affairs. This Branch serves as liaison with the Strategic Planning and Coordination Branch, other Sectors of Natural Resources Canada and federal departments. Working closely with Foreign Affairs and International Trade Canada, the provincial and territorial governments and other forestry stakeholders, this branch helps the CFS continue its leadership role in international forestry initiatives. The PPIAB is responsible for the management of federal-provincial relations in the Canadian forest sector including initiatives involving the Canadian Council of Forest Ministers (CCFM). The PPIAB also fosters regional development and relations with Environmental Non-Governmental Organizations (ENGOS), aboriginal organizations, and private woodlot owner organizations.

Topics: Policy, planning and international affairs; Sustainable Development Strategy; CCFM Activities; CCFM Partnership Programs; State of the Forest Report; National Forest Strategy Coalition; C&I (lead) – National and International; Secretariat to the Montreal Process; Environmental Affairs; Aboriginal Affairs; Regional Development; Private Woodlots; Expenditures Management Process; Strategic Planning; Operational Planning; World Conservation Union (IUCN); United Nations Forum on Forests; UNSCD (United Nations Commission on Sustainable Development) International Forestry; Convention on the International Trade of Endangered Species (CITES); Convention on Biological Diversity; Bilateral Agreements – Coordination; Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) Relations; Support to North American Forestry Commission; International Tropical Timber and Trade Organization. Program Record Number: NRCan CFS 001

Science Branch

Description: With the help of this Branch, the CFS forges productive partnerships with the science and technology community, resource management agencies, and stakeholder groups in order to meet common national and international objectives. The Science Branch not only provides information and functional direction on CFS Science and Technology (S&T) programs and issues, but it also ensures, in cooperation with the CFS's five national centres, the implementation of the new S&T strategic directions within the framework of the CFS Strategic plan. The CFS's S&T program promotes sustainable forest management and a competitive Canadian forest sector through the development and implementation of knowledge databases and technology. The Science Branch is also responsible for distributing information on the CFS S&T program and for the publication and distribution of national scientific documentation. As well, this Branch strives to identify business and marketing opportunities for the commercialization and transfer of forest technologies. Topics: S&T Coordination; Forest Engineering Research Institute of Canada (FERIC); S&T Opportunities and Merit Awards; Commonwealth Institute of Biological Control; Plant Health and Quarantine; Coordination of CFS Involvement in Federal S&T Issues; Program Evaluation; International Union of Forest Research Organization; National S&T Advisory Board; Experimental Forests; S&T Management Framework; Research Scientist Promotions; S&T Publishing and Editing; S&T Agreements / Memorandum Of Understanding (MOU); CFS / Natural Sciences Engineering Research Council of Canada (NSERC) Partnership Program; Graduate Student Supplements: Energy from the Forest (ENFOR); Intellectual Properties; Commercialization; Technology Transfer; International Energy Agency; S&T Marketing. Program Record Number: NRCan CFS 003

♦ Communications Branch

Communications

Description: Information relating to the provision of information to be communicated to the public on federal policies, strategies and programs affecting energy, forestry, minerals, earth sciences, climate change and selected research and technology endeavours. Topics: Communications' automated systems and electronic equipment; associations, conferences and committees; contracts; evaluation studies; marketing; client services; public opinion research; publishing; publications design contracts; press clippings and releases; publications; employee online newsletter, The Source; advertising; exhibitions and displays. Program Record Number: NRCan CB 620

♦ Corporate Services Sector

Real Property, Environment and Security Branch

Description: Information relating to the provision of general administrative services which reflects central and departmental guidelines. Aspects include management of departmental Real Property (lands, buildings and sites leased or owned by the Department), signage, vehicle fleet, telecommunications as well as the Office of Environmental Affairs. Topics: Asset management and administrative services; asset planning; workplans and reports; mail and messenger services; parking; crown-owned living accommodation; capital plan; Accommodation information management systems; facilities operations; liaison with Public Works; service agreements; buildings and properties; conservation and health issues; emergency and safety procedures in buildings; tenant services; security – incidents, physical, personnel and clearances; vehicles; motor vehicle accidents; vehicle (fleet) management; environment; environmental sciences; mandatory and voluntary environmental requirements; environmental compliance, auditing, evaluation and inspection; environmental strategies, management, protection, assessment process; strategic environmental assessment; cumulative impacts; environmental stewardship; greening of departmental operations; action plans; priority substances; environmental risk assessment and management; environmental toxicology; strategic options process; contaminated sites; remediation of contamination; toxic chemicals; accelerated reduction/elimination of toxics; waste management; composting; recycling; ozone depleting substances (ODSs); polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs); heavy metals; polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons (PAHs); dioxins and furans; persistent organic pollutants (POPs); storage tanks; green procurement; environmental performance monitoring and reporting; environmental assessment public registry; natural resources and the environment; water and wastewater; air issues; long range transport; ocean dumping; land-use management; state of environment reporting; analytical chemistry; pollution prevention; ecosystem approach; due diligence; expert-advice; national pollutants release inventory; national guideline, objectives and standards; occupational health and safety requirements; fire protection and prevention; dangerous substances management; investigations; associations and organizations; training; conferences; committees and working groups; integrated accommodation plan; sales / disposals of properties; Federal Building Initiative (FBI) Departmental project; Green Power; information technology security, communications, intelligence, liaison with police, emergency preparedness, telecommunications; data communication lines; telephone directories. Program Record Number: NRCan CSS 003

Corporate Services Sector

Description: Information relating to the provision of management direction, policy, advice and comprehensive management support functions, systems and services to the Department. Topics: NRCan administration; legislation; regulatory reform legislation; associations and organizations; departmental authorities; campaigns and canvassing; ceremonies and celebrations; committees, task forces, working groups; corporations; conferences, meetings and seminars; consultants; inventions, patents and copyrights; legal documents and matters; circulars and directives; reports; domestic visits; Government on Line. Program Record Number: NRCan CSS 001

Financial Management

Description: Information relating to the provision of a decentralized financial management service to organizations throughout the Department, including the preparation of departmental operational plans and the distribution by allotment of appropriate funds from Treasury Board. Aspects include the procurement, leasing and inventory control of goods and services for organizations throughout the Department. Topics: Financial management; operational plans; financial analysis and planning; reference levels; reductions and restraints; accounting and policy; accounts payable and receivable; advances; allotments; resource management; cheques and chequing; claims; financial commitment control; expenditures; cost recovery; estimates and budgets; fees; authorities; encumbrances; professional services contracts; specified purpose accounts; Treasury Board submissions; resource tracking system; hospitality; investments; loans; annual reference level updates; public accounts; pay verification; financial reporting and information systems; financial reports; statistics and statements; revenue control; contracts; grants and contributions; awards; suppliers; taxes; travel allowances, expenses, and relocation; government financial system; ocean drilling program; passports and visas; goods and services; accounting and inventories; procurement of materiel and services; manuals and price lists; disposal and loan of equipment; sources of supply and services.

Program Record Number: NRCan CSS 004

Human Resource Services

Description: Information relating to the provision of human resource services to client Sectors. This expertise enables the effective management of departmental human resources through the planning, development, delivery and monitoring of the best human resource practices. Essential functions like strategic planning, monitoring and reporting, policy and program development, service delivery and response to special requests, encompass all basic HR activities that translate governmental and departmental priorities into policies, plans, programs and services.

Topics: Staff relations and compensation; human resources information management; classification and staffing; executive resourcing; organizational development; employment equity; human resource strategic planning, monitoring, research and projects; training and development; official languages; workforce adjustment; compensation and benefits and human resource operations. Program Record Number: NRCan CSS 765

Information Management Branch

Description: Information relating to the development and implementation of sound information technology and information management (IT/IM) practices in NRCan; focal point for technological direction, standardization, integration and support for departmental and sectoral IT services; designing, developing and maintaining common administrative applications; developing and managing inter-sectoral and external data communication; providing IT telecommunications infrastructure for participating sectors; managing information holdings and supporting records offices; administering the Access to Information & Privacy Acts within the Department; and Headquarters Library Services. Topics: Information management; Access to Information and Privacy Acts; inventory of electronic data; departmental central index; essential records program; information systems design, implementation and maintenance; service agreements; information evaluation and scheduling – authorities, accessions and transfers, disposal, storage facilities; historical records; electronic information management systems; training; library services; information technology; contracts; local purchase orders; capital purchases; associations and organizations; committees; conferences; policy planning and coordination; information management plans; information technology systems plans; NRCan and Treasury Board information technology standards; computing study; central computing; computing facilities services and projects; computer hardware, software and operations; laser printing; information resource centre; corporate systems; consulting services; Common Office Environment (COE) – CLOSED; Information Management (IM) Roadmap; Information Technology Management Framework (ITMF), Directory of people and services.

Program Record Number: NRCan CSS 002

◆ Earth Sciences Sector

Business Development

Description: Information relating to the Business Development corporate group whose principal functions include the provision of a consistent “business” framework for ESS, as well as providing assistance in the advancement of business opportunities for Canada’s geoscience and geomatics industries. In general terms, the group’s main responsibilities include the development, implementation and monitoring of business plans, policies, guidelines and procedures; the coordination of domestic and international business relations; and the coordination and provision of advice to line divisions on business related issues; the management of ESS Intellectual Property, Memoranda of Understanding and other business related agreements. The group also provides leadership in the management of the Sector’s Revolving Fund, as well as promotion of international business opportunities for ESS and its industry clients.

Topics: Business development; reports; associations and organizations; liaison with companies, other departments, provinces and countries; committees; conferences; marketing; license agreements and patents; copyrights information. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 005

Canada Centre for Remote Sensing

Description: The Canada Centre for Remote Sensing (CCRS) uses and develops state-of-the-art operational systems to collect, produce, correct and analyze data from Earth-observation satellites and other sources. CCRS cooperates with resource management agencies and value-added industry to establish and demonstrate improved remote sensing information extraction techniques. Also includes information on the development and maintenance of national geographic information systems (GIS); national geographic information databases; technology and development contracts and information used to promote and coordinate the development of a Canadian Geomatics industry. Topics: Reports; Committees; conferences; Canadian Partnerships and Liaison – Industry, associations and organizations (Canadian Space Agency (CSA), Radarsat International Inc., Canadian Geomatics Industry, Geomatics Industry Association of Canada (GIAC)), and other government departments; International Earth Observation Partnerships & Liaison, including but not limited to: European Space

Agency (ERS Radar Satellites), SpotImage (France – SPOT Satellite), National Aeronautics and Space Administration's NASA / National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's NOAA (US – Landsat & Meteorological Satellites), other international Remote sensing centres; International Technology Transfer Partners and Liaison, including but not limited to: Canadian International Development Agency CIDA, International Development Research Centre IDRC, Foreign Affairs and International Trade Canada FAITC, World Bank, United Nations, NATO, Interamerican Development Bank, Asia Development Bank, Commonwealth Science Council, PAIG, SELPER; National Remote Sensing support programs; Scientific and industrial liaison; economic and concept design studies; mission requirements, technology development, and dissemination of information (WWW & Multimedia); algorithm and methodology development, image processing and data integration research; client services and communications; licensing and intellectual property; revenue generation activities; applications research, development, demonstration, training and technology transfer on effective use of RADAR in fields including agriculture, forestry, geology, cartography & mapping, hydrology, ice & oceans, coastal zone management, international development assistance; image mapping, environmental monitoring, global change, local environment research, land information management, data fusion, multimedia applications development, physics research; EO ground Receiving station operations; EO data reception and processing, SAR digital processor development; user systems development; EO data archive and distribution development and maintenance; spectroscopy; radiometry; internal informatics and computer / network services and support; GIS development; geo-data access systems development; implementation and management; geo-information dissemination; data interchange formats; geomatics standards; Industrial Research Assistance Program (IRAP); program impact assessment; Departmental policy and planning liaison; market assessment. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 001

Geodetic Survey

Description: Geodetic Survey Division is responsible for providing and maintaining the national spatial reference system, standards and national networks of gravity and survey control points for Canada. Geodetic Survey Division ensures the availability of spatial referencing information, expertise and services that are responsive to the needs of clients. The primary role of the Geodetic Survey Division (GSD) is to maintain, continuously improve, and facilitate efficient access to what is now known as the Canadian Spatial Reference System (CSRS). The result is a national coordinate system, which serves, as a reference for all mapping, charting, navigation, boundary demarcation, crustal deformation and other georeferencing needs. While continuing to serve on-going requirements for survey control, the growing demands of Global Positioning System (GPS) users in particular have resulted in a focus on supporting positioning from space. The Canadian Active Control System (CACS) was established during this decade in order to provide users of GPS with access to the national standard for positions. A real-time capability under development is expanding that access. In 1994, development of the Canadian Base Network (CBN) was started to provide a high accuracy network of ground monumentation compatible with the increased precision available from GPS. Gravity and Very Long Baseline Interferometry (VLBI) are key elements of the program. While gravity observations satisfy geophysical needs, they also serve as the basis for defining the geoid model. And the geoid model, in turn, contributes to the vertical component of the reference system so that ellipsoidal GPS heights can be converted to orthometric elevations for practical uses. Finally, VLBI establishes the stable fiducial reference frame for the entire system, fixed with respect to deepest space, and contributes to the evaluation of crustal motion. In developing and carrying out the geodetic program, the Division collaborates with scientific agencies such as the International GPS Service for Geodynamics for international standards and with stakeholders such as the provinces both for national standards and for delivery of services to clients. Contracts are let to industry for operational requirements, and research and development initiatives are often directed toward universities or industry. The result is a Canadian Spatial Reference System that is evolving rapidly with the integration of technologies of computers, communications and satellites, to meet the diverse positioning needs of the Canadian people. Topics: Geodetic Surveys; operations; associations and organizations; liaison with companies, departments, provinces and countries; committees; conferences; memorandums of understanding; Canadian Spatial Reference System; Canadian Arctic Control System (CACS); Canadian Geodetic Information System; National Gravity Program; Electronic Distance Measurement; baselines; GPS Validation nets; geodetic data management; geodetic data analysis and adjustment; geodetic client services; North American Datum and Adjustment (NAVD83); North American Vertical Datum and Adjustment (NAVD88); US National Geodetic Survey collaboration; geodetic and gravity field surveys; surveying equipment and instruments; Inertial Survey System (ISS); levelling systems; Global Positioning System (GPS); primary horizontal control; primary vertical control; satellite Doppler; Very Long Baseline Interferometry; Canadian Gravity Standardization Network; Canadian Superconductivity Gravimeter Installation; gravimetry – absolute, relative, and dynamic; geoid model; Canadian Base Network; contracting-out; source list for control survey contractors; gravity – standards, data base, maps, international liaison & projects, mathematical methods applications, and crustal movement. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 003

Legal Surveys

Description: Information relating to the management and regulation of all surveys carried out in Canada Lands, as stipulated in the Canada Lands Surveys Act. Canada Lands include Indian reserves, national parks and the offshore and all land in the Territories that are not privately owned. Information relating to the maintenance and regulation of the boundaries between Canada and United States, including the positioning of boundary line points, settlement of disputes and jurisdictional questions, regulation of construction and removal of boundary obstructions. Topics: Legal surveys, operations and meetings; status reports; monitoring results of plans of surveys; analysis of completed survey reports; projects; survey information requests; grants and contributions; associations and organizations; Surveys Records Information System; liaison with companies, other departments, provinces and countries; committees and conferences; modernization and standards; memorandum of understanding; contracts; Indian reserve surveys – legal matters; native land claims; Indian Reserves name changes; national and historic parks and sites; bird sanctuaries and wildlife areas; rights of way for pipelines, roads, and transmission lines in the territories; territorial resources base mapping; territorial mining surveys; settlements site surveys; interprovincial and territorial boundary commissions and surveys; international boundary surveys; coordinated survey areas; oil and gas – grid areas; aerial photography surveys; survey information and procedures; offshore survey information and procedures; manual of instructions for the Survey of Canada Lands; intergovernmental and interdepartmental agreements; acts and regulations; description of electoral districts; North American Datum and Adjustment; Offshore oil and gas surveys; legal survey monument coordinate data base; surveys records depository; International Boundary Commission; International and offshore boundary issues; boundary regulation; International boundary field operations; geographical coordinates of boundary monuments; Indian Reserves Boundaries. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 004

Mapping Services Branch

Description: Information relating to the management of the program responsible for the formulation and maintenance of national standards for mapping and for the production of topographical, toponymic and aeronautical information in Canada. Information relating to mapping of the Canadian landmass in detail, showing relief elevation, lakes, rivers, roads, buildings, airports and canals, and including names of features and places. Topics: Mapping services; grants and contributions; unsolicited proposals; status reports; associations and organizations; liaison with companies, other government departments, provinces, and countries; industry support; committees; conferences; partnerships; foreign projects; research and development; National Topographic Data Base (NTDB); National Topographic Series of maps (NTS); Canadian Digital Elevation Data (CDED); ARC Digitized Raster Graphic (ADRG); Vectormap level O – VmapO; arctic and northern program; maps and mapping; remote sensing; topographical mapping; contract mapping; flood risk contract mapping; digital topographical mapping; data conversion; data structuring; data revision; geographical information systems; new mapping; nomenclature and toponomy; quality control; quality assurance; revision mapping; map derivation; standards and specifications; survey control; aerial photography; National Air Photo Library (NAPL); Interdepartmental Committee on Air Surveys (ICA's); aerial survey data base; Air Photography Information System (SIPA); data and map distribution; Canada Map Office (CMO); distributors; user support; inquiries; aeronautical charting; flight information; instrument flight rules products (IFR); Canada flight supplement; water aerodrome supplement; areas, regions and zones; visual flight rules (VFR) product; charts; Canadian Aeronautical Charts System (CANACS); Canadian Geographical Names Data Base (CGNDB); Geographical Names Board of Canada (GNBC); technical services; imaging; reprographic material; pre-press printing. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 002

Minerals and Regional Geoscience

Description: Information relating to the management and operations of the Minerals and Regional Geoscience Branch whose responsibilities are mapping and interpreting the geology of the Canadian Shield and Cordilleran regions; documenting and interpreting the deep geology of Canada's continental crust; operating national observatories in seismology, geodynamics and geomagnetism; conducting national mapping programs of the earth's magnetic fields; setting standards for and undertaking contracted aeromagnetic surveys; providing expert knowledge and information on natural hazards such as earthquakes and magnetic storms; providing expertise on the nature and origin of mineral deposits of Canada, including the development of innovative exploration guidelines and techniques; providing essential information on mineral deposits for land-use planning and policy formulation; setting national standards for, and undertaking, contracted regional geochemical surveys and airborne radiometric surveys. Topics: Committees; conferences; liaison; associations and organizations; field work; research and development; Boundary Disputes; Juan de Fuca geoscience studies; library, publications; seismology; Canadian Seismograph Networks; Yellowknife geophysical observatory; seismological systems development and instrumentation, data centre; earthquake studies and seismic hazards; seismological earth structure studies, geoscience of nuclear explosions; seismic monitoring of nuclear explosions; geomagnetism, Canadian Magnetic Observatory Network, geomagnetic systems development and instrumentation, earth structure studies; palaeomagnetism; geodynamics, Geophysical Data Centre, Canadian Crustal Motion Network, deep earth processes and global change, regional crustal dynamics; aeromagnetism, survey contracts, standards, maps, applications; continental geoscience; geological maps; geochronology; petrology; paleontology; Mineral resources, publishing and editing; exploration geophysics, instrumentation research and development, calibration testing and facilities; special projects, radiation and borehole geophysics; exploration geochemistry; national geochemical reconnaissance surveys; metals in the natural environment; mathematical application in geology; mineral resources information systems; mineral deposits geology; international strategic minerals inventory; mineralogy and analytical chemistry; national collections; rock and mineral information services; regional mineral resources assessments; regional metallagenic studies. Program Record

Number: NRCan ESS 009

Office of the Chief Geoscientist

Description: The Office of the Chief Geoscientist provides leadership and advice on matters related to the quality and integrity of the sector's science activities and is the principal interface with external scientific organizations and programs. It identifies synergies and new partnership opportunities with internal and external stakeholder groups and oversees the systematic external review of the sector's science activities to ensure their excellence and relevance in a national context. Topics: Liaison, domestic and international; research and development programs, research partnerships, science and technology exchange, grants and contributions. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 006

Polar Continental Shelf Project (PCSP)

Description: Information relating to the management and overall functions of Polar Continental Shelf Project include: provision of coordinated logistics support to public and private sector scientific research groups, provision of information on scientific operations to the scientific community and local inhabitants. Topics: Polar Continental Shelf Project (PCSP); arctic sciences; PCSP logistics support, base operations, field activities; radio and navigational systems; aircraft; fuel and vehicles. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 010

Policy, Planning and Information Services

Description: Information relating to the management and operations of the Policy, Planning and Information Services Branch activities whose mandate is to provide leadership and a central focus for the administrative, information, policy and planning functions for the Sector; publishing and distributing the scientific output of the GSC; coordinating internal and external communications; providing library and information services and managing the information technology infrastructure; delivering administrative services for the National Capital Region; accountable with other groups for Sector planning processes, providing policy analysis and development and support to the Assistant Deputy Minister in carrying out the Sector's mandate. Topics: Committees; conferences; federal / provincial relations; strategic planning; branch management; geoscience information; library and services, exchange agreements, liaison, communications technical services; National Geoscan; exhibits; advertising. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 007

Sedimentary and Marine Geoscience

Description: Information relating to the management and operations of the Sedimentary and Marine Geoscience Branch activities whose responsibilities embrace surface and subsurface mapping and interpretation of the geology of Appalachia, the Grenville Province of the Canadian Shield, the Beaufort-Mackenzie Basin, Western Canada Sedimentary Basin, and the Franklinian and Sverdrup Basin and orogens in the Canadian Arctic Islands; providing expertise in near-surface geology, in natural terrain hazards, geomorphology and placiology, with special emphasis on public safety and the environment; providing expert knowledge on the distribution, geotechnical properties, and economic use of the unconsolidated materials at the Earth's surface; undertaking coastal and offshore geoscientific surveys; providing assessments of the hazards and environmental quality of Canada's extensive coastal and offshore regions; providing expert geological, geochemical and geophysical information on the coastal zone, seabed, onshore and offshore sedimentary basins and crustal processes; providing the geoscience knowledge base from which to make assessments of oil, gas and coal resources throughout Canada, both onshore and offshore; providing the principal focus for research and collections in paleontology and palynology. Topics: Committees; conferences; liaison; associations and organizations; field work; surveys; research and development; Metals in the Environment Initiative; Program for Industry Laboratory Projects; Panel on Energy Research and Development; Unsolicited Proposals; Boundary Disputes; Law of the Sea; research projects; basin analysis; sedimentology research; stratigraphy; structural geology; paleoecology; coal geology; petroleum geology; organic geochemistry; oil and gas resources and exploration; regional geology, arctic islands, mainland, western Canada; ocean mining and research; environmental marine geology; terrain sciences, environmental studies; publishing and editing; Nuclear Fuel Waste Management Program; permafrost research, transportation and hydrocarbon development; quaternary environments, paleontology and radiocarbon laboratories; quaternary geology; research grant agreements; federal/provincial agreements; calibration testing and facilities; climate change; gas hydrates; natural hazards; hydrogeology; groundwater. Program Record Number: NRCan ESS 008

Conservation and Non-Petroleum (Closed)

Description: Information relating to the overall management of the energy conservation and non-petroleum sources activities to ensure the development of adequate, and secure sources of non-petroleum energy to meet Canada's energy requirements and to develop and maintain policies and programs for the efficient use and conservation of energy. Topics: (CN series) conservation and non-petroleum; energy issues; energy research and development; non-petroleum energy sources; Uranium Canada Limited; 5 year modernization program; Remote

Community Demonstration Program; Accelerated Demonstration of Solar Domestic Water Heater Program phase 1 and 2; Purchase and Use of Solar Heating Program; Solar Domestic Hot Water Program phase 3, 4, 5 and 6; Alternative Energy Enderdemo Program; International symposium on alcohol fuels; ridesharing; Federal Vanpool Program. Program Record Number: NRCan ES 245

Conservation and Renewable Energy (Closed)

Description: Information relating to the planning and management of activities in support of the promotion of energy conservation and the development of renewable energy resources in order to meet Canada's energy requirements and other economic, social, regional and environmental objectives. Topics: (CE series) Conservation and renewable energy; memorandum of understanding; energy research and development, panel, task one – taxation; transportation energy; regional operation, energy, promotional activities; national conservation and alternative energy initiatives; economics of energy conservation in Canada; program sector strategic planning; program review and evaluation; urban systems analysis; energy activities; residential sector energy conservation; contracts; transportation fuels; outreach programs; home energy; home energy conservation codes and standards; energy conservation, industrial sector, residential sector; indoor air quality; solar energy; home energy technology and industry, building issues and training and seminars; new housing; R-2000 Home Program; residential technology and industry development contracts; medium and high-rise apartments; industrial energy; task forces, commercial sector energy conservation, agricultural sector; industrial energy data base and analysis; industrial task forces council; industrial energy techniques, equipment and technologies; waste management and resource recovery; energy issues affecting federal energy management; energy conservation – codes and standards; energy pricing and taxation; renewable energy; energy conservation technology; task four of the Panel on Energy Research and Development; Solar Energy Development Program; small and low head hydro technology research and development project; geothermal technology research and development project; active solar technology research development and demonstration project; passive solar technology research development and demonstration project; photovoltaic technology research and development project; wind technology research and development project; Solar Domestic Hot Water Demonstration Program, phase seven, eight; Bioenergy Development Program; PEI Alternative Energy Development Program; Canada/ Nova Scotia Energy Conservation Subsidiary Agreement; Remote Community Demonstration Program; (CR series) Canertech; technology transfer and demonstration; commercial sector energy conservation; energy issues; energy conservation issues; energy research and development; liaison on technology transfer and demonstration; solar energy; residential sector energy conservation; arctic and northern housing; new housing; socio-economics impact of energy conservation; transportation and urban sector energy conservation; Energy Management and Technology Transfer Program; federal energy programs; Atlantic Energy Conservation Investment Program; Biomass Energy Loan Guarantee Program; Canadian Home Insulation Program; consumer education programs; Federal Energy Management Program; Internal Energy Conservation Program; surveys workshops information and monitoring; Industrial Conversion Assistance Program. Program Record Number: NRCan ES 310

Energy Efficiency

Description: Information relating to advice, development and delivery of programs concerning the efficient use of energy and the alternative transportation fuels in Canada. Topics: Efficiency and alternative energy – policy development and analysis, initiatives, models and data base, marketing and communications activities; energy efficiency and diversity initiatives; energy efficiency and the environment; appliance energy efficiency; energy conservation standards; energy efficiency training; industrial / commercial energy efficiency; environment; federal buildings initiatives; EnerGuide for Houses Program; R-2000 Home Program; builder education program and training; Canadian Home Builders Association international activities; marketing and information; Canadian Home Builders Association contract management; alternative energy; biomass energy; bioenergy development program; transportation energy; transportation energy – database; alcohol transportation fuels; Methanol Demonstration Program; gaseous transportation fuels; propane transportation fuels; compressed natural gas (CNG) transportation fuels; CNG Vehicle Grant Program; CNG Fuelling Station Program; liquified natural gas transportation fuels; hydrogen transportation fuels; PERD Task Five – New Liquid Fuels; liquid hydrocarbon fuel; liquid synthetic transportation fuels; transportation systems; Driver Outreach Program; vehicles; aircraft; marine vehicles; railways; road vehicles; emission standards; road vehicle engine systems; fuel consumption standards program; trucks; Energy Innovators Initiative; energuide; window labelling; heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) rating; energy performance regulations. Program Record Number: NRCan ES 200

Energy Policy

Description: Information relating to energy policy, which encompasses the coordination of the review and analysis of policy objectives and instruments, and the analysis, development and coordination of new energy policy recommendations relating to domestic and international issues and the analysis of those recommendations with particular reference to revenue sharing, fiscal policy, project economics, competitiveness industry investment and rates of return including provincial fiscal regimes and energy corporations. Includes workplans and internal interdepartmental, federal and energy R and D meetings. Topics: Policies – Climate change and other air issues, Federal Economic, Energy Trade and trade agreements,

Federal Energy, Public views; strategic planning; committees, regulatory boards and agencies, briefings; trade and environment relations; federal government priorities; International cooperation: Hemispheric Energy Initiative (HEI), International Energy Agency (IEA), Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC); energy security; industry assistance programs; energy and sustainable development; energy and the environment; Canadianization; Cooperative Energy Corporation; Cooperative Energy Development Corporation; crown corporations; international energy relations; domestic organization and agencies; Petro-Canada International Assistance Corporation; international conferences and negotiations; Canadian committees of the world energy conference; energy relations – by countries; liaison on Canadian energy commodities, policies, budgets and fiscal policy; international energy commodities comparisons; international organizations; visits and protocol; Economic and financial analysis; consultants and contracts; reports; financial data in support of the Energy Sector; analysis techniques; energy industry analysis; GHE emissions forecasting and analysis; energy revenues forecast; financial, fiscal and supply analysis models; fiscal analysis; energy market analysis; Federal / Provincial agreements; energy supply and project analysis; petroleum resources; pricing; reserves; resources and production; macroeconomic analysis; monitoring and information systems; energy statistics and publications; megaproject monitoring; supply and demand refinery feedstock survey; Petroleum Monitoring Agency (PMA); monitoring of the coal industry; petroleum industry; energy research and development survey; estimates and forecasts in petroleum industry; quarterly industrials corporations survey in petroleum industry; ownership and control in petroleum industry; survey questionnaires in petroleum industry; special studies drilling fund study; taxation study; (EP series) energy policy analysis; corporate development; energy issues; National Energy Program; non-petroleum energy sources; petroleum energy resources; energy conservation; Energy Security Act; energy policy planning; federal energy planning; effect of federal energy policies on northern development; Beaufort Sea petroleum planning; corporate development; crown corporations; energy envelope; Energy Deputies Committees; industrial benefits; energy policy relating to climate change issues at the domestic and international levels, energy chapter of AIT; ethanol and biofuels.

Program Record Number: NRCan ES 161

Energy Research and Development

Description: Information relating to federal energy research and development strategies and programs (excluding nuclear fission) and international cooperation in energy R&D. Topics: Office of Energy Research and Development (OERD); planning; information coordination; publications; national energy research and development programs; program review committees; workshops and conferences; agreements; Program of Energy Research and Development (PERD) – proposals and funding; International Energy Agency – Energy Research and

Technology – Committee on Energy Research and Technology (CERT) and its sub-committees; Implementing Agreements for Research – Memorandum of Understanding on Energy R&D with US Department of Energy. Program Record Number: NRCan ES 255

Energy Research and Development Tasks and Programs

Description: Information relating to the development and implementation of plans for research and development activity in response to energy research policy and strategy, and to the coordination and administration of the Program of Energy Research and Development (PERD). It includes the management and allocation of resources for projects that will help ensure a sustainable energy future for Canada. Topics: Diversifying Canada's Oil and Gas – Strategy 1; offshore and northern oil and gas; oilsands and heavy oil; environmental and safety issues (flares, pipeline integrity, and groundwater and soil remediation); Cleaner Transportation for the Future – Strategy 2; improved urban air quality including reduced emissions and greenhouse gas production; transportation fuels from renewable energy sources; improved vehicle and transportation system efficiency; fuel cell, electric and hybrid vehicle components; Energy-efficient Building and Communities – Strategy 3; building research and development; waste recovery and utilization; integration of energy efficient and renewable energy technologies; improvements in sustainable development of communities; district heating and cooling; Energy-efficient Industry – Strategy 4; innovative products, processes or systems for improved energy efficiency by industry; heat management; process integration; primary agricultural production; fisheries; forestry; mining and metals; agricultural and forestry biomass; Canada's Electricity Infrastructure – Strategy 5; alternative electric power generation to reduce environmental impacts of Canada's electricity infrastructure; efficient conversion of renewable and non-renewable energy to electricity; CO<sub>2</sub> capture and storage; Strategy 6; support for Canadian energy sector's response to impacts of climate change; enhanced natural uptake of greenhouse gas. Program Record Number: NRCan ES 256

Energy Resources

Description: Information relating to the development and efficient use of oil, natural gas, and natural gas liquids, the development and implementation of federal policies associated with the interprovincial and international trade of natural gas, and contingency plans for the control and regulation of emergency production, distribution and use of petroleum resources, the administration of oil and gas exploration and production activities on frontier lands, and the provision of analysis and advice regarding all aspects of electrical energy to effectively and efficiently implement policies relating to electrical energy, provide effective information services to the public and manage the federal government's contribution to the Canadian Electrical Association's research and development program. Also includes information relating to the provision of advice and the formulation of policies to ensure that Canadian uranium resources and nuclear energy industries make optimal contributions to the country's economic development by providing a secure and economical source of energy and by realizing export opportunities.

Topics: Oil and gas; committees; associations, institutes and societies; legislation and regulations; petroleum energy issues; oil supply electronic data systems; emergency oil inventory; domestic oil export pricing; oil imports; domestic oil in industry, pricing and supply and demand; domestic heavy crude oil supply and demand; domestic oil transportation; crude oil and petroleum products; oil sands development; natural gas liquids; Propane Distribution System Expansion Program; international oil markets; international world energy market; petroleum utilization; petroleum products marketing; natural gas – Canadian exports, fiscal regime, industry information program and major projects; pipeline – projects, Construction Cost Task Force, marketing, pricing, supply and demand; provincial activities; Natural Gas Market Development Incentive Program, Natural Gas Laterals Program; Natural Gas Transportation Assistance Program; energy emergency planning; Energy Supplies Allocation Board (ESAB); IEA allocation systems test; allocation program; rationing program; National Emergency Agency for Energy (NEAE); North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO); energy demand restraint measures, interprovincial advisory committee on energy, liaison; crude oil and petroleum products allocation planning; ESAB allocation system test; replacement of fuels; rationing program. (PT series) Natural Gas Distribution System Expansion Program; Gas Marketing Assistance Program; Frontier Lands Management; Canada/Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board (CNOBPB); Canada/Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board (CNSOPB); offshore oil and gas; international treaties and agreements; maritime boundaries; benefit plans and studies; oil and gas development projects; rights management administration; exploration agreements; licenses; assessment of oil and gas resources; electricity; energy issues; Panel on Energy Research and Development – Task Six, Conventional Energy Systems; international electrical energy; electrical utilities; Canadian electrical energy economics and finance; supply and demand; technology; Lower Churchill electricity development; Annapolis River Tidal Project; Coleson Cove Conversion Study; Churchill Falls dispute between Quebec and Newfoundland; Lepreau One Nuclear Project; nuclear energy and exports; fusion; heavy water; nuclear power; Point Lepreau Two Nuclear Project; uranium and nuclear energy; research and development; International uranium and nuclear issues; Uranium institute; International Uranium and Nuclear conference; nuclear safeguards and non-proliferation agreements; uranium industry; processing and refining; enrichment and reprocessing; exports; Uranium Exports Review Panel (UNEP); uranium supply and demand; radioactive waste management; Nuclear Energy Agency (NEA). Program Record Number: NRCAN ES 195

Energy Technology

Description: The CANMET Energy Technology Branch works in partnership with industry and other research organizations to advance the development of energy efficiency, renewable energy, alternative transportation and oil sands technologies. With laboratories in Devon, Alberta; Ottawa, Ontario; and Varennes, Quebec; clients can access state-of-the-art research facilities and participate in a wide range of S-T activities and programs. Topics: Energy research and development projects; efficiency and alternative energy technology; renewable energy; project selection and monitoring; technology transfer and marketing. Program Record Number: NRCAN ES 205

Siting Task Force for Low-Level Radioactive Waste in Ontario (Closed)

Description: Information created or received at the corporate level on the establishment of the task force which was initiated by the Minister to implement an innovative process for the establishment of a long-term low-level radioactive waste management facility for Ontario. The Task Force completed its work in 1996. Topics: Siting task force on low-level radioactive waste in Ontario; reports; memorandum to Cabinet; requests for proposal; planning process; committee; guidelines; liaison; liaison with federal government departments, crown corporations, regional governments and communities; media relations; regional information sessions; community sessions and workshops; public relations; distribution program; correspondence program. Program Record Number: NRCAN ES 320

♦ Minerals and Metals Sector (MMS)

Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program (CEDIP) (Closed)

Description: Information relating to the Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program (CEDIP) established to encourage oil and gas exploration and development activities on Canada lands and offshore areas including the development of policy and regulations and the determination of individuals' and qualified corporations' eligibility for reimbursement of approved expenditures in this area. Topics: Automated Incentive Management System (AIMS); acts and regulations; status reports; committees; conferences; liaison activities; communications; operations; quality control; financial payments and controls; monitoring; forecasting of expenditures; evaluation; application assessment; annual expense limit control; technical services; audits; interpretation and rulings of act and legislation; training and development; consultations and inquiries. Program Record Number: NRCAN MMS 596

Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (CEIP) (Closed)

Description: Information relating to the Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (CEIP) established to encourage mining, oil and gas exploration and development activities on Canada lands and offshore areas including the development of policy and regulations and the determination of individuals' and qualified corporations' eligibility for reimbursement of approved expenditures in this area. Topics: Automated Incentive Management System (AIMS); Automated Exploration Incentive System (AXIS); acts and regulations; status reports; committees; conferences; liaison activities; communications; operations; quality control; financial payments and controls; monitoring; forecasting of expenditures; evaluation; annual expense limit control; technical services; interpretations on rulings for CEIP act and regulations; audits; training and development; policy; consultations and inquiries. Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 595

Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (Closed)

Description: Information relating to the development and maintenance of policies, systems, procedures and regulations to administer the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act. Includes receiving, processing and certifying applications for the Canadian Ownership Rate and Control Status Program. Topics: Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) corporate information; COCD guidebook; COCD operations; COCD committees; COCD conferences; COCD operations reports; Canadian ownership rate and control status programs (COR/CS); COR/CS documentation; COR/CS certificates; COR/CS guidelines; COR/CS operating procedures. Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 115

Canadian Ownership and Control Determination Policy (Closed)

Description: Information relating to the development and maintenance of policies, precedents, and special studies in administering the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act and Regulations in order to encourage increased Canadianization of the petroleum industry. Topics: Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) policy committees; COCD policy conferences; COCD policy reports; COCD Act; COCD Act interpretation; COCD Act qualified applicants; Canadian ownership rate and control status determination; COCD Act applications, certificates and administration; COCD Act disclosure of information; COCD Act regulation-making authority; COCD Act enforcement; COCD Act judicial review and transmission provisions; Canadian ownership and control determination regulations; COCD Regulations interpretation and applications; specified Canadian ownership rates; Canadian ownership rates other than specified rates and rates of insurance companies and trust; COCD regulations administration; Canadian ownership rates of insurance companies; Canadian ownership rates of trust companies; COCD regulations schedules. Program Record Number: NRCan MSS 120

Economic and Financial Analysis

Description: Information relating to developing and recommending federal fiscal, financial and economic policies; providing detailed information and analysis to potential investors in Canada and abroad; and providing advice and support to Department of Finance, Revenue Canada and other federal departments in implementing policies affecting the minerals and metals sector. Topics: Mineral economic analysis; economic and financial analysis operations (EFAB); mining taxation – international comparisons; conferences; memoranda to Cabinet; economic and tax briefings/presentations; federal government policies; federal government house standing committees; environmental issues; mineral exploration and mine development studies; federal government committees, task forces and working groups; international investment climate for mining and mineral activities, international projects; associations and organizations; Mining Association of Canada (MAC); Prospectors and Developers Association of Canada (PDAC); Coal Association of Canada; corporation mergers acquisitions and strategic alliances; interdepartmental, provincial, and international relations; intergovernmental working group IGWG task force on mineral investment climate competitiveness – Mines Ministers Conference (MMC); foreign ownership/control; Economic Analysis Division (EAD), database renewals and negotiations; federal/provincial survey of mines and concentrators; concentrators and mines database management; EAD factor cost studies; EAD mining community issues; competitive cost studies by commodity, studies by stage; competitive position industry studies; non-ferrous smelter study; production capability assessment (perspective); reserves, productions, exploration assessments; mine investment, mineral economic forecast/commentaries; cost benefit analysis; unsolicited proposals; free trade studies; world trade mineral system (WTMS); financial corporate analysis; financial markets and investment community; flow-through shares, monitoring programs, limited partnerships; mineral exploration statistics; tax policy analysis; federal income tax rules and provisions; mineral industry federal income tax rules and provisions; federal, foreign, US, tax reform; federal budgets; provincial income and mining taxation; provincial tax reforms and budgets changes; US and Australia tax rules; commodity taxation; goods and services tax (GST); mining industry acts and regulations; mineral trade taxation issues; special studies and projects on mining taxation issues; intergovernmental working group on the mineral industry (IGWG) tax sub-committee; mine reclamation expenditures – taxation and funding issues; Revenue Canada issues; tax models; tax policy analysis of federal mineral tax cases; EFAB informatics which include SoftAccess, Internet, On-Line databases; mineral and metal information services, statistics division (MMSD) operations, corporation information, information requests; mineral statistics (production, trade, consumption, exploration, prices), questionnaires; mineral statistics information exchange with associations, commodity profiles; Federal/Provincial committees on mineral and mining statistics, annual meetings, task forces and working groups; Federal/Provincial consultative council on statistical policy, Federal/Provincial collection and joint sharing of mineral statistics; mineral and metal surveys, publications; various databases; mineral exploration activity survey. Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 003

Mineral and Metal Policy Branch

Description: The Mineral and Metal Policy Branch (MMPB) promotes the sustainable development of Canada's minerals and metals industry in Canada and internationally. The Branch is the federal government's main source of in-depth knowledge and expertise on mineral and metal commodities (including coal) and their global markets, and on international and Canadian policy issues related to minerals and metals. The Branch carries out these responsibilities by: developing and recommending federal policies for sustainable mineral development; developing and participating in international and domestic policy initiatives; coordinating policies and facilitating information exchange with the provinces and territories; administering federally owned mineral rights in the provinces and offshore; outlining strategic directions for the Minerals and Metals Sector and administering the federal mandate for the Cape Breton Development Corporation. Topics: Metal and mineral policy planning; Mining Association of Canada (MAC); committees, task forces and working groups; Whitehorse Mining Initiative (WMI); conferences, meetings and seminars; constitutional reform; centre for resource studies (CRS) / Queen's university; Canadian Institute of Mining, Metallurgy and Petroleum (CIM); provincial mining associations; prosperity initiatives in mining; policy planning liaison; health and safety in metals and minerals; international mine accident databases; worker's compensation board (CLOSED); minerals and metals job creation programs, mining/human resource investment program; minerals and metals labour markets and issues; mining communities, task forces, remote area development, single industry towns, sustainable development; environment, strategy, global and ecological concerns; resource management; liaison with Environment Canada, Fisheries and Oceans; Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA), toxicity assessment and management; national parks; Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office (FEARO); Canadian Environmental Assessment Act (CEAA); Integrated Resource Management Information System (IRMIS); land use and ecosystems projects and studies; public lands titles and descriptions by provinces; international mineral relations; international mineral policy; trade and environment; domestic mineral conference; world mineral notes; international mineral relations interdepartmental liaison; Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA); International Business Plan (TBP); international organization; North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO); united nation; Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD);

Mineral Resources and Supply Analysis (Closed)

Description: Information relating to the analysis of mineral resource supply to ensure adequate supplies of minerals and metals for Canada. Topics: Mineral resources and supply analysis; operations; Canadian resources and supply; Non- Renewable Resources Evaluation Program (NREP); Canadian mineral exploration; ocean mining – by province; federal ocean mining acts and regulations; regulatory regime for offshore non-fuel minerals; ocean mining – by province; Mineral Rights Registry – Hudson Bay, offshore NFLD, offshore PEI, offshore NS, offshore Québec, offshore BC; Canadian services and technology relating to ocean mining; ocean mining corporation information cases; foreign research in Canadian offshore; international ocean mining; international ocean mining consortia information; US and USSR ocean mining; ocean mining international science programs; ocean mining boundaries and resource jurisdiction; Canada / US boundaries and resource jurisdiction; National Marine Parks; ocean mining environmental and fisheries issues; ocean mining resource assessment; Law of the Sea (LOS); United Nations conference on Law of the Sea; United Nations convention on Law of the Sea. Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 590

Mineral Technology Branch (MTB)

Description: The MTB is comprised of three laboratories, which focus on mining and mineral sciences, metals and materials technology, and explosives. The Explosives Regulatory Division administers the Explosives Act and Regulations and an engineering and technical services group rounds out the branch. The Mining and Mineral Sciences Laboratories (MMSL) provide quality research and development services, technology and sound scientific advice to Canada's mining and minerals industries, and to provincial and federal government departments involved in promoting or regulating these industries. MMSL conducts R&D on a wide range of processes and technologies involved in extracting ore from the ground and transforming it into a concentrate, mineral product or metal. MMSL focuses on advanced mining systems; mine-related health and safety; emissions and effluent management, including reclamation; and mine closures and metals in the environment. The Materials Technology Laboratory (MTL) focuses on developing and deploying technologies to improve all aspects of producing and using value-added products from metals and metallic materials. Areas of expertise include advanced materials, casting, energy-efficient metal production, advanced concrete and infrastructure reliability. MTL has start-to-finish capability covering the complete materials cycle from materials selection, fabrication and characterization to prototype product fabrication. The Canadian Explosives Research Laboratory (CERL) is Canada's national centre for the advancement of technology related to the manufacture, storage and transport of explosives. It is the only facility of its type for testing of equipment for use in explosives atmospheres. CERL is accredited as a testing laboratory under ISO / TEC Guide 25. The Explosives Regulatory Division of Natural Resources Canada is a major client because CERL is mandated to perform explosives testing under the Explosives Act. The Explosives Regulatory Division (ERD) is responsible for administering the Explosives Act and Regulations. This is done through a system of licenses and permits supported by a compliance inspection program. The importation, manufacture, storage, sale and some aspects of transportation by road of propellants, fireworks and other pyrotechnics in Canada is controlled under this program. The principal thrust is public and worker safety throughout Canada. Topics: MMSL – Mine and Mill Effluents; Mine Rehabilitation; Metals and the Environment; research in areas of acid mine drainage (AMD) prediction, prevention and control, treatment and monitoring; Aquatic Effects Technology Evaluation (AETE); Metallurgical Processing; certified and custom reference material for the mineral industry; uranium umpire analyses; Mine Mechanisation and Automation; Coal Mining Health and Safety; Ground Stability and Control; Underground Mine Environment. MTL – Materials selection; materials fabrication; in-service materials performance; materials characterization; materials prototype product production; experimental casting; pilot-scale rolling; formability testing; corrosion testing; mechanical testing; investigation of a wide variety of materials; simulated manufacturing processes; reduction of environmental impact of foundry operations; molten metal filtration; aluminium casting procedures; improved reheat furnace practices; elimination of quench and temper operations to reduce energy requirements; improved scrap analysis; high performance steels; computer modelling; characterization of metal-based powders for rechargeable batteries; forming techniques for aluminium; pipeline stress corrosion cracking; pipeline critical crack size prediction; pipeline corrosion inhibitors; non-destructive crack detection by electro-acoustic magnetic transducers; engineering critical assessment (ECA) and improved weld repair; new alloys for marine machinery; prediction of fracture resistance of steel and weldments for critical applications; development of codes and standards for reliable characterization and use of modern steels; materials selection for new and converted combustors; use of supplementary cementing materials; durability of concrete; concretes for extreme Canadian environments; high-performance concretes; non-destructive testing (NDT) certification. Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 004

Minerals, Metals and Explosives

Description: Information relating to the promotion of the sustainable development and use of Canada's mineral and metal resources, to the development of policies and technologies, and providing technical knowledge and advice to industry and government. Also includes information relating to the administration of the federal Explosive Act and Regulations, which control the sale, and storage of blasting explosives, propellants and pyrotechnics in Canada. Topics: Minerals and Metals; mining regulations and legislation; Explosives Regulations and legislation; Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology (CANMET); Ministers National Advisory Council on CANMET (MNACC); federal research and development programs; evaluation of technology transfer and marketing; business development; Minerals and Metals; mining regulations and legislation; explosives regulations and legislation; Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology (CANMET); National Advisory Board on Minerals and Metals S&T (NABMM); federal research and development programs; evaluation of technology transfer and marketing; business development; metals and the environment; acidic drainage and effluents; mine environment neutral drainage (MEND) and MEND 2000; mine decommissioning and rehabilitation; metallurgical processing; Canadian certified reference materials (CCRM); proficiency testing program for mineral analysis laboratories (PTP-MAL); ground control; underground mine environment; mine mechanization and automation; mine fill support systems; coal mining health and safety; diesel emissions evaluation program (DEEP); aquatic effects technology evaluation (AETE); sustainable casting; efficient metals production; advanced materials technologies; infrastructure reliability; advanced concrete; non-destructive testing certification. Note: Formerly Minerals and Metals, NRCan MMS 001 & Explosives Branch, NRCan MMS 005 Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 001

Petroleum Incentives Administration (Closed)

Description: Information relating to administering both the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act and the Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP) Act in order to actively contribute to the federal government's energy policy by increasing Canadian ownership and control of the petroleum industry and energy security in Canada. Topics: Committees; conferences; energy issues; oil and gas issues; Petroleum Incentives Administration reports; interdepartmental, international and provincial liaison. Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 110

Petroleum Incentives Program (Closed)

Description: Information on the development and maintenance of policies, systems, procedures and regulations related to the provision of the eligible costs and Crown share incentives to applicants. Includes receiving, analyzing and processing company applications for incentive contribution and issuing payments. Topics: Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP); petroleum incentives committees; petroleum incentives information management system; petroleum incentives research, analysis and forecasting; petroleum incentives operations; petroleum incentives applicant documentation; petroleum incentives processing procedures; petroleum incentives case assessment; petroleum incentives financial payments and controls; petroleum incentives data control and operations; petroleum incentives case control; well and geochemical; geological and geophysical data analysis; quality control and standards; petroleum incentives reviews and audits; reviews and audits standards and practices. Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 125

Petroleum Incentives Program Policy (Closed)

Description: Information relating to development and interpretation of the Petroleum Incentives Program legislation and regulations to increase Canadianization in the petroleum industry and to increase exploration and development in Canada. Includes assessment of case precedents and the development of policy, consistency of application of the PIP Act and Regulations, and the conduct of research, analysis and forecasting of demand in the oil and gas industry. Topics: Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP) Act; PIP Act interpretation; PIP administration; PIP disclosure of information; PIP enforcement and general sections; PIP regulations; interpretation of the PIP regulations. Program Record Number: NRCan MMS 130

♦ Strategic Planning and Coordination Branch SPCB

Administration

Description: Information created or received at the Corporate Level on the provision of managerial direction, and on financial, administrative, electronic data processing and human resources support for the achievement of federal and departmental objectives in the fields of energy, forestry, minerals and earth sciences.

Topics: Administration; campaigns and canvassing; ceremonies & celebrations; circulars and directives; administrative reports; NRCan program review; information management; Administration of Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) Acts; information technology; library services; human resources management; official languages; employment equity; human resources planning and management; executive resourcing, la relève; classification and organization; exchanges and loans; training and development; Canadian Centre for Management Development (CCMD); awards and honours; delegation of authority for personnel actions; staffing; temporary help services; employment; student employment programs; workforce adjustment; staff relations; appeals; grievances; unions; hours of work and overtime; leave and holidays; retirements and separations; pay and benefits; pension plans; income tax; insurance; administrative services; facilities planning, accommodation, buildings and properties, parking administration; telecommunications; material management; mail and messenger services; photocopying and printing services; vehicles; departmental security; occupational health and safety; financial management; accounts and accounting; advances; claims; cost recovery; estimates and budgets; expenditures; financial authorities; hospitality expenses; public accounts; financial reporting and information systems; travel allowances and expenses; class grants and contributions; corporate policy; management accountability and control; program activity structure; program planning; activity approval documents and reviews. Program Record Number: NRCan SPCB 010

Administration of Frontier Oil and Gas Lands (Closed)

Description: Information created or received by departmental executives on the development of oil and gas resources on frontier lands. Topics: Administration of frontier oil and gas lands; frontier oil and gas policy development and implementation; Canada benefits; coordination of resource management agreements; occupational and operational frontier oil and gas safety; environmental protection on frontier lands; environmental studies on frontier lands; resource development and conservation on frontier lands; rights and revenues administration on frontier lands; technological oil and gas research and development; international liaison on frontier land issues; project development funds; oil and gas management boards NOTE: The administration of Frontier Oil and Gas Lands Activity was officially disbanded September 1st, 1991. The activities were transferred to either the NRCan Mineral Policy Sector, the Energy Sector or to other government institutions. Program Record Number: NRCan SPCB 005

Canadian Forest Service

Description: Information created or received at the Corporate level on the promotion and competitiveness of the Canadian Forestry Sector for the well-being of present and future generations of Canadians. Topics: Canadian Forestry Service (CFS); communications; committees; conferences; memoranda to cabinet; liaison; public enquiries; associations and organizations; industry, trade and technology; science and sustainable development; federal/provincial forestry development agreements; private forests; model forests; aboriginal forestry; forest environment; forest health; entomology; policy and economics; legislation and policy; state of Canada's forests annual report to parliament; national forestry database program; operations. Program Record Number: NRCan SPCB 011

Corporate Executive

Description: Information created or received by departmental executives on the activities of the Department's programs. Topics: Corporate executive; committees; Natural Resources Canada management committee; liaison; interdepartmental liaison; provincial liaison; barriers to interprovincial trade; associations and organizations; industry liaison; university and college liaison; international liaison; USA liaison; Canada/USA free trade agreement (FTA); legal services – acts & legislation, litigations and legal actions, Canadian sovereignty; EMR mission – project office, council, action plan & task force, service to the public, management / leadership, communications, human resources practices, internal services, linking science and policy; action entre nous; environmental affairs – public enquiries, conferences, committees, international environmental issues, associations and organizations, memoranda to cabinet, acts and legislation, water issues, land issues; excellence; strategic planning and coordination; annual regulatory plan; senior managers conference; memoranda to cabinet; aboriginal issues; executive correspondence procedures; orders-in-council; Treasury Board Submissions; Ministers briefing book; parliamentary affairs; parliamentary committees; parliamentary enquiries; science and technology activities; science and policy linkages colloquium (SPLINK); science and technology policy review; interdepartmental committee on global change (IGGC); Audit and Evaluation; Auditor General; internal audit; program evaluation; communications; public enquires; advertising campaigns; publishing; requests for publications; exhibitions and displays.

Program Record Number: NRCan SPCB 001

Earth Sciences Sector

Description: Information created or received by corporate secretariat regarding the availability of comprehensive knowledge, technology and expertise and the establishment of policies, strategies and programs for mineral and energy resources, for national surveying mapping programs and for remote sensing. Topics: Earth Sciences; public enquiries; memoranda to cabinet; energy, mines and resources research agreement program; communications; associations and organizations; committees; conferences; liaison; environmental issues; geological surveys; cordilleran and pacific geoscience; Atlantic geoscience; sedimentary and petroleum geology; lithosphere and Canadian shield; mineral resources; geophysics; geodynamics; geomagnetism; gravity; seismology; terrain sciences; polar continental shelf; logistics; Geomatics Canada (GC); Canada centre for surveying (CCS); Canada Centre for mapping (CCM); Geological survey program coordination and planning; Canada Centre for Remote Sensing (CCRS); Geographical Information Systems (GIS); Canadian Space Agency (CSA); European Space Agency; satellite data; airborne program; radarsat. Program Record Number: NRCan SPCB 008

Energy

Description: Information created or received by departmental executives on the planning and implementation of energy programs and services in support of the Minister's parliamentary functions, including the development and execution of program planning, evaluation and information functions directed towards national energy policy objectives. Topics: Energy; native rights and land claims; policy; associations and organizations; conferences; liaison; USA energy issues; canadianization; Investment Canada; crown corporations; frontier and western accords; energy and the environment; public enquiries; voluntary challenge and registry program (VCR); economic and financial analysis; public utilities income tax transfer act (PUITTA); offshore frontier project analysis; Sable island project analysis; upgrader project analysis; income energy project analysis; Hibernia project analysis; Petroleum Monitoring Agency; oil gas, public enquiries; oil & gas industry liaison; natural gas; natural gas public enquiries; oil pricing, taxes & charges, transportation, pipelines; crude oil and petroleum products; international oil markets; provincial natural gas activities; natural gas exports, pricing, pipelines; natural gas market development incentives payment; international natural gas; energy emergency planning; Energy Supplies Allocation Board; energy demand restraint measures; electricity; public enquiries; Canadian Electrical Association; international electrical energy; USA electrical energy; electrical technology; regional and interprovincial electrical energy; electrical energy – provinces; uranium and nuclear energy; Canadian Nuclear Association; Canadian nuclear society; international uranium and nuclear activities; International Atomic Energy Agency; nuclear power; heavy water; uranium, exploration, production, enrichment and processing; radioactive waste management; high level irradiated fuel waste management; low level radioactive waste management; efficiency and alternative energy; Initiatives; federal building initiatives (FBI); industrial / commercial energy efficiency; energy innovators venture; residential sector energy conservation; R-2000; alternative energy; transportation energy; alternative transportation fuels; driver outreach programs; vehicles. Program Record Number: NRCan SPCB 004

Security Investigations Records

Description: This bank contains reports of complaints and irregularities in relation to criminal or security matters. This bank may also contain personal information obtained on individuals during the course of an investigation conducted by the Departmental Security Office. This bank consists of investigation and occurrence reports, written statements, documentary exhibits and other related correspondence. Information in this bank may be maintained on paper documents and automated / electronic / magnetic form. Class of Individuals: Employees of the Department, contractors dealing with the Department and the general public. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to investigate and determine the veracity of alleged criminal or statutory offences against the Department or by an employee. The purpose of this bank is also to records information on security violations and infractions. It may also be used as evidence in court, to monitor trends, to determine corrective measures, to evaluate effectiveness of safeguards and to share information with human resources and/or other government departments. Consistent Uses: The information is used by departmental authorities to support decisions regarding disciplinary measures. In the case of a criminal investigation, records are made available to the RCMP or other recognized police force or investigative body. This information is also used for planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: These records are retained for five years after the last administrative action. National Archives is consulted for selective retention. Contact: Director, Security, CSS PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: NRCan CSS 003 TBS Registration: 004135 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 87

Service Contracts

Description: Information relating to the provision of services by individuals and firms in the private sector to assist in departmental activities and programs. Class of Individuals: Contractors. Purpose: To provide information relative to contracts awarded by the Department. Contracts awarded by the Department of Public Works and Government Services Canada on behalf of NRCan are not included. Consistent Uses: To compile statistical information with respect to numbers of contracts awarded by the Department. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are destroyed six years after completion and non-renewal of contract. Contact: Assistant Director, Quality Control and Training, CSS-FMB PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: NRCan CSS 790 TBS Registration: 000404 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 035

Telecommunications

Description: This bank contains information on all telecommunications services and equipment installed or available for use in departmental and/or telework offices including details of long distance calls placed from a departmental telephone, and the cost associated with the equipment and use of these services. It may include call detail recording information for all long distance calls placed from departmental telephones and for all local and/or long distance calls from departmental cellular telephones. The information could consist of the originating number or extension, the number dialed, the location dialed, the date and time the call started and ended, the duration of the call, and the cost. Class of Individuals: All Corporate Services Sector (CSS) employees and contractors working on behalf of CSS and using departmental facilities. Purpose: To facilitate the management of telecommunications. Consistent Uses: The information is used by the Telecommunications Unit to manage, control, forecast, plan, and analyze the performance of telecom services. Usage information is provided to CSS Responsibility Centre Managers or Authorized Customer Representatives to enable them to manage and control usage including ensuring that telecommunications services and equipment are used appropriately. Retention and Disposal Standards: Financial transaction information is retained for six years. Contact: Manager, Telecommunications. PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: NRCan CSS 003 TBS Registration: 004063 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 90

Vendor Payments.

Description: This bank within the departmental financial system contains information relating to all payments issued by the department. The information for both suppliers and departmental employees is gathered under a unique vendor number. In the case of departmental employees, the vendor number is their Personal Record Identifier number (PRI). The bank contains names, addresses, amounts paid, invoice number, date entered and the financial coding block which classifies payments in accordance with the Government of Canada's chart of accounts. Class of Individuals: Any supplier or departmental employee receiving payment/reimbursement through the departmental financial system. Purpose: The purpose of the information bank is to process and record all payments made by the department. Consistent Uses: The information is used to account for, and report on, departmental expenditures. This includes preparation of the Public Accounts, responding to audit, parliamentary, ATIP and internal inquiries and preparation of expenditure reports. Payment information is also downloaded to other internal management reporting systems. Data is disclosed to outside sources only through the Access to Information Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for a period of 6 years. Contact: Assistant Director, Financial Systems and Training, CSS-FMB. Related to PR#: NRCan CSS 720 TBS Registration: 003340 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 080

Board of Examiners for Canada Lands Surveyors

Description: Information relating to applications to write Canada Lands Surveyor exams including applicants' names, addresses, date of birth, country of birth, academic qualifications and work experience. Class of Individuals: Individuals who applied to qualify as Dominion of Canada Lands Surveyors before 1999. Purpose: Information was used by the Board of Examiners for Dominion of Canada Lands to qualify candidates as Dominion Canada Lands Surveyors. Consistent Uses: Verification of qualification as Dominion of Canada Lands Surveyor. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information retained permanently. Contact: Director, Legal Surveys Division, ESS PAC Number: 85-010 Related to PR#: NRCan GC 405 TBS Registration: 000399 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 010

Earth Sciences Sector (ESS) Volunteers Program

Description: This bank contains information and applications from Canadian and foreign individuals, public or private groups, high school, college and university students school teachers, scientists, senior citizens and retirees and part-time workers with time to spare. Applicants provide their name, address, telephone number, person to contact in case of emergency, work location preference, language, skills, abilities, educational background, experience desired, availability and objectives for working as a volunteer. ESS provides the date of commencement and termination of assignment. Class of Individuals: Individuals 18 years of age or older who wish to volunteer their time and services to ESS. Purpose: As of April 1, 1993, the Volunteers Program will enable the sector to formally accept and utilize voluntary help and services. Through many challenging opportunities, volunteers can gain new experiences in earth sciences while volunteering at headquarters located in Ottawa or at the regional offices located in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia; Sainte-Foy and Sherbrooke, Québec; Calgary and Edmonton, Alberta; Vancouver and Sidney, British Columbia; and Yellowknife, NWT. Consistent Uses: A Volunteers Program Database has been developed to record information on potential volunteers and will be provided to division representatives and project managers to identify applicants suitable for particular projects. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records of assignments are retained for two years after the termination of the agreement. Contact: ESS Volunteers Program Coordinator Related to PR#: NRCan GSC 350 TBS Registration: 002879 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 070

♦ Energy Sector

Canadian Home Insulation Program (CHIP) Grants

Description: Cases relating to individual applications, invoices, inspection reports and pertinent correspondence pertaining to grants provided to householders for insulation materials and labour costs. Class of Individuals: Grant applicants. Purpose: This bank was intended to document the administration of the taxable CHIP grants provided to homeowners for the insulation of their homes, and to issue T-4 slips. The bank is now maintained so that homeowners may obtain information on whether a particular house was insulated under the CHIP program. This information is used for real estate transactions, so that a home vendor or buyer can determine if a house was insulated with the now-banned Urea Formaldehyde Foam Insulation (UFFI). In some provinces a vendor must certify that the house does not contain UFFI. This information is not shared at present with any other department, and is accessible only through the ATIP. Consistent Uses: Information is shared with Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, which answers specific enquiries regarding program applications through regional offices located across Canada.

Retention and Disposal Standards: After program termination in March 1986, individual grant information existing in all media will be copied onto approximately 70-100 tapes which will then be retained another six years in a federal records centre. In March 1994, the retention of CHIP was extended for an additional five years. Contact: Director General, Energy Efficiency Branch, ES PAC Number: 85-015 Related to PR#: NRCan ES 245 TBS Registration: 000401 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 020

Natural Gas Vehicle Program

Description: Contains information and applications from individual private use vehicle owners and fleet operators for a contribution of up to $2000 for each vehicle converted to a natural gas fuel system or for a new factory-equipped vehicle purchased by the applicant, including copies of vehicle ownerships, invoices, purchase orders and work orders substantiating the application for each vehicle. Class of Individuals: Private use vehicle owners and corporations and businesses operating vehicles eligible under the program. Purpose: The information is used to substantiate applications, the cost of conversions, to determine the amount to be paid to applicants and for statistical and audit purposes relative to the program. Consistent Uses: Natural gas utilities in the provinces, accept and process applications on behalf of the Department under a Contribution Agreement.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The natural gas utilities maintain one copy of each application and any supporting documentation submitted by the applicant during the term of the program and for a period of up to two years following termination of the program. All such records are subject to review or audit by representatives of Canada. Contact: Director General, Office of Energy Efficiency, ES Related to PR#: NRCan ES 245 TBS Registration: 002776 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 060

Offshore Operations – Divers (CLOSED)

Description: Cases relating to an individual diver's diving history. The information consists of the names, addresses, birthdates, birthplaces, physical condition and training of divers. Class of Individuals: Individuals – divers. Purpose: Main use is to provide rapid access to a diver's history to expedite certification and provide data required for annual certification. Diving program approval is contingent upon knowledge of an individual diver's qualifications and work history in order to prevent accidents caused by lack of experience in unusual circumstances. Consistent Uses: Information is also used to develop statistical profiles of the diving population, and to otherwise identify areas of diving regulations requiring updating and improvement for increased diver safety. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained until the diver reaches

65 years of age, and for two years thereafter, after which the data will be transferred to the National Archives of Canada for archival purposes. Contact: Director General, Energy Resources Branch, ES PAC Number: 85-010 Related to PR#: NRCan ES 230 TBS Registration: 000406 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 045

♦ Minerals and Metals Sector (MMS)

Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (CEIP)

Description: This bank contains information relating to the Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (CEIP) and the Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program (CEDIP). The CEIP incentive was available to any corporation that incurred eligible exploration expenses for mineral or oil and gas exploration in Canada using funds raised through the issue of flow-through shares. The CEDIP incentive was available to any individual, corporation or trust that incurred eligible expenses for oil and gas exploration in Canada. Applicants were required to complete forms on which they provided their identification, the amount of incentive claimed and the eligible expenses of each well, program, or project claimed. Applicants also provided a certification confirming the completeness and accuracy of the information submitted. Applicants were required to submit technical data and detailed expense summaries for each well, program or project claimed when this information was not submitted previously. If an applicant shared the $10 million annual expense limit with another person or persons, a form specifying the amount allocated to each person had to be completed. Class of Individuals: Under CEIP, individuals who were partners in a partnership that had acquired flow-through shares and individuals who were associated with applicant corporations. Under CEDIP, individuals who apply for incentives for oil and gas exploration and development in Canada. Purpose: The objective of collecting this information was to determine the eligibility of claimants and expenses for the purpose of making incentive payments. Consistent Uses: This information will also be used to determine cost norms for expenses; to track and control outstanding and completed applications; to facilitate recovery of incentives paid in error; to audit claimants' expenses and eligibility; and to establish internal effectiveness of the incentive payment process. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for 10 years after program termination. Information is then transferred to Federal Archives Division, National Archives of Canada, for archival purposes. The CEIP Program was terminated on February 20, 1990. Contact: Director General, Economic and Financial Analysis Branch, MMS Related to PR#: NRCan MPS 596 TBS Registration: 001868 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 055

Certification in Non-Destructive Testing

Description: Information relating to the certification, on a national and international basis, of non-destructive testing personnel in accordance with the CAN / CGSB-48-9712 – 95. This standard fully complies with the ISO standard 9712: 1992 (E) on certification of NDT personnel. Aspects include examination and re-certification in industrial radiography, ultrasonics, magnetic particle, liquid penetrant, and eddy current methods. Includes names, addresses, medical certification on eyesight, original application forms, examination copies and results, date(s) of certification and methods, and data on three-year term certification renewal of individuals who undergo examination. Class of Individuals: Individuals desiring certification in non-destructive testing. Purpose: Information is used to certify individuals in non-destructive testing and answer queries from outside organizations on an individual's certification status. The information is also used to prepare a list of certified personnel in good standing, which is published annually and made available to the public. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained ten years after expiry of certification. Contact: Director General, Mineral Technology Branch, MMS PAC Number: 85-010 Related to PR#: NRCan METS 465 TBS Registration: 000400 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 015

Emergency Fuel Rationing Program (CLOSED)

Description: This bank contains information relating to the implementation of an emergency fuel rationing program in Canada required in the event of a severe oil shortage and pursuant to the Energy Supplies Emergency Act (1979). Ration coupons would be issued to eligible applicants who would be required to provide various discrete personal data elements such as name, address, vehicle plate number and driver's license number. Business applicants would be required to provide information on the nature of their business and fuel consumption over specific periods in order to enable calculation of their ration share. Individuals would be hired under contract to collect this information and issue the ration coupons. Class of Individuals: Individuals who purchase gasoline and diesel fuel at retail outlets during rationing and individuals hired under contract to issue coupons. Purpose: The data would be collected in order to administer the various aspects of the fuel rationing program and only in the event that such rationing is necessary. Consistent Uses: Information would be used to substantiate applicants' eligibility to obtain fuel coupons. Selected samples of vehicle registration data will be checked for accuracy with the Motor Vehicle Registrars in each province. Information relating to individuals hired under contract will be used for processing payments. Retention and Disposal Standards: The Emergency Fuel Rationing personal information bank will be retained for two years after the discontinuance of the rationing program, then transferred to the federal Archives Division, National Archives of Canada, for archival purposes. Contact: Director General – Energy Resources Branch, ES Related to PR#: NRCan ES 195 TBS Registration: 002833 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 050

Explosives Licenses and Permits

Description: Information relating to the issue and control of licenses and permits granted for storage, transportation by road, importation, manufacture and sale of explosives. Class of Individuals: All individuals with a need to manufacture, store, transport, or handle explosives. Purpose: To fulfil the responsibility of the Explosives Regulatory Division as the federal licensing and inspection agency for explosives in Canada. Consistent Uses: Transmittal of information to investigative bodies when an infraction or incident concerning explosives occurs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Licenses and permits are retained for seven years after expiry date. Contact: Chief Inspector of Explosives, Explosives Branch, MMS PAC Number: 85-010 Related to PR#: NRCan METS 530 and 540 TBS Registration: 000398 Bank Number: NRCan PPU 005

Classes of Personal Information

Explosives Safety and Accident Statistics – Explosives Regulatory Division

The purpose of this class is to provide a record of statistics on safety measures in the explosives industry as well as on all accidents related to explosives. The files contain information on the nature of the accident as well as the victim's name, age and address, if applicable. Records are retained for 25 years after the date of the incident and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention.

Human Resources Planning and Management

Personal information about employees is also maintained in other departmental files and data bases held by various organizations involved in the human resource planning and management functions. Such systems are used to provide aggregated reports for the purpose of human resource planning and management and to assist in analysis of trends or developments. Although some of the information may be retrieved by a personal identifier, the data bases are not used to provide information about individual employees nor to make any administrative decisions affecting individual employees.

Mailing Lists

This class includes correspondence and request cards from individuals regarding departmental mailing lists for publications. The information is used for amending addresses and to add or delete individual names on mailing lists, which are retained permanently. The correspondence and request cards are retained until the mailing list has been amended.

Ministerial Correspondence

This class of information contains correspondence addressed to the Minister and/or Deputy Minister from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Natural Resources Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Public Opinion Research

This is a class of records generated by departmental officials who conducted public opinion research on a vast spectrum of topics related to the mandate and mission of the Department of Natural Resources Canada. Retrievable records consist of data gathering instruments, such as, but not exclusively, questionnaires which may contain personal information that reveals the identification of the research subject. Data contained in this class of records are not used for administrative purposes. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the title of the research project in which they participated, the location and the date of the research, and any other data that may help to identify and locate the personal information they are seeking.

Research Agreements Program

This class contains applications for grant submitted to the Department from candidates affiliated with Canadian research institutions. Applications contain information on the description and budget for the proposed project and the applicant's curriculum vitae. The information is used to select and award grants in the natural, physical and social sciences and engineering which can contribute to the Department's purpose. The information is also used to compile general statistics of interest to the Department with respect to the program as a whole, and not in relation to individual applicants. The program was terminated in April 1994. Accepted applications are destroyed after a period of six fiscal years (until April 2000) and those not accepted are destroyed after two fiscal years (until April 1996.)

Security Video Surveillance

This class includes video surveillance tapes for close circuit television (CCTV) cameras located on the perimeters of or within departmental facilities. The cameras record the image of employees and visitors entering and exiting some of the department's facilities or movements within certain restricted areas of the department. Access to the videotapes is strictly controlled by the Departmental Security Officer. Video information that reveals evidence of illegal activity, employee misconduct or accidents may be disclosed to appropriate staff relations, enforcement or investigative bodies for further investigations, charges or disciplinary actions. The tapes are normally kept for a thirty day period and are then reused. In the case of video information used in the conduct of an investigation, the video evidence is kept indefinitely.

Technical Enquiries – Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology (CANMET)

This class includes technical enquiries, comments and opinions of individuals corresponding with the Department regarding issues related to mining and mineral technology. The information is used for reference purposes regarding any subsequent enquiry by an individual. Correspondence is retained for a minimum of two years.

Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada

Chapter 96

General Information

Background

The Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council (NSERC) is the national instrument for making strategic investments in Canada's capability in science and technology. NSERC was established in 1978 as a departmental corporation, a specialized agency that operates at arm's length from government. It is responsible for the promotion and support of research in the natural sciences and engineering, other than the health sciences. NSERC supports basic university research through research grants and project research through partnerships of universities with industry, as well as the advanced training of highly qualified people in both areas.

Responsibilities

NSERC's mission is to foster the discovery and application of knowledge through the support of university research and the training of scientists and engineers. The Council promotes the use of this knowledge to build a strong national economy and improve the quality of life of all Canadians. NSERC fulfills its mission by awarding grants and scholarships through a competitive process and by building partnerships among universities, governments and the private sector.

Over 8,000 Canadian researchers benefit from NSERC support. In addition, over 3,300 Canadians hold an NSERC scholarship or fellowship. NSERC programs provide employment to about 14,000 persons, of which 80% are students and postdoctoral fellows; the remainder are skilled technicians and research professionals.

Legislation

- Government Organization (Scientific Activities) Act (1976)

Organization

President

The President, who is chief executive officer of Council, is responsible for the overall management and direction of the work of Council staff in the development and delivery of programs.

♦ Communications

This division is responsible for publications, media relations and public affairs.

♦ Research Grants and Scholarships Directorate

This directorate co-ordinates activities associated with support of the research base (research grants in support of a spectrum of research activities, grants for the purchase, operation and maintenance of research equipment, facilities and installations) as well as the prestigious E.W.R. Steacie Memorial Fellowships. It also administers awards to undergraduate and graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, and scientists and engineers for advanced study and research training in Canadian universities, industry, and government laboratories.

♦ Common Administrative Services Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the systems and services which support NSERC's officers and staff and facilitate the implementation of programs. In general, this includes administration, finance, human resources management and information management.

♦ Council Secretariat

The Secretariat co-ordinates Council's parliamentary requirements and administers a complex network of committees which form the basis of NSERC's operations. The office plays an important co-ordination role in corporate policy within NSERC and in liaison with central agencies and external organizations. It is also responsible for the administration of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act and for ethical issues related to research.

♦ Policy and International Relations

This division co-ordinates strategic planning, program policy development, evaluation, internal audit, international relations and special research projects.

♦ Research Partnerships Directorate

This directorate administers programs intended to promote research in selected fields of national importance and to forge closer links between the university research community, research-oriented government departments and the private sector. These include Strategic Projects, Research Networks and University-Industry projects.

Personal Information Banks

♦ Research Grants and Scholarships Directorate

Collaborative Research Initiatives

Description: This bank contains information related to applications for support of collaborative research initiatives submitted by individuals who hold academic appointments in eligible Canadian academic institutions. It also contains information related to the administration of these types of awards. It includes details of applicants' post-secondary education, professional experience, and proposals, as well as referee and committee assessments, decisions, reports and recommendations. Class of Individuals: Individuals who apply to NSERC for support of collaborative projects and third parties from whom NSERC has requested assessments of proposals. Purpose: All personal information related to applicants is used to review applications and to administer and monitor awards and programs. Consistent Uses: Consistent with these purposes, applicants should also expect that personal information about them held by NSERC may be used and disclosed in the following ways: 1. As part of peer review, applications are disclosed to selection committees composed of experts recruited from the academic, private and public sectors. In some cases, applications may also be reviewed by external referees, members of ad hoc review committees or site visit committees. Reviews and selection committee comments about a proposal are accessible to co-applicants. 2. NSERC uses personal information about applicants in its files and databases to identify prospective committee members and reviewers for specific grant scholarship or fellowship applications. 3. Because NSERC has a single corporate database, NSERC staff are generally aware of applications submitted by the same individual to different NSERC programs. Some selection committees are provided with multi-year summaries of an individual's NSERC applications and awards in all programs. In cases when, for example, there is a question of possible overlap in the support of an applicant's research activities by two or more NSERC programs, application material submitted to one program may be used during the review of an application submitted to another program. Similarly, applications may be disclosed to program staff in the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council or the Medical Research Council for the purposes of determining the most appropriate funding jurisdiction or to monitor overlap in federal support. 4. NSERC routinely publishes and disseminates certain details about successful applications. These include name of the applicant(s), award type, amount awarded, institution and department, the discipline or field of research, the project title and, beginning in 1996 for grant programs, a summary of the research proposal prepared by the applicant for public reference. 5. Files and databases containing personal information may also be used by NSERC for program planning, evaluation and review and in audits and for generating statistics for these activities. 6. Information submitted to NSERC is subject to the Tri-Council Policy on Integrity in Research and Scholarship and may be used and disclosed consistent with that policy. 7. NSERC collects data on the gender of applicants on a voluntary basis only and uses it to promote the increased participation of women in NSERC programs and on NSERC committees. 8. NSERC also uses the information in its files and databases to generate mailing lists in order to disseminate its publications and other information to the research community. Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper files, some of which contain documentation on successive applications and awards, are retained by NSERC until ten years from the date of the last correspondence on file. Note: These programs were discontinued in 1996. Related to PR#: SER 031 TBS Registration: 002573 Bank Number: SER PPU 055

General Support Programs

Description: This bank contains applications, forms and correspondence related to NSERC's research support and other programs which provide support for research personnel. This would include the Attachés de recherche du CRSNG*, the E.W.R. Steacie Fellowships, and some Miscellaneous Grants*. Files may contain details of applicant's post-secondary education, professional experience, referee and selection committee assessments, and Council's decisions. They may also contain administrative and financial documents related to the administration of awards. Class of Individuals: Individuals who participate in NSERC's Research Support and other general support programs and third parties from whom NSERC has requested assessments of proposals.

Purpose: All personal information related to applicants is used to review applications and to administer and monitor awards and programs. Consistent Uses: Consistent with these purposes, applicants should also expect that personal information about them held by NSERC may be used and disclosed in the following ways: 1. As part of peer review, applications are disclosed to selection committees composed of experts recruited from the academic, private and public sectors. In some cases, applications may also be reviewed by external referees, members of ad hoc review committees or site visit committees. Reviews and selection committee comments about a proposal are accessible to co-applicants. 2. NSERC uses personal information about applicants in its files and databases to identify prospective committee members and reviewers for specific grant scholarship or fellowship applications. 3. Because NSERC has a single corporate database, NSERC staff are generally aware of applications submitted by the same individual to different NSERC programs. Some selection committees are provided with multi-year summaries of an individual's NSERC applications and awards in all programs. Similarly, applications may be disclosed to program staff in the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council or the Medical Research Council for the purposes of determining the most appropriate funding jurisdiction or to monitor overlap in federal support. 4. NSERC routinely publishes and disseminates certain details about successful applications. These include name of the applicant(s), award type, amount awarded, institution and department, the discipline or field of research, the project title and, beginning in 1996 for grant programs, a summary of the research proposal prepared by the applicant for public reference. 5. Files and databases containing personal information may also be used by NSERC for program planning, evaluation and review and in audits and for generating statistics for these activities. 6. Information submitted to NSERC is subject to the Tri-Council Policy on Integrity in Research and Scholarship and may be used and disclosed consistent with that policy. 7. NSERC collects data on the gender of applicants on a voluntary basis only and uses it to promote the increased participation of women in NSERC programs and on NSERC committees. 8. NSERC also uses the information in its files and databases to generate mailing lists in order to disseminate its publications and other information to the research community. Retention and Disposal Standards: Case files, which can include documentation related to a series of successive applications, are retained by NSERC until seven years from the date of the last correspondence on file. Note: Programs marked * discontinued in 1995. Related to PR#: SER 041; SER 045 TBS Registration: 002574 Bank Number: SER PPU 060

Lists of External Referees

Description: This bank contains names, affiliation and mailing addresses of individuals in Canada and abroad who are asked by the Council to review proposals for grants to individuals and groups. Only a few of the fields of natural sciences and engineering are included in this bank. Persons requesting access to their personal data should provide field of research, name and affiliation. Class of Individuals: individuals in Canada and abroad who are asked by the Council to review proposals for grants. Purpose: The information is used to select external referees for research proposals. Retention and Disposal Standards: The retention period for records in this bank is under review. TBS Registration: 003514 Bank Number: SER PPU 050

Register of Canadians Studying Abroad

Description: This bank contains information on the professional qualifications of Canadians who are doing postgraduate or postdoctoral work in the natural sciences or engineering in foreign universities and institutes and who have registered with NSERC so that their availability may be made known to participating Canadian employers who require qualified research personnel. Information includes name, address, current field of study or research, and details of post-secondary education. Class of Individuals: Canadian graduate and postgraduate students studying or working in foreign countries who have registered with NSERC. Purpose: Information in the bank is used to facilitate the return to Canada of highly qualified scientists and engineers to meet the needs of Canadian employers. Consistent Uses: NSERC uses the information in the Register to evaluate its programs and to produce statistics and planning information. NSERC also searches the electronic database file associated with the Scholarships and Fellowships Personal Information Bank to identify potential registrants from among scholars receiving NSERC support. These individuals are then contacted and invited to register. Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper documents are retained for three calendar years after the year of registration. Registrants are removed from the electronic database upon request or automatically if no update is received for three years. Note: Program discontinued 1995. Related to PR#: SER 065 TBS Registration: 002577 Bank Number: SER PPU 075

Research Grants

Description: This bank contains information related to individual, team and project Research Grant applications as well as applications for equipment, Major Installation and Infrastructure Grants submitted by researchers who hold academic appointments in eligible Canadian academic institutions. It also includes information related to the administration of these types of awards. It includes details of applicants' post-secondary education and professional experience, proposals, referee and selection committee assessments, and Council's decisions. Class of Individuals: Applicants for NSERC Research, equipment, major installation, and infrastructure grants and third-party reviewers from whom NSERC has requested assessments of proposals. Purpose: All personal information related to applicants is used to review applications and to administer and monitor awards and programs. Consistent Uses: Consistent with these purposes, applicants should also expect that personal information about them held by NSERC may be used and disclosed in the following ways: 1. As part of peer review, applications are disclosed to selection committees composed of experts recruited from the academic, private and public sectors. In some cases, applications may also be reviewed by external referees, members of ad hoc review committees or site visit committees. Reviews and selection committee comments about a proposal are accessible to co-applicants. 2. NSERC uses personal information about applicants in its files and databases to identify prospective committee members and reviewers for specific grant scholarship or fellowship applications. 3. ##### Employment Applications

Description: This bank contains information for reference on candidates available for employment at the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council when vacancies arise. It contains letters, completed application forms, applicant resumes; it may contain comments of the interviewer, letters of reference and other application information on individuals who have applied for specific advertised openings or an appropriate future opening. Individuals wishing access should provide their full name and address. Class of Individuals: Individuals who apply for employment with the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council. Purpose: Information is used for staffing vacancies as they arise. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two fiscal years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 003515 Bank Number: SER PPU 045

♦ Council Secretariat

Access Request Data Bank

Description: This bank contains the access request forms sent to NSERC by individuals requesting access to records and to personal information, the replies to these requests, and information related to their processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have made requests to NSERC under the Access to Information Act or the Privacy Act. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to administer requests made under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are maintained for two years following the last administrative action. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 001627 Bank Number: SER PPU 035

Committee Nominations and Membership

Description: This bank includes the names of individuals who have been recommended or nominated for participation on NSERC committees. It may include affiliations, addresses and telephone numbers, areas of expertise, the name of the person who made the nomination as well as information on the individual's past participation and future availability. For individuals who confirm their acceptance of a nomination, the bank may also include a current curriculum vitae, and fuller information on the membership selection process including staff reports and the views of discipline experts consulted about the nominations. Class of Individuals: Members of the scientific and engineering community in Canada and abroad nominated by their peers or identified by NSERC as prospective committee members. Individuals who agree to serve on NSERC committees. Persons who nominate or recommend others as prospective committee members. Individuals consulted by NSERC staff during the committee membership selection process. Purpose: This information is used to identify and select individuals with specific technical knowledge and expertise to participate on NSERC committees. Consistent Uses: Information related to nominees may be disclosed to members of current NSERC committees and/or other discipline experts for the purpose of obtaining their opinions on the committee composition. In cases where NSERC proposes to disclose information about nominees to others to obtain their views, staff first contact the nominees to advise them about this process and obtain their consent. Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years after the last administrative action. Related to PR#: SER 006 TBS Registration: 003939 Bank Number: SER PPU 022

Compliance – Integrity in Research and Scholarship

Description: This bank includes correspondence and reports collected and generated in the course of monitoring institutional and individual compliance with the Tri-Council Policy Statement on Integrity in Research and Scholarship. It may include allegations of non-compliance, requests from NSERC to research institutions to explore allegations, summaries of institutional findings and sanctions imposed by NSERC. Class of Individuals: Individuals who make allegations about breaches of the Tri-Council Policy Statement on Integrity in Research and Scholarship, individuals who are the subject of allegations, officials in research institutions or in the academic community involved in determining whether allegations are well-founded. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to monitor the compliance of research institutions and individual researchers with the Tri-Council Policy Statement on Integrity in Research and Scholarship. Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years after the last administrative action. Summary information related to sanctions maintained for the duration of the sanction. Related to PR#: SER 006 TBS Registration: 003940 Bank Number: SER PPU 023

Strategic Projects

Description: This bank contains information related to applications received from researchers in Canadian academic institutions for support under the Strategic Projects program and information related to the administration of these awards. It includes details of applicants' post-secondary education, professional experience, and research proposals as well as referee and selection panel assessments, and Council's decisions.

Class of Individuals: Applicants for NSERC Strategic Project support and third-party reviewers from whom NSERC has requested assessments of applications.

Purpose: All personal information related to applicants is used to review applications and to administer and monitor awards and programs. Consistent Uses: Consistent with these purposes, applicants should also expect that personal information about them held by NSERC may be used and disclosed in the following ways:

1. As part of peer review, applications are disclosed to selection committees composed of experts recruited from the academic, private and public sectors. In some cases, applications may also be reviewed by external referees, members of ad hoc review committees or site visit committees. Reviews and selection committee comments about a proposal are accessible to co-applicants.

2. NSERC uses personal information about applicants in its files and databases to identify prospective committee members and reviewers for specific grant scholarship or fellowship applications.
3. Because NSERC has a single corporate database, NSERC staff are generally aware of applications submitted by the same individual to different NSERC programs. Some selection committees are provided with multi-year summaries of an individual's NSERC applications and awards in all programs. In cases when, for example, there is a question of possible overlap in the support of an applicant's research activities by two or more NSERC programs, application material submitted to one program may be used during the review of an application submitted to another program. Similarly, applications may be disclosed to program staff in the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council or the Medical Research Council for the purposes of determining the most appropriate funding jurisdiction or to monitor overlap in federal support.
4. NSERC routinely publishes and disseminates certain details about successful applications. These include name of the applicant(s), award type, amount awarded, institution and department, the discipline or field of research, the project title and, beginning in 1996 for grant programs, a summary of the research proposal prepared by the applicant for public reference. 5. Files and databases containing personal information may also be used by NSERC for program planning, evaluation and review and in audits and for generating statistics for these activities. 6. Information submitted to NSERC is subject to the Tri-Council Policy on Integrity in Research and Scholarship and may be used and disclosed consistent with that policy. 7. NSERC collects data on the gender of applicants on a voluntary basis only and uses it to promote the increased participation of women in NSERC programs and on NSERC committees. 8. NSERC also uses the information in its files and databases to generate mailing lists in order to disseminate its publications and other information to the research community. Retention and Disposal Standards: Inactive paper files, which may include documentation related to multiple applications, are retained by NSERC until seven years after the date of the last correspondence. Related to PR#: SER 070 TBS Registration: 002578 Bank Number: SER PPU 080

Classes of Personal Information

Subject files

NSERC's subject files contain a certain amount of personal information not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. Typically, this includes personal addresses associated with routine requests for information or opinions expressed by individuals in correspondence with NSERC on program matters.

This kind of personal information is not used for any specific administrative purpose. It is normally retrievable only if the requester gives details about the subject, date, and circumstances under which the information was provided to NSERC. The retention period for this kind of information is governed by schedules approved by the National Archivist for various subject files in which it is stored.

North Fraser Port Authority

Chapter 97

General Information

Background

The North Fraser Port Authority was established pursuant to the Canada Marine Act which received Royal Assent on the 11th day of June 1998. As a consequential amendment, the port authority was added to Schedule I of the Access to Information Act and the Schedule of the Privacy Act.

Port North Fraser encompasses all of the waters of the North and Middle Arms of the Fraser River extending from the point of their confluence with the sea at the Strait of Georgia then easterly and upstream a distance of 29 kilometres (18 miles) to a point just below the westerly tip-end of Poplar Island. The harbour is bounded on the North by the University Endowment Lands, the Cities of Vancouver and New Westminster and the City of Burnaby and on the south by the City of Richmond.

Responsibilities

The role of the port is to provide innovative and responsible leadership in the administration of the North Arm's river highway and to ensure that all development enhances the economic opportunity, recreational potential and environmental integrity of the area. In support of this role, the Port Authority will work with other public and private organizations as partners in areas of mutual interest.

Legislation

- Canada Marine Act, R.S.C. 1998, Chapter C-10
- Port Authorities Management Regulations
- Port Authorities Operating Regulations

Organization

President and Chief Executive Officer

The President and Chief Executive Officer of the North Fraser Port Authority is the head of the institution for the purposes of the Access to Information Act exercises all the powers and responsibilities pertaining to this function under the Act in question.

Operations

This department is headed by the Vice-President, Operations and Harbour Master and is accountable for the efficient and effective delivery of the Port's operations.

Administration

This department is headed by the Vice-President, Corporate Services and Corporate Secretary and is responsible for the efficient and effective delivery of the Port's administration.

Northern Pipeline Agency Canada

Chapter 98

General Information

Background

The Northern Pipeline Agency (NPA) was created with the proclamation of the Northern Pipeline Act in April 1978, to oversee planning and construction of the Canadian portion of the Alaska Highway Gas Pipeline Project by the Foothills Group of Companies. Pending resumption of planning and construction of the pipeline, the only office in the Agency that is staffed is the Office of the Commissioner, which maintains a small support staff.

Responsibilities

The Agency's mandate is twofold. It is required to regulate the project and to streamline and expedite the approvals process. It is also responsible for ensuring that the pipeline system yields for Canadians the maximum economic and industrial benefit with the least amount of social and environmental disruption, particularly to native communities.

The Agency was designed to act as a single window between federal authorities and the Foothills Group of Companies, and between provincial and territorial governments, and the Government of the United States. In keeping with the Act, many regulatory powers of other federal departments and agencies related to the pipeline project have been delegated to the Agency. This is not the case for those powers reserved exclusively to the National Energy Board or shared between the Board and the Agency.

Legislation

- Northern Pipeline Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. N-26

Organization

♦ Office of the Commissioner

As Agency headquarters, the Office provides support to both the Minister responsible for the Agency and the Commissioner. The Office is responsible for developing and consulting on major policy issues between the United States, the provinces, and federal departments and agencies, concerning the planning and construction of the Canadian portion of the Alaska Highway Gas Pipeline Project.

♦ Office of the Administrator

The Office exercises such powers and performs such duties and functions as the Minister may specify.

♦ Office of the Designated Officer

The Office carries out all the responsibilities specifically required under the Northern Pipeline Act.

♦ Policy and Programs Unit (not staffed)

This Unit is responsible for most aspects of the Agency's operational role not assigned by statute to the deputy administrator and designated officer, and for contributing to those orders, directions and approvals for the designated officer which require the Minister's concurrence. It is also responsible for socio-economic and environmental matters, industrial benefits, relationships with federal, provincial and territorial government departments, and manpower planning and logistical matters related to the project. It holds special policy responsibilities for the internal planning and administration of the Agency in matters of financial management and administration.

♦ Socio-economic and Environment Unit (not staffed)

This Unit acts as liaison with various public interest groups and territorial, provincial and federal bodies; advises on socio-economic and environmental policies and procedures; administers terms and conditions; carries out socio-economic and environmental surveillance and monitoring to minimize the negative effects and maximize the benefits of construction and operation of the pipeline. It advises the Agency, federal, provincial and territorial government departments, and community and native groups, and confers with the owners, contractors, and unions on matters related to the avoidance and resolution of labour disputes on the project.

♦ Scheduling and Regulatory Unit (not staffed)

This Unit oversees the project scheduling and cost control procedures involved in building the pipeline, including scheduling, critical path planning, and cost review and monitoring. It is also involved in the major areas of project progress information centre and surveillance proceedings, right-of-way responsibilities delegated by the National Energy Board, as well as the issue of permits and orders to ensure correct technical content.

♦ Engineering Design Unit (not staffed)

This Unit is responsible for design review and ensuring that appropriate methods are followed by the pipeline engineering section with each company of the Foothills Group. It is responsible for the approval of all engineering design of the pipeline, as well as for providing direction to personnel who will ensure that the company conforms with the engineering requirements, orders, specifications and terms and conditions related to the construction of the pipeline.

Northwest Territories Water Board

Chapter 99

General Information

Background

The Northwest Territories Water Board was established under section 7 of the Northern Inland Waters Act, which was proclaimed on February 28, 1972. The Northern Inland Waters Regulations were promulgated on September 14, 1972. Two amendments to the Regulations have been made since; one on January 15, 1975, and the other on July 17, 1975. The Board held its founding meeting in Yellowknife, N.W.T. on April 8, 1972.

Responsibilities

The Board provides for the conservation, development and use of the water resources of the Northwest Territories in a manner that will provide the optimum benefit for all Canadians, and for the residents of the Territories in particular. Under the Act an application must be made to the Board and a licence issued prior to the use of any waters or disposal of any waterborne waste. The requirement for application applies equally to departments and agencies of the federal government. The only exclusions are the use of water for domestic purposes, for extinguishing a fire or, in an emergency, for controlling or preventing a flood.

Legislation

- Northern Inland Waters Act
- Northern Inland Waters Regulations

Organization

The Board consists of not fewer than three and not more than nine members appointed by the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. It is made up of at least one nominee from those departments of the Government of Canada which, in the opinion of the Governor in Council, are most directly concerned with the management of the water resources in the Northwest Territories, and at least three persons named by the Commissioner in Council of the Northwest Territories.

Professional and technical staff is provided by the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development to help conduct the business of the Board and its activities. A Technical Advisory Committee was established in 1973 to provide a forum for the discussion of technical matters related to applications for use of water and waste disposal.

Office of the Chief Electoral Officer

Chapter 101

General Information

Background

The position of Chief Electoral Officer was created in 1920 by the Dominion Elections Act, primarily to end political partisanship in the administration of federal elections. The Chief Electoral Officer is appointed by a resolution of the House of Commons so that all parties represented there may participate in the selection process. Once appointed, the incumbent reports directly to the House of Commons and is thus completely independent of government and political parties. The Chief Electoral Officer serves until he/she attains the age of sixty-five years and can only be removed for cause, by the Governor General at the joint request of the Senate and House of Commons.

Responsibilities

Elections Canada is the non-partisan agency responsible for the conduct of federal elections and referendums. Its prime task is to be prepared at all times to administer an electoral event.

The Chief Electoral Officer is responsible for exercising general direction and supervision over the preparation and administration of federal electoral events, for the maintenance of the National Register of Electors and for the reporting requirements relating to expenses incurred pursuant to the provisions of the Canada Elections Act and the Referendum Act.

The CEO appoints a Commissioner of Canada Elections who is responsible to ensure that provisions of the Canada Elections Act and of the Referendum Act are complied with and enforced.

The Chief Electoral Officer also provides the necessary data and assistance to enable the Electoral Boundaries Commissions to discharge their responsibilities under the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act with respect to each province's representation in the House of Commons and taxes all accounts relating to the expenditures of the Electoral Boundaries Commissions.

Legislation

- Canada Elections Act
- Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act
- Referendum Act

Organization

◆ The Administration and Human Resources Directorate

This directorate is responsible for all personnel and administrative activities. It manages the provision of human resources services and services in the area of security, records management and facilities management.

◆ The Commissioner of Canada Elections

The Commissioner is responsible for handling all complaints of alleged infractions under the legislation. Except for offences relating to peace and good order, offences under the Canada Elections Act and the Referendum Act can be prosecuted only with the consent of the Commissioner. The Commissioner may institute a prosecution following an inquiry or, in particular circumstances, as directed by the CEO or on his own initiative or after the receipt of a complaint, within six months after the commission of an alleged offence. A prosecution for an offence under the Act must be instituted within 18 months after the day on which the offence was committed and where the Commissioner believes that the evidence demonstrates a reasonable prospect of conviction and is of the view that the public interest justifies it. As an alternative to prosecution, the Canada Elections Act gives the Commissioner two tools to effect compliance: during an election period the power to enter into compliance agreements, and the ability to seek an injunction. The Commissioner retains the services of persons with expertise and experience in the field of conducting investigations in order to respond promptly to matters that are brought to his attention. In collaboration with the Legal Services Directorate, the Commissioner assists the Chief Electoral Officer in developing preventive measures to ensure compliance with the legislation and to improve the information available to the public.

◆ The Communications Directorate

This directorate is responsible for developing and implementing programs and activities intended to increase public awareness of the electoral system and the role of Elections Canada, for informing electors about their right to vote as defined under the Canada Elections Act and the Referendum Act and how they may exercise that right, and for reporting on the conduct and results of federal electoral events. Activities include advertising, public, community and media relations, the management of a Web site, the production of publications and videos and the operation of a toll-free enquiries service.

♦ The Election Financing Directorate

This directorate is responsible for ensuring that the policies, systems and procedures are in place to provide appropriate financial management and control for Elections Canada within the context of the Financial Administration Act and other related legislation, regulations and policies. It also administers the financial provisions of the Canada Elections Act and the Referendum Act and manages procurement and contracting, audit and performance measurement activities at Elections Canada.

♦ The Information Technology Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the planning, management and operation of all technology (hardware and software) at Elections Canada headquarters in Ottawa and in the field offices of the returning officers. The directorate is service oriented as it responds to the automated needs put forward by all other directorates; additionally, it manages and operates the basic corporate technology infrastructure needed for all manner of corporate-wide reporting and office automation initiatives.

♦ The International Services Directorate

Elections Canada is playing an increasingly active role in international election-related activities. The activities involve supervising elections, advising on constitutional and election law provisions, conducting pre-election evaluations, providing professional assistance and advice, election documents and materials, training election officials, developing and conducting voter education programs and working directly with other election bodies. In addition, its responsibility includes briefing visiting foreign delegations and distributing information on various aspects of the Canadian electoral process. The directorate is also responsible for maintaining an inventory of potential candidates who are able to contribute the specialized skills required for various aspects of the electoral process.

♦ The Legal Services Directorate

This directorate is responsible for interpreting the Canada Elections Act, the Referendum Act and other pertinent legislation for preparing contract documents and for maintaining a register of all elected Members of Parliament that indicates the order in which their writs were received. The directorate is responsible for receiving and verifying applications for registration of political parties, third parties and referendum committees submitted in accordance with the legislation as well as maintaining the information in the Registries. The directorate oversees privacy matters, the conflict of interest code and acts as legal advisor to the Chief Electoral Officer and senior staff.

♦ The Operations Directorate

This directorate is responsible for preparing and conducting all electoral events, as well as developing the procedures, manuals, forms and tools that facilitate registration, voting and electoral administration. It arranges the printing, assembling and shipping of all event materials to Canada's ridings as soon as an electoral event is called. Operations acts as the main liaison with the returning officers who administer electoral events at the riding level and also oversees their training. It administers the Special Voting Rules and accessibility programs that give all Canadians the opportunity to exercise their right to vote and develops and maintains automated systems to support the administration of events, including voter registration, in the field.

♦ The Privacy Coordinator

The Privacy Coordinator deals with all the requests received pursuant to the Privacy Act, establishes policies in order to handle the various requests and supervises the general administration of the statute.

♦ The Register and Geography Directorate

This directorate operationalized and maintains Canada's permanent Register of Electors; keeps Register information up to date with data from federal and provincial/territorial sources and information provided by voters during and between electoral events. The directorate is also responsible for the mapping and informational requirements necessary to support the planning, management and execution of electoral events. Between electoral events, the directorate must enhance and maintain its databases and products and provide cartographic services both to maintain an event-ready status and to respond to client enquiries. Additionally, the directorate provides national co-ordination, financial, administrative and cartographic support for ten independent federal electoral boundaries commissions whose role is to readjust federal electoral boundaries following each decennial census.

♦ The Planning, Policy and Partnerships Directorate

This directorate is responsible for coordinating the preparation of agency-wide plans and ensuring event readiness at all times. It conducts regular information gathering and environmental scanning to ensure that the agency can effectively plan and monitor progress for the delivery of electoral events and other major corporate projects. The directorate supports organizational efforts to define longer-term strategies to address emerging national trends and issues. It coordinates the agency's relations with other levels of government. The directorate, in particular, provides support for the National Register of Electors through partnerships with Elections Canada's provincial, territorial and municipal counterparts. The directorate bears primary responsibility for the agency's policy development and research program, including its reference centre and for the identification of opportunities for research partnerships with the academic community, research centres, provincial jurisdictions and relevant international organizations. The directorate also oversees the Advisory Committee of Registered Political Parties and the Advisory Committee on the National Register of Electors, both of which are chaired by the Chief Electoral Officer.

All election and referendum documents are retained by the Chief Electoral Officer for a period of one year following the event, as required by the legislation. After that year, nomination papers, writs, statutory notices issued by the returning officers, such as notice of grant of a poll, are sent to National Archives of Canada. TBS Registration: 003353 Bank Number: CEO PPU 005

Privacy requests

Description: This bank comprises all the requests for personal information received and the manner in which they were dealt, the audits conducted by the Privacy Commissioner's office, documents relating to the creation and updating of information banks and reports submitted as well as policies established pursuant to the Privacy Act for dealing with the requests. Class of Individuals: Persons who have requested personal information held by Elections Canada. Purpose: To administer the Privacy Act as it relates to Elections Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: At least four years to coincide with federal general elections. TBS Registration: 003199 Bank Number: CEO PPU 035

National Register of Electors

Description: This information bank contains electoral data including full name, mailing and street address, sex and date of birth of Canadians qualified to vote as well as information that the Chief Electoral Officer considers reliable and necessary for updating the data. These are electors whose names appeared on the list of electors for the last federal events, as well as electors who have asked to be added to the Register. Data is continually updated to reflect address and other changes, sources for these updates include Canada Customs and Revenue Agency, Citizenship and Immigration and provincial/territorial suppliers including drivers' licences and vital statistics. The register is also updated using provincial registers of electors where they exist and using lists of electors generated from provincial/territorial electors where agreements exist. Through this maintenance process, potential new electors are identified; each is contacted and asked to consent to being added to the Register. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens over the age of 18. Purpose: To prepare preliminary voters' lists for use in federal elections and referendums. As well, the Canada Elections Act authorizes the Chief Electoral Officer to transmit copies of lists of electors, both electronic and paper, to candidates and political parties during a federal electoral event, and the Members of Parliament and political parties on October 15 of each year between electoral events. It also authorizes the giving of information contained in the Register of Electors to any body responsible under a provincial law for establishing a list of electors. The law permits this information to be used for electoral purposes only. Offences are punishable by law. Consistent Uses: During the preparation of the information needed by a given jurisdiction to establish its list of electors, Elections Canada officials make sure that all the opt-out requests received prior to the sending date are processed. However, it may happen that a delay occurs between the date on which the data is sent to the jurisdiction and the date on which the data is used by the jurisdiction. During that period, Elections Canada can receive opt-out requests from electors desiring that their information be removed from the National Register of Electors or used for federal electoral purposes only. Consequently, the data that is sent to the jurisdiction includes information about electors whose requests were received after the fact. In those cases, Elections Canada may provide jurisdictions which received information about electors who have opted out after the data taken from the National Register of Electors was sent, but before it was used by the jurisdiction, with the opted out status of those electors. This disclosure is aimed at preventing any use of that information by the jurisdiction. Retention and Disposal Standards: Data is continually updated to reflect address and other changes. TBS Registration: 004003 Bank Number: CEO PPU 037

Party Registration unit

Description: This bank contains the name, address and telephone numbers of political parties, third parties and referendum committees; their leaders, chief agents, auditors, officers, agents and members who sign the application for registration of a political party. This information, except for the information about members who sign the application for registration of a political party, is recorded in a Registry of Political Parties, a Registry of Third Parties and a Registry of Referendum Committees. Class of Individuals: The officials of political parties and referendum committees. Purpose: To comply with the registration requirements of the Canada Elections Act and the Referendum Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: The information is routinely updated. TBS Registration: 003416 Bank Number: CEO PPU 036

Office of the Commissioner of Official Languages

Chapter 102

Note: This institution is not subject to the Access to Information Act.

General Information

Background

The terms of reference of the Commissioner of Official Languages (COL) are set out in the Official Languages Act ("Act"). This legislation came into effect on September 15, 1988. The Commissioner's terms of reference consist in taking all measures with a view to ensuring recognition of the status of each of the official languages and compliance with the spirit and intent of the Act in the administration of the affairs of institutions subject to the Act, including ensuring the advancement by federal institutions of English and French in Canadian society.

Responsibilities

The Commissioner is a language ombudsman who reports to Parliament. She performs her duties by conducting investigations, either on her own initiative or pursuant to any complaints received. The Commissioner also conducts studies and carries out follow-ups on recommendations she has made. The Commissioner also informs members of the public, the official language minority communities, Parliament and agencies subject to the Act about her role and the provisions of the Act. The Commissioner's terms of reference embrace the entire federal administration: departments, agencies, Crown corporations and agencies whose enabling legislation states that they are subject to the Act.

Legislation

- Official Languages Act
- Official Languages (Communications with and Services to the Public) Regulations

Organization

The Office of the Commissioner of Official Languages has a single program with one activity. The Program is administered by four branches: Policy and Communications, Investigations, Corporate Services and Legal Services. The Commissioner reports to Parliament, and the Prime Minister is the Minister responsible for all of the Office's financial activities.

Classes of Personal Information

The Inspector General does not administer a personal information collection program. However, while carrying out his official duties, he may incidentally accumulate personal information that is not contained in the information banks described in this entry. Such information exists in fragmentary form throughout the files maintained at the Office of the Inspector General. It relates to the performance of the Inspector General's statutory and executive functions. Some of this information, originally collected by CSIS, forms part of CSIS records and pertains to specific CSIS activities that are, from time to time, monitored or reviewed by the Inspector General. Other portions have been generated internally, by other government agencies or by the general public in the form of opinions and enquiries. This information is not intended to be used by the Office of the Inspector General for any administrative purpose affecting individuals. The information may include names, addresses or professions, and is normally retrievable only if specific subjects, events or dates are provided.

Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions Canada

Chapter 104

General Information

Background

The Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions (OSFI) was formally established by the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions Act, 1987. OSFI is divided into a Specialist Support Sector, a Supervision Sector, a Regulation Sector, a Corporate Services Sector, and the Office of the Chief Actuary.

Responsibilities

OSFI is responsible for the supervision of federally registered financial institutions including banks, insurance, trust and loan companies; and fraternal benefit and co-operative credit societies. It also supervises employer-sponsored pension plans that are subject to the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985. The purpose of supervision is to protect policyholders, depositors and pension plan members from undue loss and to promote public confidence in the financial system.

OSFI is also responsible for providing actuarial advice to other departments of the federal government, and the Office performs extensive actuarial services in the valuation of government pension and insurance programs.

Legislation

- Bank Act
- Co-operative Credit Associations Act
- Insurance Companies Act
- Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions Act
- Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985
- Trust and Loan Companies Act

Organization

CORPORATE SERVICES SECTOR

This sector is divided into five divisions: Human Resources Management, Professional Development and Training, Finance and Information Directorate, Information Technology, and Administrative Services.

SUPERVISION SECTOR

This sector organizes supervisory work for all federally regulated financial institutions and pensions plans. There are four groups that perform these tasks: Pension Plans and Financial Institutions Group, Conglomerate Insurance Group, Financial Institutions Group, and Deposit-Taking Institutions Conglomerate Group. Each of these groups is subdivided into a number of areas of responsibility.

◆ Pension Plans and Financial Institutions Group

This group supervises federally regulated private pension plans and financial institutions. For Pension Plans, they determine whether the plans are in sound financial condition and comply with the provisions of the legislation and OSFI's policies and guidelines. They rely on plan administrators for good governance and prudent management and inform plan administrators of situations that require attention and ensure that appropriate corrective actions are taken. This group also supervises financial institutions through OSFI offices in Ottawa, Montreal and Vancouver.

This group is divided into five divisions: Pension Plans Division, Foreign Insurance Branch Division, Foreign Bank Branch Supervision Division, Financial Institutions Division (Vancouver), and Financial Institutions Division (Montreal).

◆ Conglomerate Group – Insurance

This group supervises federally regulated conglomerate life insurance companies, including all the federally regulated entities in each conglomerate. In particular, this group is responsible for:

- the overall adequacy, appropriateness and effectiveness of supervision, including examination and monitoring of the financial condition of regulated entities;
- the overall adequacy, appropriateness and effectiveness of advice and recommendations for corrective action provided to regulated financial institutions, consistent with OSFI's early intervention mandate.

Administratively, this group is divided into two sections, which focus on life insurance companies and their federally regulated subsidiaries.

◆ Financial Institutions Group

This group supervises non-conglomerate deposit-taking institutions and insurance companies to protect policyholders from undue loss, to promote public confidence in the Canadian financial system, and to ensure the companies operate within OSFI's regulatory framework. In particular, this group is responsible for:

- the overall adequacy, appropriateness and effectiveness of supervision, including examination and monitoring of the financial condition of regulated entities;
- the overall adequacy, appropriateness and effectiveness of advice and recommendations for corrective action provided to regulated financial institutions, consistent with OSFI's early intervention mandate.

This group is divided into five sections. Two sections focus on deposit-taking institutions (Schedule II Banks and trust and loan companies). Three sections supervise companies in the insurance industry.

♦ Conglomerate Group – Deposit-taking Institutions

This group is divided into two administrative sections that supervise federally regulated conglomerate deposit taking institutions, including all the federally regulated entities in each conglomerate. In particular, this group is responsible for:

- the overall adequacy, appropriateness and effectiveness of supervision, including examination and monitoring of the financial condition of regulated entities;
- the overall adequacy, appropriateness and effectiveness of advice and recommendations for corrective action provided to regulated financial institutions, consistent with OSFI's early intervention mandate;
- providing direction to the Financial Institutions Groups in Montreal, Ottawa, and Vancouver on the supervision of "near conglomerates" to ensure consistency in their supervisory approach.

REGULATION SECTOR

This sector is divided into five divisions that develop regulatory policy and regulated guidelines, prepare recommendations with respect to applications for regulatory consents under the legislation, work on rulings that set precedents, and draft technical aspects of financial sector legislation. The sectors also co-ordinates OSFI's relations with other supervisors, works with the International Association of Insurance Supervisors and with institutions dealing with international financial stability issues, and provides legal support to OSFI.

♦ Communications and Public Affairs Division

The division develops communications strategies that support OSFI's strategic objectives.

♦ International Liaison Division

The division works with supervisory agencies in other jurisdictions to enhance on-going co-operation and appropriate information exchange, and, with the major international financial institutions, supervisory standard setters and training centres, works to develop and implement sound international supervisory principles, standards and practices. The division also briefs supervisors and government officials from other countries on OSFI's methodologies and practices.

♦ Legal Services Division

The division provides or obtains all legal advice and legal services required by OSFI, including legal advice on interpretation of statutes, regulations, and other legal instruments and the preparation of draft legislation and regulations, contracts and legal documents. It also provides advice on policy development and support to litigators acting on behalf of OSFI. The division manages access to information and privacy legislation as it applies to OSFI and access to the Public Register.

♦ Legislation and Precedents Division

The division contributes to developing legislation and regulations that maintain or strengthen public confidence while at the same time allowing an appropriate competitive market to develop. The division is also responsible for reviewing transactions and related developments that are precedent setting.

♦ Registration and Approvals Division

The division prepares recommendations with respect to applications for regulatory consents under the legislation from financial institutions, after considering the potential impact of a consent on the financial institution.

SPECIALIST SUPPORT SECTOR

This sector is divided into eight divisions that provide technical and specialized support to the Supervision and Regulation Sectors. The Specialist Support Sector also undertakes specific initiatives relevant to its areas of speciality.

♦ Accounting Division

The division is responsible for maintaining the integrity of accounting and external reporting policies and practices within federally regulated financial institutions. This responsibility derives from OSFI's legislated authority to specify the accounting standards to be applied by institutions and the auditing standards to be applied by the institutions' external auditors.

♦ Actuarial Division

The division ensures that appropriate actuarial knowledge, advice, and standards are applied to OSFI's regulatory and supervisory functions so that policyholders are safeguarded from undue loss and public confidence in the financial services system is enhanced.

♦ Capital Division

The division develops capital standards for domestic financial institutions, contributes to the development of sound international capital standards, approves capital precedents, provides specialist support on capital issues to the supervisory and regulation functions, and promotes understanding of capital issues by OSFI staff.

◆ Capital Markets Division

The division evaluates the risk management practices in use by financial institutions for measuring and monitoring market risks, researches state-of-the-art risk modelling techniques for application in industry, supports the development of OSFI policy, and promotes understanding of capital markets operations by supervisory and regulatory staff.

◆ Compliance Division

With due regard for emerging risks, the division evaluates the effectiveness of corporate governance and the compliance function of financial institutions supervised by OSFI.

◆ Credit Risk Division

The division provides credit risk management expertise in support of OSFI's regulatory and supervisory functions.

◆ Financial Analysis and Data Management Division

The division conducts financial analysis and research related to the performance of federally regulated institutions, develops and maintains financial reporting database applications, and manages the collection, validation, and distribution of financial regulatory information.

◆ Financial Services Technology Specialist Division

The division provides information technology risk management expertise in support of OSFI's regulatory and supervisory functions.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF ACTUARY

The Chief Actuary and staff provide a range of actuarial services and advice to the Government of Canada in respect of public insurance and pension programs. In accordance with the Public Pensions Reporting Act and the Canada Pension Plan, they prepare statutory actuarial reports on these programs for tabling in the House of Commons.

Pacific Pilotage Authority Canada

Chapter 105

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor in Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

Pacific Pilotage Authority was incorporated pursuant to the Pilotage Act on February, 1972 as a Crown corporation under Schedule III, Part I of the Financial Administration Act.

The Pacific Pilotage Authority is in general governed by the following: Canada Shipping Act; Pilotage Act; General Pilotage Regulations; Pacific Pilotage Regulations; Authority by-laws.

Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within all coastal waters of British Columbia and the Fraser River. As a further goal, the Authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

The Pacific Pilotage Authority consists of a chairman, and six members appointed by the Governor in Council.

The Authority's head office is located in Vancouver, British Columbia. All management services – administrative, personnel, financial, contracts, purchasing, etc. – are provided by the Vancouver office.

Legislation

- Authority By-Laws
- Canada Shipping Act, RSC, 1985, c. S-9

Organization

Chief Executive Officer's Office

♦ National Historic Sites Directorate

The National Historic Sites Directorate is responsible for Canada's national program of historical commemoration. The Directorate provides national leadership and direction to ensure the commemorative integrity of historic places of national and international significance through five main activity areas: National Historic Sites (including the Historic Canals), Heritage Railway Stations, Federal Heritage Buildings, Cultural World Heritage Sites, and Cultural Resource Management.

A large part of the planning and operational activities specific to National Historic Sites are the responsibility of service centres and field units. This Directorate provides policy, planning and operational guidance as well as centralized services for historical, architectural and archaeological research expertise, heritage presentation and public education, and partnerships and market research.

Some key services and products include: legislation and national policy for national historic sites, historic canals, heritage railway stations, federal heritage buildings, Cultural World Sites and Cultural Resource Management; provision of historical and architectural research; services in support of policies and programs related to archaeological resources and Aboriginal heritage issues; management and implementation of the Heritage Railway Stations Protection Act; management of the Federal Heritage Buildings Review Office, providing assistance to government departments and agencies in the implementation of the Federal Heritage Buildings Policy, support to the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, the statutory body that advises the Minister of Canadian Heritage on historical commemoration; coordination of the Ministerial Plaquing Program and the National Program for the Grave Sites of Canadian Prime Ministers; management of the National Cost-Sharing Program for National Historic Sites; National Historic Sites systems planning, management planning and business planning; delivery of national public education products and interpretation advice; development and negotiation of strategic alliances and partnerships, strategic and market research, and heritage tourism.

Responsibilities of the Directorate are distributed among the following Branches: System Development; Policy and Government Relations; Historical Services; Archaeological Services; and Heritage Presentation and Public Education and External Relations. The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada Secretariat and the Federal Heritage Buildings Review Office are also situated in this Directorate. The Heritage Conservation Program, a dedicated unit of Public Works and Government Services Canada, provides special architectural, landscape architecture, and engineering conservation services to the Directorate.

♦ National Parks Directorate

Is generally responsible for the development, operation and coordination of policies and methods for the management of national parks and national marine conservation areas to maintain their ecological integrity in perpetuity while enabling their use and enjoyment by the public or participation in federal-provincial park flora, development of policies governing Parks Canada's participation in international projects, and for participation in and support of the Canadian Rivers System in cooperation with the provinces and territories.

Specific responsibilities include: development, review, interpretation, and implementation of policies, procedures, legislation, regulations and management directives governing all aspects of national parks and national marine conservation areas management; development and coordination of the national park management planning process and other related planning processes; coordination and development of volunteer, cooperative and partnership arrangements with individuals, non-profit organizations and the business sector; coordination of Parks Canada participation in Aboriginal Claims negotiation; planning and negotiation efforts aimed at completing the park systems by the identification, selection and establishment of new national parks and national marine conservation areas in unrepresented regions; development and coordination of delivery of national functional training; coordination of the application of the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act and policies for the Department; development of information systems in support of resource conservation and protection; development, coordination and special operations in law enforcement; undertaking studies in the field of ecosystem conservation and management; delivery of scientific advice to the Parks Canada Agency; representing the Sector, and the Government of Canada on various national and international programs related to the maintenance of ecological integrity, biodiversity and biosphere reserves; managing and coordinating the Directorate's involvement in inter- and intra-governmental initiatives; providing leadership in achieving the goal of completing Canada's networks of protected areas; and, upon, request, providing technical advice and assistance on protected areas planning and management to other countries and to visitors from other countries.

Also manages and provides national direction for the following Parks Canada-wide program: volunteer and cooperative arrangements with individuals and non-profit cooperating associations, fire management, ecological integrity and ecosystem management initiatives, visitor risk management and search and rescue.

◆ Strategy and Plans Directorate

The Strategy and Plans directorate is focussed on a number of key outcomes for the Parks Canada Agency: sound financial and investment management; effective and efficient corporate systems (IT, Realty, Asset Contracts, Material Management, Townsites, Financial and Revenue Management, Audit, Evaluations and Review, Corporate and Business Planning); strategic agency positioning and policy development; and leadership in innovations.

Strategy and Plans consists of four branches:

- Strategic Business Services is comprised of the Business Innovations, Business Planning, Performance Audit and Evaluation, and Strategic and Policy groups;
- Investment Portfolio Management is comprised of Land Management, Asset Management, the Land Registry, Knowledgeable client capacity in Materiel Management and Contracting;
- Finance is comprised of Financial Planning and Reporting, Accounting Operations and Financial Systems;
- Information Management Services is accountable for the planning, development, implementation and management of the Information Management Technology Strategic Plan for the Parks Canada Agency.

The Directorate provides the link to the Minister's strategic portfolio group and recommends the key financial and investment initiatives for the Parks Canada Agency. The principal clients of Strategy and Plans include the Executive Board, service centres, field units, central agencies, the Department of Canadian Heritage, Parliament and government.

It is mainly responsible for: providing linkage between the Canadian Parks Agency and the Department and central agencies on strategic policy, financial and administrative authorities and reporting issues, and information management; preparing the major accountability instruments (e.g. Corporate Plan, Annual Reports, Financial Statements); providing analysis and recommendations on investment priorities and monitoring financial and non-financial performance; providing standards, direction and analysis on business plans; developing and administering policies and guidelines pertaining to townsite, real property, material and contract management, revenue, investment, performance measurement and audit and evaluation; co-ordinating IM/IT Information Technology Investments and Standards; Building relations and working with Corporate Canada; and providing leadership and innovation to help the agency grow and adapt to the changing world.

◆ Human Resources

Reporting to the Chief Executive Officer, the Human Resources National Offices provides services and advice to Executive Board and to managers of the Agency on all matters involving human resources management. The Branch provides corporate, strategic and direct client HR services in the National Capital Region and in the field.

◆ Architecture and Engineering Directorate

Provides real property management support services to Parks Canada National Office, Service Centres and Field Units under a Memorandum of Understanding with Public Works and Government Services Canada.

Patented Medicine Prices Review Board

Chapter 107

General Information

Background

The Patented Medicine Prices Review Board is an independent quasi-judicial body created as a result of revisions to the Patent Act (Bill C-22) and came into force on December 7, 1987. Subsequent revisions to the Patent Act in 1993 (Bill C-91) shifted ministerial responsibility to the Minister of Health and increased the Board remedial powers.

Responsibilities

The Patented Medicine Prices Review Board was given a mandate to carry out two functions:
